STATE BAR VOTES 1655 FOR DOUGLAS 294 FOR BILLINGS

Supreme Court Judge Indorsed for Nomination Almost 6 to 1 Over Pendergast's Candidate.

A. M. CLARK 1000, CLYDE WAGNER 910

On the Republican Side, Conway Elder Receives 1443 Votes to 370 for Louis L. Hicks.

Missouri Supreme Court Judge James M. Douglas of St. Louis has been indorsed over his Pendergast-backed opponent, Circuit Judge James V. Billings of Kennett, for the Democratic nomination for the unexpired term in the court by an overwhelming majority of Missouri lawyers who voted in the poll conducted by the Missouri Bar Association.

The returns, counted here yesterday, showed 1655 votes for Judge Douglas and 294 for Judge Billings. The third candidate, Ruth Crews Woodruff of Trenton, received 12 votes.

In the recent poll of the St. Louis Bar Association among its members the vote was 639 for Judge Douglas, 28 for Judge Billings, two for Mrs. Woodruff. Judge Douglas also has been indorsed by the Kansas City Lawyers' Association over Judge Billings by a vote of 198 to 16. However, the Pendergast candidate has been strongly indorsed by a large group of attorneys in the Kansas City Bar Association.

In the State poll on candidates for the Democratic nomination for a full 10-year term in the Supreme Court, State Senator Albert M. Clark of Richmond, who has support of the Pendergast organization, received 1000 votes as compared with 910 for Clyde W. Wagner of St. Louis. Wagner was indorsed in the poll of the St. Louis Bar Association.

The vote on the two candidates for the Republican nomination for the unexpired term was 1443 for former Supreme Court Judge Conway Elder of St. Louis and 370 for Louis L. Hicks of Clayton.

Supreme Court Judge William F. Frank of Kirksville, unopposed for the Republican nomination for the full term, received 1950 votes.

Of about 5600 ballots distributed, 2055 were returned and 38 of those returned were rejected for technical reasons. The ballots were sent to all practicing attorneys in Missouri whose addresses were known to the distributors, and returns were received from all sections of the State.

The ballots were counted by 10 Republican and 10 Democratic lawyers designated by Roscoe Anderson, president of the St. Louis Bar Association, at the request of Walter N. Davis, former commissioner of the Supreme Court, representing the State Association.

The count was supervised by a committee comprising Davis, John S. Marsalek, James E. Garstang, John S. Leahy and Powell B. McHaney.

CHICAGO STRIKERS TO TAKE WAGE CUT, GET CONTRACT

Conciliator Asserts Examination of Company Books Shows Reduction Is Justified.

By the Associated Press.

WAUKEGAN, Ill., July 23.—Striking employes of the Chicago Hardware Foundry plant in North Chicago lost their fight against a wage reduction today but won assurance of a working contract.

Strikers will return to work Monday under a 5 per cent pay cut, with a further 5 per cent reduction on Aug. 1, under terms of a settlement announced by Harry E. Scheck, Department of Labor conciliator. Next week, he said, a working contract is to be negotiated. The strike was called June 6 by the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel & Tin Workers, a C I O affiliate, in protest against a 10 per cent wage cut.

Scheck said an examination of the company's books showed the wage cut was justified. He was assisted by William G. Murray of Springfield, State Labor Department conciliator.

ATLANTIC ICE PATROL ENDED

Two Coast Guard Cutters Returning to Regular Stations.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—The Coast Guard finished today its ice patrol in trans-Atlantic steamship lanes.

It announced that the cutters Ponchartrain and Tahoe, engaged in this duty since Feb. 10, were returning from sea to their regular stations, the former to New York, the latter to Boston.

Searchers Find 3 Women Lost 4 Days in Badlands

Ambulance Called for Tourists Who Went Without Food and Water in New Mexico Lava Beds.

By the Associated Press.

GRANTS, N. M., July 23.—Bruised and exhausted, but happy, three women tourists were found today in the western New Mexico lava badlands, where they had wandered for four days without food and with little water or sleep.

Their shoes were sliced to ribbons by their struggle over the jagged, razor-sharp lava flow. Their feet were severely cut, and their bodies black and blue. They suffered from hunger and exhaustion.

A physician, nurses and an ambulance were summoned from Grants. The women were given nourishment and emergency treatment before starting the 30-mile trip back here over a rough dirt road.

The three—Miss Irene Piedalue, 45 years old, of Winchester, Ky.; her sister, Miss Laura Piedalue, a welfare worker of New York, and Miss Marie Antoinette de Laforrest, French instructor at the University of Kentucky—were found only three miles west of the strange perpetual ice caves, southwest of here, where they left their automobile Tuesday to explore the weird lava country on foot.

Planning on a brief view of the desolate lava flow, they lost their bearings in the all-but-inaccessible badlands.

Fear for their safety was aroused yesterday, when a passerby at the remote caves noticed their automobile parked in the same place where it was three days before. State police were called, and Gov. Clyde Tingley came from Santa Fe personally to direct the hunt.

Miss Irene Piedalue and Miss De Laforrest left Winchester July 14, picking up Miss Laura Piedalue at St. Louis. They planned a leisurely tour through the West.

The only immediate word of their discovery came by messengers who sped to the nearest telephone, at Paxton Springs, 20 miles from the caves, after the first word of it was flashed by signals with a mirror by one of the searchers.

HELD ON "FRAME-UP" CHARGE

Boy Accused by Labor Leader Facing Morals Sentence.

MILWAUKEE, July 23.—Donald C. Emerson, 19 years old, of Dubuque, Ia., was placed under $10,000 bond in District Court today while authorities investigated charges that he helped "frame" a Dubuque labor leader on a morals charge.

Police said Emerson, an amateur boxer, had made a statement admitting participation in the alleged frame-up but later repudiated some details. The labor organizer, Archie Carter, 34, was sentenced at Dubuque July 13 to a 10-year term in prison. He was publisher of a labor weekly.

BLESSING OF AUTOMOBILES

Annual Ceremony at New Columbus, Pa., in Name of St. Christopher

NEW COLUMBUS, Pa., July 23.—Motorists will line up in their cars, bumper to bumper, in this mountain mining village tomorrow and Monday to receive the blessing of the patron saint of travelers.

The Rev. A. J. Angelini, rector of the Church of Our Lady of Mount Carmel, will pass along the rows of automobiles, as he has done for the last five years, and individually bless each car and its occupants in the name of St. Christopher, whose feast day falls on July 25. Each driver will receive a metal tag on which is inscribed: "I am a Catholic. In case of accident please notify a priest."

WOMAN DRIVES AUTO IN E. ALTON HOLDUP

Another in Car as Man and Boy Rob Filling Station of $60.

A man and a boy held up an East Alton filling station last night, taking about $60 before fleeing in an automobile driven by a woman companion. A second woman was also in the car.

The robbers ordered gasoline and when the tank was filled, the man got out of the car, displaying a pistol. He ordered the attendant and a customer to lie on the floor of the station and directed the boy, about 13 years old, who had followed him from the car, to "get to work." The youth pulled the telephone wires from their connections and took more than $50 from the cash register and small sums from the attendant and the customer.

The station is operated by the Johnson Oil Co. It is situated on United States Highway 67.

MAN KILLS HIMSELF AT 21 AFTER TWO YEARS' BROODING

Joseph E. Duncan Found Shot to Death in Auto With Note Nearby.

Joseph E. Duncan, 21 years old, a salesman at the Clayton General Tire Co., 7750 Forsythe boulevard, ended his life yesterday by shooting himself in the right temple with a .45-caliber revolver. The body, noticed by a passing motorist, was slumped over the steering wheel of his automobile parked on Ballas road north of Conway road in St. Louis County.

A note nearby said that "after two years of contemplation on this matter, I have made a definite decision and think it will be a thorough job." It was signed "J. D." Officials of the tire store said he left there about 11 a. m., apparently in good spirits.

Duncan lived at 7109 Washington avenue, University City, with a brother, John P. Duncan. He recently had come here from Dallas, Tex. Surviving are six other brothers and his mother, all living in Texas. Dr. John O'Connell, coroner of St. Louis County, pronounced the death a suicide and said no inquest will be held. The body is at County Hospital.

TEN IN THRONG AT TEL AVIV INJURED BY BOMB EXPLOSION

Two Busses Carrying Arab Government Workers From Jaffa Fired on; Several Hurt.

By the Associated Press.

JERUSALEM, July 23. — Ten persons were injured, three seriously, today by explosion of a bomb among a Tel Aviv seashore throng.

In another of the series of Arab-Jewish disorders which broke out July 5, two busses carrying Arab Government workers from Jaffa were fired on in Tel Aviv. Several persons were wounded.

3 CZECH FLYERS KILLED IN AIR

Two When Army Planes Crash; Third When Ship Burns.

By the Associated Press.

PRAHA, July 23.—Three Czechoslovakian army pilots were killed today in two airplane crashes.

Two of them died when a sudden squall blew a pursuit plane against the side of another in a three-plane formation near Medonice. The third was killed near Vorek when his plane sideslipped and caught fire.

LILIENTHAL SAYS DISPUTES HELD UP REPORT ON RATES

Engineers and Consultants Couldn't Agree on Basis for Charges, Board Director Testifies.

REFERS TO "SERIOUS CONSEQUENCES"

Congressmen Press Him for Explanation of Delay and He Concedes "Procedure Was Bad."

By the Associated Press.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 23. — T V A Director David E. Lilienthal told a joint congressional investigating committee today that differences between engineers and consultants over the basis of the authority's power rates had "serious consequences."

He added, however, the conflict now appears to have been "wholly innocent," asserting the friction resulted from sharply varying theories and methods of determining appraisals and valuations.

He did not elaborate on the "serious consequences" but apparently referred to delay which resulted in preparing the report on allocations.

In prepared statements, the witness described efforts since 1933 to establish a sound basis for allocations of costs as to power, flood control and navigation in the authority's system of dams.

Delay in Report.

The report was delayed, he said, by the disagreements between advisory committees composed largely of university professors and T V A engineers under Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, recently ousted as chairman of the board. Dr. Morgan, who precipitated the investigation by charges of mismanagement against Directors Lilienthal and Harcourt A. Morgan, previously testified Lilienthal fixed the power rates without his consent or knowledge and referred to them once as "little more than a guess."

Lilienthal denied the implication of a question that possibly the allocations announced recently were shaped to fit the power rates established in 1933.

He asserted "virtually all the steps" taken in computing the rates were taken with the knowledge and approval of the board "but probably there is not a document that confirms this."

"Wasn't it rather strange procedure," asked Representative Charles Wolverton (Rep.), New Jersey, "that a written report on the basis for adoption of the rates, under which long-term contracts were let, was not submitted to the board with a recommendation for action?"

"I agree," replied Lilienthal, "that the procedure was bad, but the background of the situation at the time should be taken into consideration. We were under pressure in getting started on our work."

Frazier Unsatisfied.

Senator Lynn Frazier (Rep.), North Dakota, interjected that "This committee is still confused, Mr. Lilienthal, that you are waiting until 1938 to make a report explaining how you fixed the rates in 1933. I think we ought to know more about that."

Lilienthal said he would clarify the situation when the hearing resumes Monday.

In a letter to Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon last January, Lilienthal said he explained the T V A's wholesale and retail power rate basis—without an allocation of costs—as "what a prudent business man would pay for the Wilson Dam property as a going concern for the production of electricity."

Retail rates, he said, include "operating expenses, depreciation, taxes, bond interest, reserve for new construction, and amortization of the capital structure." He added that amortization was one item private utilities do not pay—"they simply re-finance as do the railroads."

Quotes From Letter.

Quoting from his letter to McNary, the director said "no final determination (of rates) which is theoretically sound can be made until final allocations . . . when the dams are completed . . . perhaps 10 years from now."

For 1938, operating revenues were forecast at $2,765,000 and net income at $1,397,000 and for the following year (1939) operating revenues of $5,520,000 and a net income of $4,095,000.

The letter further explained that on the basis estimated increased revenues "the cumulative total op-

MAVERICK RUNS SLIGHTLY BEHIND IN TEXAS PRIMARY

MacFarlane, Another New Deal Congressman, Has Small Margin in Early Returns.

NEWCOMER SWEEPS FIELD FOR GOVERNOR

Hatton W. Sumners Well Ahead — Representative Sanders Trails in Smith County.

By the Associated Press.

DALLAS, Tex., July 23.—Three incumbent Congressmen, two of them recipients of President Roosevelt's blessing on his recent trip into Texas, were in close races in their efforts at re-election tonight.

W. Lee O'Daniel, devotee of hill-billy music, had more than 50 per cent of the votes reported late tonight in the Democratic governorship race.

Congressman Maury Maverick, San Antonio's militant New Dealer, was having the fight of his life with Paul Kilday, lawyer backed by the powerful city machine. They were only 600 votes apart, with Kilday ahead.

Maverick had 13,733 to Kilday's 14,412 in returns from 227 precincts 57 complete, of the 269 in the district.

MacFarlane in Close Race.

Representative W. D. MacFarlane, favored by President Roosevelt, was in a close race with Ed Gossett, West Texas attorney he narrowly defeated two years ago. MacFarlane had 4691 to Gossett's 4368.

Grady Gentry, Smith County Judge, was running far ahead of the incumbent Congressman, Morgan Sanders. Gentry polled 1653 to Sanders' 867.

The veteran Hatton W. Sumners, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, who opposed the court reorganization bill, held a comfortable lead over Leslie Jackson, Dallas attorney, 2761 to 959.

Other incumbents holding comfortable margins were Representatives Wright Patman of soldier bonus fame; Martin Dies, opposed by H. G. Hendricks, former Government economist; Luther Johnson, Fritz Lanham, Marvin Jones, chairman of the House Agricultural Committee, and Richard Kleberg.

Incomplete Returns.

Returns from 167 of 254 counties, with five complete, and representing 323,188 votes, showed the following totals for leaders in the Governor's race in the Democratic primary:

O'Daniel, 160,765; Ernest Thompson, 69,278; William McCraw, 47,353, and Tom Hunter, 33,329. Karl Crowley was far behind the others.

The total number of votes was estimated in State contests at between 750,000 and 1,000,000.

Heavy rains in some sectors and floods in the west cut down the voting. In Dallas, voters had trouble with the automatic voting machines and it was announced the polls would remain open as long as necessary for citizens who reached them before 7 p. m., regular closing time, to cast their ballots.

The Texas Election Bureau, a unique organization of its kind, gathers returns from correspondents stationed at each county seat. The correspondents wire the county votes as soon as they become available.

O'Daniel, Novice in Politics, Shows the Veterans.

By the Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Tex., July 23.—W. Lee O'Daniel, a 46-year-old flour jobber who decided six weeks ago to run for Governor, took a commanding lead tonight in the Texas Democratic primary election.

"We just applied some principles of advertising and flour-selling," he said of his mountain-music campaign against such seasoned politicians as William McGraw, twice-elected Attorney-General; Ernest O. Thompson, railroad commissioner, and Tom Hunter, who has run for Governor three times before and never received less than 200,000 votes.

O'Daniel's platform, the Ten Commandments, and the Golden Rule, was augmented by his slogan: "More smokestacks and business men; less Johnson grass and fewer politicians." He advocated $30-a-month pensions for all Texans over 65, regardless of their financial condition, and the industrialization of Texas. He assailed all his opponents in one lump as "professional politicians."

O'Daniel, head of his own flour-distribution company, is also a ra-

ST. LOUIS MAN'S BROTHER STRICKEN ON CLIPPER PLANE

Harry C. Huntington Flying to Honolulu, Where Relative Will Undergo Brain Operation.

By the Associated Press.

ALAMEDA, Cal., July 23.—Dr. Fred Reichert, prominent San Francisco surgeon, left on the Hawaii Clipper for Honolulu today to perform a brain operation on W. D. Huntington of New York, stricken while en route by clipper from Manila to the United States.

Pan-American Railways communicated with Huntington's brother, Harry C. Huntington, St. Louis manufacturer, who arranged for Dr. Reichert to take the first clipper to the islands.

Harry C. Huntington, 5539 Clemens avenue, left St. Louis Friday night by plane for San Francisco, where he took another plane to reach his brother in a Honolulu hospital. He is president of the Sandusky Cooperage & Lumber Co., 705 Market street. A member of his family, reached last night by a Post-Dispatch reporter, said she had no other information about the condition of his brother.

JEALOUS SUITOR KILLS WOMAN, SHOOTS AND WOUNDS HIMSELF

Attack at Wichita, Kan., Witnessed by Divorcee's Son, Who Escapes Through Window.

By the Associated Press.

WICHITA, Kan., July 23.—Fred Edwards, 52 years old, Wichita cattle buyer, fatally wounded Mrs. Eva Moore, 33, a divorcee, then shot himself tonight in a rooming house in what police described as a "jealousy slaying."

Mrs. Moore's 13-year-old son, Raymond, in the room when his mother was shot, escaped through a window and climbed down a drain pipe, running three blocks to police headquarters to report the shooting.

Mrs. Moore died in an ambulance on the way to a hospital. Hospital authorities reported Edwards to be in serious condition.

Edwards, police said, "talked freely, admitting he shot Mrs. Moore because he loved her," and intimated that Mrs. Moore, with whom he had been keeping company, had been attentive to another man.

PAIR GO ABOVE 3-MILE LIMIT TO WED, 16,000 FEET OVER CITY

Airliner Captain Performs Ceremony Arranged to Evade California's 3-Day Marriage Law.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, July 23.—A man and woman of Beverly Hills had an airliner captain marry them three miles above the city today without waiting three days after filing intention to wed, as prescribed by California law.

The two, Eduard I. vonGlatte, 32-year-old wholesale liquor distributor, and Miss Jane Webster, 24, said it was their purpose to prove a marriage three miles above the earth is as legal as one performed by a captain of a boat outside the three-mile limit.

After the ceremony, they left for Detroit on a honeymoon.

Capt. Richard Bowman, veteran pilot, who married them, brought down a sealed barograph to prove the plane was 16,000 feet up.

3 NAVY FLYERS KILLED IN CRASH IN STORM

Bomber Plunges Into Vegetable Garden at Woodbridge, Conn.

By the Associated Press.

WOODBRIDGE, Conn., July 23. Three U. S. Navy airmen, trapped by a blinding rain squall while flying low, were killed here today when their bombing plane nosed downward and crashed to the earth with terrific speed.

The mangled bodies of the trio were identified from cards found in the wreckage as Lieut. J. F. McDonough of Boston, pilot; Lieut. Junior Grade William J. Drumtra of Gloucester, Mass., and Aviation Cadet John Richard Patch of Ipswich, Mass.

They were attached to the U. S. S. Yorktown, at Norfolk, Va. Sergt. L. E. Turner of the Navy dispatcher's office at the Floyd Bennett (N. Y.) field said they stopped there for about an hour, then took off for Squantum, Mass., at 12:50 p. m., to spend their week-end leave of absence and apparently were flying blind.

The plane barely missed the home of Charles H. Carpenter, then smashed into a vegetable garden 35 minutes after the flyers left New York.

Carpenter said he thought he heard an explosion, but the plane did not burn.

FIVE SEIZED IN CHICAGO COUNTERFEIT RING ROUNDUP

Captured After Boulevard Chase; Alleged to Have Sold $100,000 in Bogus Money.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 23.—Capt. Thomas J. Callaghan, district Secret Service supervisor, announced today the arrest of five men he accused of distributing $100,000 in counterfeit notes here during the last five years.

One man was caught trying to sell $1000 worth of notes last night and a round-up followed which included a police chase on Lake Shore drive.

Arrested were Al and Sam Florest, brothers, and John Costello, their half-brother; Mike Catalona and Louis Archibque, all of Chicago.

The men imported the notes from the East, the officer said, and distributed them here, the bills being sold at the rate of $250 for $1000 in notes. Callaghan said $5000 in counterfeit bills were found in Catalona's residence. The five were charged with conspiracy and possession and sale of counterfeit bills.

EXTORTIONIST GETS 8 YEARS

Bootblack Sentenced at Detroit for Sending Note to Banker.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, July 23.—Jack Weaver, 21-year-old bootblack, was sentenced today to serve eight years in the Federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., for sending an extortion note to Walter S. McLucas, Detroit banker, demanding $5000. He pleaded guilty.

McLucas is chairman of the board of the National Bank of Detroit and formerly was active in Missouri banking circles.

LOYALISTS SLOW DOWN REBEL DRIVE ON VALENCIA

Troops Recapture Village of Terezuela, West of Viver, in Fighting Along the Teruel-Sagunto Highway.

COUNTERATTACKS ON CATALONIA FRONT

Government Forces Trying to Relieve Pressure on Capital — Insurgents Report Gain in Southwestern Sector.

By the Associated Press.

HENDAYE, France (at the Spanish Frontier), July 23.—Spanish Government counterattacks today further slowed down the insurgent drive toward Valencia while new activity developed on two other major fronts, in Estremadura and Catalonia.

Generalissimo Francisco Franco's push toward Valencia along the Teruel-Sagunto highway received a setback when Government forces recaptured the village of Terezuela, just west of Viver.

An insurgent report to Zaragoza announced that the advanced right wing of the army fanned out along the road from Teruel had crossed into Valencia Province nearly 40 miles northwest of the provincial capital.

The Government's armies in Northwestern Catalonia, near the French frontier, attacked insurgent positions around Sort, about 80 miles from Barcelona. Insurgent reports said lines remained unaltered.

The Spanish Government offensive in Catalonia was intended to reduce the steadily increasing insurgent pressure on Valencia defenses. The loyalists, military observers said, hoped to force Franco to withdraw troops from the Valencia offensive to reinforce the Catalonian line.

So furious was the part played by planes and artillery in the drive, Government advices said, that the village of Jerica, southeast of Viver, was destroyed.

Government pursuit planes were reported to have downed five insurgent craft.

On the Estremadura, or Southwestern front, dormant for months, insurgent cavalrymen were said to have dashed across a sparsely populated plain in a 20-mile advance to widen the corridor between Northern and Southern insurgent territory.

Insurgent troops attacked Blazquez and Puente del Arzobispo for the third successive day, but Government commanders said the attackers were repulsed. These towns are about 100 miles southwest of Madrid.

U. S. EMBASSY TO LEAVE HANKOW WITHIN TWO WEEKS

Envoy Gets Permission to Go 1000 Miles Inland to Chungking, Soon to Be New Capital.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 23. — The American Embassy in China will move this week or next for the second time in a year. Ambassador Nelson T. Johnson has permission from Secretary of State Hull to move himself and staff 1000 miles up the Yangtze River from Hankow to Chungking, about to become the new capital of China because of the Japanese drive on Hankow. Last November the Embassy shifted from Nanking to Hankow, shortly before the Japanese occupied the Chinese capital.

Chungking, in Szechuan Province, is 1300 miles up the river from the coast at Shanghai, and is the head of the Yangtze for foreign navigation. An American gunboat is maintained there most of the year. Situated in the foothills of the Himalayan Mountains, the city is on a high plateau.

Chungking has no railroad, but has an airport. Ambassador Johnson and staff will have to travel there by river gunboat or plane.

Food for the diplomatic staff probably will be transported on an American gunboat, whose radio, through relays, will keep the Embassy in contact with Washington.

JAPANESE AIRMEN REPORT KINKIANG DOCKS IN FLAMES

FOREIGNERS DENY WHARVES ARE AFIRE

Chinese Dig Trenches in Streets and Take Up Defenses Against 8000 Massed for Attack.

By the Associated Press.

SHANGHAI, July 23.—Japanese airmen reported tonight that the waterfront of Kiukiang, immediate barrier to the Yangtez offensive against Hankow, was in flames.

Foreign naval reports from the area declared, however, that the situation was unchanged from that of recent days and calmness prevails in the city which for weeks has been within earshot of Chinese shore batteries and Japanese navy guns.

Earlier a Japanese communique, announcing domination of the mouth of Poyang Lake and fresh landing expeditions at several points, had indicated that the long-awaited assault of Kiukiang was under way.

Kiukiang is 135 miles down the Yangtze from Hankow, general headquarters of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

Three weeks of bombardment by warships and aircraft preceded today's crossing of the lake mouth on the southern side of the Yangtze.

Planes Machine-Gun Troops.

The Japanese landings precipitated fierce combat with Japanese aircraft machine-gunning Chinese troops trying to hold back the landing parties.

Many of the defenders fell back to Kiukiang where they took up positions in hastily-dug street trenches and ruined buildings to await attack by 8000 Japanese massed about 15 miles to the east at Hukow.

Japanese planes dropped more than 200 bombs on Chinese positions around Kiukiang in a dawn-to-dusk bombardment designed to blast a path for the advancing infantry.

Japanese warships in the Yangtze also continued to shell the Lion Hill forts down the river from Kiukiang, with the Chinese returning the fire from the forts.

Chinese advices said a squadron of Chinese planes had bombed Japanese warships off Hukow, sinking one.

Just how much damage Japanese vessels in the river have suffered during recent weeks remained unknown. The Chinese maintained they had sunk more than 20 and damaged 20. The Japanese said only five auxiliaries had been damaged.

Foreigners, however, saw the damaged destroyer Wamikazi and the transport Shensi Maru towed into the Whangpoo River at Shanghai for repairs.

Fighting in Shansi Province.

Severe fighting was progressing, meanwhile, throughout Shansi Province. Chinese reported the Japanese were unable to perfect their organization for a projected offensive across the Yellow River against Tungkwan and Loyang, considered the gateways to Shensi Province, Communist stronghold.

Chinese troops attacked Japanese garrisons and transports all along the Yellow, aided by heavy rainfalls that mired the invaders.

Farther north the Chinese also claimed success in impeding and disorganizing Japanese plans.

Guerrillas blew up a steel bridge over the Chang River on the border of Hupeh and Hunan provinces, interrupting traffic of the Peiping-Hankow railway.

A series of attacks was launched against Japanese garrisons along the Shansi Province railroad. Units of the Chinese Eighth Route Army extended activities on the Charhar-Jehol provincial frontier, forcing the Japanese to concentrate 5000 men at Tungchow, 15 miles east of Peiping.

On the front in Central Anhwei Province, where fighting ceased early in June because of devastating floods, Chinese said their soldiers had recaptured Tungcheng and Shucheng, north of Anking, the capital of Anhwei, with fighting continuing on the outskirts of Hofei. All served to stalemate the Japanese drive through Anhwei against the Peiping-Hankow railroad.

Dispatches from Peiping said the Peiping-Tientsin district faced serious flood threats as the Yungting River went out of its banks in some places after heavy rains. The Yellow River also was reported rising rapidly again and spreading over a new area.

Japanese Airmen Machine-Gun 300 Civilians at Changsha.

By the Associated Press.

HONGKONG, July 23.—Chinese reported today that 300 persons were killed or wounded in a heavy Japanese air raid on Changsha, in which the raiders machine-gunned civilians in the streets. Changsha, on the Canton-Hankow railway, is one of the cities listed by the Japanese recently as likely to be bombed.

The Chinese also said that more than 100 persons were killed during a Japanese bombardment of Namoa Island, off Swatow, on the South China coast. Eighteen warships were reported to have ringed the island and subjected it to heavy shelling as a part of the strategy to keep the South China coast terrorized in so far as possible.

Chinese advices said that so far the shelling had failed to dislodge Chinese militia and guerrilla troops who recaptured the island from the Japanese a week ago.

82 PCT. OF WAR BONUS BONDS HAVE BEEN CASHED SINCE 1936

Figures Indicate Veterans Will Redeem Most of Remaining Securities in a Few Years.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—United States World War veterans cashed 82 per cen of their bonus bonds in two years and may redeem the remainder in a few more years.

Figures obtained from the Treasury today showed that, since Congress authorized immediate payment of the adjusted compensation in the summe. of 1936, the veterans received $1,822,623,250 of $50 bonds. All of these have been exchanged for cash except $315,907,600 worth.

The biggest cashing-in took place immediately after the bonds were issued, but redemptions now are running between $3,500,000 and $8,000,000 a month. Officials said they could not determine how much effect the business slump had on redemptions because, as the outstanding supply of onds dwindled the redemption also declined.

A few veterans are still getting their bonds after failing to claim them for more than two years. Last month $530,900 bonus bonds were issued to such claimants.

RACINE (WIS.) MAYOR FILES ACTION TO FIRE POLICE CHIEF

Ouster Charges Follow Five Gambling Raids Made on Orders of City's Chief Executive.

By the Associated Press.

RACINE, Wis., July 23.—Mayor Roy Spencer filed formal charges tonight seeking the dismissal of Chief of Police Grover C. Lutter, during whose absence from the city yesterday five gambling raids were made on instructions of the Mayor.

The charges were placed before Steven Thomas, president of the Police and Fire Commission. Thomas said he would call a special meeting of the commission "as soon as possible" to consider them.

Alleged knowledge of gambling, using police cars for private use, illegal possession of slot machines, failure to maintain discipline and frequent and unauthorized absence from the city were included among the charges laid by Spencer.

Lutter, who had been on vacation at Eagle Lake, near here, charged tonight he was the victim of a "political frameup."

FOREST FIRES SPREAD PALL OVER NORTHWEST

Steamers on Puget Sound Forced to Use Fog Horns—Thousands Fighting Flames.

By the Associated Press.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 23.—Forest fires, spreading rapidly across sun-baked timber land, blackened great areas of the earth and sky and endangered more communities today.

A deepening smoke pall covered the Pacific Northwest. Over Puget Sound it was so dense in some places that ships were forced to use their fog horns as they moved about.

Through the smoke cloud the rising sun appeared as a blood-red disc. Visibility was sharply limited, further handicapping fire lookouts.

Wind drove British Columbia's 100,000-acre Vancouver Island fire toward a tiny mining settlement and into one of the island's finest commercial timber stands, and in other sections delayed control of fires covering thousands of acres.

In Northern Idaho and Western Montana, where loss has been confined to a few hundred acres, electrical storms were forecast. Many of the fires were started by lightning.

Town in Danger.

The town of Bevan was reported in "immediate danger" from the Vancouver Island fire. The flames raced before the wind toward the scenic wilderness of Forbidden Plateau and the town. Locomotives of the Canadian Collieries, Ltd., stood by to evacuate residents and fighters.

Wind whipped the blaze out of control during the night, but had abated somewhat by morning. The fire was reported still running wild despite the control efforts of more than 1000 men.

Douglas Taylor, assistant to British Columbia's chief forester, estimated damage already had reached $500,000. This included destruction of 67,000,000 feet of felled timber, logging equipment and the resort settlement of Forbes Landing.

The 40,000-acre Ryderwood-Mount Abernethy fire northeast of Longview, Wash., also spread before winds but the 1000 fighters believed they could hold newly built lines.

New Fire Reported.

Meanwhile, a report of a fast-spreading new fire on logged-over area in Cowlitz County, Wash., sent all available W P A workers from Kalama to the scene. T. S. Goodyear, Washington Forest Supervisor, said fighting it was made difficult by its inaccessibility.

Damp air from the Pacific eased the situation in Oregon. The 20,000-acre Smith River fire in Douglas County was held within boundaries, as was the Chetco River blaze in the Siskiyou National Forest. The 6000-acre Big Creek fire in Clatsop County was reported out of control during the night.

Alarmed by the situation, the Indian service in Washington ordered its patrol to increase their vigilance in the Pacific northwest.

Lee Muck, chief forester for the service, said the Indians had at least $30,000,000 at stake in the danger area and that their property might easily be reduced to ashes.

Muck asserted the Indians had come to realize the need of protecting their forest holdings. For many years, he said, the service had to deal with tribesmen who deliberately started fires in order to get jobs fighting the flames.

Coal Board Ends Cost Hearings.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 23. — The National Bituminous Coal Commission completed today hearings to determine the weighted average cost of producing bituminous coal. The commission will analyze the data obtained to get final cost figures on which district boards will be asked to base minimum prices.

MAVERICK RUNS SLIGHTLY BEHIND IN TEXAS PRIMARY

dio announcer, song-writer and poet. He put his name on the ticket for Governor, he said, because some 58,000 persons who heard his radio programs, advertising flour, asked him to run and because he thought Texas was tired of "professional politicians."

O'Daniel, with his three children: Mollie, 16; Pat, 19, and Mike, 18, and his advertising orchestra known as the "Hill Billy Boys" stumped Texas in a bus with sound amplifiers and a platform top.

When his announcement was made, the other candidates and most political observers paid little attention but when his formal opening at Waco attracted some 15,000 persons, his campaign became a sensation.

"Well, well, well," he would say into the microphone, "just a few weeks ago I was W. Lee O'Daniel, selling flour, and look at me now!"

Agitated politicians wondered what he could have done with a little political experience.

Mrs. O'Daniel was in charge of his Fort Worth headquarters. When he spoke, Pat and Mike with banjo and fiddle, stood on each side, and Mollie, a high school girl, circulated among the women and girls, telling them how much fun it was to be in politics.

Called an Ohio Carpetbagger.

Thousands had never heard of O'Daniel until a few weeks ago. He had no campaign literature, or other traditional political props. The keynote of his campaign was "something different."

Under Texas law he could not vote for himself. Neither could Mrs. O'Daniel vote for her husband, because neither had paid a poll tax.

Because he was born in Ohio and came to Texas from Kansas, his opponents called him a "Yankee carpetbagger," and assailed him on the poll tax issue.

About the poll tax, O'Daniel replied he had not paid because he was disgusted with professional politicians and didn't care to vote for them. As for carpetbagging, he answered with stories of Ohioans who had died fighting for Texas independence.

RUSSIA BELITTLES NEW CLASH WITH JAPANESE FORCES

Izvestia Says Tokio "Militarists Have Their Mouths Full of China," Doubts War Is Threatened.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, July 23.—Soviet Russia through its newspapers pictured Japan today as so entangled in trying to conquer China that its "diplomatic forces had to be called in to rescue the militarists" from trying to touch off a conflict with Russia.

Despite another Siberian-Manchoukuoan frontier incident, in which Japanese-Manchoukuoan soldiers were reported to have failed in an attempt to occupy an island in the Ussuri River, Soviet circles viewed the possibility of Russian-Japanese war as a diminishing threat.

Dispatches from the Siberian city, Khabarovsk, said the second incident this month occurred north of Changkufeng, where Japan had accused Soviet soldiers of entering Manchoukuoan territory on July 11.

Two Wounded, Arms Seized.

The dispatches said two launches landed a detachment of Japanese-Manchoukuoan troops on the Soviet island of Faingov two days ago only to be driven off shortly afterward.

Two of the invading soldiers were reported wounded and a machine-gun, five rifles and a quantity of ammunition seized by members of a Russian cutter patrol.

The clash came the day following a Japanese protest against occupation of the Changfukeng district—a protest rejected by Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinov with the statement that the area lies within Siberia.

The Government newspaper Izvestia charged Japanese militarists with manufacturing both incidents but expressed the general Russian belief that the possibility of war had declined.

"Mouths Full of China."

"The Japanese militarists have their mouths full of China," Izvestia said.

The organ termed the incidents "brutal and clumsy," adding that "the Japanese militarists were mistaken this time."

"Their false reports are not trusted in the world. The Japanese hopes were shattered against the firmness of the Soviet Union which in this case as in other cases is dealing with facts, official agreements and documents.

"The diplomatic forces had to be called in to rescue the militarists who had fooled themselves."

As to the latest incident on the Ussuri River, Izvestia said, "the organizers of provocations in Tokio should remember that any part of the U. S. S. R. is inaccessible to them.

"Is it not time the Japanese militarists ceased playing with fire? They might get burned."

As Izvestia Sees Incident.

The newspaper explained what it considered the factors and motives in border difficulties between the Soviet Union and the Japanese protectorate of Manchoukuo.

"New reinforcements continually are needed in China. The Kwangtung army (Japan's occupation force in Manchoukuo) which always hoped and still hopes for an anti-Soviet war and needs considerable forces for its further domination of Manchuria (Manchoukuo) is afraid it will be compelled to send some of its troops to bolster the Japanese army at present sinking in China.

"In order to evade such a development, the Kwangtung army obviously decided to call attention to itself."

Diet Member Says Japan Can Fight Russia as Well as China.

HONOLULU, July 23.—J. G. Kasai, member of the Japanese Parliament, asserted here today the Japanese people were capable of waging "conflict with both China and Russia simultaneously."

Kasai said the situation between Japan and Russia looked "pretty bad." He predicted Japan's struggle in China would be short-lived unless "Russia joins in."

Kasai and another Parliament member, R. Makino, are en route to the Hague Parliamentary Union.

CZECH PREMIER RECEIVES SUDETEN GERMAN LEADERS

Hodza Talks With Them After Second Conference With British Minister in 24 Hours.

By the Associated Press

PRAHA, Czechoslovakia, July 23.—Premier Milan Hodza received Ernst Kundt and Alfred Rosche, Sudeten German leaders, today following his second conference in 24 hours with British Minister Basil Cochrane Newton.

He informed them in detail of the Government's program for the ensuing week in its work of attempting to solve the issue precipitated by minority demands for autonomy.

The Government was expected by next Tuesday to be ready to submit to the various minorities its drafts of a nationalities statute, a law regarding language and administrative reforms.

Until the groups affected have had ample time for study, discussion and counter-proposals, Parliament will not be called into session.

Parliament may not be convened before Aug. 2 at the earliest and the opening may be delayed until Aug. 8.

Czechoslovakia and Germany Previously Given British Views.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 23.—The second conference in 24 hours between Basil Cochrane Newton, British Minister to Praha, and Premier Milan Hodza followed the English-German talks in London and English-French discussions in Paris on the Central European problem.

Newton carried out what were described here authoritatively as "certain assurances" given by Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain yesterday to Dr. Herbert von Dirksen, German Ambassador to London, on the use of British influence with Praha in the handling of minority autonomy demands in Czechoslovakia. It was clear both here and in Praha that the new British action, backed by France, sought the fullest measure of autonomy possible for minorities in the republic.

Prospects for an early resumption of broadscale negotiations were heightened by reassurances of Germany's peaceful intentions, conveyed to Britain by Von Dirksen and Adolf Hitler's adjutant, Capt. Fritz Wiedemann, just before and during the state visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth to France.

France called home its Ambassador to Berlin, Andre Francois-Poncet, in the sudden spurt of diplomatic activity. This gave rise to reports Germany was seeking a four-Power meeting among Germany, Italy, Britain and France to work out a solution of its neighbor's problem.

Official quarters in London denied, however, that "any new suggestion was under discussion" and French quarters also disclaimed knowledge of any such proposal.

In Parliament the opposition awaits the Prime Minister's answer Tuesday to a memorandum on alleged deficiencies in the air rearmament program before deciding whether to make this the basis for a new attack on the Government before Parliament's adjournment.

Meanwhile, a new step in air expansion, was announced by Sir Kingsley Wood, air secretary. It is a civil air guard, to be headed by Lord Londonderry, aimed at providing men and women with flying knowledge who would offer their services immediately in an emergency. It will be open to men and women between the ages of 18 and 50 who will be trained through light airplane clubs subsidized by the Government.

NATIONAL C. OF C. ASSAILS GOVERNMENT IN BUSINESS

In Summary of Policies, It Urges Congressional Investigation of Wagner Act.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 23. — The Chamber of Commerce of the United States contended today that Government competition with private enterprise was "one of the gravest present threats against economic freedom" and was "retarding recovery."

In a pamphlet which summarized its "policy commitments," the Chamber also blamed many forms of business regulation, the Wagner Labor Relations Act, Federal taxes and "legislative threats" for retarding business recovery. It proposed a congressional investigation of the Labor Act.

Regarding Government competition with private enterprise, the organization said:

"With unlimited resources, with freedom from taxation and from other items of expense necessarily incidental to private operation, and without obligation to show a profit or even to avoid loss, the Government can eliminate all competitors in any field of business in which it may choose to engage."

ALL-NIGHT WAKE FOR QUEEN MARIE

Body Moved to Palace in Downtown Bucharest — Burial Today.

By the Associated Press.

BUCHAREST, July 23. — The body of Dowager Queen Marie was taken tonight to the white stone royal palace in downtown Bucharest where her children, headed by King Carol, prepared to hold a wake throughout the night.

Mourners had filed through Cotroceni Palace continuously until 9 p. m. when the coffin was sealed ceremoniously by Minister of Justice Victor Jamandin, the Court Marshal and the Mayor of Bucharest.

During the day, red roses from President Roosevelt were placed on the catafalque.

Services tomorrow will begin with mass at 7:30 a. m. Ceremonial tributes to the Queen, who died Monday, will continue until noon, with representatives of nearly all nations participating.

At noon there will be a procession through the streets of the capital, between solid lines of soldiers, to the railway station. There the body will be placed in a special train for the 100-mile journey to Kurtea de Argesch, northwest of Bucharest.

The army's farewell will be a salvo of 75 cannon shots.

Church bells will be rung throughout the country as the funeral train, followed by other special trains bearing the mourners, makes the four-hour trip to Kurtea de Argesch, where burial will take place in the royal vault.

There will be brief stops at Titu, Golesti and Pitesti, where citizens began gathering tonight.

BORAH ABLE TO WALK AGAIN

Sick Senator Takes First Steps in Nearly Three Weeks.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Senator Borah (Rep.), Idaho, walked a few steps today for the first time in nearly three weeks. The 73-year-old Senator has remained in his apartment here since doctors ordered him to bed for a long rest from overexertion during the last session of Congress.

An office assistant disclosed that Borah had been "a very sick man" and that doctors were pleased over his recuperative powers. They said he had no idea of giving up his place on the Congressional-Administrative Committee undertaking a study of monopoly. Mrs. Borah said she and the Senator would "go some place where it's cool" as soon as he can travel.

STARK SAYS HE'LL SUPPORT BILLINGS IF HE'S NOMINATED

Asserts He Is Concerned, However, Whether Opponents Will Back Judge Douglas If He Wins.

"PARTY ENTITLED TO KNOW IT NOW"

Statement at Marceline Answers Query Whether He Would Accept Ticket Chosen in Primary.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MARCELINE, Mo., July 23.—Gov. Lloyd C. Stark, speaking at a rally here this evening in support of Judge James M. Douglas for the Supreme Court, said he would support the Democratic ticket as nominated in the Aug. 2 primary.

The Governor's statement came apparently in answer to a question of Floyd L. Sperry, campaign manager for Judge James V. (Josh) Billings, Judge Douglas' chief opponent. Sperry asked Stark in an open letter whether he would support Judge Billings if Billings should win in the primary.

Gov. Stark said he thought Judge Douglas would win the nomination by an overwhelming vote. "I have always been a Democrat and I always expect to be one," he continued. "There should be no fear about my supporting the Democratic ticket.

"I am deeply concerned, however, whether the opponents of Judge Douglas will whole-heartedly support him when he is nominated. The Democracy of this State is entitled to know that—and entitled to know it now."

Attacks "Boss Control."

The Governor proceeded to denounce "boss control" and to recite the fruits of such control in Missouri.

"Boss control," he said, "has been able, in election after election, to dictate party nominees in primaries and elect officeholders. Boss control has accomplished this by the corrupt method whereby 45,000 to 60,000 fraudulent names were carried on the registration books in Kansas City. Boss control has thus been able, by fraudulent means, to disfranchise the honest Democratic voters in nearly 31 counties of the State." He cited the convictions in the Kansas City Federal Court prosecutions for ballot frauds as substantiating his charges.

"The ballot thief," he declared, "is as much a felon as the man who breaks into your home and steals your money. The ballot thief takes a heritage made priceless by the blood of our forefathers. There is no place for an election crook in our party or the State government. Election crooks aren't Democrats. They are thieves and felons—in the penitentiary, not in the Democratic party.

"I refused to reappoint the members of the Election Board in Kansas City because I would not then, and I will not now, become a party to the perpetuation of ballot stealing. I appointed instead a board of honest, able and courageous men who are earnestly trying to give the good citizens of Kansas City honest elections."

Praise for Judge Douglas.

The Governor praised Judge Douglas as a citizen and a member of the Supreme Court, and cited his indorsements, in the present campaign, by legal organizations, the most recent being that of the bar of Pike County. "But boss control in Kansas City disagrees and aims at his defeat," he said, "because boss control believes that through the defeat of Judge Douglas it can give me a slap in the face for doing my plain duty to put an end to vote-stealing in Kansas City."

As another reason for the fight on Judge Douglas, the Governor told the circumstances of the Insurance Department "compromise" giving 80 per cent of impounded excess fire insurance premiums to the companies and lawyers, and 20 per cent to the policy holders. Judge Douglas was one of the four Supreme Court Judges voting to disapprove the compromise. To show that the compromise was in the interest of "boss control," the Governor quoted the statement of R. Emmet O'Malley, Insurance Superintendent, on the occasion of Boss Thomas J. Pendergast's departure for Europe in 1936. O'Malley was quoted as saying that he "came down to see the chief off, and to make sure the insurance matter was all right from the political aspect."

Stark, who was not then Governor, commented that there could be no questions as to who was meant by the term "chief."

Says Opponents Distort Stand.

The Governor told of the selection of Judge Billings to run against Judge Douglas for nomination to the unexpired term which Douglas is now filling by appointment. He ridiculed the "honorary" membership of Billings in veterans' organizations, and read satirical verses on this subject, written by Bill Horton, Poplar Bluff editor.

Gov. Stark said the opposition, unable to attack Judge Douglas directly, had distorted the Governor's position and policy as to old-age pensions. He said there were 56,000 old-age pensioners when he became Governor, and that the number has increased to 72,000, with increase of the average payment from $11.42 to $18, the total having increased from $643,000 a month to $1,264,000 a month. He denounced reports that relief payments and W P A jobs would be affected by the outcome of the State election.

Gov. Stark will make a non-political address at an American Legion meeting in Washington, Mo., tomorrow. He will speak for Judge Douglas in Kansas City Monday night, Nevada Tuesday afternoon, Joplin Tuesday night, Cassville Wednesday night, and Springfield Thursday night.

Judge Farrington Reminds Billings' Enemies of Riverfront Vote Fraud.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., July 23. — Judge John S. Farrington denounced tonight as "unwarranted" Gov. Lloyd C. Stark's injection of the "insurance issue" into the Douglas-Billings Supreme Court campaign.

The insurance question "is not one that should in any way be brought into this campaign," the veteran Springfield jurist said in an address at a district Billings rally here.

Stark has charged that Douglas' vote against the invalidated "insurance compromise" inspired T. J. Pendergast to support Circuit Judge James V. Billings of Kennett against him.

"The four-to-three decision in the Supreme Court of Missouri . . , was not a decision which passed upon the validity of the compromise agreement," Farrington said, "but, on the other hand, passed off entirely on a jurisdictional question, and the way Judge Douglas voted on that question is not one that should be in any way brought into this campaign."

Farrington also attacked Stark's repeated references to election frauds in the Pendergast organization's Kansas City area.

"Some who are shrieking so loudly about fraudulent elections in Kansas City are hiding behind the statute of limitations in St. Louis," he charged. "It is common knowledge that bonds for the Jefferson Memorial were overwhelmingly defeated and that the election returns showing that they carried were fraudulent.

"Yet when certain citizens undertook to test the validity of this election . . . the Supreme Court held that, regardless of the amount of fraud, the statute of limitations bars a recount.

"The full court, which of course included Judge Douglas, rendered this opinion. I say this merely to amplify my statement that honest elections should apply as well in St. Louis as in Kansas City."

Circuit Judge R. I. Cope of Butler County, likewise drew a Kansas City-St. Louis comparison in his prepared address.

"If those who attack the supporters of Judge Billings expect to gain the confidence of the voters, they must be impartial in their criticism of democratic leadership," he said in what listeners regarded as reference to Stark's alignment with Mayor Bernard F. Dickmann of St. Louis behind Douglas.

"They cannot in sincerity attack Kansas City leadership and ignore the same kind of leadership in St. Louis. They cannot prate of election frauds in Kansas City and sit quietly by until the statute of limitations has run on like offenses elsewhere."

St. Louis Lawyer Speaks for Judge Douglas at Fredericktown.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

FREDERICKTOWN, Mo., July 23.—Criticism of foreign dictatorships is idle so long as "Boss" Pendergast is permitted to dominate Missouri, declared F. E. Williams, St. Louis lawyer, here tonight in a plea for the nomination of Judge James M. Douglas for the Supreme Court.

He urged St. Louis and rural Missouri Democrats to combine to defeat Judge James V. Billings, candidate of the Kansas City Pendergast machine, and agreed with Secretary of State Dwight E. Brown that the Supreme Court primary contest had indeed reached "a new low."

"Yes, Mr. Brown," said Williams, "the attempt of 'the big boss' to punish a Supreme Court Judge for his honest convictions in a decision is about as low-down as anything that has ever occurred in Missouri politics."

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Henry Arthur Leslie, Detective Inspector of Scotland Yard, was one of 36 detectives completing today a three-month law enforcement school conducted by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

J. Edgar Hoover, in a speech to the class, proposed designation of an annual "law-enforcement day" to be dedicated "to the heroes of law-enforcement who have died in service."

Among the graduates were Harry W. Conroy of the University City police force and F. Lincoln Luke, Belleville.

SOLDIER ADMITS KILLING GIRL, SHOOTING HIMSELF

Note in Her Handbag, Bearing His Name, Says Her Parents Opposed Match.

By the Associated Press.

DECATUR, Ga., July 23.—Police said a 16-year-old girl was shot to death and her soldier sweetheart wounded early today in a suicide compact. The girl was Sara George of Tucker, Ga., the man Richard H. Denham, 21, private, stationed at Fort McPherson in Atlanta.

Denham, in an Atlanta hospital under technical arrest, admitted shooting the girl and wounding himself. A note bearing Denham's name and found in the girl's pocketbook, read:

"Don't ever fall in love unless you can make a go of it, because you may do the same thing that I have done. Sara's people didn't want me to go with her, but we loved one another so much something had to be done."

N L R B PENALIZES DISCHARGES FOR UNION ACTIVITY

Crossett (Ark.) Lumber Company Ordered to Pay Men's Expenses in Hunting New Jobs.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—The National Labor Relations Board gave every indication today of fighting to uphold its contention that an employer has no right to discharge a sit-down striker for union affiliation.

Officials expressed the opinion that the board would appeal to the Supreme Court from a decision of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals at Chicago, which set aside a board order requiring reinstatement of 92 men discharged by the Fansteel Metallurgical Corporation during a sit-down strike last year.

A majority of the Circuit Court held that an employer is warranted in discharging employes "when they take and retain exclusive possession of his property against his will."

Not All Sit-Downers Fired.

The board examiner had ruled previously that, since all employes who participated in the sit-down were not discharged, the real reason for the dismissals was not taking part in the strike but "continuing sympathy with the union and its activities."

The Wagner Act, which the board administers, forbids discrimination against workers for union activity.

Lee Pressman, general counsel for the C I O, announced that his organization would ask the board to appeal. The union affected in the strike was the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, a C I O affiliate.

No formal action on an appeal will be taken until the full board has studied the Circuit Court's opinion.

Penalty for Illegal Discharges.

However, the board handed down another precedent-setting decision today, ruling that a company which discharges workers for union activities is liable for expenses which the men incur in looking for new jobs.

This policy was enunciated in an order directing the Crossett Lumber Co. of Crossett, Ark., to reinstate with back pay, less whatever sums they have earned in the meantime, 34 workers who, the board said, were discharged for union activity.

The order declared that many of the discharged men, failing to find work in Crossett, sought it in California, Arizona, Louisiana and other places, incurring expenses "they would not have had if they . . . had not been forced by unfair labor practices to leave their homes," and added that, in computing the back pay the men are to receive, these expenses shall be deducted from whatever sum they have earned since their discharge.

Meantime, there were increasing signs of a fight in the next Congress, convening in January, over proposals that the Wagner Act be modified drastically.

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States issued a statement saying:

"Recent action of the Labor Board is tantamount to public admission its proceedings have not been fair and impartial, and there has been ample demonstration the legislation has not fulfilled its stated purpose of lessening industrial disputes."

The chamber added that the Wagner Act, which many industrial spokesmen contend is "one-sided" in labor's favor, was one of the factors clouding prospects for economic recovery.

New C I O Drive Announced.

At the same time the C I O announced a campaign to unionize the farm equipment manufacturing industry. John Brophy, the C I O director, said an organization meeting would be conducted in Chicago tomorrow.

Estimates of the number of workers in the industry varied widely. One Government authority said figures here showed there were about 35,000, not including salespeople, supervisory workers or office employes.

PLOT TO INFLUENCE JURY IN HARLAN TRIAL REPORTED

State Highway Patrolman Relays Information to Judge — Federal Agent Investigating.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Ky., July 23. — Disclosure of what was said to be a plot to influence the Harlan anti-union conspiracy trial jury was made late today.

United States District Judge H. Church Ford, presiding at the trial of 56 coal companies and individuals charged with conspiring to prevent unionization of the Harlan coal fields under the Wagner Act, disclosed the alleged plot. He said Lee White, a state highway patrolman, reported it to him at the close of court yesterday and promised a further report today but when the time came White said the informant could not be found.

White, with the Judge, conferred with Assistant United States Attorney-General Brien McMahon, in charge of the prosecution. Afterward a Federal agent was assigned to make further inquiry.

Judge Ford ordered all defendants to stay in the courtroom daily under threat of being jailed in forfeiture of their bonds. The roll of defendants, he said, would be called each morning.

Zone Roped Off.

A "no trespassing zone" was roped off by Federal officers today around quarters occupied by the jury. It included the sidewalk at either end of the house, and extended several feet out into Main street. Three armed deputy United States marshals are on duty at the jury quarters day and night.

Marshal John Moore said the roping off was ordered after deputies reported yesterday three men "paraded" past the house for an hour with one of the defendants.

The admitted "paraders" identified themselves as Clarence Chestnut, postmaster at Sexton's Creek; W. M. Roach of Manchester, former warden of Old Frankfort State Reformatory, and F. E. Sizemore, former county clerk, all of Clay County, adjacent to Laurel County. Chesnut said he was a son of one of the jurors. The defendant was Merle Middleton, a former Harlan County peace officer. All denied any intention of interfering with the jury.

Tenth Week Ended.

The tenth week of the trial ended today. Albert Hoskins threw the courtroom into confusion Thursday when he told from the stand that he had given perjured evidence and implicated two other witnesses. Hoskins said he had received $50 from a lawyer for signing an affidavit and testifying in an effort to link Belton Youngblood, a union organizer, with the ambush killing of 19-year-old Bennett Musick last year. No action has been taken so far on Hoskins' admission.

The Government finished its rebuttal testimony today and Judge Ford granted a defense request for a recess until Monday to permit preparation of surrebuttal.

Judge Ford remarked: "From all indications we are nearing the end of this lengthy trial."

McMahon, chief of prosecution counsel, announced after adjournment that the Government had decided to withdraw its request for a re-opening of the whole case.

Judge Ford said he had indicated to both sides he would deny a request of the defense that the jury be taken 80 miles to Harlan to view the scene where Union Organizer Marshall Musick, father of Bennett, and his wife had been fired on in January, 1927. The Government, he said, had concurred in the request.

BROTHER, SISTER REUNITED AFTER 20-YEAR SEPARATION

Texan Visits Here; Pair Adopted When They Were Babies by Different Families.

Mrs. Jean Ricketts, 5322 Vernon avenue, and her brother, Claude Garner of Bonham, Tex., told a Post-Dispatch reporter yesterday how they were reunited after being separated 20 years ago, when they were infants.

Mrs. Ricketts was 1 year old and Garner was 2 when the Salvation Army at Texarkana, Ark.-Tex., arranged for their adoption. She became the foster daughter of Mrs. May Henderson, who later moved to St. Louis, and her brother was adopted by Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Garner of Bonham. Their parents, named Higgins, were unable to care for them.

Both knew they had been adopted, but Garner did not know he had a sister until recently. Mrs. Ricketts wrote to the Salvation Army at Texarkana seeking information about her brother. A story of the adoptions was found in an old newspaper and was reprinted with her letter in a Texarkana newspaper. A foster sister of Garner, living in Texarkana, sent it to him and he wrote to Mrs. Ricketts. He came to St. Louis to visit her last Wednesday.

STAR-TIMES CONTRACT WITH NEWSPAPER GUILD EXTENDED

Economy Dismissals, Wage Cuts and Staff Reduction Barred in New Agreement.

An agreement extending a contract covering editorial workers until Feb. 1, 1939, has been signed by the St. Louis Star-Times and the St. Louis Newspaper Guild, it was announced yesterday. Several new provisions were added by the agreement, including guarantee of no dismissals for economy or departmental elimination or discontinuance, no wage cuts, no reduction in the size of the staff and unqualified dismissal bonuses at the rate of one week's pay for each year of employment, with a maximum of six weeks.

Another new section provides that the publisher, whenever practicable, will apply to the Guild for a list of qualified persons to fill vacancies. The original contract includes the five day, 40-hour week and the Guild shop, which provides that all editorial department members must be members of the Guild or must become members of the Guild within 30 days after joining the staff. Minimum pay is $20 a week for beginners up to $50 a week after five years' experience.

The new agreement was negotiated by Elzey Roberts, Star-Times publisher, John Roberts and Frank W. Taylor Jr., for the newspaper, and by Elwood Douglass, David Brown and Julius Klyman for the Guild.

CONFESSED EMBEZZLER TO BE RETURNED TO RACINE, WIS.

Alfred L. Carlson Waives Extradition; Admits Taking $2500 of Company's Funds.

Alfred Lloyd Carlson of Racine, Wis., who confessed to police here that he had taken $2500 of funds of the National Mutual Benefit Association, an insurance company which he represented, will be returned to Wisconsin today by a Racine detective. Carlson, after voluntarily surrendering Friday, has waived extradition.

He told St. Louis police he took amounts of not more than $20 over a period of four years for living expenses and for occasional gambling. He said he left Racine by bus when he learned an audit of his records had been started.

NATIONAL GUARD JAILS TWO IN MAYTAG FIGHT

Machine Guns Trained on Streets Leading to Newton (Ia.) Plant.

By the Associated Press.

NEWTON, Ia., July 23. — The Iowa National Guard Military Commission announced today it has jailed two C I O union members in connection with the street fighting at the closed Maytag washing machine plant Wednesday.

The commission already was holding a third man, a Colfax (Ia.) W P A worker, in connection with the disturbance.

Judge-Advocate Frank B. Hallagan said the men arrested today are Myron Pyle and Cecil Longcor, and that Pyle had been identified by several witnesses as the man who struck James Butcher, a back-to-work group member. Butcher has just been released from a hospital where he was treated for injuries suffered in Wednesday's fighting.

The Judge-Advocate said Longcor was identified by witnesses as having been in "two or three" fights that morning.

The Commission recessed this afternoon until 9 a. m. Monday and went into closed conference with Major-General Mathew A. Tinley, commander of the troops here.

Machine Guns Set Up.

Machine guns remained trained tonight on two streets near the plant and there was little indication of progress toward a settlement in the strike started by C I O union workers 11 weeks ago.

Maj. Willard Gaines said the guard had "simply altered its plans" when it doubled patrols at the factory and set up machine guns.

He said he was "not anticipating" any move to storm the plant and indicated that the move might be just a tactical maneuver.

Gen. Tinley said:

"There's no use in coming in here and just telling these boys, 'Well it's quiet; just sit down and make yourselves comfortable.' We want them to know what to do in case of a riot."

Madison Hill, trial examiner for the National Labor Relations Board, has adjourned a hearing into charges brought against the company by the union, until 9:30 a. m. Monday, declaring he saw no evidence of an immediate strike settlement. C. I. McNutt, union attorney, concurred in his view.

General Inspects Plant.

Gen. Tinley and a group of officers inspected the Maytag plant today, announced they found "everything in perfect order," and remarked on the "atmosphere of complete friendliness" on the part of employers and maintenance men.

Mayor E. Campbell, meanwhile, issued a statement declaring he believes "that Gov. Kraschel understands his duty and that as soon as the guard is properly organized to maintain order, he will open the factory. There is no other legal basis on which he can stand."

Adjutant-General Charles H. Grahl, meanwhile, disclosed that the cost of maintaining the guard at Newton is about $750 a day.

The strike began May 9, when union members walked out in protest against a 10 per cent wage cut.

Woman Minister Dies After Crash.

SAMUEL INSULL BURIED IN PLAIN OAK CASKET

Widow Sobs During Service at London Cemetery, Attended by 18.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 23. — Eighteen persons followed the plain oak coffin of Samuel Insull today as it was borne to a grave beneath a Hawthorne tree in the Putney Vale Cemetery.

The funeral of the former head of a $4,000,000,000 public utility empire was extremely simple, as was his life in London when he left it at the age of 20 as a $1.25-a-week clerk.

Insull, who died of a heart attack in a Paris subway a week ago at the age of 78, was buried near his father and mother.

The Rev. John M. Bird of Putney led the Church of England burial service in a little white-walled chapel. There was no mention of Insull's rise to financial power, or his fall when his utilities empire collapsed.

The widow wept. She wore deep mourning attire.

The small group present included Harry Gordon Selfridge, Mrs. Selfridge, and their son, Harry Gordon Selfridge Jr. Selfridge, who retired from the Chicago firm of Marshall Field & Co., and founded London's large department store, Selfridge & Co., represented English institutions which have benefitted by Insull's generosity. There was a wreath from the National Temperance Hospital in London, to which Insull had given $100,000.

Insull had lived simply in recent years. Following the financial collapse of his great utilities holdings, he frequently had declared "I am now a poor man."

FATHER FAILS TO SAVE BOY, DROWNING IN ROUND POND LAKE

Group From White Hall, Ill., Also Try in Vain to Rescue 13-Year-Old Paul Ross.

Paul Ross, 13 years old, of White Hall, Ill., was drowned Friday when swimming with his father, Merle Ross, in Round Pond Lake near White Hall, 40 miles north of Alton.

The father dived several times in an attempt to recover the body, then ran about a mile to a farm house for help. A group of White Hall residents went to the lake, and tried to find the body by forming a human chain from the shore to the place where the boy went down. The body was recovered an hour later by the boy's uncle, Wayne Ross.

Douglas Corrigan's Story; His Meeting With Lindbergh, Who Hired Him as Mechanic

New York-Dublin Flyer Says He Was Impressed With Colonel and Made a Vow to Emulate Him.

DOUGLAS CORRIGAN, who flew from New York to Dublin in his 9-year-old $900 plane, tells herewith, in the fourth article of a series, of his meeting with Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and what effect that meeting had on him.

By DOUGLAS CORRIGAN,
(As Told to Thomas C. Watson.)

DUBLIN, July 23.

SO much has happened in my grownup life that my school days seem far, far away. I never earned any bouquets or commendations for my diligence in school studies. I suppose I, just like any other Texan, regarded schooling as a thing that must be suffered but it interfered with what I then thought was a more normal outlet for any young American's energies—fishing and swimming.

I guess I must have seemed a lonely kind of kid, as I don't seem to have formed any lasting schoolboy friendships.

I started grade school in San Antonio, Tex. To me it's just San Antonio. I can't recall the name of any guy who sat at the school desks alongside me.

I always seemed a sort of a peewee. My classmates all were husky, bigger boys. They left me alone. I never played games and can't remember even having a baseball bat in my hands.

I guess I was too small to play football or perhaps they never asked me, and as I know people are leery of beleving what I say, I don't think I ever had any particular yearning for sports of any kind.

No Boyhood Fighting

I CAN'T remember even fighting anyone or even getting a socking myself. So you see my school days never meant much. They must have taught me to read and write and do sums, which I still can do.

Whatever knowledge of technical engineering I now possess was acquired after my school days, but my mind must have been trained to absorb the later knowledge.

From Texas I went to New York and finished off my scholastic training at New York Public School No. 69.

At 13 years of age, I then took a job delivering parcels. Aeronautics never entered my head. It wasn't until I went back to California—Los Angeles—that flying loomed in my life.

As previously related, I was working in constructional work, driving trucks, doing any odd jobs.

So my school days were right behind me and I had no school boy friends in my life.

I didn't read much—perhaps didn't think much—until when I was 17 years old I saw my first airplane shoot into the sky.

First Sight of Planes

FIGURING that out, I must have seen planes in the clouds before but they never made any impression on me.

So far as this record goes, I saw my first plane in Los Angeles in 1925. From that point on my whole outlook was changed.

Building homes for people sounds grand, and there's money in it, but even then as now I was never interested in money.

I felt air machines fulfilled my destiny. From then on my life, my energies and my career were devoted to air.

I scraped enough money together to spend my half-day off in instructional flying. I read no fiction but devoted myself to stories about airmen—not their romantic flights but their technique. I read the life of the Wrights and about European flyers.

I had no ambitions toward athletics. Baseball was something to read about but not to play. Games like football and golf I couldn't afford. Lawn tennis interested me but I never was any good playing in those days. My 17-year-old mind and ambition centered on being a flyer.

Job at Flying Field

ALTHOUGH I was losing money, I quit the building trade and took a job as handyman with the Ryan air manufacturers, and worked both at the bench and on the flying field.

I certainly started at the lowest rung of the ladder, but I have ever been most grateful for that experience.

From 1925 I traveled throughout the United States working on airplanes as a tester and mechanic.

Then in St. Louis I met Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in 1927. I was hired as a mechanic, and with him I tested his engine, overhauled it.

Even in those days Lindbergh was silent and uncommunicative, but his flying record indelibly impressed me while I was working with him and testing his plane.

I soon realized he was one of the most conscientious mechanics; he knew every nut and screw in his machine.

When he hopped off from New York I was convinced his machine was capable of doing the mileage. My only doubt was whether a man could stand the strain, keep awake and keep a true course.

Lindbergh kept awake and kept a true course and achieved that historic flight.

Just One of Gang

MY participation is small. I was just one of the gang helping out with the testing, but when Lindbergh made history with his lone flight, although I was not yet 21, I made a silent vow that I would follow his example. And I had to wait 11 years to fulfill that vow.

I have seen Lindbergh thrice since then, but he scarcely remembered me.

We never were friends. Our arrangements were purely businesslike, and I am not critical of him. His flight impressed me tremendously and I retain that great respect for the first lone Atlantic flyer.

My vow included the reservation that if ever I did fly the Atlantic I would do it alone in the Lindbergh manner.

Lindbergh Principle

MY preparations on all my long-distance flights have been based on the Lindbergh principle—"satisfy yourself." You are trusting your life to that machine; your life depends on its stability, its functions, and as a practical man I've always satisfied myself as to my engine's capabilities.

Lindbergh always carried out those rules—so have I.

They wouldn't let me fly my machine back, even had I wanted to.

I know the machine could stand the task and I believe I could, too, but I must obey Washington.

I am content, and that's why I personally had to see to its dismantling prior to its homeward trip.

That machine means much to me. I guess maybe I'm sentimental. That's why I personally supervised its dismemberment.

JENNINGS-WEST WALNUT MANOR SEWER BOND ELECTION TUESDAY

Voters to Pass on Proposed $162,000 Issue; Federal Grants of $328,000 in Program.

A special election on a $162,000 bond issue will be held Tuesday in the Jennings-West Walnut Manor Sewer District, St. Louis County. The polls will be open from 6 a. m. to 7 p. m.

The district proposes to seek Federal grants of $328,000, to make a total fund of $490,000, for a storm and foul water sewer system to serve a territory of about 1000 acres. Registered voters of the district may cast ballots. A two-thirds majority will be required for passage of the bond issue.

The district is bounded, roughly, by the city limits on the east, Lucas and Hunt road on the west, Hord and Summit avenues on the north and Melrose avenue on the south. Adjoining it on the south is the Melrose Sewer District.

MISSING DATA DELAYS ILLINOIS ROAD INQUIRY

Two Officials Answer U. S. Subpenas, Fail to Produce Desired Records.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 23.—Assistant U. S. District Attorney Warren Canaday postponed today an investigation of possible collusive bidding on more than a score of Cook County highway projects, declaring State officials had produced the wrong records.

In response to grand jury subpenas, Charles P. Casey, Assistant Director of Public Works and Buildings, and M. J. Fleming, Assistant Highway Engineer, appeared at the Prosecutor' soffice with a sheaf of records. After a short conference, Canaday announced the records produced were "worthless to us" and said he directed the officials to return Wednesday with the requested data. The two advised him, Canaday said, the records might have been destroyed or discarded, but that they would search for them in Springfield.

Engineers' Estimates Sought.

The subpenas called for "the originals and all copies of engineers' estimates submitted to the State Department of Public Works and Buildings by the Cook County Highway Department" on the projects involved.

The Prosecutors' office is conducting a two-fold investigation of the affairs of the state highway department. For the last two weeks, U. S. District Attorney Michael L. Igoe has been investigating charges political workers were added to the highway payroll during the spring primary campaign. Igoe at that time lost the Democratic nomination for U. S. Senator to Congressman Scott W. Lucas, an adherent of Gov. Horner.

State Got Federal Funds.

Canaday said today there was no connection between the two investigations, but that grand jury action would be recommended in either case "if the facts warrant." The Prosecutors' office has authority to press the investigations, Canaday said, because Federal funds helped finance some of the projects.

The investigation of the Cook County projects followed the rejection of original bids, which Canaday said were about $400,000 under an earlier estimate of cost made by Ernest Lieberman, chief highway engineer. A second set of bids, he added, were $400,000 below the original, or $800,000 below Lieberman's estimate.

The subpenas originally named Lieberman and F. Lynden Smith, director of public works. Both were vacationing in Wisconsin, however, so their assistants were called.

EASTERN RAIL FARES UP 25 PCT. TONIGHT

Coach Rate to Be 2.5 Cents a Mile—Pullman Charge Still 3 Cents.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Eastern passenger coach fares go up 25 per cent at midnight tomorrow night.

The carriers have estimated that the half-cent-a-mile increase, making a new rate of 2.5 cents a mile, will bring them $45,000,000 more revenue in an 18-month trial period.

In authorizing the increase, the Interstate Commerce Commission said, "there can be no doubt that the applicants are in serious need of additional revenue."

One of the Interstate Commerce Commissioners, Claude R. Porter, refused to join other members in voting for the 2.5 cent fare.

"There are some people who wonder why the railroads are traveling the highway to oblivion," Porter said. "To any such this case should be enlightening. No other industry in the throes of a depression and in the face of vigorous competition seeks to raise the price of what it sells to the public."

The basic Pullman fare will remain unchanged at 3 cents a mile.

The Eastern territory in which the increased coach fare applies is bounded on the west by Lake Michigan, Chicago, Peoria and Springfield, Ill., St. Louis, and Cairo, Ill. From Cairo the southern boundary follows the Ohio River to Huntington, W. Va., then runs eastward to include the Norfolk (Va.) area.

The I. C. C. issued an order today making one-way and round-trip coach tickets sold prior to July 25 good for passage until the regular expiration date, provided that date is prior to Feb. 25, 1939.

MAN AND WIFE CHARGED WITH SELLING NARCOTICS

U. S. Agents Get Federal Warrant Against Pair Accused of Several Violations.

Clarence J. Jertberg, 35 years old, a stereotyper, and his wife, Lillian, 50, were charged with violation of the Harrison anti-narcotic act yesterday in a warrant issued by United States Commissioner John A. Burke.

They were arrested Friday night in an alley at the rear of their home, 3807 Westminster place, after a narcotic agent reported he had paid them $24 for 53 grains of morphine. Narcotic inspectors and city detectives who made the arrest said marked currency given to Jertberg in payment for the narcotic was thrown away by him when he was arrested, but was recovered.

Agents said they had purchased narcotics five times from Mrs. Jertberg and four times from her and her husband jointly in the last three weeks. Jertberg was employed by the Star-Times.

SENATE TO INQUIRE INTO INTIMIDATION OF RELIEF VOTERS

GEORGIA OFFICIAL'S RESIGNATION STUDIED

Statement by Harry Hopkins That W P A Workers Favor Roosevelt Also Up for Consideration.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Chairman Sheppard (Dem.), Texas, telegraphed members of his Senate campaign investigating committee to return to Washington today after he had received a complaint from Gov. William Langer of North Dakota that relief workers in his state had been intimidated politically.

Sheppard told reporters the committee would assemble and consider "not later than Wednesday or Thursday" three subjects:

1. The charges made by Langer.
2. A complaint by Senator George (Dem.), Georgia, that a Federal official had been discharged in Georgia, "probably" for supporting him.
3. The statement of W P A Administrator Harry Hopkins that 90 per cent of relief workers favored the Roosevelt administration.

In response to a questionnaire sent out by the Senate committee, Langer wrote that he had received reports of W P A workers "being intimidated" and also that there had been "wrongful use of the Senate franking privilege," which allows the free mailing of matter that pertains to official business.

Prior South Dakota Complaint.

Gov. Langer was defeated for the Republican senatorial nomination in his state recently by Senator Gerald P. Nye.

Langer's complaint was the second received from North Dakota. Senator Nye asekd the committee previously to investigate what he said were excessive absentee ballots in the primary election of June 28.

The committee, after hearing its investigator report on the Nye complaint, announced that "while there was evidence to indicate minor violations of State law, no evidence was obtained by the committee's investigator to show that the use of Federal funds or Federal patronage had any effect on the outcome of the primary election."

Senator George, who has opposed some Roosevelt measures and now is running for renomination, has complained that Erle Cocke was dismissed as Georgia director for the National Emergency Council "probably for the sole reason that he proposes to vote for me." Lowell Mellett, national N E C director, commented that Erle had resigned from the non-salaried post voluntarily, to become an executive in a Georgia bank. Hopkins told reporters this week that 90 per cent of the 3,000,000 persons on W P A payrolls favored the administration. Chairman John Hamilton of the National Republican Committee contended the remark was intended to suggest a third term for the President.

Members Are Away.

Sheppard was the only member of the Senate investigating committee in Washington today. Other members are Senators White (Rep.), Maine, Walsh (Dem.), Massachusetts, Harrison (Dem.), Mississippi, and O'Mahoney (Dem.), Wyoming.

O'Mahoney left for Wyoming recently and did not expect to return until late in August.

Gov. Langer reported to the Senate Campaign Expenditures Committee today expenditures of $930 and contributions of $250 in his unsuccessful race for the Republican senatorial nomination against Senator Gerald P. Nye.

Senator Elbert D. Thomas, seeking renomination in the Utah Democratic primary Sept. 13, reported expenditures of $151 and contributions of $1915.

William O. Cromwell of Enid, unsuccessful candidate for the Republican senatorial nomination in the Oklahoma primary July 12 reported no contributions and an expenditure of 6 cents for "two postage stamps."

Senator Thomas of Utah informed the Senate committee that four Salt Lake City friends had formed a campaign committee to assist him in seeking renomination. The Thomas supporters were identified as Dr. H. L. Marshall, Morris S. Rosenblatt, Willis W. Ritter and E. Leroy Bourne, all of Salt Lake City.

SEIZED ON ALIMONY CHARGE

O'Fallon (Ill.) Man $645 in Arrears, Ex-Wife Says.

Robert Harmon, a mail carrier of O'Fallon, Ill., was arrested yesterday on an attachment obtained by his divorced wife, who alleges he is $645 in arrears in payments of alimony at the rate of $50 a month.

Harmon, 36 years old, was placed in jail in Belleville. Provisional Circuit Judge L. Potter Harriss ordered a hearing next Friday.

BERNIE SHELTON ARRESTED ON ARMS-CARRYING CHARGE

Officers Report Finding Loaded Revolver in Compartment of His Auto.

Bernie Shelton, East Side gangster, was charged with carrying loaded firearms in a motor car in a felony warrant issued at Edwardsville yesterday by Justice of the Peace Joseph Walter. Punishment on conviction is one to 10 years in the penitentiary.

Shelton, who said he lived at the Broadview Hotel in East St. Louis, was arrested early yesterday on the outskirts of Nameoki following a camplaint that he had been loitering near the Octopus Club, a roadhouse.

Officers reported finding a loaded .45-caliber pistol in a compartment of his automobile. He was released on $2500 bond.

PEARL WHITE, HEROINE OF MOVIE SERIALS, ILL

Star of Silent Melodramas in "Alarming" Condition in Hospital in Paris.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 23.—Pearl White, heroine of a thousand breath-taking adventures in the blood-curdling mystery serials of the silent movie days, was reported to be in grave condition tonight at the American Hospital, where she is being treated for a liver ailment. She is 49 years old.

Attendants said her condition was "alarming," and that she showed increasing signs of weakness and fatigue after taking a turn for the worse during the night.

Daring stunts were required of Miss White in her thrillers. They affected her health. Her eyes suffered from the lights used in the studios of those days. She recovered her health in France, but the type of films in which she starred had vanished. Her last public appearance was on a London stage in 1925.

For several years she was seen much in the gay international set at Paris and Deauville, but in recent years she lived quietly either at her town house in Paris or her chateau at Gazeran, near Rambouillet.

Her chief interest after retirement has been her racing stable. She traveled extensively, usually spending her winters in Egypt.

TWO CATCH PURSE SNATCHER WHO SAYS HE'S LOST JOB

$7.20 in Purse Taken From Woman Recovered by Two Passersby After Two-Block Chase.

A man who snatched a purse from a woman in front of 1460 Hodiamont avenue last evening was captured by two passersby after a two-block chase on foot.

The prisoner told police he was Albert Boraz, an unemployed laborer, 5907A Etzel avenue, and said he had taken the purse because he had been out of work for six weeks and needed money to support his family. His captors were Frank Noland, 5878 Clemens avenue, and Earl Gillman, 6110A Ella avenue.

Snatching the purse, which contained $7.20, from Mrs. Lilly Willingham, 5640 St. Louis avenue, as she was walking south on Hodiamont avenue, Boraz ran into an alley. The two men caught him at the rear of 5920 Easton avenue and recovered a small purse and the money. He led police to the place in the alley where he had thrown the larger purse.

CANDIDATES' RECORDS FOR PROBATE JUDGE

Arnold, Atkinson Seek Democratic Nomination—Luedde, Republican, Unopposed.

The contest for the Democratic nomination for Probate Judge, in which the candidates are Glendy B. Arnold, incumbent, and Chilton Atkinson, is the only contest for judicial office apart from the Circuit Court races.

Judge Arnold is running on his record. The Probate Judge is paid $8000 annual salary, plus varying fees of several thousand dollars.

Both Democratic candidates are lawyers. In the preferential poll of the Bar Association of St. Louis, Judge Arnold was indorsed for renomination. In the canvass of St. Louis lawyers by the Lawyers' Association of the Eighth Judicial Circuit for an expression on fitness of candidates, a majority of votes was cast for Judge Arnold, Atkinson and the unopposed Republican candidate for this office, Edwin C. Luedde, lawyer.

Judge Arnold has been in charge of Probate Court since Jan. 2, 1935. In 1913-14 he was an Assistant Circuit Attorney under Thomas B. Harvey. Gov. Major appointed him to a term of almost two years in a new place as Circuit Judge in 1915-16. From May, 1918, to February, 1921, he was chairman of the Election Board by appointment of Gov. Gardner. Last June 6 Mayor Dickmann appointed him to a non-salaried position as a member of the Public Library Board. Running for Circuit Judge in 1914, he led the unsuccessful Democratic judicial ticket. In 1916 he was a candidate for Supreme Court Judge.

Extra Safeguards for Estates.

Upon taking charge of Probate Court, Judge Arnold put several rules in effect, under the statutes, to provide additional safeguards for estates under his supervision, which aggregate about $75,000,000. He said recently that there had been complaints that it was "too tough to get money out of the court," but he relished that sort of criticism.

One of his reforms was the provision of an auditing committee to examine final settlements of estates and check on investments made by guardians, to make sure that only authorized expenditures are allowed and to stop losses from non-legal investments of guardians. He also employed a field agent to see that appropriations for support and maintenance of the Court's wards were spent economically and honestly.

Among the rules were provisions to check disbursements of administrators and guardians and to limit attorneys' fees to reasonable size. With the increase in assets of estates under charge of Walter F. Sheehan, then Public Administrator, Judge Arnold increased Sheehan's surety bond from $100,000 to $300,000. He also stopped the Public Administrator's practice of pro rating the premium for his surety bonds to the estates in his care. The Judge required the Public Administrator to pay this out of his fees.

Several weeks ago Judge Arnold indicated in a ruling that he would disallow claims for fees totaling about $100,000 against the $500,000 estate of the late Hugh W. Thomasson, aged eccentric real estate owner. In 1935 he appeared before a committee of the Legislature to express vigorous opposition to a set of unsuccessful bills which would have greatly increased the fees of Public Administrators and their attorneys.

Part in Disbarment Cases.

Judge Arnold and former Circuit Judge J. Wesley McAfee were the representatives of the St. Louis and Missouri Bar Associations in the proceedings in which Paul Richards was disbarred by the Supreme Court of Missouri for his part in the Alexander Berg kidnaping case. Judge Arnold also prosecuted the proceeding against Hi Summer, who was disbarred by the St. Louis Court of Appeals.

Formerly Judge Arnold was counsel for the Chamber of Commerce in various civic matters. He handled legal phases of the civic movement more than a decade ago for the involved proposal to exchange uses of Eads and Municipal bridges. He has been active in Democratic politics since he began practicing law here in 1901.

Born at Frankfort, Ky., he was educated at a military institute and at Washington University law school. He is married, 63 years old and resides at 5515 Cabanne avenue.

Atkinson's Career.

Atkinson was the Democratic nominee for Probate Judge in 1918, 1922 and 1926 and was defeated for the same nomination in 1934, running behind Judge Arnold and another candidate. In 1936 he ran for a nomination for Circuit Judge. For almost three years he has been an alternate on the Permanent Condemnation Commission by appointment of the Circuit Court in general term.

He favors: Simplification of probate procedure; "giving other officials an opportunity to function"; reducing costs of the court, which, he asserts, are above normal. Recently he sent form letters to all physicians and undertakers listed in the telephone directory as city residents, requesting their support in his campaign. He promised, in the letters, that, if elected, he would give fair and sympathetic consideration to claims for compensation presented by physicians and undertakers against estates of deceased persons. He mentioned to the doctors that his father was a physician.

Atkinson was born in St. Louis and educated at the old Manual Training School and Smith Academy and at Washington University law school. He has practiced law here since 1895. For several years he served in the militia, and in the Spanish-American War he organized a volunteer company, but he was not called into service. In the World War he was a Government draft appeal attorney. His law office is at 408 Olive street. He is 62, single and resides at 3000 Lafayette avenue.

Other Candidates Unopposed.

There are no contests for the Democratic and Republican nominations for the one place to be filled as Judge of Court of Criminal Correction. The candidates are James W. Griffin, Democratic incumbent, and Joseph B. Catanzaro. Both received majority votes in the poll of the Lawyers' Association.

Candidates for Prosecuting Attorney also are unopposed. They are James P. Finnegan, Democratic incumbent, and Robert David Evans, Republican. They likewise received majority votes in the Lawyers' Association poll.

Luedde, Catanzaro and Evans are on the official slate of the Republican City Committee.

OSEVELT'S SHIP NEARING EQUATOR

n Pacific, He Exchanges Wireless Farewells With Swedish Prince in Atlantic.

By the Associated Press.

ABOARD CRUISER HOUSTON, En Route to Galapagos Islands, July 23.—President Roosevelt today exchanged wireless felicitations with Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf of Sweden as the Houston approached the Equator on its move to a new fishing area for the Chief Executive.

Gustaf Adolf, homeward-bound aboard a ship in the Atlantic after concluding a visit to the United States, sent a message of thanks to the President, and Mr. Roosevelt answered it immediately.

"At the moment of leaving the hospitable shore of the United States," said Gustaf Adolf's message, "I take the opportunity once more to express to you, Mr. President, my deep-felt gratitude for this cordial reception which has been accorded to me, the Crown Princess and my son.

"Quite particularly I want to thank you and Mrs. Roosevelt for the extreme kindness you personally have shown us. I shall never forget your courteous visit to me when I was still confined to bed. And my wife will always cherish the memory of the visit to your charming home."

Roosevelt's Reply.

President Roosevelt replied:

"From my ship in the Pacific to your ship in the Atlantic, I send to you, the Crown Princess and Prince Bertil, my most cordial wishes for a safe voyage home and my most sincere thanks for your visit.

"Please convey to your distinguished father my warm personal regards."

Numerous messages were exchanged between the President and Washington Government officials during the day.

Holiday routine for all hands aboard the Houston and the accompanying destroyer McDougal was declared at 1 p. m. ship's time, when the cruiser was only a few miles north of the equator, and the crossing-line watch was set for Davy Jones and Neptune.

The watch was ordered continued until Sunday evening and uniforms were prescribed for members of the detail, which included "Pollywog" members of the Presidential party and officer "Pollywogs." A pollywog is a voyager who has not crossed the equator. Those who have crossed are classed as "shellbacks."

As senior shellback, President Roosevelt ordered the watches stood in a military manner in the places designated—the top of turret No. 2 and in the "eyes of the ship."

Presidential party pollywogs on the watch wore flying helmets, goggles, fur-lined flying suits and Sam Browne belts. Officer pollywogs went on duty wearing overcoats with upturned collars (in the heat of tropical summer), side-arms, binoculars and enormous diving shoes especially designed for the occasion.

Presidential secretary Stephen S. Early was designated chief of the pollywogs.

Strange and ominous-looking objects began to appear on deck, including scaffolds, an electric chair, coffins, operating tables and stocks such as the Pilgrim fathers never knew. They will be used on the pollywogs Monday.

The Houston's immediate destination, the Galapagos Islands, is noted not only as a naturalist's paradise but also as the locale of a weird and tragic mystery.

Four years ago the bodies of two men from the Galapagos Island "empire" of the eccentric German Baroness Eloise de Wagner were found on another island of the group. The men had died of thirst and starvation.

The "empress" and a male companion subsequently were found to have disappeared from the island upon which they and a few other voluntary exiles from Europe had settled.

RETIRED HEAD OF THE FAIR, CHICAGO STORE, DIES ABROAD

D. F. Kelly Who Began as Cash Boy, Succumbs to Pneumonia on European Tour.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 23. — Word was received here that D. F. Kelly, 70-year-old former president of The Fair Store, died today in a hospital at Bergen, Norway.

He was stricken Sunday at Bergen, a stop on the European tour he and his wife were taking. Death resulted from pneumonia.

Kelly, a native of Chicago, began his career in 1879 as a cash boy and rose to the position he relinquished last April.

Besides his widow, he is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Charles Vogal of Milwaukee. The body will be shipped to Chicago for burial.

TOKIO VICE SQUADS RAID 'FLAMING YOUTH'

College Boys Charged With Lack of Realization of War Emergency.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

TOKIO. — Police are working overtime these days pouring water on Japan's flaming youth.

Collegiate morals are the particular problem. In the last few weeks vice squads have raided whole districts of Tokio, hauling out the college boys. The police found them in bars, tearooms, ma-jong parlors and pool halls. The reports alleged the students were in various stages of undress and insobriety.

The specific charge was "lack of realization of the current emergency." That means the war against China.

No Time for Roistering.

Normally, the Japanese policeman is an amiable, easy-going individual, closely watching for foreign spies, but inclined to wink at all ordinary human peccadillos. This, however, is the wrong time for roistering in Japan. The Government is furiously pressing campaigns to induce the people to be thrifty, sober and seriously concerned with the nation's war-induced problems.

Japanese universities are not coeducational. The college boy doesn't have a girl. There are no college dances, and when he goes to a football game, to the movies, or for a walk in the park, it is without a feminine hand on his arm.

On the other hand, there are many opportunities for promiscuous liaisons. There are thousands of bars and tearooms in Tokio. Each has anywhere from three to 53 pretty waitresses. The waitress sits with the customer while he sips his drink. Her job is to be as companionable as possible, so that he will stay long and drink much. Meanwhile, a phonograph, hooked to a loud speaker, pours out the latest things from Hollywood and Tin Pan Alley.

"Tomorrow-We-Die" Spirit.

While this situation has been in existence for some time, police report a marked increase in the number of student customers recently. The college boys do not deny it.

There is a "tomorrow-we-die" strain running through their explanation.

"This war may last long enough to get me in," a Waseda University student said. "I'm not afraid to go. I'm patriotic. But suppose I don't come back? When you look at it that way, is it so wrong to have a little fun now?"

TYDINGS DEFENDS RECORD AS NEW DEAL SUPPORTER

Lists Bills He Voted for; Explains His Stand on Supreme Court and Reorganization.

By the Associated Press.

BEL AIR, Md., July 23.—Nearly 4000 persons, braving a downpour of rain, heard Senator Millard E. Tydings, candidate for renomination, declare in a speech here today that he had supported the "bone and sinew" of the New Deal program and that charges he was against Roosevelt were "silly propaganda."

Tydigns listed 20 New Deal measures, said he had voted for each, and added:

"I think this pretty well explodes the silly propaganda which is being circularized against the truth and the record."

In opposing the Supreme Court bill, the reorganization bill and the confirmation of Supreme Court Justice Hugo Black, the Senator said, he did not approve of the "methods" proposed in the first two instances, and felt that, so far as Justice Black was concerned, "justices on the Supreme Bench should be men who are absolutely free from group, racial and religious prejudices."

QUICKLY-RISING RIVER FLOODS MENARD, TEX.

Continuing Rains Increase Danger to Other Towns, Some Already Under Water.

By the Associated Press.

SAN SABA, Tex., July 23.—San Saba River flood-waters rose 10 feet in two hours tonight at Menard, near here, running four feet deep down the main business street and marooning residents in trees and on rooftops.

Continuing rain caused the river to rise rapidly and increased the danger from flooding streams over an area 100 miles long and 50 miles wide in southwest Texas. At Menard, 18 inches of rain has fallen since Tuesday.

M. H. Leverett, manager of the Southwestern State Telephone Co. branch at Menard, reported over the only communication line into the town of 3000 residents:

"Our town looks like a river. It's still raining, and the water is rising fast.

"I can see folks now trying to wade in water on the main street. They can't do it—the water is too swift. The gas and water lines have been cut off, but our lights are still burning.

"This telephone line stretches across the river, and I can see fence poles and trees smashing into it now.

"Merchants have boarded all the stores, but the water is seeping in. I don't know what we will do about drinking water—no one has had time to think about a drink for the last two hours."

Meanwhile, the river had stopped rising at Brady, where 300 persons were homeless and the water was lapping over the town square. It was reported by telephone tonight that "the water is only two or three feet from awnings on business houses." The town of 5000 was without lights. Residents were marooned on rooftops and in trees.

The water remained at 39-foot level in San Saba.

This town was isolated as the last highway was made impassable by waters from the San Saba. Between 400 and 500 were homeless. Only two lives, so far, were reported lost, but efforts were being made to rescue several families marooned in tree tops at Pecan Grove, eight miles east of here. Fourteen Mexicans, marooned on a barn top, were rescued by boats. The north side residential section of San Saba was inundated, and it was estimated 30 homes had been washed away.

C I O SAYS FORD CO. SHOULD REINSTATE 278 WITH PAY

Ten File Exception to Examiner's Report on This Point; Approves Other Sections.

Exceptions contending that all of the 278 men listed in the National Labor Relations Board complaint against the Ford Motor Co. should have been ordered reinstated with back pay by the trial examiner will be filed with the Labor Board at Washington by the C I O United Automobile Workers' Union.

The exceptions will be to the intermediate report of Trial Examiner Tilford E. Dudley, whose recommendations were that 96 men, including leaders of the local union, be reinstated with back pay and that the others be taken back with less severe penalty to the company. John L. Sullivan, union attorney, explained: "It is our position that practically all the men listed in the complaint were discriminated against and all should be re-employed with back pay." Sullivan said the union approvad all other sections of Dudley's report.

PARTY FOR GEN. CLAYPOOL CELEBRATES 92ND BIRTHDAY

National Commander of United Confederate Veterans Honored at Garden Event in Kirkwood.

A garden party, celebrating the ninety-second birthday of Gen. John M. Claypool, National Commander of the United Confederate Veterans, was held last night at the home of Mrs. Howard W. Crosby, 309 West Washington avenue, Kirkwood.

The celebration was sponsored by the Sterling Price Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy. State officers and members of other U. D. C. chapters in the city, and members of the United Sons of Confederacy, attended.

Gen. Claypool, a Tennessee veteran of the Confederacy and a retired pastor of the Disciples' Church, lives at the Christian Old Peoples' Home, 6600 Washington avenue.

YALE NAMED IN WILL OF EDWARD HIDDEN

It and Western College for Women to Be Ultimate Beneficiaries of Estate.

The will of Edward Hidden, filed yesterday in Probate Court, names Yale University and Western College for Women at Oxford, O., as ultimate beneficiaries of his estate, the value of which is not estimated.

The will establishes a $60,000 trust fund for Hidden's sister, Mrs. Fannie S. Emerson of Cincinnati, and makes specific bequests totaling $26,900. The residue of the estate, and the principal of the trust, after the death of Mrs. Emerson, are to be divided between the two schools, one-fourth going to Yale and three-fourths to Western College.

Hidden, a bachelor, died July 15. He was graduated from Yale in 1885. A sister now dead, Mrs. Harriet N. Alexander, was a graduate of Western College. The specific bequests include $5000 to each school.

To several relatives and friends the will leaves $7900. Other specific bequests are $3000 to the Girls' Home, 5501 Enright avenue; $2000 to St. John's M. E. Church, and $3000 to the Madisonville (O.) M. E. Church.

TWO CONVICTED AS CONFIDENCE MEN IN $9000 GAME OF POOL

Man Who Lost Playing One of Them at Kelly Says a Third Stole the Money.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 23.—George Murphy, 36 years old, of Boston, who won $9000 in a game of Kelly pool last April 12, and John Maloney, 43, of Detroit, who was an interested spectator, were convicted today of operating a confidence game.

The chief witness against them in Criminal Court was Robert Denton, 58, a railroad electrician, who testified that it wasn't until after he had put up the $9000 and lost the game that he became suspicious.

Earl Morrell, whom he described as a friend of Murphy and Maloney, had disappeared with the stakes, he said. Morrell is still being sought. Judge Robert Jerome Dunne postponed sentencing Murphy and Maloney pending arguments Aug. 17 for a new trial.

GRAN CHACO TREATY HAILED BY ROOSEVELT

Paraguay and Argentina Congratulated for Evidence of Americas' Solidarity.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—President Roosevelt said in a message published today that peaceable settlement of the Gran Chaco conflict "offers concrete evidence of a very real and lasting inter-American solidarity."

Roosevelt congratulated the presidents of Paraguay and Argentina on the peace treaty between Bolivia and Paraguay. The messages were made public by the State Department.

"The signing of this most significant treaty is occasion for thanksgiving throughout the Western Hemisphere," Roosevelt told Roberto M. Ortiz, president of Argentina.

"This treaty offers concrete evidence of the existence of a very real and lasting inter-American solidarity and of the ever-increasing insistence on the part of public opinion in all of our nations that war be abolished from this hemisphere."

The message to President Ortiz praised Argentina's conciliation efforts.

In a message to Provisional President Felix Paiva, of Paraguay, Roosevelt said the "splendid achievement" would have been impossible without loyalty to the inter-American principle of Pacific settlement of international disputes.

Paiva said the agreement "definitely consecrates the high American principles of the good neighbor consistently sustained by your excellency."

Other messages were exchanged between Secretary Hull and the foreign ministers of Bolivia and Paraguay.

ELECTION CLERKS WHO FAILED TO SHOW UP GIVEN MORE TIME

Board Defers Action but Will Report Those Without Excuses to Circuit Attorney.

Action by the Election Board in the cases of 25 election clerks who failed to report Friday for a house-to-house canvass of the city was postponed by the board yesterday to give the clerks an opportunity to present excuses for their absence.

Acting Chairman Claxton E. Allen said names of clerks without legitimate excuses would be certified to the Circuit Attorney for action. Election officials failing to report for duty might be sent to the city jail or workhouse for one month to one year.

The canvass of the city's 783 precincts, made in connection with preparation of registration lists for the primary Aug. 2, was completed last night. At the Election Board office it was said the resuts would not be available until later.

CHILD HURT WHEN FATHER'S AUTO COLLIDES WITH ANOTHER

Girl, 2, Injured on Highway 99, Taken to City Hospital by a Bus Driver.

Gloria Jean Lippold, two years old, was seriously injured last night when an automobile driven by her father, Lester Lippold, 6320 Woodland avenue, collided with another car on State Highway 99, about two miles south of the Missouri River bridge.

The child, who suffered a skull injury and a fractured arm was taken to City Hospital with her father and the other driver, Lewis Henderson of Alton, by a bus driver. Lippold and Henderson were cut and bruised.

HOMER MARTIN BOARD TO TRY 4 TOMORROW

Charges Made in Internal Fight of C I O Auto Union to Come Up.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, July 23.—The bitter internal struggle stirred up by Homer Martin's purge of those opposing his automobile union leadership is moving toward a climax.

Martin, the ex-preacher, who two years ago led the first successful unionization of a large part of the hitherto open shop automobile industry, has been promised a fight to the finish by his opponents.

The fight well may have serious effect on the future of the C I O United Automobile Workers, if Martin's opponents, who claim tacit support from John L. Lewis, succeed in their announced intention to obtain a decision from the union's "rank and file."

In a move without precedent in American labor history, the Martin-controlled executive board of the UAW has summoned four international vice-presidents, suspended June 13, to trial Monday on charges preferred by Martin.

Charges Against Four.

Assertions, denied by the four, that they conspired with Communists to disrupt the union, will be prominent at the trial. Martin called them "stooges of the Communist party"; they retorted that this was a "smoke screen to divide, blind and confuse the workers."

The suspended officers said, "the members of our union will not be deceived. Theirs will be the final verdict."

Richard T. Frankensteen, Wyndham Mortimer, Ed Hall and Walter Wells—all early associates of Martin in building the young industrial union—expect to be read out of office and out of the union, as happened two weeks ago to Secretary-Treasurer George Addes. Like Addes, they contend such expulsion is illegal. They have made plans for an attempt to oust Martin from the presidency.

Potentialities of the struggle already have interfered with the C I O's political plans in Michigan. A State convention of Labor's Non-Partisan League, set for today, was postponed indefinitely.

Lewis, C I O chairman whose intervention was sought by the suspended U A W officers, has remained thus far on the sidelines, declining to confirm the statements of those who claim to represent his sentiments. Martin made it clear he would consider interference by Lewis a violation of the autonomy of the union.

Whether Lewis may yet get into the U A W fight, perhaps when and if the Martin opponents obtain a special convention, is speculative. A dual union movement in one of C I O's largest units would constitute a blow to progress of Lewis' industrial unionization program.

How Addes Was Ousted.

The trial and expulsion of Addes was accomplished by 13 members of the U A W's executive board, which once had 24 members and required presence of 17 to do business. Addes walked out of the trial when all requests of his attorney were refused.

Frankensteen and the others have not indicated what their course will be Monday, but they may stay through the trial session, in order not to weaken their position in a direct appeal to the U A W membership.

The four were accused generally of seeking to appropriate the authority of the president and executive board, of carrying on a program of "vilification and abuse" against the union, and of diverting funds from the international body.

When the officers were suspended, they urged sympathetic local unions to continue sending monthly per capita taxes to Addes. Later as the plans for seeking a special convention proceeded, the suspended group turned over the funds that had been held in trust, and requested all locals to send their taxes to the new secretary-treasurer appointed by Martin.

This move was taken to prevent Martin allies from disqualifying, on the ground that a local union was not in good standing, petitions that the local might send in seeking a special convention.

Martin Aid Orders Ouster of Officers of Milwaukee Local.

By the Associated Press.

MILWAUKEE, July 23.—A lieutenant of Homer Martin, international president of the United Automobile Workers Union of America (C I O), ordered today the ouster of all the officers and executive board members of the Allis-Chalmers local, which has been in conflict with the union leader.

The order was issued by George Kiebler, district U A W president, who last Saturday visited the Allis-Chalmers local's office in suburban West Allis and seized records and funds. Martin had named him administrator of the local after a dispute which followed the ousting from the international body by Martin of five high-ranking officials.

Ed Hall, one of the international officers suspended by Martin, charged today that the international president had permitted New York Communists to dictate the union's policies.

Nedayr, win $31.60, place $12, show $7.40. Bull Lea, place $9.80, show $6. Cravat, show $4.40.

Nedayr, steadied when outrun, began to improve his position after reaching the final half mile, was placed under strong pressure in the last quarter and holding on with determination wore down Bull Lea in the last sixteenth. Bull Lea forced the pace under snug restraint for about seven eighths, drew into command gradually and held on with good courage but was not good enough. Cravat, badly outrun early and racing wide, was slow to respond to urging but rallied strongly in the final five sixteenths and finished badly. Stagehand, also far back in the early racing, saved much ground, was under strong riding after three quarters and closed a gap in the stretch. Menow, always on the inside, was under energetic riding after about three quarters and weakened badly in the final quarter. The Chief was through after three quarters. Fairflax showed a flash of early speed.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 23.—Nedayr, a 14-to-1 shot in the betting, tossed the three-year-old championship of the American turf into a tangled mess today by racing to a surprise victory in the $30,000 added Arlington Classic.

The little brown colt, owned by Willis Sharpe Kilmer, Binghamton, N. Y., publisher, won by a length victory over Bull Lea, entry of Warren Wright, of Chicago. Townsend B. Martin's Cravat was third. Stagehand, conqueror of Seabiscuit in the rich Santa Anita Handicap, and Menow, which defeated War Admiral in the $50,000 Massachusetts handicap, were not in the money, although they went to the post heavily played favorites. Stagehand landed fourth, with Menow fifth.

Back to 1937 Form.

It was Nedayr's first stake victory of the year and indicated the son of Neddie-Sunayr was back in the form that stamped him as one of the nation's leading routers of the juvenile division last fall.

Nedayr will ill last spring, so Owner Kilmer did not start him in the Kentucky Derby. A recurrence of the same illness kept him out of the Preakness stakes a week later.

Nedayr ran over a slow and drying out track, covering the mile and a quarter in 2:06 1-5. Jockey Wayne Wright was astride the Kilmer colt and gave him a well-judged and confident ride to take the winner's share of $27,500 of the purse, which grossed $35,025.

The cheering crowd of 35,000 overlooked Nedayr in the betting and he was fifth choice as the field of eight went to the post. Nedayr paid $31.60 to win, $12.00 to place and $7.40 to show. Bull Lea paid $9.80 to place and $6.00 to show. Cravat returned $4.40.

Menow took the lead at the start, but was soon headed by Bull Lea. The Chief was running well up and Nedayr was in the middle of the pack. Stagehand and Cravat broke slowly as usual and raced well back of the others.

At the first turn, Jockey Nick Wall astride Menow, took his mount to the front and opened up a length and a half lead. Bull Lea was second and The Chief still third as they went past the three quarter mark. By this time Cravat and Stagehand, the latter on the rail, began to pass tiring horses.

At the mile, Menow gave up the pace-setting and Bull Lea took the lead. The Chief tired badly and dropped back, as Wright drove Nedayr up into third place.

Takes Lead Near the Finish.

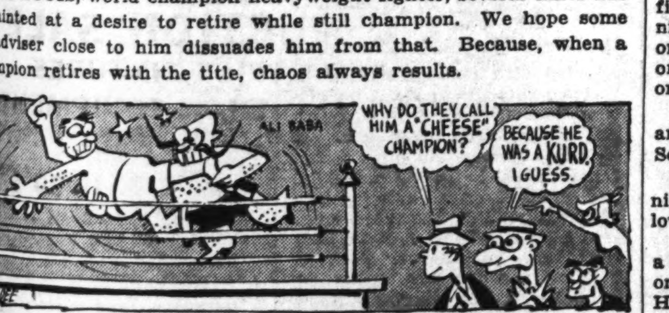
They turned for home with Bull Lea in front by a length, but Nedayr was second. Nedayr charged to the front 100 yards from home, and as he flashed under the wire ahead of Bull Lea. Cravat, still gaining after circling his field, took third, another length and a quarter back of Bull Lea and three lengths in front of Stagehand.

Menow finished fifth, with The Chief, Blind Eagle and Fairflax completing the field in that order. A gold replica of the coronation cup was presented to Nedayr's trainer, W. A. Crawford. Owner Kilmer was not present to see his colt score his greatest victory.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Don't Do It, Joe!

JOE LOUIS, world champion heavyweight fighter, several times has hinted at a desire to retire while still champion. We hope some adviser close to him dissuades him from that. Because, when a champion retires with the title, chaos always results.



ALI BABA
WHY DO THEY CALL HIM A "CHEESE" CHAMPION?
BECAUSE HE WAS A KURD, I GUESS.
ANDREE

Two men have quit the ring while champion and both times the world was left without a peg to hang the title on. An era of so-called "cheese champions" followed both retirements. That, of course, was to be expected because the reason was lack of opposition.

James J. Jeffries, in 1902, and Gene Tunney, in 1929, retired while still on top of the world. Note what happened.

"Cheese champions" and white hopes held sway until 1910, when Jeffries had to come back to the ring after eight years of idleness to face the only fighter worth while on the horizon—Negro Jack Johnson.

After Tunney another long line of gorgonzola titlists followed and this time it was eight more years until a fighter of merit came along, Joe Louis.

Should Louis retire soon the heavyweight field would again be made up of mediocrity and perhaps still another eight years would be needed to produce a real champion.

About Cheese Champions.

IT WAS THE RETIREMENT of Jeffries that first brought forth the term "cheese champion." After knocking out Fitzsimmons, Corbett and Jack Munroe, in 1902, Jeff decided there weren't any foes worth fighting.

So he retired and went into the cafe and ranch businesses. He had no intention of battling again and when he was offered $1000 to referee the fight at Reno, in 1905, between Marvin Hart and Jack Root and pass his cob-webbed crown along to the victor he consented.

The pair didn't amount to much. Root was little more than a light-heavyweight; Hart was 29 years old. He had been a promising guy and had started off his career with 14 straight knockouts.

In fact, he'd gained a decision over Jack Johnson in 20 rounds just before he fought Root—but it was a "white man's verdict," according to accounts of that day.

STAGEHAND IN THE WINGS—Nedayr First in the "Classic"

—Associated Press Wirephoto.

The crowd of 35,000 at Arlington Park, Chicago, yesterday made the Sande-trained pair, Stagehand and The Chief, favorite at 6 to 5 to win the $30,000 Classic. The picture of the finish shows Nedayr, 14 to 1 in the betting, first, Bull Lea second, Cravat third and Stagehand, far down the track, fourth.

DEAN WINS NO. 5 AS CUBS BEAT GIANTS TWICE

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 23.—Dizzy Dean is back to stay. The "Great One," who started his comeback with a four-hitter against the Boston Bees last Sunday, made it stick with a five-hit victory performance against the Giants today as the Cubs swept a doubleheader from the New Yorkers.

A season record crowd for Wrigley Field, 43,223, turned out to see the $185,000 right arm of Old Diz toss a 3 to 1 victory in the nightcap of the twin bill, after Bill Lee had chalked up his twelfth victory of the year with a 7 to 4 decision in the opener.

In addition to Dean's classy flinging and the twin bill triumph, which dropped the Giants two and one-half games behind the National League leading Pittsburgh Pirates, the crowd sat in on an added attraction when the rival shortstops, Dick Bartell and Billy Jurges, tangled in a fist fight in the fourth inning of the nightcap, for which both were banished from the game.

Diz ran into little trouble in turning in the fifth victory of his so-far undefeated season. He fanned five, and, except for the second inning, when the Giants scored their only run on a walk, a hit and a fly, only one runner got as far as second base.

His mates backed him up with an eight-hit timely attack off Hal Schumacher.

Dean now has hurled 43 2-3 innings for the Cubs this season, allowed seven runs and 31 hits.

In the opener, the Cubs exploded a six-run bombardment in the second frame, drove their 1937 jinx, Harry Gumbert, to the showers, and coasted in with the victory.

SABIN AND GUERNSEY REACH FINAL OF EASTERN DOUBLES

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 23.—Wayne Sabin of Portland, Ore., and Frank Guernsey Jr. of Orlando, Fla., the top-seeded duo, tonight advanced to the doubles final of the Eastern clay court tennis championships by defeating the Los Angeles pair, Bradley Kendis and Julius Heldman, 6-8, 8-2, 6-3, 7-5, on the indoor courts of the Island Curb at Jackson Heights.

The semifinal match originally was to have been postponed to next Saturday, along with the semifinals of the singles tourney, when rain again forced the tournament indoors. But Heldman and Kendis insisted upon playing. They explained that they had to leave for the West Coast Monday morning, but they didn't want to default any sooner than necessary.

5-Event Muny Regatta Today

Five racing events will be on the program as the Municipal Rowing Association conducts its annual regatta today on the Mississippi River. The crews will finish in front of the St. Louis Rowing Club, 4300 North Wharf, at Ferry street.

The six-oar barge race will start at 2 o'clock and will be followed by the single scull event at 2:40, four-oar shell at 3:15, double scull at 4 p. m., and finally the eight-oar shell race at 5.

The single scull race will feature J. Adelsberger of St. Louis Rowing Club, J. Brown and W. Schmidt of Western.

GALENTO GIVEN EVEN CHANCE TO SURVIVE ILLNESS

ORANGE, N. J., July 23.—Tony Galento's murderous fists, which have brought him many a victory inside the roped prize ring, were valueless today, but a rugged heart was calculated to give him a 50-50 chance to survive a sudden attack of broncho-pneumonia.

The pudgy, 227-pound heavyweight, who was to have fought light heavyweight titleholder, John Henry Lewis, in a 15-round bout in Philadelphia, July 26, lay in an oxygen tent in a hospital bed. His condition, serious when he entered Orange Memorial Hospital last night, was unchanged, but no worse, late today.

Galento felt a chill Thursday night while joking in his Orange tavern, where he delighted in taking customers unaware with a blood-curdling yell or demonstrating his artistry in dart throwing. His manager, Joe Jacobs, said Tony apparently was overheated when he left Madame Bey's training camp in Summit and "the night air wasn't any good for him."

BELLEVILLE, ALGONQUIN LEGION TEAMS TO PLAY

HERRIN, Ill., July 23.—American Legion junior baseball teams from Belleville and Algonquin will meet tomorrow in a game to decide which will meet Berwyn, the champion of a Cook County tournament, to decide the State title.

The championship series will be played in Peoria, July 30, 31 and Aug. 1.

Roesch of Belleville struck out 10 in eliminating Danville, 4 to 0, in the first game today. Johnston whiffed six Belleville batters, but had poor support from his teammates, charged with four errors.

Algonquin defeated Peoria, 8 to 3, in the second contest.

MINNEAPOLIS GIRL WINS WISCONSIN YACHT RACE

HARTLAND, Wis., July 23.—Marjorie Benson of the Calhoun Yacht Club, Minneapolis, was declared winner today of the Inland Lakes Yachting Associations' club

Miss Benson won the event by capturing a first in today's concluding three-mile race on Pine Lake. She was second in two of the three previous races. She failed to finish one.

GRIMM'S BROADCAST AT 8:15 TONIGHT

Charley Grimm, recently deposed as manager of the Chicago Cubs, will be on the air from 8:15 to 8:30 (St. Louis time) tonight, according to an announcement last night by the manager of Station WBBM in Chicago.

Grimm's broadcast will be carried by KMOX here.

Browns to Play Senators Twice This Afternoon

WASHINGTON, July 23.

THE Browns, prevented from playing because of rain here today for the fourth time this week, will meet the Senators here in a doubleheader tomorrow afternoon to conclude an Eastern road campaign in which they so far have won only two games.

Manager Gabby Street will pitch Oral Hildebrand in one of tomorrow's contests and will probably start Russ Van Atta in the other. Dutch Leonard and Kendall Chase are due for the Senators, who won three straight games from Detroit before the Browns came to town and took the series opener Friday.

After the twin bill the Browns return to St. Louis to open a series with the New York Yankees Tuesday.

Danny MacFayden Checks Pirates

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, July 23.—Deacon Danny MacFayden's pitching arm and the timely hitting of Elbie Fletcher and Rabbit Warstler, gave the Boston Bees a 4 to 2 victory over the Pirates today, ending the Bucs' three-game winning streak.

Deacon Danny, making the second start since coming from his month's stay on the hospital list, gave up nine of the Bucs' 10 hits, but was tight with runners on the base-paths. He weakened in the ninth and Dick Errickson finished.

By J. Roy Stockton.

The mighty bats of Joe Medwick and Johnny Mize boomed at Sportsman's Park yesterday afternoon, but in an eighth-inning crisis young Bill Posedel, the pride of the S. S. Saratoga, held the two stalwart sluggers to singles and the Brooklyn Dodgers, concentrating their smaller-gun fire in two large innings, squared their series with the Cardinals by taking the second game, 4 and 3.

Curt Davis, except for two troublesome frames, in which the Dodgers bunched seven of their eight hits, pitched shutout ball, but Sailor Boy Posedel gained the verdict by being more effective when danger threatened. Posedel also distinguished himself no little by hitting two singles that started the two-run rallies for the Dodgers of Burleigh Grimes.

Mize, definitely out of the batting slump that shackled him through the early weeks of the campaign, put the Cardinals ahead with a drive to Grand boulevard in the second inning, his thirteenth four-bagger of the brightening season, but with one out in the third Posedel started a rally that quickly had the visitors ahead.

Rosen Triples.

Sailor Bill's hit was a sharp single to right, just out of Jimmy Brown's reach, and the Dodgers quickly took advantage of the opening. Rosen whacked a triple to right-center that sent Posedel home and Hudson poled a single to right that scored Rosen.

Brooklyn held that one-run advantage until the sixth when Medwick punched a home run to the pavilion roof, his twelfth of the year.

Then a break in the Cardinal defense, a wild bit of throwing, helped the Dodgers make their eighth inning good for two runs. With one out, Posedel again bounced a single to right, just out of reach of the lunging Brown, and Rosen forced Sailor Bill at second. Hudson again was there in the pinch, his single to center moving Rosen to second.

Stainback Comes Through.

Tuck Stainback, the outfielder obtained in the Dizzy Dean deal, who went to the Phils and then to the Dodgers, shot a single to right in this pinch, scoring Rosen. Padgett fielded the ball speedily and fired it to the plate, but it hopped over Owen's head. Davis was backing up properly and when he recovered the ball, Hudson was retreating towards third and Stainback, who had rounded second on the throw to the plate, was on his way to third, thinking Hudson would score. Davis threw to second, a fraction of a second too late to get Stainback and Hudson ran home on the throw with the run that proved all-important.

With two out in the eighth Padgett dropped a double in front of left-fielder Koy and Medwick scored him with a single to left. That put it up to Mize, and Posedel protected his remaining lead by holding Georgia Johnny to a single. Mize's safety sent Medwick to third, but he was left stranded there as Gutteridge flied to Stainback for the final out.

RED BIRD NOTES

THE Cardinals will conclude their stand at home this afternoon in a doubleheader with the Dodgers. Bill McGee and Bob Weiland probably will pitch for the Redbirds, with Luke Hamlin and Vito Tamulis due for the Dodgers.

Managers Frisch and Grimes, Coach Babe Ruth and members of the Cardinals were honored in a ceremony at home plate before the second game of the series. Joel S. Quinones, Mexican Consul in St. Louis, inducted the players, managers and coach into the Ancient Order of Caballeros, presenting each with a sombrero and placing a serape over the heads of Frisch, Ruth and Grimes.

The game attracted a Ladies' day crowd of 2767 cash customers, 4003 women, 1416 boys and 513 girls, a total of 8699.

Gutteridge's fumble of Durocher's grounder in the second inning was his first error since returning to third base.

Mize's home run in the second inning, a drive that cleared the screen above the pavilion, was his thirteenth of the season and his eighth in the last 11 days.

The Dodgers argued that Mize interfered with Hudson as he rounded first on his single in the third inning, but Umpire Reardon over-ruled them. It was Padgett's fine fielding that constituted the interference that held it to a single.

There will be a batting contest before the first game this afternoon in which Babe Ruth and several Dodgers will take part along with Medwick and Mize and one other Cardinal to be named by Frisch. Each player may select his own pitcher, and there will be cash prizes for the longest wallops.

SNEAD TAKES CHICAGO GOLF LEAD WITH SENSATIONAL 64

SHOOTS 9 HOLES IN 30 STROKES, SETS A RECORD

Ky Laffoon and Gene Sarazen, Early Leaders, Outclassed—36 Holes Today Complete Tourney.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 23.—Golf's sensational sophomore, "Slammin' Sam" Snead, slapped his brand on the game's all-time record book today.

Almost "burning up" Olympia Fields' difficult No. 1 course, the 26-year-old star from West Virginia scored an eight-under-par 64 to spread eagle the first round field in the $5000 Chicago Open championship.

Raking the layout with eight birdies and never going over regulation figures, Snead turned in what veteran observers described as the greatest round of golf ever played on a championship course.

Snead's amazing performance made him a standout favorite to come through tomorrow's 36-hole final round and add first money of $1500 to the $7112 he captured to top money winners for the year. Going out in 34, two under par, he took the home nine "apart" with a six-under-par 30 and gained a four-stroke margin over his nearest rival, Ky Laffoon of Chicago, who had rounds of 35-33—68.

Three years ago, in the Western Open at Dovenport, Ia., big Ralph Guldahl scored a 64, but it was generally agreed today that the 6357-yard No. 1 Olympia Fields test was more severe than the one Guldahl passed in Iowa. Fred Corcoran, P. G. A. tournament manager(said he adjudged Snead's round "the greatest in the game's history."

Gallery of 2500 Cheers.

Snead, who came out of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., just 20 months ago to blast his way into a top spot among the nation's greatest stars, birdied the fourth hole, clipped par on the ninth, tenth, eleventh and twelfth holes, then continued his hot approaching and putting to get birdies on the fifteenth and sixteenth.

A 20-foot putt gave him a par on the seventeenth after his drive was in the rough and his second hit a trap. When he reached within a foot of the cup on the home green in only three strokes and easily got his eighth birdie, the gallery of 2500 persons who had followed him gave him a roaring salute.

Snead's round might have been one of 61, for he missed putts of less than six feet which would have given him birdies on the first three holes.

Gene Sarazen of Brookfield Center, Conn., the defending champion, was assured of a place among the 48 low professionals and 24 low amateurs, plus ties, who qualified for Sunday's 36 holes. This grind winds up a tournament originally scheduled for 72 holes, but reduced to 54 holes when Friday's storm canceled one round.

Sarazen had a 70 on the No. 1 course, as did his playing partners, Wilford Wehrle, Racine, Wis., amateur and Ray Mangrum of Oakmont, Pa. Harry Todd of Dallas, Tex., and Jack Hoerner of Chicago also carded 70's to share with Wehrle the low amateur honors for the No. 1 layout.

Walter Hagen Was There.

Ed Dudley of Philadelphia and Tony Penna of Dayton, O., carded 71's on No. 1, while Ralph Guldahl, national open champion, scored a 72. Among the 73 shooters were Lawson Little of San Francisco, Willie Goggin of San Bruno, Cal., Webb Gilbert of Topeka, Kan., Herman Keiser of Springfield, Mo., and Don Armstrong, Aurora, Ill.

Walter Hagen, returning to major competition after two years of globe trotting, scored a 74, as did Horton Smith and Tommy Armour of Chicago.

On the par 70 No. 4, course, where scores ran higher, the pace was set by Bert Montressor, veteran professional from Decatur, Ill., who had rounds of 34-36—70, with five birdies. Dave Tosh of Chicago and Leonard Dodson of Springfield, Mo., had 71's. Bill Heinlein of Indianapolis, Dick Metz of Chicago and Floyd Farley, Oklahoma City, were in the 72 class.

Leland Gibson, Kansas City, amateurs, Gus Moreland of Peoria, Ill., and Alex Welsh Jr. of Rockford, Ill., and Harry Cooper of Chicago were among those carding 73.

Johnny Manion and Joe Switzer, both of St. Louis, turned in good cards for the No. 1 course. Switzer, an amateur, had a 74 and Manion, a professional, 75.

Other St. Louisans were: Alex Ayton 78, W. F. Ambo 82, Bill Schwartz 73, Jim Cockburn 84 and Ted Riester 87. Ray Schwartz withdrew.

Ace at Sunset.

J. F. Kelly Jr. made a hole in one on the 130-yard No. 13 at Sunset Hill Country Club yesterday afternoon. He shot 86 for 18 holes.

No Quiet on the Western Front: Dodgers Argue in St. Louis, Cubs and Giants Fight in Chicago

Brooklyn claimed interference at first base by Johnny Mize when Johnny Hudson singled in the third inning of yesterday's game at Sportsman's Park. Immediately Manager Burleigh Grimes and his staff of diamond lawyers went into action. In the group, besides Grimes, who is protesting to Umpire Beans Reardon, are Coach Tom Sheehan, without cap, and Captain Leo Durocher, arguing separately with Umpire Babe Pinelli. Mize is in the upper lefthand corner and Coach Babe Ruth still in the coaching box off first base.

Cub and Giant players swarmed over the infield at Wrigley Field, Chicago, to stop a fight at second base between Shortstop Dick Bartell of New York and Bill Jurges, resulting from the Cub shortstop's slide into second base in the fourth inning of the second game of their doubleheader. Arrows indicate Bartell (extreme left) being led off the field and Jurges (right, foreground) being held back.

Still he was good enough to beat Root in 12 rounds. Jeffries, in accordance with that one-grand agreement, turned over the title to him.

The world snickered and took it casually. Imagine a Hart filling the shoes of the mighty Jeffries!

"Hart's just a hunk of cheese," ring men decared.

Mr. Burns Enters.

THEREFORE, NONE was surprised when next year Noah Brusso, fighting name Tommy Burns, of Canada, weighing about 165 pounds, outboxed Hart, aided by Father Time and John Barleycorn, and gained the crown.

The fight world had another big laugh at the new "cheese champion."

In truth, Burns was a pretty fair boxer for his weight. He knocked over all the setups posing as challengers in America and Australia. Then Jack Johnson finally caught up with him.

Johnson weighed 200 pounds and was at his peak. Burns scaled about 175. Tommy accepted the match with Johnson (who had followed him all the way to Australia begging for a bout) when promoters gave him a $30,000 certified check in advance.

Probably it was the first time in ring history so much money had ever been paid cash in hand before the fight, to any scrapper. That was in 1908.

A Creditable Fight.

TOMMY LASTED 14 rounds, when broken ribs compelled him to retire, leaving the field to Johnson, the new and really capable titleholder.

"Cheese champion" was hardly the right word for the two men who held the crown in the interregnum between two really great men—Jeffries and Johnson. They were pretty good in their prime—better than some of the challengers in sight today.

How they were regarded is best evidenced by the fact that the Muldoon trophy, held by Gene Tunney, which listed the names of champions of the past, did not at first contain the names of Hart and Burns.

White Hope Days.

BETWEEN JEFFRIES and the next really great white heavyweight champion there elapsed 17 years! That fighter was Dempsey. Willard, who gained the title in 1915, we do not consider one of the ring's greats. He was an accident and came along as the crowning effort of promoters to develop a white hope out of a group of fantastic giants picked up by eager managers.

Willard was game but had little science. His record was unconvincing. To gain the title he beat an aged Negro, then nearing 40 years, weighing 229 pounds or about 30 pounds more than his fighting prime.

Dempsey, the falcon, came along and ended that long, long hiatus of great fight scrappers.

AGE AND GENE TUNNEY took Dempsey finally, and then Tunney had to throw the title into the same sort af tailspin as Jeffries had done when, after beating Tom Heeney he too quit undefeated.

The post-Tunney period was one of the weirdest in the ring's history. Gene quit because there was no real opposition and results proved it. Another series of "cheese champions" followed.

A tournament was put on to determine the No. 1 American fighter and Jack Sharkey won that. Max Schmeling made some impression in his American fights and so he was elected to fight Sharkey for the title under the commission's promise to name the winner champion.

Schmeling won it groveling in the resin, the result of a foul. He lost it later in a futile fight with Sharkey.

Then came the big varicose-veined giant Carnera, built up by gangsters and sub rosa methods fed pushovers and setups and finally all but hi-jacked into the championship. Sharkey fairly threw himself into Carnera's uppercut when his defeat occurred.

The clown Max Baer, was next; the worn-out light-heavyweight hasbeen Jim Braddock followed him.

They had to push Max Schmeling all around the lot and tear up his contracts to keep the once washed-up German away from Braddock, for fear the title might be taken to Germany and kept there. They wanted to save Braddock for Louis.

They succeeded and fed Jimmy to a real lion. Louis won the crown easily.

Joe is a brilliant fighter and far ahead of the opposition now in the field. Should he retire the fight game would sink back into the white hope doldrums again for want of worthy title material.

Then doubtless would follow another long period of fromageous heavyweight nonentities.

BIEDERMAN TO PLAY HARRISON IN DE MOLAY TENNIS TOURNEY FINAL

Ollie Biederman of St. Louis Harmony Chapter and William Harrison of Granite City will meet in the final of the DeMolay tennis tournament this afternoon at Heman Park, University City.

Biederman defeated John Uthoff of Rabboni, 6-4, 6-1, and Harrison won from Roger Braden of Granite City, 6-4, 6-3, in the semifinals yesterday. Biederman was runnerup last year.

The finalists in the doubles last year will meet again this year, Harrison and Braden, defending champions, playing Les Schliebe and Biederman, this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. The singles final will follow the doubles.

SENIOR-JUNIOR GOLF TOURNEY AT HILLCREST

Senior players won four matches and juniors two in the first six decided in the Hillcrest Country Club golf tournament, scheduled to be completed with another half dozen matches today.

Victories for the seniors: Art Griffith over Ken Werley, 1 up; James Woods over John Kinney, 7 up; James McDowell over Norman Schaefer, 2 up, and J. W. Kisling over Fred Brinkop, 12 up. The junior triumphs were scored by Milton Schaefer, who brought William Johannes in 4 down, and Bob McDowell, who was 11 up at the end of 18 holes with Fred Jaeckel.

CANADIAN IS SENIOR SINGLE SCULLS VICTOR

By the Associated Press.

RED BANK, N. J., July 23. — James Russell, 25-year-old Canadian oarsman, shared honors with Sweepswingers of Buffalo's West Side rowing club today as opening events of the two-day national championships were completed over the rain-drenched North Shrewsbury River.

Russell scored a victory in the senior sculls race and became No. 1 challenger for the national singles title held by Joseph Burk, British Diamond Sculls winner from Bridgeboro, N. J. Russell earned the right to meet Burk for the American crown tomorrow.

The Canadian, representing the Argonaut rowing club of Toronto, was timed in 8 minutes 19 3-5 seconds.

West Side's defending champions piled up 52 points to assume the lead for the club championship. New York A. C. held down second place with 38 points. Within hailing distance were Penn A. C. of Philadelphia with 30 points, Argonaut and Malta Club of Philadelphia, each 29.

Bob Feller Admits He Has Lost His Speed; Grows Wild When He Bears Down

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, July 23.—Bob Feller admitted today his fast ball, which made him the boy wonder of baseball, is gone.

The Cleveland pitcher, knocked out of the box here the fifth time in four weeks, added he doesn't know what's the matter.

"Somewhere between last season and this I've lost my fast ball," the troubled 19-year-old Iowan said.

"I mean I still throw a good fast one, occasionally, but I can't pump it in, pitch after pitch, like I did last year. Worse than that, I can't snap off that fast curve any more without making it practically a wild pitch."

Feller's biggest problem has been his widness, most of his exsit following a parade of batters around the bases on passes. He said he hasn't altered his delivery to any great degree, but he expressed some concern when he told of a "click" in his arm that has stayed with him since his elbow was injured last season.

"When I first started to pitch in the American League, batters invariably pulled away from the plate as they swung at my fast one. Now they're stepping into it," he said.

"I think they used to regard me simply as a freak kid and weren't going to take any chances of having their heads knocked off. Now they seem to regard me as just another pitcher."

Bob admitted he has been upset when infielders come in and talk to him during one of his wild streaks.

"They always tell me to get it over the plate. What do they think I'm trying to do—throw it up in the press box?"

What's Feller going to do about it? He's going to work twice as hard on his control. "I've got plenty of stuff to win if I can get the ball over," he said.

"I'm frankly disappointed in him," observed Manager Oscar Vitt. Feller has won 10 games against five defeats, but has failed several times in the pinches.

BOB GROVE'S ARM, STILL WEAK, HE IS LEFT AT HOME

BOSTON, July 23. — Red Sox Manager Joe Cronin decided tonight to leave Bob (Lefty) Grove behind when the Boston club departs tomorrow or Monday night on its third Western trip of the season.

"Grove will be better off continuing heat treatments on his arm," said Cronin, "and if the arm responds the way we hope, he will join us in the West."

The pulse in Grove's arm, which went "dead" in a game against Detroit last week, was becoming stronger, Cronin said, but still was not rapid enough for the ace southpaw to attempt flinging before another "few days yet."

extra innings by J. Roy Stockton

A Big Begonia.

Don Gutteridge, the little man from Pittsburg, Kan., has taken a sound beating through the months of the 1938 baseball season, but he has come through with flying colors, not to mention a flock of bruises. He's proved himself a thoroughbred.

"What a kid, what a kid!" said Frankie Frisch on the bench the other afternoon, with almost a tear in his eye, reminding us of one night on the road when the kalter aufschnitt was all, already, and we couldn't get any more, yet, till morning first.

Herr Frankie didn't have to elaborate on that "What a kid!" We knew what he meant. Frank was thinking of how Don went through those weeks at Winter Haven, trying to become a shortstop, trying willingly, even eagerly.

Hot Did You Say?

They call third base the hot corner, but that job is a breeze compared to the shortstop's. Gutteridge found that out. His speed took him where other shortstops couldn't have trod. But Don wasn't, isn't and won't be a shortstop.

Burleigh Grimes was talking to Don about it in the spring of high hopes and better bounces. What did he think of the young man's chances of making it at the new position.

"Well, if you play there all year," Grimes said, "you'll never persuade anybody you didn't spend your life in the navy. Those bad bounces will have you tattooed all over by October."

But Don kept on trying and in the face of discouraging odds, including the fact that he couldn't do it, and heartless jeers from the stands and the obvious truth that as a shortstop Gutteridge was losing many ball games.

Happy Days, Etc.

Don's back at third base now. He's been doing a fine job, too. He did learn something during the cruel days at shortstop. He learned to move to his right. That was his weak side last year. Since moving from short he has scooped up many a hot grounder near the line, grounders that would have gone through for extra base hits last year.

And everybody is very happy about it, for Gutteridge is everybody's favorite. When the managers and the owners and the scouts get to talking about the ideal ball player, they mention little Don from Pittsburg, Kan. Give any ball player his spirit, his eagerness to play and to win, and that player has a big headstart. And that isn't all Gutteridge has. He has speed, batting power, and he can play a rather good third base. But if it hadn't been for that heart this year could have ruined the little man from Pittsburg, Kan.

Gone With the Wing.

"Dear Mr. Stockton:

"A bunch of the boys were snooping it up in a 3.2 tavern and, as is our wont at such times, we got to talking about Douglas Corrigan and his New York-to-Calireland flight to end al trans-Atlantic flights. We decided that when it comes to crawfish piloting he's just a novice and piker as compared to some of the great navigators of this year's baseball season.

"Just think, Mr. Stucktan (Stockton is the name), of Tor Frisch, that intrepid Norseman. He took off from Florida in a brand new 1938 model Rickey which the builder said was the most modern, most stupendous and most colossal of anything that had ever been put together. You know, Mr. Sticktyn (my but you're careless), that Frisch had every instrument known to science—an earth induction bunt indicator, a base hit sextant, a fielding drift calculator, and, in fact, everything except a 15-foot pole to knock the butter off of Gutteridge's fingers. And, Mr. Stacktan (I'm beginning to resent this), what happened? He loaded up with scones, crumpets and new balls and left on a nonstop trip to first place in the National League. Then his compass stuck or something and three months later he came down in seventh place and his first remark was, 'Where am I?'

"Then, Mr. Stickten (go ahead, have it your way), there was Warren Giles over in Cincinnati. He assembled a machine from cast offs and parts of his nephew's scooter-bike. Everyone, including you, Mr. Stecktun (but I'll have it mine), thought that McKcehnie wouldn't even get the crate off of the ground, and even if he did it would land at the bottom of Effenduffy's cistern. Don't interrupt, Mr. Styckton (not much, I won't), you know what happened! The gas house tanks kept him from seeing it in front but he is still flying and is only a few miles from Pennantville. Of course, they have one great pitcher—I can't mention his name because I understand there's a charge for that and I can't afford it.

"And what about Dean's solo flight. Sam Breadon, that expert on such things, said that Diz had a damaged right wing and wouldn't be able to fly into the winning column. So this crippled bird was passed on to Wrigley to stuff and put on display on a chewing gum wrapper. Remember, Mr. Stwckten, it took two months but now Eagle Dean seems to be soaring high and I don't mean over Mobile.

"But all of this backward navigation makes Pilot Street's feat much more impressive. In April he took the controls of his De Witt special and everybody knew that he was headed for the cellar. And, by the great horned toad, he stuck right to his course and got there without so much as a degree's variation.

"And Mr. Notkcots (you always were a little backward), so did I. Just barely.

"PAT."

Answer to A. L. H.

George Sisler informs that the National Softball Association was started in 1933. Park at Kingshighway and Chippewa opened in 1934, and one at Kingshighway and Arsenal about the same time. Play discontinued at Kingshighway and Arsenal in 1936. They're still playing at the one at Kingshighway and Chippewa. J. R. S.

RIGGS DEFEATS SYDNEY WOOD AT BROOKLINE

By the Associated Press.

BROOKLINE, Mass., July 23. — Shelving his prejudices against Linoleum tennis courts, Bobby Riggs of Chicago, today out-played the brilliant but spotty Sydney Wood of San Francisco, to gain the semi-final round of the Longwood Bowl tournament with a 6—1, 4—6, 6—3 indoor victory.

Riggs then found that unseeded Elwood Cooke of Portland, Ore., was the only stumbling block in his path to the final. Cooke eliminated fourth-seeded Hal Surface of Kansas City, 3—6, 6—4, 6—4, while Frank Kovacs of Oakland, Cal., the seventh seeding, completed his route of Chicago's Murphy twins by defeating Chester, 6—3, 6—2.

Charles Hare, former British Davis Cup player, gained the remaining semi-final bracket by outbattling John Shostrum of Chicago, for a 6—3, 2—6, 6—4 decision.

The semi-finals will be played indoors here tomorrow, as will the women's final between Helen Bernhard of New York and Virginia Wolfenden of San Francisco. Those East-West finalists advanced today at the Badminton and Tennis Club in Boston, where Miss Bernhard defeated Virginia Hollinger of Dayton, O., 6—2, 6—4, and Miss Wolfenden prevailed over Dorothy Workman of Los Angeles, 6—4, 7—5, in the other semi-final. 6—4, 6—4.

Top-seeded Riggs and Hare became semi-finalists by defeating Harvard's John Palfrey and George Lowman, 6—4, 6—3, and the third-seeded team of Cooke-Surface eliminated the Murphy twins, 6—2, 6—4.

In the women's semi-final team play, Cissy Madden, Boston, and Eunice Dean, San Antonio, Tex., defeated Florence Le Boutillier, New York, and Dorothy Workman, Los Angeles, 6—2, 10—8, and Mrs. Takuko Nakano, Japan, and Helen Germaine, New York, bested Mrs. Betty Corbiere, Southboro, and Mrs. C. R. Mabley, Brookline, 6—3, 6—3.

REDS ERR FOUR TIMES IN ROUND, BUT WIN, 10-9

By the Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, July 23.—The Phillies took advantage of four Redleg errors for a five-run splurge in the fifth inning today but failed to withstand a hitting attack and the Reds won, 10 to 9.

The Phils used four hurlers to halt Cincinnati's sixth inning rally, when five runs were scored off four hits. Frey hit a homer with two men aboard. Hallahan pitched four balls to Goodman, was sent to the showers and charged with the loss.

MRS. THOMPSON RETAINS THIRD AQUATIC TITLE

By the Associated Press.

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., July 23. —Two championships remained intact and two passed into new hands today as a capacity crowd of 180 turned out for the second day of the National Amateur Athletic Union outdoor aquatic meet for women.

Topping the title brigade was Katherine Rawls Thompson of the Miami Beach, Fla., Swimming Club, who successfully defended her third title in the nation's 440-yard free style.

Iris Cummings of the Los Angeles Athletic Club, held fast to her 220-yard breast stroke crown, but the Women's Swimming Association team of New York took charge of the 880-yard relay, ending a three year reign of the Washington Athletic Club of Seattle, and Jeanne Laupheimer of Brooklyn, N. Y., captured the 220-yard breast-stroke, dethroning comely Erna Kompa of New York.

Mrs. Thompson, who tomorrow will defend her fourth championship, the 880-yard freestyle, stroked through the blue waters of the Biltmore Coral Casino pool in the 440 in the time of 5 minutes, 3 seconds. Twenty yards back came 14-year-old Ann Hardin of Louisville, Ky. Third and fourth went to two Portland, Ore., girls, Nancy Merki and Brenda Helser.

BUSY K WINS YONKERS HANDICAP BY LENGTH AND A HALF

TEUFEL NOSES OUT REX FLAG FOR THE PLACE

Capulet Captures $2500 Wakefield Stake at Empire City as Charlotte Girl Finishes Fourth.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 23. — D. A. Wood's Busy K., a mud-loving son of Busy American, found his kind of a track at Empire City today and scored an easy triumph in the twentieth Yonkers Handicap, mile and a sixteenth feature that topped the final program of a rain-cursed meeting.

Perfectly handled by the veteran George Seabo, the four-year-old won by a length and a half in 1:48 1-5. Although favored at the start, Ogden Phipps' Teufel finished second by another length and a half. Then, in a picture finish for third money, Mrs. Louise Viau's Rex Flag, 13 to 5 favorite, came from far back to nose out R. A. Moore's Piccolo, with Walter Carter's Clodion only another head back.

Busy K. was the second choice at 16 to 5 to score his first victory in seven starts this year. The victory was worth $7875 to Busy K.'s owner.

Capulet also scored an easy victory in the $2500 Wakefield Handicap for two-year-olds. The Carlaris colt from the River Edge Farm scored by three lengths in the role of the 11 to 5 choice. Snow White Stable's Sassy Lady earned the place by two lengths from J. P. Smith's Gridine.

Elwood Sachsenmaier's Charlotte Girl, the filly that won seven straight races before being stopped in two subsequent efforts, finished fourth after being outrun all the way. She was sore going to the post and was warmed up about half a mile before lining up at the post.

The time for the short six furlongs was 1:11 flat.

Capulet now has won three of her four starts, the last three in a row.

YUGOSLAVIAN DAVIS CUP TEAM SWEEPS SERIES WITH BELGIANS

BRUSSELS, July 23.—The Yugoslavian Davis Cup team, already having clinched a place in the European zone finals by winning the first two singles matches and the doubles, today won the last two singles for a clean sweep in its semifinal round meeting with Belgium.

Josef Pallada whipped H. Van den Eynde, 6-3, 6-3, 6-1, and Ferenc Puncec then defeated the Belgian No. 1, Andre La Croix, 6-4, 6-1, 6-1.

In the zone final Yugoslavia will meet the winner of the semifinal between Germany and France.

GERMANY ADVANCES TO FINAL ROUND

BERLIN, July 23.—Germany today earned the right to meet Yugoslavia in the final round of European Zone Davis Cup competition as Henner Henkel and Georg von Metaxa whipped the French doubles team of Yvon Petra and Jean Lesueur, 4-6, 6-4, 2-6, 10-8, 6-4. The victory gave Germany a 3-0 lead with only two singles matches left to play.

STATE MOTORCYCLE HILL CLIMB TODAY

The State championship motorcycle hill climb will take place this afternoon on the new Frisco hill, located off Baumgartner road in Oakville, St. Louis County.

Four events—novice, pro, amateur and expert—will be on the program. Hank Eiler, former champion who was unable to defend his laurels last year because of injuries, is entered today.

Felix Steffn, Bill Altman, Andy Koslow, Howard Van Natta and Syl Polaseck head the Chicago aggregation. Kansas City will be represented by Jimmie Lawrence, motorcycle policeman, and Ed Herring, Iowa's champion, Tiger Tyhurst, is another favorite. Ralph Moore and Lester Leeper will carry Wisconsin's colors.

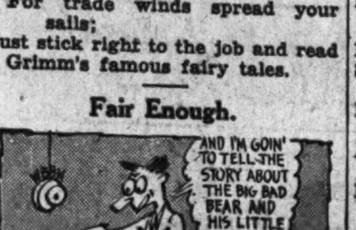
SPORT SALAD by L. Davis

Too True.

WHEN batters to the infield tap,
And make an easy out,
The manager must take the rap
For guys who fail to clout.
So if the big parade you'd lead,
For trade winds spread your sails;
Just stick right to the job and read
Grimm's famous fairy tales.

Fair Enough.



WBBM
AND I'M GOIN' TO TELL THE STORY ABOUT THE BIG BAD BEAR AND HIS LITTLE CUBS

Having been given the air by the Cubs, Charlie Grimm will now give it right back to them as a baseball commentator via Station WBBM. (Why Baseball Barons Miscue.)

It is said that Charlie will let down his back hair and reveal the truth about front office interference. Evidence in rebuttal is always in order.

Just when it seemed that the Browns would finish the season with a clean slate they had a relapse and won a game of ball from the Senators.

It is little things like that which makes the game of baseball the great sport that it is. Anything can happen.

"Nonstop" Corrigan serves notice to the horde of romantically inclined young women that although he flew the Atlantic he has no intention of taking a flyer in matrimony at the present time.

Coming from Los Angeles Corrigan has seen too many couples making heavy weather over the sea of matrimony.

The Chief's Reprimand.

BUREAU of Air Commerce Chief Mulligan
Says to Douglas (Nonstop) Corrigan
Somewhat like Flannigan said to Finnegan:
"Your tale of the compass is somewhat thin,
In fact it honestly makes me grin;
So in the future, when on a wild spin
Make your explanations as brief as you 'kin'
And be sure your compass is not stuck ag'in."
Mulligan to Corrigan.

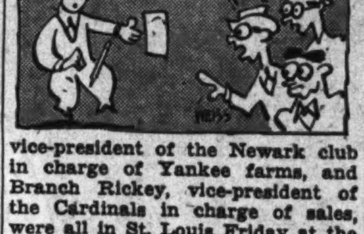
Something in union suits?

Larry MacPhail, vice-president of the Brooklyn club in charge of promotion and publicity, George Weiss, vice-president of the Newark club in charge of Yankee farms, and Branch Rickey, vice-president of the Cardinals in charge of sales, were all in St. Louis Friday at the same time. News hounds who tried to make something out of it were informed that it was just a coincidence and if there was a hen on, it laid an egg.



Branch travels by plane from coast to coast spreading the doctrine of hate. Brotherly love is out and sweetness and light has no place in organized baseball. Fraternity is only a word in the dictionary and henceforth world series battles and all-star games between the National and American Leagues are to be pursued along Sino-Japanese lines.

$16,000,000 MUTUEL HANDLE AT HOLLYWOOD

By the Associated Press.

INGLEWOOD, Cal., July 23.—Another Southern California race track made the I-told-you-so clan eat its words when Hollywood Park closed its highly successful inaugural meeting today.

Like Santa Anita and Del Mar before it, Hollywood Park opened with many self-styled experts predicting the expensive undertaking would not pay.

Instead, the racing faithful — an average of more than 16,000 persons visited the two million dollar plant daily since it opened 33 days ago—chunked in more than $16,000,000 through the pari-mutuel betting windows.

This alone, plus the breakage, repaid the track more than a million and a quarter dollars on its investment, not to mention the ticket sales, parking fees and concessions. The daily average handle was almost a half million dollars.

The track, owned for the most part by Hollywood film personages, paid out $440,900 in purses including $180,000 in stakes money.

When racing was legalized in California, and Santa Anita opened its palatial plant and promised to pay big stake money including the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap, the know-it-all group said staid Southern California residents never would take to thoroughbreds. But Santa Anita has paid for itself several times over.

Then, when Bing Crosby opened his Del Mar track last summer the wise ones insisted the crooner would be singing a doleful tune. In its inaugural season the track made more than some of the screen star's pictures paid him, and Crosby is getting ready for a second summer meeting, beginning July 29.

When the Hollywood Park directors meet next week they will consider among other things, the logic of parlaying some of the horse race earnings on nearby oil wells.

War-Awakened Chinese Women Winning Personal Freedom by Fighting in Ranks Against Invader

One of Them Leads 6000 of Sex in Guerrilla Operations—Million in Military Training—Others Stir Masses, Cook, Nurse.

By DOROTHY DAVIS

Member of the Staff of the China Weekly Review Until the Japanese Occupied Shanghai.

A GOOD deal has been written in recent months about the outcome of the Chinese-Japanese war; some writers have predicted that in the long run China must win and Japan be defeated. Others have held that Japan's immensely superior military equipment would inevitably tip the scales in her favor. One thing is certain, if Japan does win the war, she will be faced with the problem of a China more awakened, more nationalistic than she has ever been before.

Japan may be able to win the military battles as such, but when a truce comes her job will have just begun. She will have to face a people who hate the Japanese down to the very marrow of their bones, a people who have suffered at her hands as no other people on earth have ever suffered. She will have to meet bitter hostility not only from the masculine population, but also from a newly inspired body of women, millions of them, strong in the pristine knowledge that China is theirs equally with their menfolk, theirs by right of having fought, died and served.

China Never a Nation.

China has been a country, never a nation in any real sense of the term, onto which certain aspects of Western civilization have been grafted without taking root in the minds of the great mass of the people. To be sure, the Chinese peasant found it cheaper and better to burn kerosene in his lamp in place of the vegetable oil his father used—and the can could be used for a thousand and one purposes—but what kerosene might mean as a symbol of another world probably never entered his consciousness, and if it had it would not have changed his traditional way of thinking and doing things.

What 200 years of using Western goods, what several revolutions and civil wars failed to accomplish except on a limited scale, the Japanese have succeeded in doing by their invasion of China. Four hundred million people are wiping the sleep of centuries from their eyes; a strange, new, half-conscious ferment stirs the minds and hearts of China's women.

Nowhere on earth have the great majority of the women of a country lived under the heel of such tyrannous conventions as the women of China except in Mohemmedan countries, where women have been forced to remain behind the veil, to live in purdah or seclusion. Convention did not require the Chinese women to go veiled; her freedom was not so restricted as that of her Mohammedan sisters, at best her seclusion was only partial. But she was completely at the mercy of the male, for his delectation she must have her feet bound, even though she might be a peasant woman to whom a lifetime of toil in the fields on mutilated stumps might mean endless pain. So that her husband might have male descendants to worship at his grave, she must undergo the constant pangs of childbirth.

To her parents she represented a liability, one who could not produce sons for the glory of her own family, but only for the family of another. To her husband she was a child-bearer, an unpaid slave to do his every bidding. It was assumed that so lowly a person could have no wish or thought beyond the chains of her bondage; never in any sense of the term was she a personality.

Eyes Open in the Light.

The coming of Western civilization brought release to a few women in China, a release which the years extended bit by bit, but this was confined almost entirely to a tiny group of women in the upper classes, to the women associated as wives and daughters to the growing class of new intellectuals. In the coastal cities penetration of Western ideas on the subject of women assumed greater proportions, to some extent it reached down into the middle and lower middle classes, though the lowest class, the average coolie and his family, were practically untouched by it. In the interior, throughout the vast agricultural sections of the country, this innovation in ideas made no headway whatsoever, except perhaps in the family of some rare, wealthy landowner who had been long resident in one of the cities.

If, in anything like the near future, the women of China come to have some understanding of what equality with men means, even though circumstances decree that their progress toward freedom is to stop far short of its goal, they will be able to point to the Japanese invasion as representing for them a larger and more important step forward than any other event in the history of their country. China needs her women now, even as she needs every single person in her vast population; her very life, her continued existence as a nation, is at stake. And because China needs her women, she must drag them out of the age-long darkness, the black ignorance in which they have lived and died these many thousands of years.

Many signs are abroad in China these days indicating how eager China's women are to aid their country in its fight for life, to enter the battle for freedom waged by their Western sisters. And there is a willingness on the part of their masculine rulers to use every type of assistance the women can render, assistance which leads inevitably to their further emancipation, every iota of which has its concomittant for the future.

Women as Guerrillas.

One of the most interesting features of this entry of women into war work has been their invasion of a profession hitherto limited exclusively to men and furthermore not very highly regarded in China even for men. It is a far cry from the Confucian ideal and practice of women's place in society to Chinese battalions of women soldiers. Women have actually fought beside the men in recent battles in the Yangtsze Valley. In Shanghai it is known that one of the most effective guerrilla bands operating in that vicinity is composed of 6000 women under the command of a woman. Under the protecting cloak of darkness these women have destroyed small bridges, cut to pieces bands of Japanese abroad in the countryside, set fire to truckloads of supplies. In general, they have done everything they could to harass the Japanese, to destroy their lines of communication into the interior and thus render their advance difficult.

In far-off Kwangsi province, China's southwest, Gen. Li Tsungren's plans for arming and training the masses have proven so successful with the men that they have now been extended to the women. At the present time, over 1,000,000 Kwangsi women are undergoing training in the military camps. Women between the ages of 18 and 48 have been enlisted and are now being drilled in the fundamentals of military science. As with the men in the Kwangsi mass training movement, the women are not only learning how to handle a gun, but are receiving the rudiments of an education, the "3 R's," civics and politics. Kwangsi province is proud of the fact that, although women were only brought into the mass military training movement late in February, already one unit of 250 girl soldiers has gone to the front, where they acquitted themselves bravely in action. Another group of women soldiers, 55 in number,

Hollywood Grows Labor Conscious

It's the Thing to Be Leftish, but There Are Other Reasons

Censorship and Implications in Attacks on Picture, 'Blockade,' Showing Life in Air-Raided Town, Give Impetus to Movement.

Movie Colony's Gay Parties Passed Up for Meetings to Discuss Collective Bargaining, Wage Scales and Working Conditions.

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., July 23.

SOMETHING has happened in this capital of the cinema in the past two years that no motion picture is likely to reflect—Hollywood is on the way to becoming a closed shop town.

It is one of the more striking phenomena of the times that the glamour girls and boys, the fabulous heroes and heroines of the screen, should unite in a trade union. Now the latest group to receive official designation from the National Labor Relations Board as the agency for collective bargaining with the companies is the Screen Writers' Guild, which includes most of the screen writers whose reported salaries have been a part of the golden fable of Hollywood.

Theirs is a trade union, they say, not without pride; and while the producing companies, despite the Labor Board election, have not yet recognized their existence as a union, they are confident this will come.

Similarly the Screen Directors' Guild is insisting on the kind of recognition that has already been won by the actors.

'Guild Shop' for Actors; Labor Front Has Shifted

The Screen Actors' Guild has a contract with all producing companies that calls for a "guild shop"—only guild members may be employed—and provides minimum wage levels. From Greta Garbo to the lowliest extra each performer on the set holds a Guild card. That is taken for granted, says Robert Montgomery, president of the Guild.

Montgomery, Franchot Tone and Fredric March had a great deal to do with the fight to force the major companies to recognize their trade union. In a part of the world where changes are incredibly swift that is already ancient history. The labor front has shifted. Countless organizations that include important stars and important writers are developing political interests which look decidedly leftward. The latest of these is the Studio Committee for Democratic Political Action, formed at a meeting last month in the spacious Beverly Hills home of Miriam Hopkins.

Part of this, of course, may be put down to faddism in this city of fads. It is smart just now to be political, to be left; and, more realistically, there is publicity in appearing in the picket line. Shrouded in silver foxes the beautiful blonde stars who once made it a point to appear at Trocadero and the Brown Derby now sit on the platform when the Anti-Nazi League meets.

Outlet for Ideas, One Of Which Is Censorship

But it goes deeper than that. Men and women of intelligence and conviction, particularly in the writing field, find no outlet in their work for their ideas and beliefs. Organization—writing, lecturing, proselytizing for a trade union—is an outlet. It is not surprising, if only because of its very newness, that this activity should sometimes take an exaggerated and native form. Political education has not hitherto been regarded as an important phase of a Hollywood career. On the face of it, there is something slightly absurd about an ardent trade unionist whose salary is $5000 a week, but, looking behind the Hollywood fable at the facts, this becomes more understandable.

Just now a great deal of this political interest and activity is centered around the issue of film censorship. Exhibit A is the picture, "Blockade." The office of Will H. Hays, "movie czar," approved the script of "Blockade." In fact, Joseph Breen, censor in the Hays office, congratulated the producer, Walter Wanger, on the finished picture, which is a spy melodrama about a blockaded town, unidentified as to geography, subjected to gruelling air raids.

But even before it was released there were repercussions. A protest came from Gen. Franco's agents in London and threats of a boycott also were reported from Italy. When the picture opened at Radio City in New York, it was picketed by members of the Knights of Columbus, who charged it was propaganda for war. At the Hays office here, it is said that protests have come from the Knights of Columbus and other church organizations declaring that the picture is Communist propaganda.

Planning to Define Some Political Limits

Speaking for Hays, who is in the East in connection with the motion picture monopoly suits, his assistants say it has now become necessary to define political limits that producers operating under the voluntary code governing the industry will not be allowed to go beyond. This code now includes a long list of improprieties and indecencies which are forbidden. In the same way, the Hays office intends in the future, it is said, to refuse its seal of approval to pictures that handle certain political material.

Just how this is to be done Hays himself will decide when he returns. His assistants are now thinking in terms of a prohibition that might forbid the treatment, even remotely, of Fascism or Communism. (Dorothy Parker says that a Communist in California is anyone who believes in votes for women.) They say frankly that what they fear is a successful anti-Fascist picture. "Blockade," the Hays office holds, is not likely to be a financial success, but if one such picture should produce huge revenues, countless imitations would follow; anything might follow, in the view of the Hays office—riots in front of the Capitol Theater in New York, for example.

So the immediate objective is to stop the trend, if it can be called that, toward pictures that treat contemporary political material. In other words, the movies must be kept strictly to the entertainment level.

Conflicting Theories Of Status of Writers

On Tuesday at the Hollywood-Roosevelt Hotel there was a crowded meeting of protest against the treatment accorded "Blockade." The producer himself, Walter Wanger, spoke in defense of the right to present contemporary material, regardless of its implications. A number of important stars, directors and writers were present and there would have been many more, it was explained, if it had not been for a meeting the same night of the Studio Committee for Democratic Political Action. At the end of his talk, Wanger, a graduate of Dartmouth and one of the most literate men in the industry, spoke of the need for "unleashing" the talents of the vast array of gifted people who have been brought here from the ends of the earth.

This touches particularly the relationship of the writers to the business. Although they are literary men, most of them, they deal in the course of their work not with ideas, in the broader sense of the word, so much as with the stock in trade of the films, that is, dialogue, gags, laughs and so on. Therefore, say those who have led in the formation of the union, we are craftsmen and we should organize our trade accordingly.

On the other hand the producing companies have maintained that writers are not employes in the ordinary sense, but individuals for whose talent the company must contract individually.

Since 1936, this battle has raged, producing noise and heat in disproportion to the comparatively few individuals involved.

Screen Actors' Guild Against Playwrights, Inc.

The Screen Actors' Guild had scarcely been revived two years ago from a languishing professional organization started originally in 1920 before a rival group, the Screen Playwrights, Inc., came into being; and promptly the producing companies recognized the latter for nearly a year. Until the Wagner Labor Relations Act was validated, the Guild was quiescent. Then the leaders of the Guild took their case before the Labor Relations Board, claiming a majority of writers in each studio, and therefore the privilege under the Wagner law of acting as the agency for collective bargaining with the employer. Lengthy hearings have been held before a trial examiner, with the Guild implying that Screen Playwrights, Inc., was a company union. Joseph L. Mahin, head of the latter group, indignantly denies this, declaring that his is a professional organization formed on a wholly voluntary basis.

U. S. Judges Reeves and Otis; How They Worked Together on Kansas City Vote Fraud Cases Alike in Purpose, but Different in Method and Personality—Their Dockets Cleared, But Prepared for Any Developments.

By SPENCER R. McCULLOCH

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 23.

OF contrasting personalities but as one in fundamental judicial concept, United States Judges Albert L. Reeves and Merrill E. Otis of the Western District of Missouri have cleared their dockets of all the notorious Kansas City vote fraud cases and are prepared to consider any new ones that may be developed by future grand juries.

The two Judges make an unusual team. Judge Reeves is white-haired, aristocratic of feature, courtly in expression, scholarly in manner, capable of great moral indignation. Judge Otis is ironic, incisive, crisply courteous, a master dramatist in the courtroom; the exercise of the mind is his abiding passion, his life itself; he is moved to indignation only when established intellectual principles are violated.

The two Judges' private lives are as divergent as their personalities, yet they happily function harmoniously in major cases, agreeing on general policies, tempering justice with mercy, yet yielding not an inch to pressure. They did so during the prohibition era and have done so throughout the long series of vote fraud cases.

What They Have Done.

Their co-operative efficiency is enhanced by mutual high regard. Between them, they have presided at 14 vote fraud trials, have disposed of scores of pleas, including recent wholesale capitulations, and have meted out similar punishments. They have adopted a commoun policy of clemency when clemency is justified.

More than 260 defendants, involved in 37 conspiracy cases growing out of gross corruption here at the last national election have appeared on their dockets. Most of them were members of the Pendergast organization, some were affiliated with the faction of Congressman Joseph B. Shannon and still others ostensibly were Republican election officials. There have been no acquittals. There have been 63 convictions, 31 pleas of guilty, 143 pleas of "no contest." A new grand jury, now in recess, will resume the vote fraud investigation in September.

Conduct of the trials has emphasized their individual methods. Judge Reeves, now 64 years old, his colleague's senior by 10 years, has at times had his patience taxed by the dilatory tactics of a few defense attorneys, but there is a point beyond which his forbearance may not be stretched. Twice he threatened counsel with punishment and each time they changed their strategy. He has given defense lawyers great latitude. He told the writer that he had "leaned over backward" to avoid suspicion of prejudice.

The Judge, appointed by President Harding in 1923, a year before President Coolidge appointed Judge Otis, has manifested indignation when confronted by evidence of intimidation especially involving disrespect of age. On one occasion, before sentencing a husky vote fraud defendant to the penitentiary, he admonished him at length, repeating the testimony of an elderly woman that the young precinct captain had "brushed against me and blown his hot breath in my face."

'Move on Them.'

He is inclined to give counsel considerable latitude in argument although he rules quickly and firmly. He seldom holds night sessions. He takes copious notes during the trial. His charges both to petit and grand juries are likely to be lengthy, omitting no detail, despite their sometimes impromptu nature. Never has he deviated from the goal expressed in his charge to a grand jury on Dec. 14, 1936, which initiated the vote fraud investigation, in which he urged:

"Gentlemen, reach for all, even if you find them in high authority. Move on them."

That charge, now become historic, was supplemented a month ago by Judge Otis, who had consulted with his associate prior to the original charge, when he called on the present grand jury to ferret out higher-ups. He suggested they invoke a Federal statute prohibiting obstruction of justice, saying:

"Search for buzzards, not sparrows, gorillas not chipmunks, although if you find a chipmunk, bring him in."

A Disciplinarian.

Judge Otis conducts his court with military discipline. Woe betide the unsuspecting spectator who appears in shirt sleeves or lights a cigarette before recess. His punctuality is proverbial. Promptly on the tick of 9:30, the door back of his bench swings open and the bailiff raps for order. Recesses are timed to the second. Arguments are reduced to a minimum. Frequently the Judge takes over the questioning of a witness. Sharply he rebukes any arguments between counsel. He suffers no dilatory tactics. Trials are expedited by occasional night sessions—and threats of more to come.

He always safeguards the legal rights of defendants, but he has no patience with pettifoggery or intellectual ineptness. A fumbling attorney, no matter on which side, may draw a sardonic criticism. The Judge cuts to the heart of a case. A realist, he sternly denied defense efforts to induce him to disqualify himself, holding that the idea that he would entertain prejudice against any defendant was "ridiculous."

His jury charges heighten an effect of drama. Neatly turned, pungent and at times vitriolic phrases are accented by his manner of delivery. The varying inflection of his voice, now soothingly soft, again sternly challenging, conveys more than his words, however apt.

Results Are Same.

But no matter how different the atmosphere of the two courtrooms, the net results are the same; nor have threats and obscene remarks telephoned to the Judges in the privacy of their homes caused them to alter their course. Not only in immediate policy are Judges Reeves and Otis in accord, but they have the same essential concept of the bench and bar. They are among the comparatively few Judges electing to adopt a lawyer's oath suggested by the American Bar Association and containing the significant pledges:

"I will not counsel or maintain any suit or proceeding which shall appear to me to be unjust, nor any defense except such as I believe to be honestly debatable under the law of the land.

"I will employ for the purpose of maintaining the causes of justice confided to me such means only as are consistent with truth and honor and will never seek to mislead the Judge or jury by any artifice or false statement of fact or law."

In accord with a predetermined plan between the two Judges, who have repeatedly invited pleas of guilty from vote fraud defendants on promise of comparative leniency, Judge Otis a few days ago cut by half the sentences of 14 who abandoned appeals to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

Defense Confounded.

Discussing his action, Judge Otis pointed out that the reductions were justified in view of "surrounding circumstances." At one time the grand strategy of the defense was to try every case, no matter how hopeless, apparently in the hope of so congesting the docket as to paralyze the courts; but in the face of consistent convictions and penitentiary sentences for ring-

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Spain's "Surrender" in '98.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

"BILL WHITE of Emporia," as told recently in the Post-Dispatch, felicitates himself, after 40 years, on having opposed the Spanish-American War. "It was a needless war," he says, and tells of evidence "in the archives of the Government that Spain had completely surrendered to every demand made by President McKinley before we declared war."

This would seem to be a rhetorical flourish. Walter Millis, in his book, "The Martial Spirit," published in 1931, recited the records supporting his belief that the war could have been avoided. All Millis succeeded in showing was that the Spanish Government, which had long been temporizing with the United States over the Cuban situation, continued temporizing to the last. At the very last, Spain proclaimed a "suspension of hostilities," which would not have been binding on the insurgents. The United States was asked to indicate the nature and duration of an armistice; if it had done this, it would next have had to aid the Spaniards in suppressing any demonstration the insurgents might make. The most favorable result to be expected of such an armistice was a promise of reform under continued Spanish rule; a relapse into misrule and rebellion, with a new crisis, would have been the sequel.

Americans of that time, who knew that the Cuban problem was then 30 years old, wanted definitive action. The two major parties, in their 1896 platforms, declared for Cuban independence. There is no proof that this could have been obtained without military intervention. The war of 1898 was needless in the same sense in which the Revolutionary War or the Civil War was needless. We could have gone on under England—Canada did—and we could have let the South go, as Horace Greeley advised. Such, however, was not the view of Washington or Lincoln. C. F. H.

Alarmed by Milles Fountain Plan.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I STUDIED with interest and consternation the city's plans for the setting of the Milles fountain, as published in your paper last Sunday.

From this layman's standpoint, there seem to be two great faults with this plan. First, that we shall not be able to see the figures for the trees, particularly the passersby on Market and Chestnut streets. Second, that such a monumental fountain should be placed off center on the plaza.

St. Louis has a great trust in this Milles sculpture, and our finest talent should be called to design the best possible setting for it.

It would be interesting to know whether the expert advice of architects and landscape architects has been solicited in this matter, and what their reactions are to this present plan. LAYMAN.

Doesn't Believe in Signs.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

WERE it not so serious a matter as an attempt to undermine an exceptional public servant, H. Sam Priest, the huge signs with which the Mayor has plastered the city advertising his candidate for Circuit Clerk would be funny.

Let the voter beware! A lot of red, white and blue paint may cover much dirt, but it should not be allowed to disguise the issue. Mr. Priest has shown unusual ability as Circuit Clerk in reorganizing and managing his office. He has honored himself and his city and should be rewarded by the people of the city.

ELEANOR H. BULL.

Says Country's Problem Is Simple.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

LET us consider the present condition of the United States in simple terms.

Here is a country of enormous wealth in all that is necessary for complete comfort and happiness of the population. The producers (the farmers), who have nobly done their part, raise more foodstuff and more clothing material than the people can use. Yet, if it were not for political charity (?), thousands would starve and want for clothing.

If this were a poor country and depended on others for food and clothing, the situation could be easily understood, but in this country of abundance, where the Government restricts production and actually destroys necessaries in order to keep prices up, it requires some thought.

What is the basic reason for this condition? It is simple. What is necessary to correct it? Is also is simple.

W. S. MATTHEWS.

Citizens Pay the Chiselers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

WE learn from the newspapers that Charles M. "Turtles" Reardon is chiseling the City of St. Louis on his $2100-a-year job, having been placed on the city payroll by Collector William F. Baumann.

When a reporter asked Mr. Baumann to state Reardon's duties, he said that it was hard to describe Reardon's work. Mr. Baumann also said that there is very little doing at this time of the year; that the work is done between September and March. Well, what happens during the interim of five months?

Several questions naturally come to mind. How many more like Reardon are on the city payroll? How much does this padding of the payroll increase the cost of running the city? How much would be saved in reduced taxes by eliminating this practice? A NATIVE.

AS TO FUNDAMENTAL RIGHTS.

An amazing court ruling has been put into the official records of the State of New Jersey. It is the decision of Vice-Chancellor Maja Leon Berry of the New Jersey judiciary which prohibits the distribution of circulars by a labor union in Newark, and in so doing distinguishes between property rights and civil liberties.

The New Jersey Judge's reasoning is so remarkable that his idea needs to be set forth in his own words. There are, he said, > two classes of constitutional rights: (1) absolute rights and (2) qualified rights, which latter are more in the nature of privileges.

> Absolute rights are the inherent rights of the citizen, sometimes referred to as natural, or human, rights. . . . They are essentially property rights, which it is the duty of government to protect.
> Qualified rights, or privileges, are those granted and created by the Constitution. They did not precede government, and they are not inalienable, but are subject to forfeiture.
> Among these qualified constitutional rights, which are more in the nature of privileges than rights in the strict sense of the word, is the so-called right of free speech, a privilege often confused with absolute rights.

Other objections can be found to Vice-Chancellor Berry's ruling and his reasoning, but the two which stand out are sufficient. His decision attempts to overrule the recent unanimous decision of the Supreme Court by which a municipal ordinance requiring a city license for the distribution of handbills was invalidated as unconstitutional. His reasoning presumes to divide constitutional rights into what may be called "preferred" and "common" classifications. So doing, he takes upon himself a task which the framers of the Bill of Rights themselves did not attempt, and for obviously good reasons.

To take up the second point first, all rights are qualifiable. The rights of free speech and free press, fundamental as they are in a democracy of free people who rule themselves through elected representatives, are manifestly limited by the requirements of an organized society. The Government may not throttle an editor because he prints opinions that it dislikes. It may hold him to account, however, for libelous statements and for obscenity. The soap-box orator may with complete freedom describe his Utopia. But should he advocate violence against the Government, its agents properly may remove him from his rostrum.

So it is with property rights. Far from being absolute, as Vice-Chancellor Berry says, they, too, are qualified. Indeed, when compared with the right of the individual to worship according to his conscience, the property right is subject to an infinitely larger number of qualifications. As the late Justice Cardozo so succinctly put it, "property, like every other social institution, has a social function to fulfill." Innumerable statutes regulate the ownership and use of property in order that it may more closely approach that fulfillment.

That was what Chief Justice Hughes had in mind when he wrote, in one of his memorable majority opinions:

> It is manifest from our decisions that there has been a growing appreciation of public needs and the necessity of finding ground for a rational compromise between individual rights and public welfare. The settlement and consequent contraction of the public domain, the pressure of a constantly increasing density of population, the interrelation of the activities of our people and the complexity of our economic interests, have inevitably led to an increased use of the organization of society in order to protect the very bases of individual opportunity.
> Where, in earlier days, it was thought that only the concerns of individuals or of classes were involved, and that those of the state itself were touched only remotely, it has later been found that the fundamental interests of the state are directly affected; and that the question is no longer merely that of one party to a contract as against another, but of the use of reasonable means to safeguard the economic structure upon which the good of all depends.

Justice Sutherland expressed much the same thought in the now historic Ohio zoning ordinance decision of 1926. Sustaining the constitutionality of building laws, he wrote: "With the great increase and concentration of population, problems have developed, and constantly are developing, which require, and will continue to require, additional restrictions in respect of the use and occupation of private lands of urban communities." The illustrations and the quotations could be multiplied many times.

As for the conflict between Vice-Chancellor Berry's ruling and the Supreme Court decision last March in the Griffin (Ga.) handbill case, it could hardly be more direct. Upholding Alma Lovell's challenge of the license ordinance, the court, through the Chief Justice, said:

> Freedom of speech and freedom of the press, which are protected by the first amendment from infringement by Congress, are among the fundamental personal rights and liberties which are protected by the fourteenth amendment from invasion by state action. . . . It is also well settled that municipal ordinances adopted under state authority constitute state action and are within the prohibition of the amendment.
> The liberty of the press is not confined to newspapers and periodicals. It necessarily embraces pamphlets and leaflets. These, indeed, have been historic weapons in the defense of liberty, as the pamphlets of Thomas Paine and others in our own history abundantly attest. The press in its historic connotation comprehends every sort of publication which affords a vehicle of information and opinion.
> We think the ordinance is invalid on its face. Whatever the motive which induced its adoption, its character is such that it strikes at the very foundation of the freedom of the press by subjecting it to license and censorship.

The New Jersey Judge—and it is to be noted from his title that he is no minor official—has sought, unknowingly, let us hope, to reverse the Supreme Court, the late Justice Holmes and a long line of defenders of free speech and a free press reaching back to Jefferson. The ruling may read all right to Boss Hague. It will have a short life after it reaches the Supreme Court, if it gets that far.

A PLEASING DESIGN.

The practical reasons why St. Louis County residents should support the proposed $850,000 bond issue for a new courthouse have been stated frequently in recent weeks. Now that the architect's drawing of the approved design has been released to the public, an additional reason can be given. The proposed new courthouse, as designed, would be a public building of which the county could well be proud. A Colonial structure, in the shape of the letter H, built of red brick trimmed with limestone and adorned with an authentic cupola, the new courthouse would harmonize with the City Hall in Clayton and certain other public buildings in the county. After the recent sorry disregard of harmony in public building design at Jefferson City in connection with the new State Office Building, the good taste in this instance is all the more noticeable.

THE POOR OLD ATLANTIC.

These are trying days for the once proud Atlantic Ocean. First, Howard Hughes floats serenely across it, he and his staff, in their mobile laboratory, discussing celestial scenery, chatting casually with both hemispheres, a journey through the air, say, with all the penthouse comforts. Second, Douglas Corrigan thumbs his nose at the erstwhile "gray and melancholy waste," reducing the endless expanse to the old swimming hole. Third, a British pick-a-pack plane leap-frogs from an Irish airport to Montreal, and fourth, the German catapult, Nordmeer, a 19-ton boat, says goodnight to the Azores and good morning to Port Washington, N. Y.

As Howard Hughes sees it, the Atlantic will continue to be the favorite park, or downs, or track for the America Cup races, and over yonder the toffs and cockneys will be there, as usual, to cheer the purple-masted yacht's blessing on the royal regatta. Bathing-suited beauties will still promenade the fashionable sands, and hardy swimmers will find stimulants in salty dips. But the way of a ship at sea, which baffled Solomon, is headed for extinction, and the mutinies and piracies and naval thunderings will hereafter be recounted in the sagas of the skies.

We'll travel by air in palatial leviathans that won't so much as get their feet wet. So says Howard Hughes. He vaguely outlines the picture. Fortunately there is another Hughes, of the same family, who is equipped to tell us all about it, in all the aspects, nuances and tangents of actuality ere yet the new day comes. Rupert Hughes, uncle of the aviator, with a fictional birth rate of a novel a year before Hollywood took him away, could very well report realistically the vision of his nephew. He could take off from the field where Kipling long ago made a prophetically happy landing.

There's a yarn that must be craving to be told.

THE CAMPAIGN WAXES GAY.

If the current primary campaign has been lacking in good, clean fun, it is hardly the fault of James J. Quinn, a candidate for County Judge of St. Louis County. Mr. Quinn has invented a kind of double-barreled Townsend plan, applicable to young as well as old, along with a generous cut in everybody's tax bill. Whether he does it with mirrors or some new form of occultism is not yet apparent. Anyway, here is what he pledges himself to do:

First: To give all political jobs to young men and women under 35 years of age, rotating these jobs every four to six months.

Second: For people over 35, an opportunity to make a living without working for a boss!

Third: Decided reduction in taxes!

(Exclamation points Mr. Quinn's.)

Voters are further lured with a line reading: "One cent may get you a job," followed by an injunction to put a one-cent stamp on a postcard and send it in before the primaries. The rotating jobs, he says, will be drawn from a wheel. "First come! First served!"

The line forms at the right—and don't shove.

A CONGRESSMAN ON CONGRESS.

After a term in Congress, Bruce Barton of New York has discussed his fellow-members in a magazine article which was reprinted, in part, on this page Wednesday. The author speaks well of his associates. He is not effusive. He has obviously tried to assay honestly the character and ability of the men we elect to make our national laws.

As an important advertising executive, Mr. Barton is thoroughly familiar with the ways of business leaders. His comparative judgment is that Congressmen as a whole work longer hours than do business executives. They live modestly, for the most part. Notwithstanding their salaries and perquisites, the continuous demands upon them cut deeply into their incomes. It is optional with them, Mr. Barton concedes, as to the amount of work they do. Some of them drift lazily along. Those who do, drift quickly out. The men who stay in Congress and win position and esteem are hard workers. Their office lights burn late.

Another thing that surprised Mr. Barton was the "little difference there is between Republicans and Democrats." Each party has its conservatives and its radicals. Rarely does the House divide along party lines on an important question. The explanation is simple. "The problems of today are not political, but economic." As exponents of contending philosophies, Jefferson and Hamilton are historical voices silenced by the sweep of industrial evolution.

And what of the folks back home? Naturally, the Congressman wants to please his constituents. Do they insist that he bring home the bacon? Too often that is the case. Our elected persons in many instances writhe under the pressure, but the alternative is deliver or go.

Walt Whitman may again be quoted: "To have great poets, we must have great audiences." The idea is widely applicable. To have great public servants, we must have great electors. In an opinion of moment, Chief Justice Hughes once spoke of "the conscience of the sovereign." But our sovereignty ultimately abides at the polls and expresses itself in the ballot. In the exercise of the franchise, we determine the caliber of our statesmanship.

"LASH LURE" SUCCUMBS.

The first preparation to be seized under the new Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act is "Lash Lure," credited by the Food and Drug Administration with having caused severe eye injury to numerous women, including a number of cases of total blindness.

Until the new law was passed, the Food and Drug Administration was powerless to take action against harmful cosmetics, no matter how flagrant the offense. In this case, the manufacturing company apparently had misgivings as to its own product. Inclosed in each package were slips to be signed by the customers, absolving the beauty shop, distributor and manufacturer from blame if the use of the preparation resulted in injury.

But now "Lash Lure," with its dangerous component of paraphenylene diamine, can no longer pass in interstate commerce. The new law, finally passed without the emasculating "injunction joker," gives irresponsible drug manufacturers short shrift. A sense of protection is imparted by the knowledge that it is being put promptly into effect.

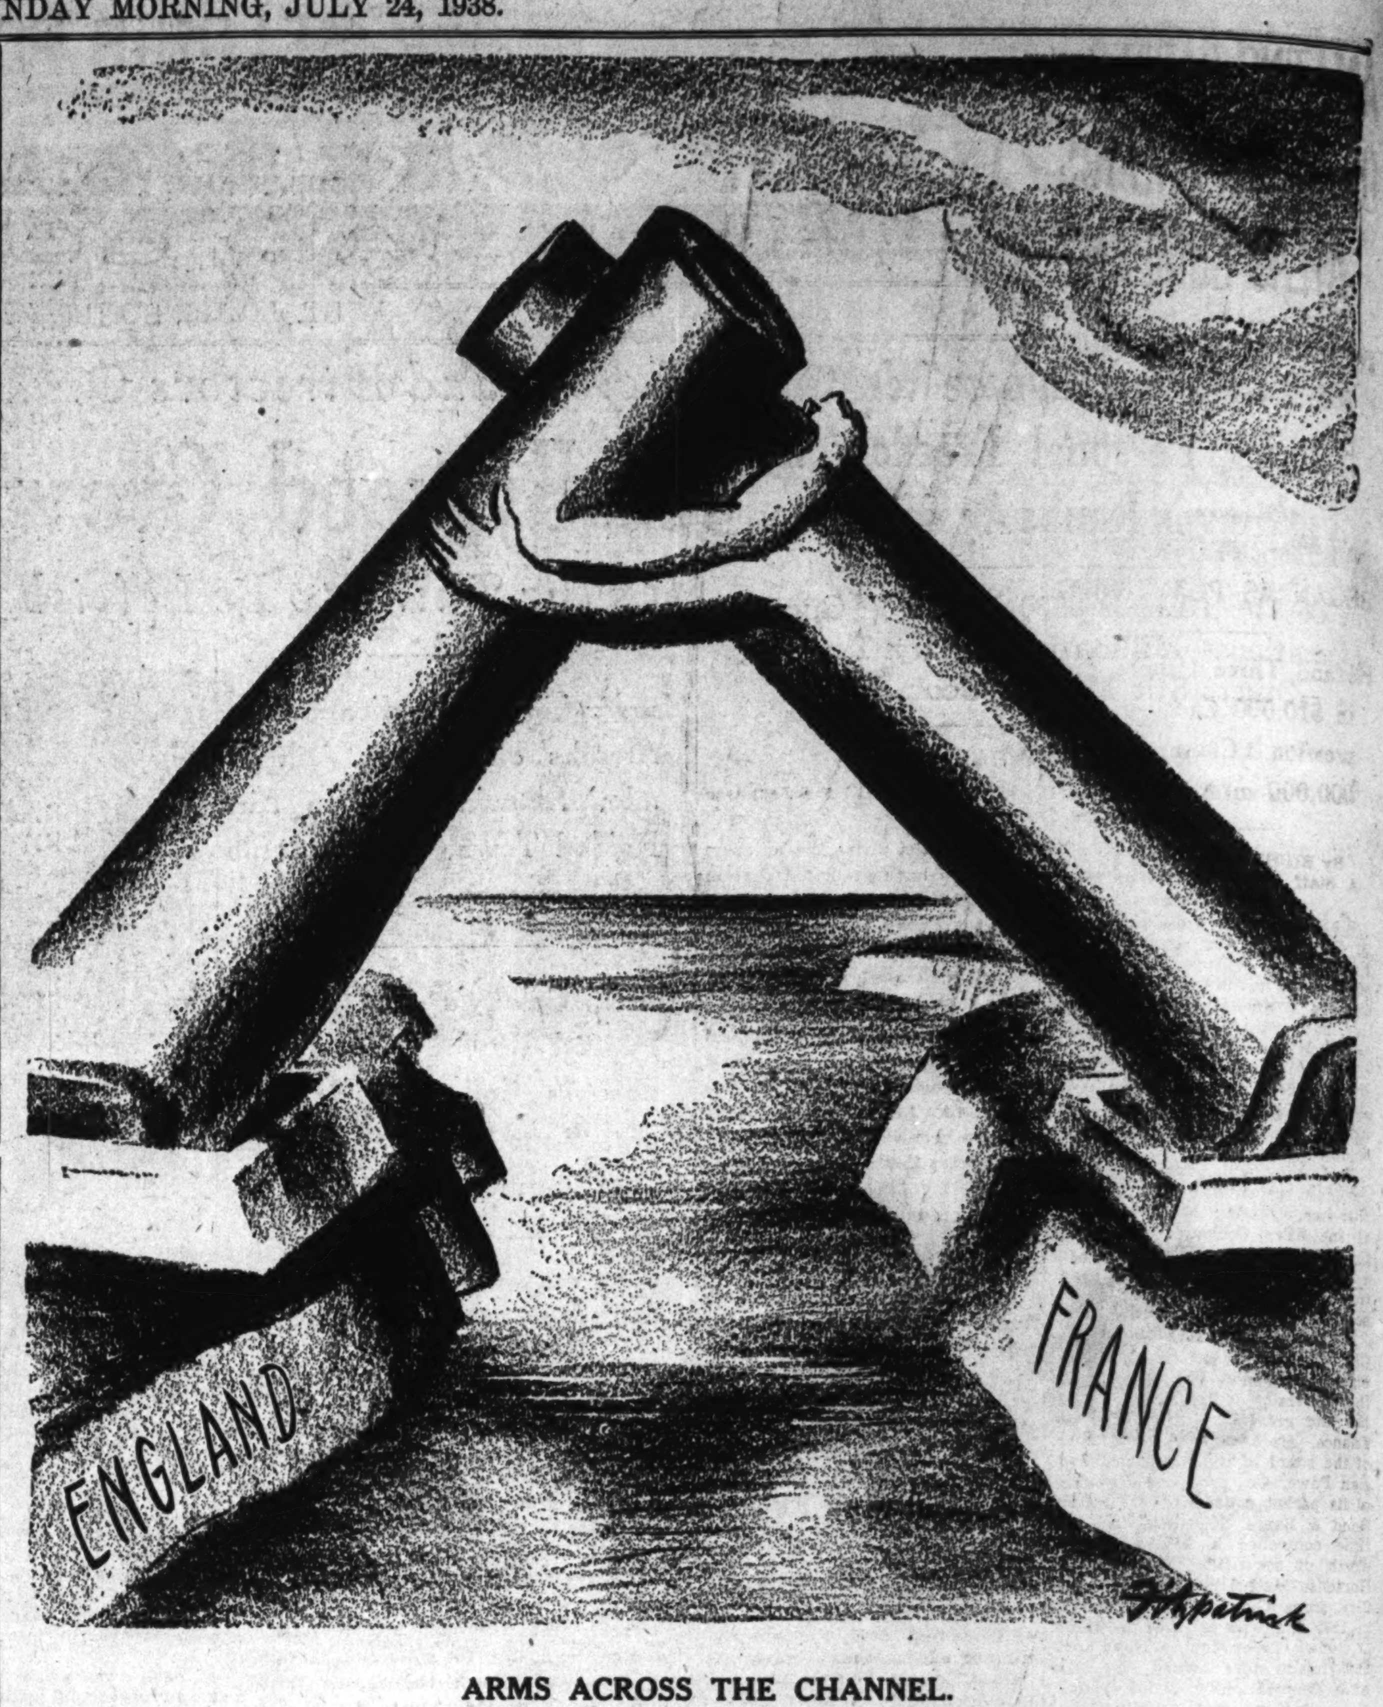
So Italy will contest Japan's bid for the 1944 Olympics. Keep your eye on Mussolini. He'll be tweaking the Mikado's nose yet.



ARMS ACROSS THE CHANNEL.

The Odds Against War in Europe

English observer says danger of a major European conflict has been exaggerated; Italy has no reserves of food or money and is occupied with Ethiopian disorders; Germany also has poor crops and her march into Austria demonstrated military weakness; thinks Japan, if victorious in China, will consent to share markets.

George Malcolm Thompson in the London Evening Standard.

WE LIVE in days of fear. Gloom is our companion and apprehension our guide. And most of the gloomy prophecies that are current will not stand one moment's steady inspection.

For instance, there is the war panic. What is the source of it?

The confused notion is that because there is one war in Spain and another in China, we ourselves are about to be plunged into conflict.

But war is not an infectious disease. It is just as likely that the horrible spectacle of war in Spain or China will be a deterrent upon the war impulse.

I make this prophecy:

There will be no European war now nor for a long time to come.

Who is going to make war? Where are we to seek the evildoer who is about to plunge us into that calamity?

Italy? Nothing could be more improbable.

The Italians have an embarrassing and inglorious war on their hands as it is. In Abyssinia they have an enterprise of colonial development that will call for all their resources—and maybe more.

The Italian national economy is feeling the strain. Last year they had an adverse trade balance of $290,000,000. This year that adverse balance will be bigger still. Unless they can reverse the balance, they will have to pay out gold. And their stock of gold probably amounts to $125,000,000 or less.

Their harvest has been a failure. They must now import wheat. Now wars are not made on bad harvests. War goes with the bursting granary.

In that event, where does Germany stand? If that country is our other source of anxiety, what message do we get from the harvest fields of the Reich? A message of cheer.

Germany is importing three times as much wheat as she did last year.

In any case, people have an entirely mistaken notion about German strength and readiness for war. They pay too much attention to the speeches of German politicians and too little to the equipment of German soldiers.

The German divisions that marched into Austria were poorly equipped. Their tanks were of inferior type. Their airplanes were obsolete. They may have impressed the Austrians, but they did not have much effect on the trained observers of foreign Powers, including the Americans and the Poles.

Still, it may be said, the claim of the Sudeten Germans to be united to the Reich may precipitate war.

Again I make a prophecy:

The Sudeten Germans will make a settlement with the Czechs, accepting a measure of autonomy within Czechoslovakia.

Why? Because while they remain in that country they serve as an instrument of Hitler's policy within the Czech state. They can exert pressure upon the direction of Czech policy useful to Germany.

Besides, the Sudeten Germans dwell in one of the depressed areas of Europe. If he added them to his subjects, Hitler would be taking over a people whose standard of life is lower than that of his own people and who are afflicted with a severe degree of unemployment.

What of the other supposed danger spot? What of Spain?

Franco cannot clean up that country for a long time. Even when he has made an end of the enemies who face him, he has still to deal with the foes who lurk in his rear—some of them in his own ranks. The moment he has finished with Barcelona and Valencia, the disaffection among his followers will find its opportunity.

Franco has taken too much foreign assistance to be a satisfactory leader for a Nationalist Spain. He appeals to national pride—from behind a hedge of foreign bayonets. So his appeal is not impressive.

In the Far East, I predict that the Japanese will follow a more conciliatory policy toward Britain. They will do so because they realize that it pays them better to share the China market with us than to shut us out of it altogether.

If they were proposing to close the market to us, they would require to conquer and hold down all China. The job is too big.

The Germans are just as anxious to use their influence with the Japanese to prevent a complete conquest of China and a complete closure of the market to us. For if we were shut out, they would be shut out, too. And the Germans sell half as much again to the Chinese as we do.

Nor would the Germans be pleased to see the Japanese, their allies, exhausting themselves in an endless war and military occupation of China. Germany will prefer the Japanese to keep their hands free and their strength undamaged so that some day, if need arise, they may march against Russia.

But, apart from any local considerations, there are lasting principles which make war much more of a gamble than some foolish people seem to think.

The defense will always beat the attack.

Other things being equal, the men who advance to the assault are beaten by brave and well equipped defenders. In the Middle Ages the bow beat the charging knight. In the last war the machine gun beat the advancing infantryman.

If there are new instruments at the disposal of the aggressor now, be sure that they will be countered by the ingenuity of man. Invention is always met by counter-invention. The tank meets the anti-tank gun, the submarine succumbs to the depth charge, the mine is circumvented by the paravane.

Today defense is stronger than ever, owing to development of the rapid-firing gun.

As for air attacks, I am among those who say that the menace of the bomber to London is exaggerated. I believe that London cannot be destroyed by attack from the air, despite the new age in warfare.

TOUGH ON HOLLYWOOD.

From Punch (London).

A film critic regrets that Dickens never finished "Edwin Drood." It was certainly cruel and thoughtless of him to leave no ending for Hollywood to alter.

E Pluribus Unum

From the Baltimore Evening Sun.

PRESIDENT FRANK P. GRAHAM of the University of North Carolina is a good phrase maker. In an address to the National Conference of Jews, Catholics and Protestants at Charlottesville, Va., he made this striking statement:

"The haven of heretics in the day of its weakness should not, in the days of its strength, become the stronghold of bigots."

It is a curious fact that when the United States had 3,000,000 people and practically no weapons, it wasn't afraid of flesh; but now that it has collected 125,000,000 people and such a store of armaments, actual and potential, as no Caesar ever dreamed of having, it is terrified of shadows.

How else can one classify the horror of ideas that permeates the country today? The German revolutionists of 1848 were people who not only frankly advocated overthrowing governments by force and violence but had actually tried it in their own country; yet they were welcomed here. Carl Schurz was as hateful to the German Government of his time as Leon Trotsky is to the Russian Government today; but the United States blithely took a chance on him and richly was it repaid.

There are inordinately tidy minds to which all differences are abhorrent; who shudder to think a young girl should say to her parent, "Yes, mother," in New England and "Yes, ma'am," in the South; who are convinced that "sir" in the mouth of a man is always and everywhere a badge of servility and who miss altogether the stately punctilio that it connotes when an old Southern gentleman occasionally uses it to a young one; and who are scandalized that there are regions where "damn rascal" is the epithet that starts the shooting.

When differences so slight offend our standardizers, is it any wonder that they frantically oppose differences in matters that really count? Yet most of the richness and much of the strength of American civilization derives from its characteristic variety. It is clear enough now that the United States actually won the War of 1812 at Ghent, where the peace conference met; and the power of our great delegation there lay in the fact that it included John Quincy Adams, Henry Clay and Albert Gallatin, all typical Americans, but personalities as widely different as men well could be. Each contributed to the combination a peculiar sort of strength that the others could not supply.

President Graham, perhaps, covers too much territory. America will be well advised to let the world alone; but certainly there is no greater or more pressing need than to make the United States safe for differences.

ITALY'S OVERSIGHT.

From the Chicago Daily News.

BY one of those telling coincidences that make news doubly significant to the observant reader, a book was announced this week-end in which Premier Mussolini praises Italy's military-mindedness, while the Italian press expressed satisfaction that the Chaco dispute is being settled outside the League of Nations. What appears to have been overlooked in Rome and thereabouts is that the promised settlement of the Chaco dispute is being achieved by methods or abritration.

Contrast this method with that by which Il Duce "settled" his "dispute" with Ethiopia, or with that being followed by him in the name of "non-intervention" in Spain, and one can only wonder what satisfying similarity Il Duce's press finds between the Fascist method and that which promises peace with honor in South America.

AMAZING CAREER OF ODLUM AND HIS ATLAS COMPANY

Drive to Capture $19,000,000 Cash in Utilities Power & Light Treasury Leads to S E C Survey.

INVESTMENT TRUST BEGAN AS PLAYTHING

He and Three Others Put in $10,000 Each, in Depression It Claimed $114,000,000 in Assets.

By RICHARD L. STOKES,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Floyd B. Odlum's current drive on two fronts for the capture of $19,000,000 of idle cash in the treasury of the Utilities Power & Light Corporation has called attention to the fact that the Securities and Exchange Commission will be in the near future publish an exhaustive survey of his investment trust, the Atlas Corporation, based on five volumes of testimony and exhibits.

This study will rehearse one of the most spectacular romances of post-war big business—the growth of the Atlas Corporation from a financial "plaything" of $40,000 to a giant which in its heyday controlled many great companies and boasted assets of $114,000,000.

Born March 20, 1892, at Union City, Mich., the son of a clergyman, Odlum was graduated from the University of Colorado, studied law and gravitated into corporate finance. He became vice-chairman of the board of the American Foreign Power Co., and vice-president of its parent concern, the Electric Bond & Share Co., which at one time controlled a billion dollars worth of securities. He married Hortense McQuarrie of Salt Lake City, from whom he was divorced in 1935 and who is now president of Bonwit Teller, Inc., a New York department store owned by the Atlas Corporation.

"For the Fun of It."

Mr. and Mrs. George Howard were their intimate friends. Howard was attorney for the companies in which Odlum was an officer, and later became president of United Corporations, a Morgan investment trust. In 1923 the Odlums and Howards put up $10,000 each, or $40,000 in all, and incorporated themselves as the United States Co. To begin with, Odlum testified at a S E C hearing, this was "a small incorporated fund of four individuals for what might be called the fun of it." He described the enterprise as a "hobby," and related that "we set aside a certain amount of funds to see what could be done with it."

What was done proved so alluring that other friends clamored for admission. Five years later the United States Co. had assets of $600,000, half derived from appreciations and half from contributed capital. Late in 1928 Odlum took out letters patent in Canada for the Atlas Utilities & Investment Co., Ltd., dissolved the United States Co., turned over its assets, now valuel at $800,000, to the Canadian company, and sold to friends $3,000,000 of additional stock in the latter.

In July, 1929, Odlum dissolved the Canadian concern and transferred its properties, by then worth $5,800,000, to the Atlas Corporation, which he chartered in Delaware and domiciled in New Jersey. He then sold $11,000,000 of stock in the Atlas Corporation to friends and business acquaintances. It is one of the financier's boasts that he never published a prospectus or offered an issue of securities to the public.

Flourished in Depression.

While other enterprises crashed on all sides, the Atlas Corporation, throughout the depression, waxed and flourished, thanks to a strategy devised by Odlum, its president from the beginning and, in his own words, its "dominant influence." As an expert "in the know," he was aware that the market prices of many bonds were as little as half their inherent value. So he embarked on a vast campaign of absorbing one great investment trust after another.

The record shows that, when a trust was marked for swallowing, he first turned attention to the interests possessing managerial or voting control. To obtain their "co-operation," it is declared, his practice was to purchase their holdings not at the market but at their actual value, or even in excess of the latter. Then, without interference, he was able to engulf the remaining securities at market prices, often at a profit of 100 per cent. Either he paid cash for such holdings, or merged them into the Atlas Corporation at their intrinsic value, with gratifying effects upon its capitalization.

Among the investment trusts which vanished into the cavernous maw of Atlas was the Goldman-Sachs Trading Corporation of New York. In its portfolio Odlum discovered 9000 shares of preferred stock, listed as "substantially worthless" in the Public Utilities Securities Corporation, an affiliate of Utilities Power & Light and a depository for quantities of its preferred and common stock. It was Odlum's first contact with the enterprise which Harley L. Clarke of Chicago started on a small scale in 1915, and which he built into a colossus with $70,000,000 capital and control of some 21 subsidiaries, among them three Missouri utilities—the Laclede Gas Light Co., the Laclede Power & Light Co. and the Missouri Natural Gas Co. In addition, it formerly owned the bankrupt St. Louis Gas & Coke Corporation of Granite City, Ill. This was likewise—so far, to his cost—Odlum's first adventure among holding companies.

He Dethroned Clarke.

The S E C study will trace at full length the familiar story of how Odlum dethroned Clarke, Napoleon of Utilities Power & Light; and the process through which the former acquired a lien on enough of its voting stock to insure control, which he has avoided exercising; how he became the corporation's major creditor through purchasing at depression prices $28,000,000 in face value of its $48,000,000 debentures outstanding; and how, by means of an adroit sale of its properties in England, he placed in the company's treasury enough cash to redeem a large proportion of these debentures at a handsome profit to himself.

The net proceeds of the sale amounted to $25,000,000, and the problem was how to transfer this cash to the account of the Atlas Corporation. At first, all went swimmingly. The directors voted to spend an initial million of the British money, and of this $950,000 was used to retire Utilities Power & Light debentures. But abruptly a number of perilous snags emerged from the smooth current of the financier's operations.

A subsidiary in Delaware proved unable to refund a bond issue, and the directors were compelled to go to its rescue with $5,000,000 of the British cash, which had now shrunk to $19,000,000. Finally, the Utilities Power & Light Corporation itself fell into the hands of the bankruptcy courts for reorganization.

A Shift in Plans.

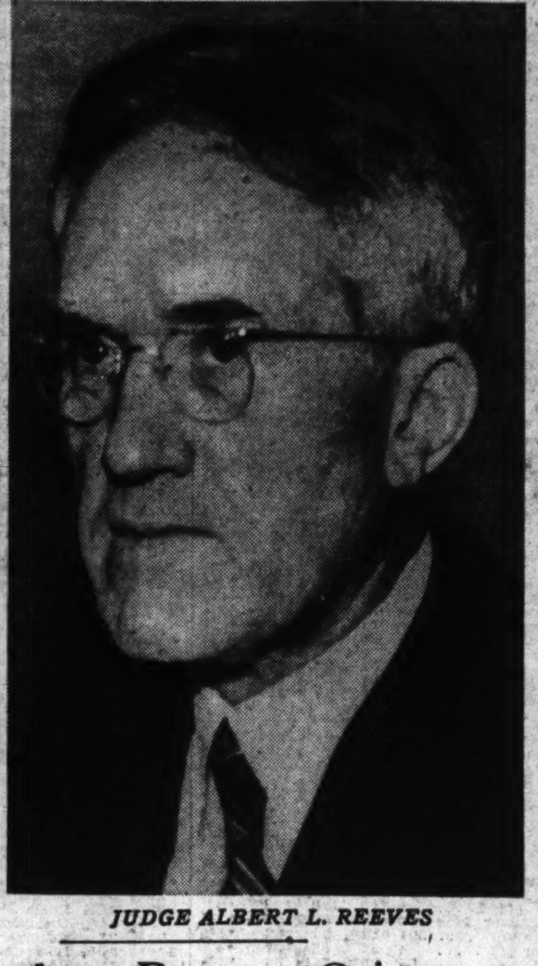
Odlum had now to deal not with a board of directors, docile before his power as majority owner of voting stock, but with a United States District Court and the Securities and Exchange Commission. But the financier's determination to gain his end redoubled. First, according to evidence in the record, he tried to borrow, through Charles True Adams, reorganization trustee, $15,000,000 of the English money. That having fallen through, Adams filed before the S E C an application for authority to use $12,000,000 for purchasing U. P. & L. debentures, of which it was calculated $7,000,000 would fall in the lap of the Atlas Corporation. When it became apparent that this device was likely to be judged illegal, Odlum hastily prepared a new reorganization plan for Utilities Power & Light, concerning which the S E C will begin hearings Aug. 8. This scheme is so drawn, it appears, as to be even more favorable to Odlum than the Adams plan, and quite as disastrous to the stockholders.

While the Atlas Corporation found its great opportunity in the 1933 depression, it appears to have suffered some hard knocks in the present one. According to informed sources in Washington, its resources have declined to something like $60,000,000. There is on file at the S E C a memorandum, with notes in Odlum's handwriting, purporting to show that Atlas today controls only seven corporations.

It owns, according to this exhibit, 72 per cent of the voting stock of Bonwit Teller, Inc., with a value placed at $1,300,393, and $893,980 of stock in Franklin Simon & Co., Inc., another New York department store. The investment in Utilities Power and Light Corporation is listed at nearly $28,000,000 in debentures, besides 58 per cent of the voting stock, on which no valuation is placed. Atlas enjoys a 50-50 partnership with the Fascist Government in the ownership of Italian Super-Power Corporation, its share being rated at $617,414; an interest of $4,903,545 in the Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corporation, one of $1,400,000 in the Mississippi Valley Barge Line Co., and another of $676,400 in Albert Pick Co., Inc.

Federal Judicial Team in Kansas City

JUDGE MERRILL E. OTIS



JUDGE ALBERT L. REEVES

U. S. Judges Reeves, Otis And the Vote Fraud Cases

leaders the practice collapsed. Many defendants threw themselves on the mercy of the Court, accepting much lighter sentences then they would have had on convictions. Subsequently it was learned that some of those who had stood trial and had appealed wanted to plead guilty to take advantage of judicial clemency or at least testify on their own behalf, but they were forbidden so to do. A grand jury is trying to find out who forbade them.

"The first battle is finished," Judge Otis said. "The time has come to show mercy to a fallen foe. Besides, the primary purpose of punishment is to deter others. It does not do the individual much good. Nor were the reduced sentences relative. One year in the penitentiary is not half of two. It is the disgrace that counts more than the confinement, and that takes effect when the door shuts for the first time. When a man goes to the penitentiary he has a life-long memory. The first hour is the hardest."

Too harsh penalties may cripple the administration of justice as much as too much leniency, the Judge continued. He expressed an opinion that if the maximum sentence of 10 years had been imposed on any vote fraud defendant, no subsequent jury would have returned a conviction. He is not disposed to fix maximum sentences in any event.

Asked to give his concept of the judiciary, the Judge said he entertained "the greatest reverence for the judicial office."

"I regard it as almost sacred," he said, "for the Judge is the chief guardian of justice. His sole purpose is to secure justice between men. He is not an advocate. In the United States he is the chief guardian of the Constitution. He is entrusted with the protection of human liberty and human rights. He should be their chief exponent."

Goal of Ethical Lawyer.

The goal that the ethical lawyer should set is a simple one, he added. It is to secure "no more justice than his client deserves and as much."

It is a source of comment to both Judge Otis and Reeves that although 90 per cent of their cases are civil, the 10 per cent of criminal cases on their dockets receive "90 per cent of the publicity." Many of their decisions in civil matters have turned on constitutional considerations, but that is another story.

Their most painful task is listening to a mother's plea. No one is ever turned away, but, as Judge Otis remarked:

"It is so distressing. You can't reason with a mother. You can only listen to her."

As far as sentencing goes, it was pointed out that experienced Judges find every case falls into "mental pigeonholes" of precedent. During prohibition, for instance, sentences imposed by Judges Reeves and Otis were approximately the same. Judge Otis, however, enforced prohibition because it was the law; Judge Reeves, a teetotaller and a pillar of the Baptist church, regarded it also as a moral advance but performed his duties without prejudice.

Judges' Early Careers.

Prior to his appointment to the bench, Judge Otis was assistant Solicitor-General of the United States under the eminent James M. Beck. He established a record of arguing 23 cases before the United States Supreme Court in less than nine months. Previously he was assistant Attorney-General of Missouri under Jesse W. Barrett, in 1921, and was then made chairman of the State Public Service Commission.

Judge Reeves resigned as a Commissioner of the Missouri Supreme Court to accept his Federal judgeship. From 1909 to 1913 he was counsel for the State Insurance Department. As a young State Representative in 1901, he was instrumental in establishing the death penalty for kidnapers in Missouri.

The private lives of the jurists are as far apart as the poles. Both are approachable in their chambers, cordial, likeable; but there the resemblance ceases. Judge Reeves, who has a son, two daughters and grandchildren, is socially inclined. He participates in social and church activities and has conducted a Bible class for years. Fond of fishing and hunting, he takes vacations in summer and fall. Widely read, he has many interests, is fond of anecdotes, and is an authority on the early history of the West.

"The Life of a Hermit."

Judge Otis never takes a vacation. He abominates physical exercise of any kind. Except for a small circle of intimate friends, he leads, as he remarked, the "life of a hermit."

Except to teach a law school class or to make an occasional address, particularly before the American Bar Association, in which he is a moving spirit, he divides his time between his home and office. His daughter was graduated last month from the University of Missouri, of which he is an alumnus, and intends to take post-graduate work.

Judge Otis begins his day at 5 o'clock. By 7 he is in his chambers, hard at work. He is usually abed by 10 p. m. Once he smoked an "endless chain" of cigarettes. Now he does not smoke at all.

Interested in "everything in the field of learning," he has a curious mental relaxation which he terms "my daily vacation." It consists of reading the ancient Greek and Roman classics for an hour or so. Many of his judicial papers reflect his classical knowledge. An admirer of Abraham Lincoln, he is an authority on Lincolniana. An ardent constitutionalist, he is a recognized authority on constitutional law.

Human, Alert, Humorous.

Despite his "life of the intellect," he is not cold, pedantic or detached in manner. Intensely human, always alert, he is an engaging public speaker with a gift for pithy phrases, humorous satiric comment, frequently at his own expense. He delights in munching hamburgers, at the same time rapidly reading a newspaper, proffering terse comments on the news of the day. Like Judge Reeves, however, who once sentenced the son of an intimate to the penitentiary, he is inflexible where duty is concerned, is not swayed by personal considerations.

Although he professes no religion, he carries in his pocket a Latin Bible, reads it regularly, sometimes on the bus, to maintain familiarity with the classical language. He knows the Bible thoroughly.

Of its professional exponents he once observed publicly in characteristic fashion:

"I am not a poet. Were I a poet, I might summon from the open stretches the breezes that soothe the fevered brow. I might picture rippling meadow brooks meandering by clumps of trees cooling with their shade. I might unfurl a panorama of fields of golden grain undulating before summer zephyrs. I might picture to you, as David did, the still waters, the green pastures.

"But I am not a poet. When men speak to me in praise of fertile fields, I do not feel the proper ecstasy. Rather, I see with the mind's eye two parallel rows of corn, seven feet high, in the burning month of August, and myself, armed with a hoe, slowly moving along through maze of morning glories and butterweeds growing thicker and thicker beneath a sun growing ever hotter until at last I am convinced that God has called me to the ministry."

Co-Operatives in Nova Scotia.

Recent trends in the development of co-operatives in Nova Scotia will be shown in a motion picture presented under auspices of the Catholic Worker and the Consumers' Co-operative of St. Louis Wednesday evening at 8:15 o'clock at the New Cathedral Auditorium, 4430 Maryland avenue. The. Rev. Raymond Marchino, diocesan director of the Catholic Rural Life Conference of Indianapolis, will explain the movement.

HEARING ON SOUTHERN FREIGHT RATES ENDS

Files of Case, in Which Reduction Is Sought, Are Sent to I. C. C.

By the Associated Press.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 23.—The fate of an attempt by Southern industry to increase its share in the rich northern consuming market rests with the Interstate Commerce Commission.

En route to Washington are the bulky files of evidence in I. C. C. docket No. 27746, State of Alabama vs. New York Central Railroad et al., some 400,000 words of it recorded here in a two-week hearing that ended yesterday.

The South seeks lower northbound freight rates on a long list of commodities. Northern interests contend their industrial system may be threatened if those rates are granted.

Identical Scale Sought.

The Southern petition asks, in effect, for identical scale of rates on northbound goods that are in effect within northern freight classification territory.

The United States east of the Mississippi is divided into two rate-making areas, separated roughly by the Ohio and Potomac rivers. Different sets of rates exist within these areas and on different commodities.

As a general rule, southern rates are higher. Rates on goods moving from the southern territory northward also are higher than in the North, since they are based on an average struck between the two.

Southern interests have argued the rate differential constitutes an unwarranted trade barrier.

Seven Governors of northern states either presented personally or had read into the records their protests against the southern petition.

Summary of Arguments.

Dozens of traffic experts, rate experts, statisticians and economists offered facts and figures in attempts to prove:

For the South—(1) That southern industry needs lowered freight rates so it can expand normally; (2) northern consumers will benefit by getting southern goods at competitive prices; (3) southern railroad operating costs are lower than those in the North, and so justify lower rates.

For the North—(1) That northern industry is hard pressed already to meet southern price competition; (2) southern industry enjoys so many natural advantages that the added benefit of lower rates will be "artificial aid," therefore unjustified; (3) the resulting acceleration of industrial migration to the South will upset the country's economic balance.

One main argument put forth by the North was not allowed in the records when offered in the form of statistics. This was the argument that lower wage levels exist in the South and constitute an undue advantage for the South.

Issuing of an examiner's report on the hearing, and arguments before the full commission are the next steps in the case. A decision on the application is not expected before early next year.

ST. CLAIR BOARD TO STUDY RIVER BRIDGE PLANS TUESDAY

Supervisors Will Consider Specifications and Authorize Issuance of $3,000,000 in Bonds.

The St. Clair County Board of Supervisors will meet Tuesday to consider plans and specifications of the $5,500,000 vehicle bridge to be built across the Mississippi River and to authorize the issuance of about $3,000,000 in bonds to finance the county's share of the cost.

The county has obtained a P W A grant of $2,475,000 for the bridge which will extend from St. Clair avenue in East St. Louis to a point on Broadway between Florida and Mullanphy streets in St. Louis. Bonds are to be retired by tolls of 10 cents for passenger vehicles and 15 cents for trucks.

A contract for sale of the bonds has been made with the Chicago investment firm, H. C. Speer & Sons.

NEW U. S. FIREARMS LAW

Act Controlling Interstate Shipment Effective July 30.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—The Copeland Firearms Act goes into effect July 30. President Roosevelt signed the measure June 30, two weeks after Senator Copeland's death.

It requires all firearms manufacturers and dealers to obtain licenses from the Bureau of Internal Revenue and prohibits interstate shipment of firearms to any person convicted of, or indicted in connection with, a crime of violence, or to any person lacking a State permit if such permits are required. The measure also prohibits shipment or receipt of a stolen firearm through channels of interstate commerce.

"Garcia Message" Carrier Honored.

By the Associated Press.

HAVANA, July 23.—The Cuban Government sent its highest civilian award yesterday to the man who delivered the famous "Message to Garcia." The decoration was awarded last Feb. 25 to Maj. Andrew Summer Rowan, U. S. A., retired, now ill in a San Francisco hospital. It was ordered from Paris and was delivered here recently. Maj. Rowan was a Second Lieutenant in the United States army when he was sent to deliver the historic message to Gen. Calixto Garcia, a Cuban leader in the Spanish-American War.

Chinese Women Win Own Freedom Fighting Enemy

marched from Yunnan province on the Burmese border to the Lunghai front together with a unit of regular troops from the same province. China not only has manpower, it has womanpower as well.

So far as is known at the present time, no other province in China has attempted to train women as soldiers on a mass basis, although, as the story of the girl soldiers from Yunnan indicates, there have been isolated instances of women's battalions from other parts of the country. However, in Szechuan, a rich, densely populated province at the headwaters of the Yangtze River, girls in the colleges and middle schools (equivalent to an American high school) in Chungking, Chengtu and other large cities, have volunteered almost en masse to take the military training required of the boys in their schools. Eventually Szechuan will have its battalions of women soldiers.

China's women soldiers are more than soldiers in the ordinary sense of the term. Not only are they trained as marksmen for service at the front, but they are also used for a thousand and one tasks in the rear. And except in a few cases where their presence was vitally necessary to bolster up a crumbling defense, to fill in the huge gaps created by an appalling number of casualties, it has been the policy to use them in the rear guard positions. There their principal duty has been to secure the effective co-operation of the peasantry directly behind the lines.

Some of them have developed into excellent soap box orators and propagandists in the course of this work. In simple language they explain why China is fighting Japan and why every Chinese must do his part in trying to save the country. Then with the aid of these peasants they obtain a certain amount of care for the wounded and resting places for soldiers withdrawn temporarily from the front lines.

Some of these women have been trained as nurses, and, although all too few in number, they have at least been able to give first aid. But they do know how to cook, and, wherever a women's corps is stationed, the culinary department is in their complete care, not to mention the sewing department. One of these women, Miss Hsia Pin-yin, a well-known Chinese author, wrote to a friend in Hankow that, although the life was hard and the work strenuous, the girls in her group were happy. Their activities had to a large degree been successful, and they had even found enough spare time in which to write war poetry.

Leader Once Jailed by Nazis.

These battalions of women soldiers come from all walks of life. One such group was formed in Shanghai shortly after the outbreak of war in that city. The nucleus of the group was 30 former employes of a Japanese cotton mill, thrown out of work at the commencement of hostilities. Augmented by other women from closed factories in Shanghai, full-fledged nurses, girl students from the city's schools and colleges, and a number of youthful girl guides (an institution similar to the American Girl Scouts), they immediately embarked on a course of training to fit themselves to render aid to the troops in every conceivable way. But theory for once was combined with practice, and the group saw service behind the front lines in Shanghai. When the Chinese armies were forced to retreat, these women soldiers went with them. According to the latest reports, they are now somewhere in Anhwei Province, still intact as a group although they have suffered many casualties.

The leader of this women's corps, Miss Hu Lan-chi, is a story in herself. Now known as China's Joan of Arc, this young woman, not yet out of her twenties, is a returned student from Germany. Miss Hu was studying at the Hocheschule fur Politik (German Political Institute) in Berlin at the time Hitler came into power in 1933. As a Chinese and a citizen of a semi-colonial country, she was naturally interested in any movement against imperialism and thus for sometime had been a member of the Anti-Imperialist League. On account of her activity in this organization, she was arrested and served a short prison term. On her return to China shortly after her release, she wrote a book, "Diary in a German Prison," giving a graphic account of her experiences as a prisoner of the Nazis.

From High School to War.

Another one of these defense corps of women soldiers is attached regularly to the Twentieth Route Army, now stationed in Honan province. This group was recruited originally from high schools attended by girls of wealthy family, although recently 1000 housewives and 500 singsong girls were added to the corps, making a total of 4500 divided into three units. While in training behind the lines these young women conducted campaigns for funds in order to provide soldiers at the front with the necessaries of life, as well as a few of the comforts.

Since going to the front, they have engaged primarily in propaganda work among the peasants, and they have seen to the proper distribution of the supplies purchased from the funds raised while they were in training. Their leader is Miss Nancy Wen-tien Wang, a young woman barely out of her twenties. Miss Wang, like her compatriot, Miss Hu, is also a German returned student and since 1936 has been a lecturer in economics at Honan Provincial University.

Another famous young woman in China these days is Miss Yang Hui-min, a girl guide whose home was in Manchuria until the Japanese invasion of 1931-1932. Miss Yang saw service with a Chinese army near Mukden at that time. When the Chinese were forced to retreat from Shanghai, the so-called "Doomed Battalion" was left behind to cover their rear. Eventually this battalion was massacred almost to the last man; they went down fighting under the Chinese flag which Miss Yang had brought them at tremendous personal danger to herself. Together with Miss Yao Jui-fang, a girl comrade from her days with the Manchurian army, and five other young women, Miss Yang has now gone to the front along the Peiping-Hankow Railway.

Cobbling, Teaching, Knitting.

Far behind the lines other women are working, their activities not so spectacular as those of the women soldiers, but nonetheless as valuable. Throughout the country groups are engaged in caring for the refugees, arranging camps for them, feeding and clothing them. More are devoting themselves to teaching refugee children and adults. Others are making shoes, cooking and knitting for the soldiers.

No drive for war funds in any of China's cities has been complete without women to take up the contributions, to render the newest patriotic songs on the streets. In the hospitals full-fledged nurses care for the wounded, other are in training. Women messengers help to keep the lines of communication open between the armies and the population at the rear; often they bring gifts of food and clothing to the soldiers, sent them by relatives and friends.

"The present national crisis has brought home to Chinese women a new consciousness of their responsibility and a reassessment of their value and indispensability," declared Mme. Chiang Kai-chek recently. It is true, in the minds and hearts of Chinese women from the lowliest coolie or peasant woman to Mme. Chiang herself, a new spirit is abroad, a spirit of co-operation to the end that the aggressor may be driven from Chinese soil.

In the struggle, in day-to-day activities, Chinese women are coming to look on themselves with different eyes. They are on the road at last from slavery to freedom, from being hard-working nonentities to personalities, strong in the knowledge of their value to China. Now the movement is not confined to the daughters and wives of the wealthy, nor to the intellectuals and students. Among China's peasant women, her factory workers, and singsong girls, there is the dawning vision of another world. If Japan should conquer China, will they forget?

Hollywood Movie Folk Grow Labor Conscious

Finally the Labor Board supervised an election in each studio with the result that a majority of writers on every lot voted with the Guild. The total was 271 for the Guild and 57 for the Screen Playwrights, Inc.

The producing companies have ignored this action, refusing recognition, holding on one score that they are not engaged in interstate commerce and therefore not subject to the Wagner Act. Leonard Janovasky, attorney for the Guild, has said that he will take the case to the courts if recognition is not granted shortly.

Objectives of the Guild.

The president of the Screen Writers' Guild is Dudley Nichols, former New York newspaper man. In his absence in the East, the vice-president, Charles Brackett, discussed the background and objectives of the organization, incidentally dispelling certain illusions about the salary range for writers.

The Guild claims a membership of upward of 600 members. This includes screen writers who receive as low as $35 a week and as high as $4000 a week. No one would even guess at the salary average of Guild members. It seems doubtful, however, that more than 75 members receive as much as $1000 a week. Perhaps the majority of members are in the bracket from $100 to $750.

The Guild maintains a Hollywood office and a paid staff. Expenses during the past year have been high because of the legal costs involved in appearances before the Labor Board. The dues are $10 annually and special assessments are on a quarterly basis. Writer members receiving over $10,000 a quarter pay $50; over $5000 and less than $10,000, the assessment is $20, and so on down to nothing for those who receive less than $625 a quarter. The membership also includes, incidentally, many unemployed writers.

Opposed to Seven-Year Contract.

For memberships such as Robert Ryskin, who has just signed a five-year contract at $200,000 a year, or the writing team of Alan Campbell and Dorothy Parker, husband and wife who are reported to be paid $4000 a week, the Guild can, of course, bring no salary benefits; but Brackett and other leaders say that eventually it will bring about definite improvement in working conditions.

For example, the Guild is opposed to the seven-year contract in vogue here under which the company may or may not take up an option at end of every six-month period, the writer meanwhile remaining tied for the seven years. In the same way, the Guild opposes the studio practice of putting writers in competition with each other, turning the same script over to three or four men at the same time.

In a variety of ways the Guild aims to raise professional standards and give members a measure of security. Under a rule adopted by the Guild, no member may put a paid advertisement in a trade paper in connection with a preview showing of a picture. Formerly, unless a writer did pay for such an ad, the review in the paper was very likely to slur his work.

Recognizing that because of the element of creativity involved there can be no closed shop, the Guild nevertheless seeks a "Guild shop" which would mean that the studio could hire anyone as a writer provided only that the writer became a member of the Guild. Affiliated to the Authors' League of America, the Screen Writers' Guild is opposed to affiliation with either the A. F. of L. or the C I O. Closer co-operation with the Actors and the Directors' guilds is urged through the function of the inter-talent council.

Meetings Instead of Parties.

Hollywood parties meanwhile are sparsely attended as actors and writers go to meetings. One night it is the Anti-Nazi League, the next a meeting of the Studio Committee for Democratic Political Action and on the following night there is a Guild meeting. There is a perfect stir of organization and a vocabulary — collective bargaining, strike, labor relations—such as Hollywood never has heard before.

It is perhaps no mere coincidence that this comes at a time when the economic realities of the industry are becoming more and more circumscribed. About 43 per cent of the gross revenue of the average picture must come from foreign sales. It becomes increasingly difficult to show American films abroad, first because of quota and other restrictions, and, second, because of the political censorship imposed by foreign Powers. The Hays office and individual producers are constantly in touch with the German, the Chinese, the Japanese, the Italian consulates to find out whether this scene or that scene would be objectionable.

Moreover, with the war of the isms growing sharper even in America, the inclination to risk anything that might be remotely controversial grows smaller. Minority groups in this country are increasingly on the alert for propaganda they regard as unfavorable.

Ideas Not Welcomed.

It is not that films done on a modest scale and dealing in however limited a sense with ideas—pictures such as "The Informer" and "Gabriel Over the White House"—fail to make money. They often return a profit on the investment, as did these two; but they are not welcomed by exhibitors who want big names and spectacular pictures, or so the producers believe. The producer will not, therefore, risk such a picture very often, fearing he will discover one day that theaters are closed to his films.

The indication is that the Hays prohibition of films dealing with political material will receive little active opposition from any quarter in the industry. I have talked to a number of writers and several actors and producers and their opinions might be summed up as follows:

Yes, it is true that a half-dozen studios would like to make an anti-Nazi picture because if it were really good, it would be big box-office, but in all probability it will never be made. The State Department in Washington doesn't want it. The Hays office doesn't want it. Ever since it was established, the Hays office has exerted some discretion over ideas, apart from its chief function of weeding out improprieties and indecencies. Now it will exercise a frank control over idea content.

In short, most people in the industry seem more or less resigned to this development. They do their job and they have their organizations which give them satisfactions not to be found in their daily work.

All this has its intensely human side. Here is Joan Crawford's beautiful drawing room in the severe taste of a superlative decorator, and here is Joan Crawford, a girl who has come up through a very tough time to an income of several hundred thousand dollars a year. Her guests are not dancing, they are not drinking champagne, they are not talking about clothes and parties—they are having a serious discussion of minimum wage scales for extra players.

This is Hollywood in 1938!

EARLY PLAYGROUND FOUNDER TO BE HONORED THURSDAY

Speakers to Tell of Joseph Lee's Work at Memorial Exercises Throughout City.

Joseph Lee day, observed throughout the nation in honor of the late playground leader, will be marked in St. Louis Thursday by special exercises at all public school playgrounds and athletic fields.

At each playground community meeting, there will be a speaker on Lee's accomplishments. Programs will include singing, folk dancing, athletic demonstrations and displays of boys' and girls' handicraft.

Joseph Lee established one of the first playgrounds in the country in Boston in 1898. He was president of the National Recreation Association from 1910 until his death a year ago. He was given the Distinguished Service Medal for his work as president of the War Camp Community Service during the World War.

SECOND DIVISION VETERANS TO MEET IN CITY IN 1940

Selection of St. Louis by A. E. F. Men Is Announced by Convention Bureau.

The 1940 convention of the Second Division Association of the American Expeditionary Forces will be held in St. Louis, it was announced yesterday by the St. Louis Convention and Publicity Bureau. The meeting usually is attended by 700 to 1000 persons, the announcement said.

Smoke Inspector Fred H. Domke, a member of the association, assisted the bureau in obtaining the convention at the association's annual meeting last week in Chicago. The 1939 convention will be held in San Francisco.

Stocks Reach New High Level at Week-End, Breaking Through Peak of Mid-Year Rise Made July 2

Speculative Markets Find Support in Further Gains in Steel and Electric Power Output —Index Up 2.45 Points for Week.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 23.—Stock market leaders finished the week today with a rally that lifted numerous issues fractions to more than two points to new highs for 10 months or longer.

The list shuffled along indifferently until near the end of the final hour when a burst of buying in motors spread to virtually all other departments. The belated run-up was fast enough to put the ticker tape two minutes behind at the close.

The day's recovery wave was attributed mainly to broadening of business optimism which prompted considerable short covering and purchasing by speculative and investment contingents.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was ahead .6 of a point at 50.7, a new peak since Oct. 9, last year. On the week the composite showed a net advance of 2.5 points. The Dow-Jones average of 65 stocks was .65 higher for the day and 2.45 up for the week. Transfers totaled 776,240 shares, against 627,270 the preceding Saturday.

Total stock sales during the week amounted to 10,819,165 shares, compared with 8,037,630 a week ago and 5,500,810 corresponding week a year ago.

Amusements, weak recently following the Government's anti-trust suit against the principal film companies, came back strongly. Steels, coppers, rubbers, farm implements, oils, rails and specialties were in the forefront of the push.

Calm Period at Midweek.

Speculation for higher prices flared up brightly again in the early part of this week, then died down after the stock market had established itself moderately above the previous tops of the summer bull movement.

The record of July business gains, exceeding expectations for the hot season, continued to grow. Despite reluctance at times of many traders to follow stocks on the fresh advances, the market tides ran predominantly toward rising prices, notably in railroad bonds. Most commodities held their recent gains and some pushed ahead to extend the rise, including copper.

Emerging from the narrow range the market had occupied for about two weeks, stocks met heavy offerings and transactions rose to nearly 3,000,000 shares in one session as numerous important issues struggled through profit-taking and investment selling to plant the banner at higher levels. After this spurt, the market seemed content for a time to drop back into a walk for another breathing spell.

Encouraging bulls to resume the campaign for higher prices early in the week was increasing evidence of business improvement. Coming at this season, when vacations usually preoccupy attention and curtail business activity, the gains impressed observers. The chorus of predictions that business had turned the corner for another recovery journey made a harmonious theme for the bullish sentiment which took hold in speculative markets a few weeks ago.

Gain in Steel Output.

Standing out in the business news was another sharp spurt in steel production, lifting the industry's operating rate above 36 per cent of capacity compared with about 22 per cent after the Fourth of July shutdowns. The operating rate was the highest since November and further expansion was predicted in trade quarters, especially with the motor industry preparing to shift into manufacture of new models. Extra-seasonal gains were registered in electric power production, railroad carloadings, textile activity. The Associated Press weekly index of industrial activity climbed to 69.2 from 68.3. The upswing started from 65.8 early in the summer.

Action in Washington in pursuit of anti-monopoly policies and re-organization of utility holding company set-ups made Wall Street pause in its campaign for higher prices to contemplate possibilities of more moves in that quarter. Motion picture shares broke sharply on the filing of a Federal suit to force the big companies to divorce film production from theater ownership. The S E C sped its plans for physical integration of scattered power properties by picking Utilities Power & Light now undergoing re-organization for its initial laboratory overhauling in conformity with requirements of the so-called "death sentence" in the Utility Holding Company Act. Then it sought to enjoin Associated Gas & Electric, another holding company with diversified properties, from seeking extension in part of a maturing issue without S E C authorization.

Selling in the movie and power shares after these maneuvers in two of the most important fields of governmental policy for business control threw a wet blanket over bullish operations. Temporarily the whole market had a setback on the break in the movie group, but the sharp "technical" reaction heralded by some analysts failed to arrive. Instead the market resumed its narrow backing and filling.

Foreign Developments.

Although the July business upturn was rated the headline event of the week for the market, foreign developments drew more interest. Shifting attention abroad was a collapse in the Berlin stock market, face-making between Japan and Russia and reports of attempts to settle Central European issues as a prelude to more harmonious relations among the European Powers, notably Germany and England.

What the foreign news summed up to was hard for the average Wall streeter to decide. Some thought they detected war clouds again while others sniffed improvement in foreign affairs. But the foreign headlines seemed to contribute to the go-slow attitude in speculative camps and brought additional selling into foreign bonds, mainly Japanese loans.

Foreign dollars bonds on the whole remained in the dumps, in contrast with the lusty recovery in railroad and other domestic corporate issues. Nevertheless, the foreign list made some history with the announcement the Republic of Argentina was preparing to offer American investors a new $25,000,000 loan, the first important foreign issue not involving refunding to come before the capital market in several years.

Also emphasizing a promising revival in the new capital market was the addition of several corporate issues to the list of prospective offerings. Included were $36,500,000 in Toledo Edison obligations, $25,000,000 of Phillips Petroleum bonds and tentative preparations for $50,000,000 in new financing by another company.

Prominent on the sprint were General Motors, Chrysler, Yellow Truck, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Anaconda, Kennecott, U. S. Rubber, Goodrich, J. I. Case, International Harvester, Standard Oil of N. J., Texas Corp., Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Great Northern, Westinghouse, du Pont, Loew's, Paramount, National Cash Register, Eastman Kodak, Johns-Manville, American Tobacco "B" and Owens-Illinois.

Most utilities managed to edge forward, but the majority still lacked a great deal of support.

Railroad Bond Best.

Rail loans again came to the top in the bond department. Commodities were mixed. Wheat at Chicago lost ¾ to 1 cent a bushel and corn was down ¾ to 1⅛. Cotton was up 45 to 50 cents a bale. Foreign currencies were higher in terms of the dollar, sterling recovering ½-cent after its recent sag to the lowest of the year.

Curb market gains about equalled those on the "Big Board." Conspicuous on the advance here were Aluminum of America, Pantepec, American Cyanamid "B", St. Regis Paper and Technicolor. Sales were around 92,000 shares against 69,000 a week ago.

The weekly news gist was in favor of the recovery forces, although there were few developments that were hardly pleasing to Wall Street.

Motors had the benefit of brightening prospects for this industry. While the week's automobile output fell about 10,000 units, due mainly to suspensions in preparation for new models, a trade source in this field predicted that, with used cars being absorbed rapidly, an actual shortage of new vehicles might be encountered later in the year.

Climbing mill operations provided the impetus for steel shares. With the automobile makers getting ready to re-enter the market, steel production next week was expected to tilt sharply higher to the best figure of the year to date.

Coppers were bolstered by Friday's boost in the domestic rate of ⅛ cent a pound to 9⅞ cents and talk of a further raise to the 10-cent level. The foreign price recently has been above 10 cents as European demand showed little signs of slackening.

COMMODITY PRICES MIXED DURING WEEK

Industrial Staples Continue Rising Trend, Farm Products Weakening.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 23.—Commodity prices were mixed this week, industrial staples continuing the rising trend of recent months and farm products weakening.

The Associated Press weighted index of 35 important wholesale spot quotations was 67.76 per cent of the 1926 average, compared with 67.74 in the previous period and 90.87 a year ago.

Non-ferrous metals, textiles and other industrial raw materials were eagerly sought after by consumers whose stocks had shrunk to low levels and speculators in search of quick profits. From the low point of the year, metals have jumped about 15 per cent and textiles 12 per cent.

Farm Products Give Ground.

Farm products, on the other hand, gave ground throughout the week as estimates of future supplies continued to rise, indicating plentiful stocks for many months ahead. Grains fell into new low ground for the year under pressure of steadily swelling stocks on hand.

Industrial activity has risen persistently for several weeks, touching off substantial replacement buying in pivotal staples. The metals—copper, tin and steel scrap—hides, rubber, wool and burlap were bid up to new highs for the current move.

Corn, wheat, oats and rye were down for the third week. Cotton chalked up a small increase on reports indicating a comparatively small harvest this year as well as a bulge in cotton mill activity to meet long-delayed wholesale demand.

Livestock turned down from last week's peak for the year as lamb and cattle gave ground. Foods were mixed, declines in eggs, sugar and flour more than offsetting advances in cocoa and butter.

Wheat Index Shows.

The index with its weighted components compared as follows:

Demand for Dollars Abroad and Gold Imports Feature Week

Selling in British Pound Puzzles Exchange Traders—Currency Improves Late in Period.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 23.—Demand for the dollar continued unusually large this week, as was reflected in a further decline in the British pound and other foreign currencies to new lows for the recent down movement.

Just what was back of the selling in the British pound had exchange traders here puzzled. Some offered the explanation the British deliberately were letting the sterling rate against the dollar fall in hope it would stimulate lagging foreign trade and help check a business slump in England.

The advance in the open-market price for gold at London, the pivot of British strategy for management of money to influence internal economic conditions, seemed to lend more support to this thesis, although there was nothing in way of official explanation to dignify the suggestions put forth here.

Also an obvious influence in causing nervousness among foreign holders of capital was a collapse in the Berlin stock market, which some traced partly to war fears, and another show of anger and threats between Russia and Japan.

Toward the week-end, however, apprehensions over foreign affairs seemed to have waned once more and foreign currencies tended to improve against the dollar.

Meanwhile, Uncle Sam was a recipient of more gold from Nippon's dwindling supply, drained to pay for war needs. The biggest gold engagement reported during the week was another $5,800,000 shipment from Japan. Japan's decisions to dip into its central bank metal reserves to pay for raw material imports seemed to point to a continuation of this metal flow to the United States, where Japan has been a large buyer of cotton, machinery, steel scrap and vehicles.

The pound sterling gained ½ cent at $4.92⅜. French francs were .00¼ of a cent higher at 2.76⅝.

Easing of the tension over the Sudeten and the Japanese-Russian diplomatic crises today brought a moderate firming up of leading foreign currencies in terms of the dollar in foreign exchange transactions, after a period of weakness.

The pound closed ½ cent higher, the franc advanced slightly and currencies of the Netherlands and of the Scandanavian countries also moved upward.

NEW YORK, July 23.—Foreign exchange closing rates follow: Great Britain in dollars, others in cents. Great Britain, 4.92⅜; 60-day bills, 4.91⅝; Canada, Montreal in New York, 99.75; New York in Montreal 100.25. LONDON, July 23.—In foreign exchange trading today the United States dollar declined ⅛ of a cent in sterling terms. The unit closed 4.92¼ to the pound in contrast with sterling at $4.91⅞ in New York overnight.

The French franc ended net unchanged, 178.19 to the pound.

INDUSTRIAL ACTIVITY INDEX CONTINUES RISE

Gain of 5 Per Cent Shown Since the Recession Low of Two Months Ago.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 23.—Industrial activity continued the sharply rising trend of the past two months during the latest week for which data is available.

The Associated Press seasonally adjusted index rose to 69.2 per cent of the 1929-30 average from 68.3 the week before and compared with 104.7 last year.

Since the recession low was established less than two months ago, the index has risen 5 per cent.

Steel mill activity was one of the biggest gainers, operations being stepped up substantially to meet the growing backlog of orders that has accumulated. Mills worked at the highest level of the year.

Cotton manufacturing speeded up sharply. Retail and wholesale buying to replenish low inventories was held in the trade largely responsible for the spurt. Electric power output, another measure of public consumption, was up considerably.

Freight carloadings improved moderately, with industrial items supplying most of the push.

Automobile assemblies, however, were sharply curtailed.

The index, with its seasonally adjusted components based on the latest available statistics and with 1929-30 as 100, compared as follows:

STEEL OUTPUT RATE BEST IN 8 MONTHS

Advances in Copper and Tin Prices Also Feature Metal Market of Week.

the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 23.—An up-urn in steel operations to the high-t rate in eight months and ad-ances in copper and tin prices fea-ured metal markets this week.

More general steel buying lifted roduction to over 36 per cent of apacity, with indications that the end may continue to higher levels r some weeks. Scrap prices ad-anced somewhat in some districts d Southern steel-making con-ued at 50 per cent, the highest te for the country.

Copper was fairly active during e week, but the ⅛c advance to ⅞c for domestic came somewhat a surprise. Earlier scrap prices d been raised and as foreign arkets were moving higher pro-cers felt compelled to adjust ices to the export level of 10.15c ly copper sales already are the st in a year and a half, and for e month are thought likely to top e 100,000-ton mark.

Tin gained ¼c to 43.50c in line ith the upturn of the London mar-t, although mid-week prices were en slightly above those at the d of the week.

Lead was steady at 4.90@4.95c w York, and 4.75c East St. Louis is believed July will be the best onth of the year, except for June en shipments totaled 35,343 tons is was better than estimated ying remained fairly active.

Zinc was firm and unchanged a 5c East St. Louis, with consump n reported better. Shipment

STEEL OUTPUT RATE BEST IN 8 MONTHS

Advances in Copper and Tin Prices Also Feature Metal Market of Week.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 23.—An upturn in steel operations to the highest rate in eight months and advances in copper and tin prices featured metal markets this week.

More general steel buying lifted production to over 36 per cent of capacity, with indications that the trend may continue to higher levels for some weeks. Scrap prices advanced somewhat in some districts and Southern steel-making continued at 50 per cent, the highest rate for the country.

Copper was fairly active during the week, but the ⅛c advance to 10⅛c for domestic came somewhat as a surprise. Earlier scrap prices had been raised and as foreign markets were moving higher producers felt compelled to adjust prices to the export level of 10.15c. July copper sales already are the best in a year and a half, and for the month are thought likely to top the 100,000-ton mark.

Tin gained ¼c to 43.50c in line with the upturn of the London market, although mid-week prices were even slightly above those at the end of the week.

Lead was steady at 4.90@4.95c, New York, and 4.75c East St. Louis. It is believed July will be the best month of the year, except for June, when shipments totaled 35,343 tons. This was better than estimated. Buying remained fairly active.

Zinc was firm and unchanged at 4.75c East St. Louis, with consumption reported better. Shipments gained sharply during the week but new business was light.

Domestic antimony was reduced ½c to 10.75c and some increase in business followed. Chinese grade remained firm and unchanged at 14c a pound.

COTTON ADVANCES ON RAIN IN BELT, HIGHER SECURITIES

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 23.—Cotton advanced today as further showers were reported over the belt and the stock market rallied. December sold up from 8.83 to 8.93 and closed at 8.91, with final prices 9 to 10 points net higher.

The market opened 2 points higher to 1 lower with the tone steady in sympathy with the action of Liverpool and owing to an unfavorable view of the weather.

Buying became more active in the last half hour when the best prices for the day were touched. The forecast for further showers in parts of the eastern and central belts next week was considered unfavorable and brought in demand from locals, New Orleans and mills. A little hedge selling appeared in the last few minutes.

Commodity Credit Corporation reported 1845 bales entered the cotton loan during the week bringing the total to 5,464,1[illegible] bales, of which 167,188 have been repossessed by borrowers. Cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the close of the week estimated at 31,000 bales against 18,000 last year and 32,000 two years ago.

Cotton futures closed 9 to 10 higher.

WHEAT PRICES DOWN TO NEAR FIVE-YEAR LOWS

Declining Market Is Dominated by Big 1938 Wheat Harvest Despite Other Day-to-Day Developments.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 23.—Wheat dropped another cent today and the declining market, dominated by a big 1938 harvest despite other day-to-day trade developments, was back where it was at the end of May.

Prices flirted with the lowest quotations in five years. Trade news was a mixture of optimistic and pessimistic crop comment, discouraging export business and uncertainty regarding the amount of new wheat which will be held off the market temporarily by Government loan acceptance. However, there was nothing startling to excite outside speculative interest, in lieu of which hedging sales predominated and forced the steady, quiet decline.

The market closed at the session's low point, with wheat ¾ to 1 cent lower, Sept. 69⅝@½, Dec. 71¼@⅜, May 73¾@⅞. Corn lost ¾@1⅛, Sept. 58⅛@¼, Dec. 57@⅛, May 59; oats ⅛ off, Sept. 24⅞; rye ⅝ down to ⅛ up, Sept. 49¾; lard 2 to 5 lower.

Kansas City wheat prices dropped a little further than did the Chicago market but Minneapolis, the principal spring wheat center, showed less decline.

At the low, September wheat was more than 5 cents below the Government loan price for No. 2 red winter at Chicago. Trading in May, 1939, contracts started at 74½ and closed at 73¾@⅞.

A Liverpool close of ¼ off to ½ up, while better than due for the seventh consecutive session, was ignored here. A press survey forecast the Westrn Canadian crop in excess of 300,000,000 bushels, largest in six years, and about 150,000,000 more than last year but considerably below recent estimates. Showers were predicted for Canada.

Foreign demand for wheat was quiet.

Corn followed wheat downward although export interests supported September contracts early in the day. Only scattered export business was reported at the seaboard, however, but foreign interest continued good. Geenral crop progress was reported favorable.

December oats made a new low for the season. September rye declined while December contracts gained ⅝ cent.

Selling by cash interests caused lard to decline slightly.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, July 23.—Wheat and corn futures were not quoted here today.

Liverpool wheat closed ¼d lower to ½d higher after opening unchanged to ½d up.

Winnipeg wheat opened ⅜@⅝c higher and early was ⅛c off to ⅛c up. The close was ¼@⅞c lower.

Argentine wheat and corn started unchanged. Wheat closed ½@⅝c lower.

Local wheat receipts, which were 300,000 bu, compared with 514,500 a week ago and 586,500 a year ago, included 195 cars local and 5 through. Corn receipts, which were 34,500 bu, compared with 34,000 a week ago and 33,000 a year ago, included 19 cars local and 4 through. Oats receipts, which were 44,000 bu, compared with 20,000 a week ago and 42,000 a year ago, included 18 cars local and 4 through. Hay receipts were 1 car through.

St. Louis Cash Grain.

In the cash grain market Saturday, soft wheat was ½@1½c lower. The short Saturday session had the largest supply of the week. Trading was brisk after a slow start. Elevators were active buyers. There was not much change recorded in the basis for the 55 to 57 lb grain, but No. 2 went to a new high premium and some of the tough grain and a few of the 54 to 55 lb sales were as much as ¾c lower. Corn was unchanged to ½c lower. Demand was rather slow and some grain was carried over. Industries were the purchasers of yellow and mixed, while the white corn went for shipment. Premiums were unchanged to slightly higher with No. 1 yellow selling ½c over and No. 1 white at the September option. Oats were unchanged to 1c lower. Demand was only fair and some cereal was carried over. Elevator and outside order buyers showed the interest.

Sales of cash grain made on the floor of the exchange, all being track sales local weights unless otherwise described are recorded below:

MANY NEW HIGHS FOR 1938 IN BOND LIST

Mostly in Industrial Group—Rail Issues, However, Feature of Week's Trade.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 23.—The bond market continued to look on the brighter side of things last week and with the aid of fresh buying power inspired by its refusal to pause more than momentarily in its upward flight, succeeded in establishing many new highs for 1938.

Industrial loans, including speculative as well as low yield ratings, set most of the year's peaks. But this achievement did not in any way dim the luster of the railroad loans' performance, which in general was a duplicate of their earlier action in the midyear rise.

Carrier bonds started their uphill climb in June from a deeply submerged position which mirrored a good deal of fear there might be a run of bankruptcies before the industry could catch the incoming tide of business recovery.

Recovery since June 20 has fattened rail prices an average of 15 points. The Associated Press composite of 20 issues during the week moved back to the levels of early March.

Subjected to conflicting influences, the rails chose to respond to the more favorable—rising carloadings and promise of continued gains as a result of increased steel production and more activity in other key industries.

The group apparently was little affected by the failure of labor and management representatives to record progress in their Chicago parley on the rail wage controversy.

U. S. Government issues traced an irregular course, although the week's changes were negligible. Low yield corporate bonds held a firm front.

There was a lull in the capital market following two weeks of moderate activity incident to the marketing of sizable bond issues of some big industrial companies. It was indicated, however, that a considerable number of new issues were being prepared for early public offering.

Foreign dollar bonds were depressed by recurrence of anxiety over the political situation in Europe and the relations between Russia and Japan.

A vigorous and sustained demand for secondary railroad issues straightened the bond market out for a new drive to higher levels in the final hour of the brief session today.

Closing prices were at the best and ranged from minor fractions to two points or more, with only a handful dissenting.

Fresh strength in the corporate section appeared almost simultaneously with the upturn in stocks and was without the benefit of new specific news development.

Prominent carriers on the new advance were Delaware & Hudson refunding 4s, Baltimore & Ohio convertible 4½s, Rock Island general 4s, Bush Terminal 5s, Missouri Pacific 5s, Nickel Plate 4½s, Southern Railway 4s, Southern Pacific 4½s and St. Paul 5s.

Some of the moving picture obligations, recently depressed by the Government anti-monopoly action, made sharp recovery. Included were Radio-Keith-Orpheum 6s and Warner Bros. 6s. Paramount 3¼s did not do so well.

Continued agitation between Russia and Japan brought further offerings of bonds directly affected. Several Japanese corporate issues were in supply at concessions up to 4 points but the Government loans straightened up after Friday's sharp drop. Other foreign dollar loans did little either way.

U. S. Governments likewise held back with closing prices ranging from an advance of 2-32 of a point to a loss of 3-32.

Transfers aggregated $4,082,700, par value, compared with $2,829,000 last Saturday.

STANNARD BUYS 33-ACRE TRACT ON MASON ROAD

Head of Telephone Co. Acquires Site on East Side, South of Conway, for Country Estate.

OTHER PURCHASES IN AREA RECALLED

Offers Submitted for Other Property in County — Speculative Interest Reawakened.

By Berry Moore

Inspiring renewed speculative interest in acreage in St. Louis County, eligible for country estates, A. C. Stannard, president of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. has purchased 33 acres on the east side of Mason road, south of Conway road. The heirs of the Fred Mertz estate were the grantors.

The purchaser, it is understood, has plans for the erection of a handsome residence, together with a full complement of auxiliary buildings.

High and rolling, the tract is regarded as constituting one of the most attractive sites in this section for a country estate on a pretentious estate. It is adjacent to the country homes of Arthur Baer and Edward Noland. It was one of several available tracts under consideration by the buyer.

Mary Potter Love, Inc., handled the negotiations. The price was not announced.

The purchase is pointed to as evidence of the sustained demand for acreage in St. Louis County for high-class estates. During the last two or three years a number of large tracts with Mason road frontage have been acquired for estates or as speculative investment.

Other Recent Purchases.

Edgar F. Peters, president of the Griesedieck Bros. Brewing Co., recently purchased 73 acres on the west side of Mason road, approximately 375 feet south of the Clayton road, from Herman C. Waldman, president of the St. Louis Fire Door Corporation, through Henry R. Weisels. It was said that the price paid in this instance established a new high valuation for land on this part of Mason road. Waldman had acquired the tract

F. H. A. INSURANCE FOR SUMMIT PARK GROUP

Provides for Construction of 20 Houses in New Brentwood Development.

Houses in the Summit Park Homes project under development by the Fairfax Construction Co. are the first to be erected under the new amendment to the Federal Housing Act (section 210) in the St. Louis metropolitan area. It comprises a group of 20 houses. The Industrial Bank Savings and Trust Co. handled the financing.

Summit Park, a comparatively new development, is in Brentwood, just east of Brentwood boulevard (formerly North and South road). It lies between Clayton and Manchester roads.

Sixty-three houses have been built and sold in the development, launched in November, 1936, by the Fairfax Construction Co., of which Arnold H. Maremont is president. The development is adjacent to the Mark Twain grade school and to the Kirkwood-Ferguson line. The restrictions have been drawn to meet all the needs of a modern subdivision.

Five of the group of houses under construction have been sold. In addition four completed residences have been sold as follows: 8636 Rosalie avenue, to Louis T. Bernero; 8624 Rosalie avenue to Robert M. Linberg; 8611 Rosalie avenue to Ralph Friedman; 8612 Rosalie avenue to John C. Ebel.

MOVING AND STORAGE CONCERN LEASES CORNER STRUCTURE

The two-story fireproof building at the northwest corner of Locust street and Garrison avenue, has been leased by the Sirkin Needles Moving & Storage Co., for a long term. Cornet & Zeibig, Inc., handled the negotiations.

The property has a frontage of 75 feet on Locust and 135 feet on Garrison. It is owned by the Klipper estate. The concern is now at 200 South Theresa avenue.

MODERN SHOP BUILDING FOR CLAYTON CENTER

Old Residence at 7742 Forsythe to Make Way for New Structure.

Mrs. Grace Ashley, designer and manufacturer of dresses, has completed plans for the erection of a modern shop building at 7742 Forsythe boulevard, to cost, including the site, approximately $37,500. It will occupy at lot 50 by 190 feet, recently acquired by Mrs. Ashley from Mrs. Rosa H. Litzinger, through Edward L. Bakewell, realtor.

The new building will be of classical colonial design, with a flavor of the Greek revival. It will be built on a steeply sloping lot, with two shops on the street level and a third on the lower grade. Each shop will have large bay or glass windows. Entered from the street, the third shop will have a circular foyer, with a broad six-foot stairway leading down into a spacious room overlooking and opening on to a flagstone terrace and garden.

The east shop has been leased by the Katy Lou Wade shop and the west shop by Hicks & Hicks.

A two-story frame dwelling, formerly the residence of Mrs. Litzinger, now occupying the site, will be torn down to make way for the new building.

Mrs. Ashley is erecting the building primarily as an investment. Construction will be under the supervision of Edward L. Bakewell, realtor, who promoted the building project. Nagel & Dunn are the architects.

She recently purchased Greystone Manor, near Pevely, Mo., a conspicuous landmark on the Mississippi River bluffs.

12-UNIT APARTMENT BUILDING PLANNED

J. B. Cohn Buys Site in Moorlands Addition as Site for Semi-Fireproof Structure.

J. B. Cohn has purchased 130 by 115 feet of ground on the north side of Oxford drive, between Glen Ridge and Westwood drives in Moorland addition, with plans completed for the erection of a 12-family apartment building of semi-fireproof construction.

Duke-Young, Inc., handled the negotiations for the site, 65 feet being acquired from the Kirkpatrick Mortgage Co. and 65 feet from Jennie Rubenstein.

Three stories in height, the proposed building will be composed of four, five and six room units. It will be equipped with every modern facility and innovation. There will be a garage in the basement for 24 cars.

Arrangements have been concluded with the Anderson-Stocke-Buermann Real Estate Co. for financing the project.

Plans are being developed for other large apartments in Moorland addition which is rapidly being absorbed by buildings of this type. Sales of apartments in this section have been a feature of the real estate market throughout the spring and summer.

FIRM REPORTS SEVENTEEN SALES TOTALING $174,500

The Dimmitt - Rickhoff - Bayer Real Estate Co., Inc., reports having closed 17 sales during the first 23 days of July, representing a total of $174,500. The list includes a six-family apartment building in Blue Ridge terrace and a new two-family apartment in St. Louis Hills, and a number of fine homes.

BUILDING PERMIT GAIN OF 18 PCT. DURING JUNE

Residential Construction for Same Period 12 Per Cent Greater Than in May, Secretary of Labor Reports.

Permit valuations for all types of building construction registered increases in June, Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins announced yesterday. "The value of new residential buildings for which permits were issued was 12 per cent higher in June than in May," she said. "The increase in the case of new non-residential buildings amounted to 45 per cent, while the value of additions, alterations and repairs showed a gain of 4 per cent. The total value of all buildings for which permits were granted showed a gain of 18 per cent. All geographic divisions, except the Mountain and Pacific, registered gains in the value of new residential buildings.

"For the second consecutive month a larger number of dwelling units were provided in new buildings for which permits were issued than in the corresponding month of 1937. While there was a decrease of 4 per cent in the value of new residential buildings, comparing June, 1938, with the corresponding month of 1937, there was an increase of 5 per cent in the number of family-dwelling units provided. The value of new non-residential buildings decreased 5 per cent over the year period, while permit valuations of additions, alterations, and repairs to existing structures declined by 24 per cent. Total permit valuations for the current month showed a decline of 9 per cent as compared with June, 1937.

Six Months' Total.

"During the first six months of 1938 permits were issued in the cities reporting to the bureau for buildings valued at $782,697,000. This is a decrease of 11 per cent as compared with the corresponding period of 1937. The value of new residential buildings also declined 11 per cent. There was a decrease of 7 per cent in the value of new non-residential buildings and of 17 per cent in the value of additions, alterations and repairs."

The percentage change from May to June in the permit valuation of the various classes of construction is indicated in the following table for 2054 cities having a population of 1000 or over:

Class of Construction.	Change from May, 1938, to June, 1938. All cities.	Excluding New York.
New residential — —	*12.0	* 7.2
New non-residential — —	*45.3	*34.6
Additions, alt'ns, repairs	* 3.7	— 0.9
Total — — — —	*18.3	*12.3

There were 18,173 family-dwelling units provided in the new housekeeping dwellings for which permits were issued during June in these cities. This is a gain of 8 per cent over May.

Low-Priced House Large Part of Year's Building

Dwelling Costing Less Than $4000 in Smaller Cities Makes Up Nearly One Third of Nation's Residential Construction.

The house with an under $4000 building cost has played a very large part in this year's new home building.

It is non-existent in three-fourths of the very largest cities, and non-existent in 24 per cent of all the cities of the country, including some cities in every population group. But nevertheless in 58 per cent of all the cities of the country it made up at least one-fourth of this year's dwelling construction, according to reports made to the National Association of Real Estate Boards in a special inquiry accompanying its thirty-first semi-annual survey.

In 27 per cent of the cities of the country the house with an under $4000 building cost constituted half or more of the home construction total. In 10 per cent of the cities it made up three-quarters of all dwellings built.

Out of the nation's entire total of single-family dwellings built, three out of every 10 were under $4000 houses, according to these reports, covering 230 cities, made as confidential reports by the association's local member boards.

National Median Is 30 Per Cent.

The low cost house occurs less and less frequently as the size of the reporting cities increases, but there is a clear-cut division between cities over and under the 500,000 population mark.

For all cities reporting, the median percentage of dwelling construction in the under $4000 class is 30 per cent.

In communities having some under $4000 construction, 168 cities with a combined population of 12,548,180 gave estimated data as to total number of dwellings built. For single family houses of every kind in the first five months of the year their combined total is 12,395 houses, or one for every 1012 persons. For under $4000 dwellings their combined total is 5602 houses, or one for every 2240 persons.

In other words, in those cities in which the under-$4000 construction is now possible, this type of dwelling appears to account for about 45 per cent of all this year's new construction.

As to total number of new single family dwellings built in the first five months of the year, 244 cities with a combined population of 20,511,484 reported a total of 18,344 dwellings constructed. As above said, 168 of these cities, with a combined population of 12,548,180, estimate their total as 5602 houses in the under-$4000 class. Thus the under-$4000 house appears numerically to represent 31 per cent of the year's new home building.

Federal and State Awards.

The data collected by the Bureau of Labor Statistics show, in addition to private and municipal construction, the number and value of buildings for which contracts were awarded by the Federal and State Governments, in the cities included in the report. For June, 1938, the value of these public buildings amounted to $7,845,000; for May, 1938, to $4,152,000, and for June, 1937, to $19,084,000.

Permits were issued during June for the following important building projects: In Buffalo, N. Y., for an institutional building to cost over $450,000; in New York City—in the Borough of the Bronx, for apartment houses to cost over $1,100,00; in the Borough of Brooklyn, for apartment houses to cost over $3,500,000; in the Borough of Queens, for one-family dwellings to cost over $3,000,000, for factory buildings to cost over $2,000,000, and for an institutional building to cost $3,400,000; in Norristown, Pa., for a hospital to cost approximately $300,000; in Detroit, Mich., for one-family dwellings to cost over $2,600,000, for a hospital to cost nearly $800,000, and for store and mercantile buildings to cost approximately $250,000; in Minneapolis, Minn., for apartment houses to cost nearly $350,000; in Washington, D. STANNARD BUYS 33-ACRE TRACT ON MASON ROAD only a month of two before at the instance of the Weisels Co. at what was regarded as a relatively low price.

Peters acquired the tract as a speculative investment. predicated on the possibilities of this area. It has a frontage on Mason road of approximately 2000 feet. The improvements consists of a two-story, eight-room shingle residence, with tile bath, a large barn and other out-buildings. Peters now resides on Warson road.

Adds to Acreage.

Edward M. Queeny, president of the Monsanto Chemical Co. recently added to his acreage in the county, through the purchase of seven acres south of and eight acres opposite his large estate on the west side of Mason road, north of Manchester road.

The Queeny estate is south of the tract purchased by Peters. It was formerly owned and occupied by Webster Tilton, stock broker, now a resident of New York, who had acquired it from Charles Polk O'Fallon.

Offers Recently Made.

During the week offers were submitted for other large tracts as well as for high class residences, in the county. In several instances earnest money has been deposited, subject to the approval of the owners.

HOMES AND INVESTMENT PROPERTY RECENTLY SOLD

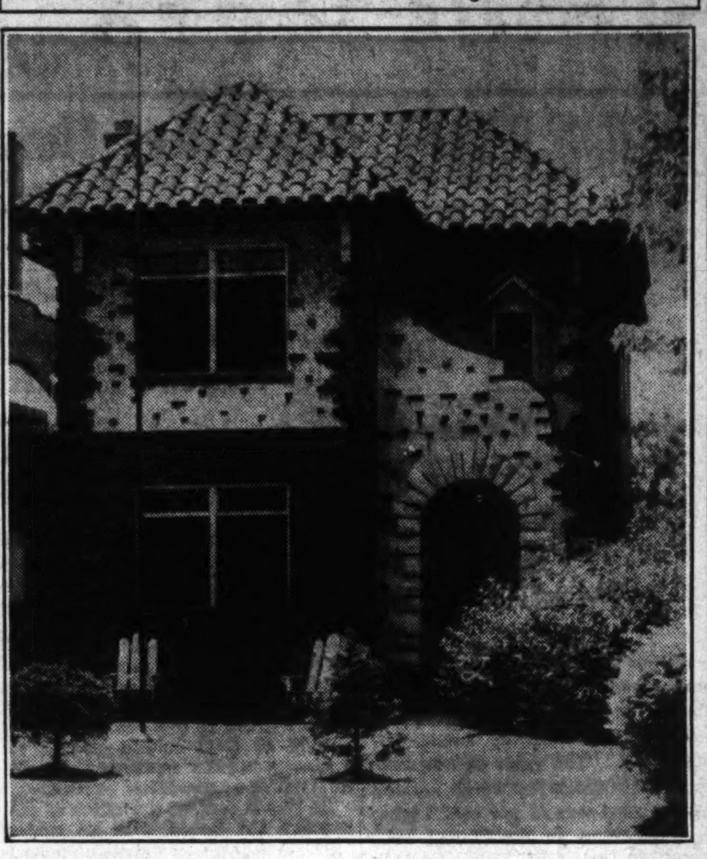
The Sacks Real Estate Co. reports recent sales as follows: 4910 Beacon, cottage, to Louis Freebersyser; 5272 Genevieve, bungalow, to Daniel F. McNamara; 5503-05 Virginia, four-family flat, to John T. McDonald; 3702 Page, single flat, to Mary L. Linton; 953 Laurel, cottage, to Robert N. Bowen; 3327-33 Eads, four-family flat, to August H. Wortman; 1333 Bayard, single flat, to Tony Roleski; 5983 Page, single flat, to Simon Aronowitz; 3913 Vest, single flat, to Worrick S. Huffmann; vacant lot on Hanley road to George C. Stevens; 1388 Burd, residence, to George S. Kisslinger; 3949 Blair, cottage, to Leona E. Randolph.

Reports Eleven Transactions.

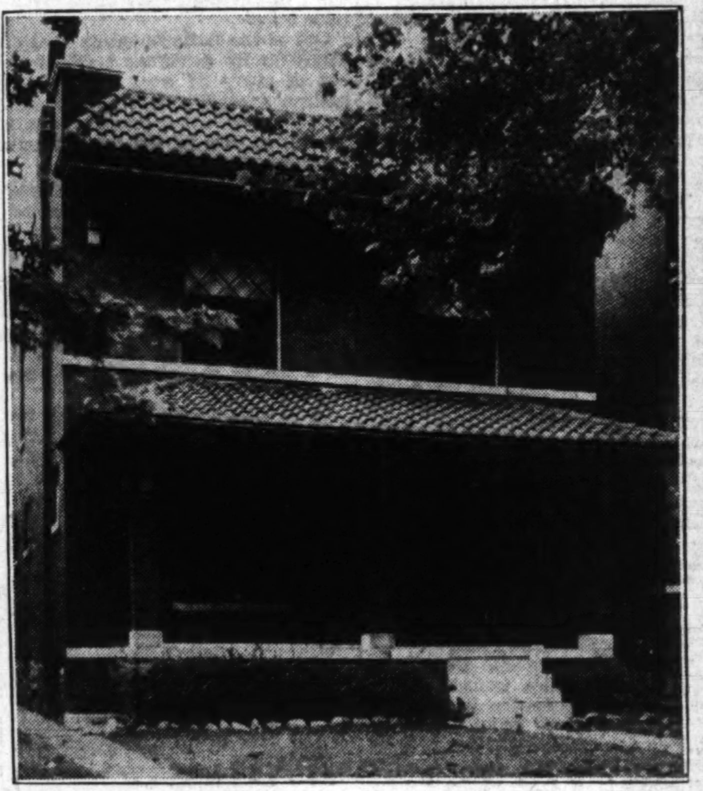
The Orin H. Jones Real Estate reports sales as follows:

A bungalow at 1320 Pierce avenue, for Walter F. Sheean, to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Baker; residence at 6533 Murdoch avenue, to Dr. and Mrs. John C. Wick from a client of the Cyrus Crane Willmore Organization; bungalow at 6546 Tholozan avenue, for Harry Vollmar, to Mr. and Mrs. Norman Raithel; single flat at 2001 Martha street, for J. M. Levi & Co., to an undisclosed buyer; two lots in Manchester Hills, to Mr. William Bennett; residence at 3306 St. Vincent avenue, to Charles Golden; residence at 6100 West Park, to a client of the company; bungalow at 2165 Esther, to Gaston Tissott; residence at 5065 Miami street, to Harold Gossler, the Cyrus Crane Willmore Organization representing the seller; residence at 6214 Mandel avenue, to a client; bungalow at 6621 Tholozan avenue, to T. Walton through the John Dolan Realty Co.

Residences Recently Sold



Single flat at 7020-22 Forsythe acquired from Zona Somers by C. S. Petersen, represented by the Boehmer Real Estate Co.



Dwelling at 6028 McPherson avenue sold for Virginia Henke to Mary Jane and Delia Hagerty. The Edward Glik Co. represented all parties in the transaction.

LOW PRICE HOUSE LARGE PART OF YEAR'S BUILDING

portion of low-cost home building. As against 58 per cent of cities with a quarter or more of their home building in the under-$4000 category, 60 per cent so reported six months ago. As against 27 per cent of cities with half or more of their new dwellings in this category, 39 per cent so reported six months ago. As against 10 per cent of cities with three-fourths or more of their dwelling construction in the under-$4000 house, 14 per cent so reported six months ago.

The survey finds a significant split among cities of the country at approximately the 500,000 population line. Three-quarters of the cities of over 500,000 population are below the national median as to amount of construction in the under-$4000 class; in fact, they report no construction whatever in this range. But only 44 per cent of cities in the 200,000 to 500,000 population group are below the median, and only 17 per cent report no construction whatever in the class studied. Of cities under 25,000 population, 77 per cent have at least one-fourth of their construction in the lower cost category.

Counter to the general trend, one city of over 500,000 population reports 40 per cent of its dwellings in the under-$4000 range.

Regional differences are marked, with Southern cities naturally showing a higher precentage of under-$4000 construction. A proportion greater than the national median is shown by 78 per cent of cities in the Southeast region, by 72 per cent of cities in the south central region, but by only 58 per cent of cities in the Southwest region. It is shown by 73 per cent of cities in the Northwest region.

Smallest incidence of such construction is shown in New England, next smallest in the Central Atlantic states.

BRAND-NEW Real Construction! $4250
There are all kinds of new bungalows, but we want you to see 2329 Sublett. We believe that one inspection will prove to you better than we can tell you in this ad, that this is one of the best constructed small homes you have ever seen.
Of course, it has tile walled kitchen, tile walled bath, plastered basement, side driveway and garage, etc.
Even at this sensationally low price, you can buy on easy terms.
Open. Come prepared to buy.

Get Out of Debt

RECESSION EMERGENCY LOANS
New Budget Refinance Plan

If you are sick, you go to a doctor. If you want your car repaired you go to a garage. If you have financial trouble, you go to a financial advisor. We don't care how much you owe, we have helped thousands get on their feet with our new Budget Refinance Plan.

Here Is Our New Plan

1. We will make you a Recession Emergency Loan of $5 to $50 on your own signature to tide you over.
2. If you own a car and still owe a balance on it we will make you a second mortgage loan of $10 to $100. You do not have to pay off your present balance—Save refinancing costs.
3. We will total all your debts and work out a repayment schedule with all your creditors.
4. We will budget your income and reduce your payments to fit your purse.
5. We can also make personal loans up to $300. Total all your debts, pay them all off, and have only one place to make small monthly payments.
6. You can also get $10 to $300 on any 1931 to 1938 Auto. Refinance, cut payments in half and get additional cash immediately.

IN MEMORIUM

BRUNE, WILLIAM H.—In loving remembrance of my dearly beloved husband, who passed away July 21, 1936.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Always tender, kind and true.
There's not a day, dear husband,
We do not think of you.
Sadly missed by his wife, Mayme, and daughter, Bernice, son-in-law William, relatives and friends.

CRONIN—In loving memory of our dear parents, Edw. J. and Della B. Cronin, died July 24, 1916, and June 8, 1923.
To live and love and death to part,
Is the greatest sorrow of our heart.
Sadly missed by
CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN.

ENGELKE, LOUIS F.—In loving memory of our dear husband, father, son and brother, who departed from this life July 22, 1936.
Sadly missed by his FAMILY.

KITCHIN, MARY JANE—In loving and affectionate memory of our dear mother, who departed this life July 23, 1937.
Dear mother, your are not forgotten,
Though on earth you are no more;
Still in memory you are with us
As you always were before.
Sadly missed by
YOUR CHILDREN.

LINDGREN, CHRISTINA—In memory of Mrs. Christina Lindgren, who died July 24, 1934.
Rest in peace, our dearest mother;
Years may go but memories stay,
For we shall meet you some sweet day.
Sadly missed by daughter, son-in-law, grandchildren and great-grandchild.
BREHME FAMILY.

ROEHLING, MARY EFFIE—In memory of Mary Effie Roehling, who passed away Jan. 22, 1938.
Six months of sorrow, lonely and blue,
Life is so empty, mother, without you.
It was sad indeed, the way you died,
Without a chance to say good-by.
Your spirit flew before we knew
That you from us had gone.
If you had raised a dying hand
And bid us all farewell
The blow would not have been so hard
For those who loved you, dear mother.
Sadly missed by
HUSBAND AND CHILDREN.

SPELLMEYER, ALBERT H.—Who passed away July 26, 1936.
Your love and deeds of kindness
Will ever cherished be;
My time is spent in memory
Of you so dear to me.
Sadly missed by wife. ANNA.

CARD OF THANKS

WE wish to express our thanks to all our friends, relatives, Famous-Barr delivery, Grand-Leader candy factory, Local 709, Rev. J. Johnson, for their kind expressions of sympathy in the bereavement of our dear son and brother, Joseph Strom.
MOTHER, BROTHERS AND SISTERS.

MY sincere and heartfelt thanks to friends and relatives, American Legion and Father Johnson, for their kindness following the death of Joseph Strom.
SERENA STROM AND DAUGHTER.

SALESMEN WANTED

MEN FOR PERMANENT CONNECTION

My company has authorized me to contact men immediately who live in St. Louis or vicinity, test them out for several days while in training without any expense or cost whatsoever to these men and start them immediately on a permanent basis, with liberal participation in the profits with no investment.

Steadiness and good character needed—not ability to talk, or a clientele or any previous experience. We are not advertising for salesmen—because our method of putting the prospects into the market is so unusual that it must be taught especially—but it is so simple to learn that no time need be lost in getting started. While getting started men of average ability must be willing to get along on reasonable weekly earnings. You learn from practical men earning substantial incomes every week.

We do not require sales experience because this business is so different from sales jobs as viewed by the great majority of men. However, to be accepted you must be willing to work hard and study to qualify for the larger incomes. Apply to manager, at Suite 512, Paul Brown Bldg., 9th and Olive sts., St. Louis, on Monday between 9:15 a. m. and 1:15 p. m. only.

ST. LOUIS REPRESENTATIVE TECHNICAL PAINTS

The sole manufacturer of non-oxidizing paints seeks an able representative for the St. Louis district. The market is with the public utilities, municipal governments, and major industrial plants; and the man selected must have definite experience in selling those fields.

The product has been adopted as standard, after years of comparative tests, by hundreds of the country's leading concerns; and the equipment and evidence available are of a character to make big scale results certain for the right man. He will operate on a long-term exclusive contract, enabling him to build a permanent and constantly increasing income.

Confidential application, stating complete record, should be sent to H. F. Baker, Gen. Sales Mgr., 11 West 42nd St., New York City.

RAY WIESE IS A FIRST ROUND TENNIS WINNER

By Davison Obear.

Ray Wiese, seeded No. 2, dropped only four games in scoring a straight set victory over Robert Friedman in the first round of the University City men's open tennis tournament at Lewis Park yesterday afternoon. Wiese won by scores of 6-2, 6-2.

Other first round results were: George Zonnis defeated James Hodges, 6-1, 6-1; Larry Mullen defeated Sigmund Meyer, 6-0, 6-3; Teddy Eggmann defeated Charles Chapman, 6-1, 7-5; Rev. Melvin Keaney defeated Norman Dean, 5-7, 6-3, 6-2.

An innovation in the tournament this year is that all players defeated in their first match will be entered in a consolation tourney which probably will start Monday.

The doubles play will begin tomorrow.

FIRST ROUND SINGLES.

Harold Wiese defeated Ralph Fiddler, 6-1, 6-3.

Robnett Licklider defeated Kenneth Schweller, 6-1, 6-2.

Wilbur Lindauer won from Joe Blath, 9-9, default.

Ray Ames defeated Paul Brown, 6-4, 7-5.

Meyer Pankewer defeated Carl Buck, 6-1, 6-0.

Robert Hereford defeated Sam Schwartz, 6-0, 6-0.

Enos Campbell won from Ed Serrano by default.

George Hendry defeated Mark Martin Jr., 6-0, 6-0.

SECOND ROUND SINGLES.

Roy Ames defeated Zonnis, 6-1, 6-2.

LOIS KEENE IN COUNTY TENNIS TOURNEY FINAL

Frances Jacobson had the bad luck to find Lois Keene in great form in their semifinal match of the St. Louis County Women's open tennis tournament at Shaw Park, Clayton, yesterday afternoon, and as a result Miss Jacobson's interest in the balance of the tournament is merely that of spectator.

Miss Keene, the defending champion, ran out the first set with loss of only one game. Miss Jacobson made a brave stand at the start of the second set and took the lead at 2-1 in games but Miss Keene stepped her game up a notch and won the set, 6-2.

In the other half of the draw, delayed by rain and long drawn matches, Mrs. Bert Thompson advanced to the quarterfinal round by defeating Mrs. Alpha Cousins, 6-0, 6-1.

Two Advance in Muny Tourney.

Mrs. Clara Mataya and Mrs. Clara Rieser won first round matches in the women's municipal tennis tournament opening yesterday afternoon at Jefferson Memorial courts. Mrs. Mataya defeated June Otting, 6-0, 6-0, and Mrs. Rieser beat Hildegarde Angermeyer, 6-1, 6-2.

Entries for the doubles will close at 2 p. m. today. Some first round matches will be played this afternoon.

Today's Pairings.

Parker and Crain Reach Final of Belleville Meet

The favorites, Ward Parker and Del Crain, reached the final of the Belleville open tennis tournament at the Forest Racquet Club yesterday afternoon and will meet today at 4 o'clock for the title.

Parker, second seeded, won his semifinal match from C. J. Powless, 6-2, 6-4, 6-2, after advancing through the quarterfinals with a 6-0, 6-2 victory over Shields Houhart. Powless had won from Larry Harper, 6-2, 6-4, in the quarterfinals.

Crain turned back Elmer Hirth in the semifinals, 6-3, 6-3, 6-2. Hirth had won by default from Pete Shukest in the quarterfinals, and Crain had beaten Ellar Daab, 6-3, 6-2.

Doubles Results.

SECOND ROUND.

Bill Krueger and Dick Rosebrough defeated Tom Shanklin and Carl Neureuther, 6-3, 6-3.

QUARTERFINALS.

Gus Serrano and Ed Serrano defeated Del Crain and Elmer Hirth, 6-3, 6-0; Krueger and Rosebrough defeated William Bell and Joe Bonkrud, 6-0, 6-1.

SEMIFINALS.

Ward Parker and Lee Travis defeated Dick Philpott and Eugene Weber, 6-0, 6-2, 6-4.

Auto News and Notes

J. W. HUTCHINS AND EMERSON J. POAG have been appointed assistant general sales managers of the Dodge division of the Chrysler Corporation. Hutchins, who has been with Dodge since 1925, was promoted to his new post from manager of the New York region. Poag, for the past five years director of merchandising and advertising, will be assistant general manager in charge of advertising and merchandising. Donald T. Stanton, who has risen steadily since 1915 with Dodge, becomes director of sales. He most recently was Dodge's supervisor of Plymouth sales by Dodge dealers. H. M. Rowell, manager of the Chicago region, takes over the New York region and is succeeded in Chicago by G. W. Malcomson, manager of the Atlantic region. Frank S. Seaman goes from Oklahoma City to Malcomson's old post and is succeeded by John P. Mansfield, who has been Dodge's city manager in St. Louis. N. J. O. Strider, who replaces Mansfield here, has served successively as special representative in New York, dictrict representative in Bridgeport, Conn., and then as special representative in Detroit.

WITH MORE THAN 53,000 miles behind it, a record said to have surpassed by 20,000 miles any previous similar run, the Chevrolet truck which has been driven constantly over the roads of this country, with side trips into Mexico and Canada, for six months returned to the factory in Detroit July 11. On the final lap of its run, the truck was driven with its two-and-a-quarter ton pay load from Colorado Springs to the top of Pike's Peak. Its driver on the Pike's Peak climb was Louis Unger, for the past three years winner of the annual auto climb up the mountain. Harry Hartz, who had driven the truck 52,318 certified miles under A. A. A. supervision, was waiting at the top of the mountain when Unger finished the climb. The truck went up Pike's Peak with no changes in spark plug gaps or carburetor adjustment despite the high altitude, and Unger reported that the engine never missed fire on the 12½ miles of steep grades and switchbacks.

REAL ENJOYMENT OF AUTO touring depends largely on good judgment as to speed, according to W. A. Hilman, service manager for Chrysler. "It is my opinion that the motorist who covers 250 or 300 miles a day will enjoy himself much more than one who exceeds that," he says. "He and his passengers will get far more of the open air and the scenery. So far as economy is concerned, the most efficient speed for a car is between 25 and 45 miles an hour. Beyond that you have to burn a lot of gas and oil to get extra miles. Of course, most modern cars give such gasoline mileage at any speed, that the average driver is not greatly concerned about holding down to the most economical level, but there are plenty of thrifty folks. For that matter, a speed of 45 miles an hour will enable one to cover a very long distance in a day's driving. Maintaining that pace steadily is just as effective as tearing along at a much higher speed for short stretches and then having to slow down to meet road or traffic conditions. In fact, 45 miles an hour as the top speed, and that pace, maintained as steadily as laws and traffic conditions permit, will provide all the miles that the average man can drive in a day without fatigue."

EXTENSION OF TRAINING for employes of General Motors dealers in the General Motors Institute, Flint, Mich., has been extended from one to two years, with classes set to start in September. The second-year course is for men who want additional training. The dealer course is a modern application of the apprenticeship plan. It involves the selection of one or two young men by the dealer, and their employment in his organization on a definite work schedule. The employe alternates between the school and the dealership in eight-week periods. In individual cases, where distance makes the eight-week periods difficult to carry out, special programs can be arranged.

TWO TUNNELS, ONE ON THE under side of each front fender, serve on Packard cars to direct the flow of heated air from the radiator and the engine compartment to a point below the car, instead of leaving this work to be performed by the hood louvres. The Packard system is said to prevent flowing of hot air carrying oil odors past the windows of the front doors of a car.

CROWN PRINCE MICHAEL OF Rumania, who is now 16 years old, and his classmates, selected a few years ago from various parts of the country and from different social classes, are studying modern factory operation as well as their regular courses. Each Thursday, they don overalls and put in several hours working on actual car production in the plant of Ford Romana S. A. R., the Ford company at Bucharest. On pay days, they go to the factory to get their pay envelopes as do other employes.

DEALERS FROM EASTERN Missouri, Southern Illinois and Northern Kentucky attended a meeting at the Melbourne Hotel Wednesday held by Arthur R. Lindburg, Inc., Willys distributer. Reductions in the prices of Willys cars were announced, and changes in the Willys' factory's sales and merchandising plan were explained. The price cuts cover the entire Willys line, ranging as high as $20 on the standard coupe, and including reductions on all sedan models, the cut on the de luxe four-door sedan being $10. Among the speakers at the meeting were George Bryant of the Willys-Overland sales staff, Toledo; Harry Hesse, in charge of the commercial car division, Frank Finke, regional sales manager, and Arthur R. Lindburg, head of the distributing firm. J. H. Lindner, secretary and treasurer of A. R. Lindburg, Inc., also was active in the meeting. A statement in Toledo by W. C. Cowling, vice-president of Willys-Overland, said that "The move we are making is not merely a seasonal price cut. It is a definite move in line with a growing feeling that price reductions should be made wherever possible. So far as material and labor costs will permit, it will be the continuing policy of this company to develop a car of advanced engineering and exclusive design for the use of the largest group of motor car buyers in the country."

BUSINESS RECESSION, USUALLY a deterrent to research activities, is stimulating American rubber companies to greater development of new uses for synthetic rubber-like materials, according to the Wall Street Journal, financial publication. "Notable example of the strides which the synthetics are making is seen at the B. F. Goodrich Co. plant, Akron, O.," it says. "This company recently set up a special division to handle sales of synthetic rubber-like products under direction of Dr. H. E. Fritz, the man responsible for expansion of Goodrich's 'Koroseal' sales to a volume basis. 'Koroseal,' unlike other synthetics which are purchased by rubber companies from manufacturers and processed on rubber machinery, is both manufactured and processed at Goodrich," the Wall Street Journal states.

"Principal outlets for 'Koroseal' now are for tank linings where it will wihstand nitric and other acids which break down rubber, sheathing for oil and waterproof cables, hydraulic shock absorber gaskets, textile and printing roll covers and packaging material. 'Koroseal' is highly resistant to oxidation, aging, many kinds of chemicals and diffusion of gases. It can be made odorless, tasteless and in any color; it can be heat sealed; and it is prepared in a wide variety of forms ranging from transparent colorless or colored films and sheets to solid masses of varying characteristics. The Goodrich people foresee its use as a wall covering, for umbrellas and raincoats and in many other applications."

SINCE THE FIRESTONE TIRE & Rubber Co. delivered the first dual tractor tire equipment to a Nebraska farmer, Ray Dancer, three seasons ago, the development of dual tire equipment for tractors has passed through one stage after another. When Dancer purchased his equipment, a section of gas pipe, welded between the hubs of the two rear tractor wheels, constituted the "dual" unit. The next advance was a spacer band fitted between two tractor tire rims. This method was an improvement but was discarded for a slotted spacer band which provided a limited variation of spacing between the tires. Firestone now provides dual tractor tire equipment which enables the operator to vary, not only the spacing between dual tires but also to adjust for different tread widths. With variable tread widths and adjustable spacing between the tires, the equipment may be set to center exactly on lister ridges, whether they be 38, 40, or 44 inches apart. This enables the operator to ride the ridges accurately with a minimum of steering effort, regardless of soil conditions. Firestone's front tire equipment also is adjustable to various tread widths. Most recent in Firestone's dual tractor tire program is introduction of several smaller sizes in dual tire equipment.

A THIRTY NINE BILLION DOLLARS saving to American motorists—an amount more than the national debt—has resulted from the continual drop in tire and tube prices since 1920, Col. Charles E. Speak, president of the Fisk Tire Co., estimates. At the same time, he says, constantly greater mileage returns are being obtained despite increasing severity of service. The savings, averaging more than $1300 per car owner, represent the difference between actual amounts paid for tires and tubes, and amounts which would have been paid if tire quality and price had remained at 19 levels. Tire cost per 10,000 miles in 1920 was $163; today the same mileage is secured for about $39.

REGISTRATIONS INDICATE, according to D. E. Ahrens, general sales manager for Cadillac-LaSalle, that the Cadillac Sixty Special which is built only as a touring sedan, had led car sales over $200 in the first six months of this year. Production of Cadillac Sixty Specials will reach about 4000 cars worth more than $8,000,000, Ahrens said.

MORE THAN 100 VISITORS T Michigan daily visit the Buick plants at Flint through which two trips a day are conducted by regular guides, at 9:30 a. m. and 2 p. The Buick plants extend a mile and three-quarters along the river to a width of two city blocks and include 70 buildings.

THIS NEW YORK

By LUCIUS BEEBE

NEW YORK, July 23.

THE MOST aggressive foe of the cigarette among the more notable of the country's gourmets and wine experts is probably Sohier Welsh, one of the moving spirits of Boston's Club des Arts Gastronomiques. He has been known to snatch gaspers from the hands of guests drinking his own celebrated cocktails, and the very idea of cigarettes during dinner is enough to give him the vapors. Bostonians are pleased to recount the anecdote concerning Welsh's acute perceptions on the occasion of one of the dinners of the club at his own Beacon Hill home. Right in the middle of the game course, as the guest's were getting to work on the grouse and Musigny, a look of horror passed over the host's face, and he cried in strangled tones, "Somebody in the house is smoking! It's ruining the wine!" Obviously none of the club members was guilty of such barbarism, and the butler was instructed to query the kitchen staff and, if the guilty one was discovered, to discharge him instanter. The butler came back with the report that none of his underlings was the culprit, and that, so far as could be discovered, nobody in the house had even considered smoking at meal time. Was Mr. Welsh quite sure he smelled tobacco? He was, and an even more drastic search of the premises was undertaken. Finally somebody downstairs remembered: sure enough, the ice man had come a half hour before and it was recalled that he had been smoking a cigarette. Only after the windows had been flung open and the house well aired could dinner continue.

● THE NEW YORK night-club scene is due for a very considerable overhauling before the plushier mantraps reopen in the fall. Changing times and hard times indicate to restaurant and cabaret proprietors, who are necessarily responsive to the slightest variation in the public's whim and purse, that there will have to be some new set-up in the joy dens. During the last season the smartest after-theater resorts have been Morocco, the Stork, the Persian Room at the Plaza and the St. Regis's various polka parlors, but hard times have hit them all, with the possible exception of Sherman Billingsley's Stork, which is somewhat less costly and has a vast persuasion for celebrities and younger jubilants and seldom has a table or bar space free after midnight. While not in the night-club category, Jack and Charlie's has suffered little more than seasonal variations and has attracted an entirely new trade in the form of after-theater diners who, copying the English fashion, sit down to a full midnight meal, instead of ordering merely a bottle and a club sandwich.

—o—o—

The principal new contender for fall honors will probably be the chic and decorative Hampshire House, so spectacularly designed by Dorothy Draper. Plans are under way to transform its brilliantly conceived main ballroom, which accommodates only about 250 persons, into an ultra-swank but not over-costly rendezvous under the direction of Felix Ferrie, the Monte Carlo impresario. Only the Stork seems immune to the mutations of time, and the associated Messrs. Billingsley, Farmer and McBain sit back and count the happy cash customers, buy drinks for the right people with an accustomed but still astonishing lavishness, and are confident that, while gravity or, say, the binomial theorem obtain, they will be in the chips.

—o—o—

● NOTHING COULD BETTER illustrate the decline in prestige of what passed 25 years ago for New York society and its replacement by professional celebrities and public-living glamour folk than the recent upheaval in the society staff of one of the town's afternoon papers. All Manhattan society reporting in recent years has concerned itself far more with the personalities of the cafe, restaurant and night-club scene than with the more conservative but far less colorful or important folk of the old Murray Hill and Newport tradition who have come to be known as "cave dwellers." The requirements for achieving the society page and rotogravure sections shifted from those of patroon ancestry and a well fertilized family tree to a flair for self-exploitation and a picturesque personality. The columnist on the afternoon paper in question, who was in her own right possessed of a bowing acquaintance with some of the oldtime hangers-on of formal society in Tuxedo and around the Colony Club, insisted on chronicling the more or less insipid existence of various posses of high-toned dullards and the fancy foreign cadgers who haunt Palm Beach during the winter.

In vain did her managing editor and, later, her publisher try to insinuate some breath of life and probability into her copy, something to take the charnel-house quality off her accounts of levees and marriages among the high noblesse. Readers, they pointed out, didn't give a qualified hoot for reprints of family histories where nine out of ten of the characters mentioned had been at Woodlawn these 30 years. What they wanted were details of the lives of the inmates of Morocco and the Stork, the first-nighters, best dressers, tiara tossers and most frequent divorcers. But the reporter continued to call the role of the inhabitants of the cemetery, and now she is out of a job, her third within the year. Like it or not, the New York social scene has been taken over, lock, stock and ramrod, by the gleaming personalities who know how to make themselves good copy and who look attractive in the finder of a news camera.

Hard Times Have Come Upon Chorus Girls—With Jobs in Own Field Scarce, They Are Turning to Other Activities.

By Helen Harrison

NEW YORK, July 23.

UNLESS the League for Tired Business Men saves the situation—and quickly, too—chorus girls, by A. D., 1948, will be as extinct as the dodo, the hair shirt and the Big Apple, and at least twice as sorely missed!

The plight of la belle chorine is something to make strong men weaken (we hope) and to strike terror in the hearts of our somnambulating social set which believes in life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, for, during the present summer solstice, her numbers are at a new all-time low.

Actually there are only 104 long-stemmed American beauties of the chorus employed in New York, where 1785 grew just a very short while back.

Which means that tonight's garden variety of hi-de-hoers will reap entertainment for a mere .0582 of the crop expectancy. The others have been plowed under by the depression, official umbrage and the present trend toward "variety."

What happens when, out of four of Broadway's big-time revues, only one retains a girl show and is followed by a hundred other lesser-known night spots which have thrown from six to eight times that number of cute little tricks on their own resources, bag and baggage? And, most important, why?

Well, in the first place, run-of-the-show-sirens are paid $35, at least at the Paradise which, with Ben Marden's Riviera, are the last stands of the torso-tossers. "But," says Jay Faggen, of that evening Eden, "the smaller places pay only $25. So it wouldn't seem, would it, as though just six or eight chorus cuties could make a lot of difference in their tills?"

No, it wouldn't. But it does, and no fairy tale, either, for here's the house that Jack builds:

Multiply even eight girls at $25 and you have $200. Add one wardrobe mistress at $25 and, if there are more than eight, two are required. The producer of the floor show gets $75 or $100. Then you can't keep a show running any longer than three months.

Changes of costume, props, scenery, etc., add up to $3000 or $4000. (And remember there are four such changes a year.) Production numbers, you mustn't forget, require arrangements and those cost $75 or $100 apiece. There are six or 10 of them. They call for an orchestra of at least 10 men, while a few acts and a dance band could worry along with six. Having a chorus, even a small chorus, means quite a stack of chips, wouldn't you say?

The Casa Manana's weekly intake is in the neighborhood of $40,000 with the old-time vaudeville show packing them in. Tops for the former girl shows was $42,000. It costs $12,000 for the variety type show as against $20,000 to put on a show with a line of pretties, and the difference is all gravy—without the chicken.

"At the Paradise," Faggen agrees, "everything is proportionate. We have 12 chorus and eight show girls, with everything relatively higher." . . . And so—relatively speaking—she is fast becoming cousin to the vanishing Indian.

Where do they go, how do they live, what do they do? Let's see . . .

At the top of the Preferred List, of course, is Johnny Stagedoor, who used to come a-calling with a little Park Avenoo pent-house wrapped up in one hand, a Dusenberg in the other and, frequently tucked away in his vest pocket was a shining solitaire, benefit Cartier's. Today Mr. Wolf (of the Big Bad Wolves of Poverty Row), has taken his place. Now, if the competition isn't too great, she's inclined to settle for a musician.

Meanwhile, she turns to modeling, fashion shows, movie shorts and even selling in the department stores, if she can't get a job prancing up and down the aisles in moddom's $6.94 negligee. She turns to these jobs—but gets them only infrequently.

—o-o—

COMMERCIAL photography would seem the ideal medium so it's only fair to ask John Powers, dean of camera artists, who, out of 1,000,000 "possibilities," has selected his Photographic Four Hundred.

"We want beauty before it hits the chorus," Powers says with little hesitation. "Such girls as Peggy Conklin, Madge Evans, Betty Compton (Walker), Constance Cummings, Paulette Goddard and Betty Furness all posed for me before they were given their opportunities in Hollywood.

"Unfortunately," he says, "chorus and show girls have never fitted into the model business, as I know it, because the girls who go into shows soon assume what I term a 'showy' style."

So, with photographic modeling not a "live" prospect, the hard-working little hoofers must look elsewhere.

Her next possibility is the summer activities. Show business "isn't," so that won't do, for there are exactly 39 chorines in "I Married an Angel"; 16 in "Two Bouquets," and 17 in "Pins and Needles," the only three musicals on the boards. Deduct 72 from the 750 or 1000 working at the peak of the season and the straits of the chorus girls of "legitimate" shows are seen to be as pitiable as that of their sisters of the night clubs.

A CHORUS CALL THESE DAYS ON BROADWAY BRINGS AN AVALANCHE OF AMERICAN BEAUTIES SHOWERING DOWN UPON THE PRODUCER.

Some are absorbed, says Miss Ruth Richmond, executive secretary of Chorus Equity, by such projects as the Municipal Opera in St. Louis, and summer stock in Louisville and Cleveland. Still others, according to Miss Richmond, are working for board and room at summer camps and resorts, and modeling in large department stores.

Let Mary Lou Bentley, beautiful blonde import from Texas into the Casa Manana by Billy Rose, and who is now "at liberty," give you her ideas on the subject:

"I've only $20 to my name and I live in a hotel where I pay $14 a week for my room—but I'm not worrying! I never step out of the hotel that half a dozen offers for breakfast, luncheon and dinner don't pop up. The room rent? My credit is still good . . . I tried modeling clothes but I couldn't stand the buyers pawing me. I gave it up and in about six weeks Mr. Rose is going to put me into his new Pioneer Palace. I'll manage."

The couple of hundred complaints which came from out-of-towners when the Casa Manana turned its femme revue into a renaissance of vaudeville (and which complaints now have dwindled to a mere two a week) is perhaps reason enough why all the girls at the Paradise are studying the drama. There's pretty Jackie Gateley who comes from Arkansas and poses for golf togs and who spends the extra money studying singing, drama and diction. She finds little time for partying and dinner dates as does Vera Devine, who lives in the Bronx with her family. Vera poses for bathing suits and undergarments (for which she receives a higher fee) and, need you ask, is studying dramatics and singing as is Helen Dell, sister of the late Dorothy Dell, who has been heard over the radio with Gus Arnheim's orchestra and with Enric Madriguera. Shannon Dean is another who aspires to be an "actress."

—o-o—

HOWEVER, it remained for Corinne McLennon—who was a student nurse in a Brooklyn hospital when a strike eased her into posing for the redoubtable Powers—to become a "toothpaste gir." Corinne has been doubling at the Paradise for the past year and in her spare time poses for fashion shorts and models in shows held at the smart Fifth avenue ateliers and the swank hotels. In her spare time—but have you guessed?—she studies, yes, dramatics and the violin!

Are they discouraged easily? Don't ever believe it! There's a little apartment where the mother of an ex-chorus girl—who is now a specialty dancer in an act—keeps open house for struggling and indigent prancing Priscillas. It might have been the model for "Stage Door" for as many as 10 girls at a time are housed and fed by "Lady," as their benefactress likes best to be known.

Such not infrequent kindnesses keep the chorus girl from going home, discouraged, or taking the easiest way, for she's a hardy plant and a fighter. Used to the close confines of a night club, loving its thrills, its smoky atmosphere and even its struggles, her only horror is agarophobia—a nervous dread of open spaces—she hopes never to find herself in one!

ON THE FLICKER FRONT

By H. H. NIEMEYER

HOLLYWOOD, July 23.

A lot of movie folks are acting in stock this summer. More of them than ever before but none of the really top-notch screen favorites is among them. Sylvia Sidney, comes the closest but confined herself to listening to some real applause for only a week. The others found plenty of time on their hands out here in Hollywood and could get away without seriously wrecking the film business; players like the beautiful Elissa Landi, the veteran Fred Stone, the businesslike Jean Muir, Madge Evans, Glenda Farrell and one or two more. None of them is really deserting the screen. Far from it. Just filling in a little spare time and ready to hop back to Hollywood on a moment's notice.

And this being the off season for the ligitimate stage or what is left of it, Hollywood is full to overflowing with Broadway actors who are waiting for the Hollywood lightning to strike. If you read any of the more or less standard Broadway columnists you will note that the lion's shares of the gossip is gathered, not from Times Square but from around the Brown Derby.

—o-o—

OUR OLD FRIEND, Idwal Jones, who points out a lot of things to us, calls attention to the fact that at an unprecedented rate, Broadway columnists are drifting to their last refuge, Hollywood. Some, we are told by Idwal, have been living in Hollywood a long while. Things had been growing a trifle difficult for them on Broadway, where the exigencies of their job demanded they flush up at least six celebrities to the block, 20 to the column. And Hollywood is a little more comfortable. There's more sunshine, golf courses and the beaches are nearer —and the job imposes less strain on the imagination.

It won't do, of course, to say you bumped into Julie Haydon, Ina Claire and George Jean Nathan on Hollywood boulevard, because they actually are in Manhattan. As a matter of fact, it won't do at all ever to say you bump into anybody on any boulevard in Hollywood, where nobody ever walks. A few names are safe, like J. P. McEvoy, Errol Flynn and Sam Goldwyn, who are mobile, who flit by air, who are not sure where they left their cigarette case last night, at "21" in New York or the Brown Derby in Hollywood.

And reporting is easier. The imaginary Broadway of the columnists, including the side streets where the theaters and the clubs are, is only about 12 blocks, and Hollywood covers 250 square miles. But the columnist can flush his quarry at any studio, preferably at lunch hour. The Paramount restaurant is as good a hunting ground as any. For some odd reason it is called the "commissary."

—o-o—

A LATTICE PARTITION runs the whole length of it. One-third of the dining room is devoted to a horseshoe lunch counter with swivel chairs and a lot of small tables without cloth. Reporters hunting for copy peer through the lattice at the other two-thirds of the place, which has cloth on the tables and palms in tubs, and to lunch with palm fronds jabbing into you costs a nickel more.

The other day was fairly rich in spoils. No reporter caught them all. At one ungarnished table sat Andre Charlot of revue fame. Though a Parisian, he has lived in London so long that he is even more English than French, and must know British humor pretty well, for he has pushed into fame Beatrice Lillie, Jack Buchanan and Jack Hurlburt. Ronald Colman, who is star in "If I Were King," used to act for him. Charlot is technical adviser for the music-hall scenes in "Zaza." He has seen all the "Zazas" that were ever played on the stage and on the screen. It was he who said Isa Miranda was the greatest. But let that pass.

There is nothing histrionic about Charlot. He is a large, spare, grave, bespectacled man who talks without a single gesture. He doesn't drink wine or coffee. Nor does he drink tea, of which he is fond, unless he can get his favorite blend. He likes Hollywood.

—o-o—

ALLA NAZIMOVA comes in, wearing slacks, with a scriptbook under her arm, a cigarette, and peering up, as is her way, from under a touseled mop of hair. As she passes a table, Akim Tamiroff, a fellow-Russian, gets up and bows to her. They knew each other in Russia, but they exchange a salutation in English. Tamiroff bows deeper and lifts his hat more often than anybody in Hollywood, being a

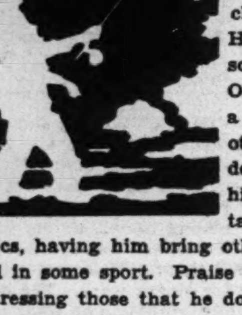
MY OPINION

by

Martha Carr

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM a woman 32 and have a son 10 years old who is the main problem of my life. He is constantly annoying me, lies, steals and causes hard feelings. Is there any way I can hold this son of mine? Please try and help me as I haven't the slightest idea what to do. I have whipped him and deprived him of pleasures. I sit by the hour and talk to him, but he goes right ahead and does what I tell him not to do. A MOTHER.



This sounds more like a problem for a child psychologist than for a mere layman. Have you talked to the boy's teacher at school to see if she has any suggestions? Often a teacher gets a better insight into a child's character through his actions with other children. Instead of whipping and depriving him of pleasures or preaching to him, try winning his interest in other ways, taking him on little pleasure trips and picnics, having him bring other boys to the house, getting him interested in some sport. Praise him for things that he does right instead of stressing those that he does wrong. It may be that your boy was allowed to have his own way from babyhood and now it will take time and trouble, rather than force, to bring him under control. I would advise you to read Angelo Patri's column regularly in the Post-Dispatch and follow his advice.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

● I AM A GIRL in the early twenties and go out with men on dates, but they tell me I am old-fashioned because I will not go out with married men. I don't drink or smoke, but love to dance. Even so, I can't seem to find the right kind of men. LONESOME BLUES.

Certainly not going out with married men is not being old-fashioned—it is merely using good sense and good taste. You have evidently been meeting men of the wrong type. Become acquainted with the young people at your church or through other reputable channels and you will find that there are many people of the right kind.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

● I AM A GIRL 17 years old. What I would like to know is: do you think one benefits much from a week of camp life or would you advise me to save this money and buy some things I need? We are not wealthy and therefore I have to choose wisely. Perhaps some of your readers who have gone to a Walther League camp can help me decide. Also I would like to know what kind of clothes I would need and if my age is all right. WALTHER LEAGUER.

From what I have heard of the Walther League camps, I believe a week at one of them would give you a grand opportunity to make enjoyable new contacts and have a good time. You would have to inquire from your church or the Walther League headquarters as to any age requirements and the type of sports offered, whether there are riding or swimming facilities and that sort of thing. However, any type of simple sports clothes, not too extreme or too dressy, would be suitable for camp life.

—o—o—

Dear Mrs. Carr:

● A FRIEND OF MINE has a husband who goes with a young girl half his age and lets her keep his car. His wife won't listen when we try to get her to sue for divorce. His wife says all people make mistakes and she feels sorry for such a woman. I am in love with this wife's brother and he threatens harm to her husband. Is there any way I can get this woman to see how low her husband is? WANDA ANN.

You are probably wasting your time trying to change this woman's opinion of her husband and it would be better to keep her brother from making foolish threats which could very easily get him into serious trouble. The wife evidently knows all the facts in the case. Any move that she cares to make is strictly her business and not that of even well meaning friends.

—o—o—

Dear Mrs. Carr:

● THIS IS IN ANSWER to the woman who wants to know how to use up her 10-pound sugar sacks. Soap them and boil with Sal Soda in the water, to remove printing. Sew together, four by five long, and put border around edge. Cross-stitch all seams in colored thread and finish the quilt with double ruffle around the edge. I have two pretty quilts made that way. G. A. D.

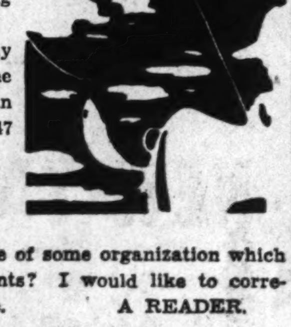
Dear Mrs. Carr:

A SHORT TIME AGO there was mentioned in your column the Mariana Catholic Club, an organiation for Catholic young men and women. Let me express to you my thanks, inasmuch as I am now a member of this club and have found at last the kind of organization I have been desirous of joining for a long time. The young men and women are of the finest type. Delightful social affairs are given twice a month, at which time all attending have a wonderful time.



I hope that, upon reading this, many more young men will want to become members. Its headquarters are located in the Knights of Columbus Building, 3547 Olive street.

SOUTH ST. LOUISAN.

—o—o—

Dear Mrs. Carr:

WILL YOU PLEASE PRINT the name of some organization which has to do with international correspondents? I would like to correspond with some young person in France. A READER.

Write the International Friendship League, 41 Mt. Vernon, Beacon Hill, Boston, Mass.

—o—o—

Dear Martha Carr:

I AM WRITING with hope that you will be able to help me. My trouble is that my ankles are thick and I want to know if there is any way for me to reduce their size. Also, what are the ages of Ella Logan, Wayne Morris and Kenny Baker. LENNIE.

Ella Logan is 25; Wayne Morris, 24, and Kenny Baker, 26, Send a stamped envelope for my phamplet on reducing.

—o—o—

Dear Martha Carr:

AFTER WRITING you the first time that we had kittens to give away, we had so many calls and all four kittens were given away the following day—which proves your tremendous following. Thinking that, perhaps, some of your readers might again be interested, I am asking you if you will be kind enough to say in the column that we now have six that are very cute, but we realize that we simply cannot have six full grown cats living with us; though we hate to give them up. THE WORLD AS WOMEN SEE IT

A Pot of Gold At the End of Every Rainbow

"Yes, Always It Is There, if We Have the Wit to See It."

By Elsie Robinson

STRAIGHT across the bay it sprang—from golden hill to golden hill—that arch of tinted flame.

Very small. . . . clutching my father's hand in an ecstasy of excitement . . . I stood and watched. A rainbow! My first-to-be-remembered rainbow! The marvel of it!

Then, from a far distance above my head, his dear voice came, not with our friendly, familiar chattiness, but with a strange remoteness in it—as though he spoke to someone whom I could not see.

"There is always a pot of gold at the end," he said, almost whispering.

"But, Daddy, really? Really a pot of gold, Daddy—really?" I was tugging at him, excited as a puppy, ready to be off. A really, truly pot of gold—oh, how well we could use it, we Robinsons! There was that doll carriage I had always wanted. And that miracle of a tiny stove that one could really light! And a "magic lantern" for Phil! And a pink dress, with ruffles, for Winne! And—of course, a new suit for Daddy!

—o-o—

FOR EVEN IF one were only 6, one could see that all was not well with Daddy's suit. The best beloved hero . . . surely he should not have to wear patches. Other little girls' daddies did not have to wear patches. And now, now here, almost beneath my hand, was a really, truly pot of gold! And he never, never, never need wear patches again!

"But truly, Daddy . . . a real pot, truly?"

Gently he bent his eyes on mine. Why did he look so sad? Why did he cough before the answer came? Yet, when it did come, the old brave joy rang in it.

"Yes, little girl," he said. "There is always a pot of gold at the end of every rainbow. Maybe others will not see it. Maybe you will not see it yourself—at first. But it is always there . . . and you will always find it . . . if you are willing to wait."

—o-o—

I LOOKED at him bewildered. He was doing it again . . . talking in that strange way I could not understand, as so often he did when I ran tagging at his heels. But already I knew that there was no use asking further. Some day I'd know.

The years have passed. And in their passing I have followed many a trail . . . chased many a rainbow. Sometimes with no slightest credit to myself. But though I've paid for the learning with many a tear, I know at last what my father meant. And if today I were asked to give a helpful word to every weary and discouraged soul I'd choose those very words my father said to me when I was 6—

"There's always a pot of gold at the end of every rainbow!"

Rainbows—how many of them we follow in our puzzled wanderings! Rainbows of romance and ambition, blazing adventure and glittering risk, bubble bright they rise before us, arching from dream to dream; and far below, struggling through the dust of drab reality, we follow their winged flame . . . seeking, always, that "pot of gold."

—o-o—

AND ALWAYS it's there, if we have the wit to see it. But how long it takes us to know it for what it is!

These mocking failures and humiliations . . . these shocks and bitter betrayals . . . even these tears which clear our eyes for the longer, wider look—surely these are tragically far from "pots of gold!" But think again! Where else could you have gathered courage and perspective? How else could you have learned to heal another's frustration and pain?

"A pot of gold at every rainbow's end?" Yes, always. But it's up to you to find it.

Never yet was there a risk that didn't prove to be a bargain . . . never a loss or mistake that wasn't in the end a gain . . . If the mortal who made it had the courage to stick it through and wrench the gain out of the dross!

Wine-Red Accessories

Footwear and accessories of a wine-red tone are advocated for wear with late summer clothes as a means of giving them a fresh appearance. Designed to wear with white, pastels and navy blue the costume accents are made of calfskin leather. Fabric gloves of matching hue have been added to the shoes, bags and belts on display in the shops.

Hat Pins Practical

Because many of those little hats that are in the fashion limelight now are so very small that they sit precariously on the head, hat pins as well as snoods have become practical as well as fashionable. The pins are set with brilliant stones while the snood is as likely to match the shade of the hair as it is the shade of a hat.

KEEN EYE FOR PROPERTY VALUES

One Reason Why Margaret Caradine Wright Is a Leader in Realty Field

MARGARET CARADINE WRIGHT AT HER DESK IN CLAYTON.

By Marguerite Martyn

NOT just another of the numerous flock of women who have gone into the business of selling real estate, but possibly the most successful of them all is Margaret Caradine Wright. That may be saying a good deal. Many women are making good at real estate salesmanship, so much so that almost every realtor now finds it advisable to have one or more women on his force. But has any individual real estate saleswoman sold half a million dollars worth of property the past year? That conservatively is Mrs. Wright's record on the books of the Bakewell realty offices where she is employed. She has been in the business two years, but entered it as an absolute tyro, so only the past year may be said to have gotten into her stride.

The figure, $500,000, seems conservative considering how large some of her transactions have loomed in the news. That's partly because real estate figures have a way of becoming exaggerated when information on actual terms is withheld and must be based on "estimated valuation," and partly because Mrs. Wright seems to have a faculty for discovering and trading in properties to which there is attached a romantic interest, affording real estate reporters material out of the ordinary to write about expansively.

One which partakes of both important money and picturesque factors was the transfer of a 300-acre estate, with improvements said to represent an investment of $300,000 in which Mrs. Wright brought together the seller, Mrs. W. D. Collins, and the buyers, Dr. and Mrs. I. D. Kelley. It is a seat deep in the Ozarks which the wealthy Kelleys will use as a rural retreat. There is an imposing manor house with marble terrace overlooking a wide expanse of Meramec valley, on the other side a patio with cloistered verandas inclosing a swimming pool. There are caretaker's lodge, farmers' cottages, quarters for other retainers, and guest houses. Besides the man-wrought features, a marvelous spring pouring out 10,000,000 gallons of water a day to feed the swimming pool must have figured in the valuation.

Another of Mrs. Wright's sales with romantic history behind it was the Barney Schreiber place in Florissant valley. Established by the famous turfman before the turn of the century, it once comprised 600 acres of fertile, rolling land. Its pastures were sewn with Kentucky blue grass. A track, red barns and equipment were provided for the care and training of a string of thoroughbreds. Whittled down by degrees to 85 acres, the track and central group of buildings, including a 12-room brick residence, became the property of Rogers Hornsby. It then passed into the hands of another sportsman, Claude Fooshe, and just lately, when his business transferred him to California, Mrs. Wright found in E. E. Pershall another buyer with leanings toward gentleman farming and stock raising.

MRS. WRIGHT AND HER 9-YEAR-OLD TWIN DAUGHTERS, PEGGY, LEFT, AND BETTY.

It was Mrs. Wright who discovered Greystone Manor, a 200-acre estate with a mile of bluffs overlooking the Mississippi, 30 miles south of St. Louis, and convinced Mrs. Grace Ashley, the highly successful dress manufacturer and designer, that it just fitted her needs as a retreat from business cares. It had a gem of a Victorian-Gothic house built before the Civil War by cathedral workers imported from England, also an old English garden and formal landscaping down to a swimming pool, picturesque guest cottages and stables to house saddle horses.

—o-o—

TO the Ethan A. H. Shepleys, Mrs. Wright pointed out the ancient Denny homestead, a landmark in St. Louis County, with the remaining eight and a half acres of an original land grant made by President Monroe 120 years ago, as ideal for restoration. Whatever the cash consideration, the reconstruction of the farmhouse preserving original features, such as exposed low walls of native oak and walnut, and old stone fireplaces, makes it one of the richest in historic interest.

Thus this agent has visualized potentialities of a given property, overlooked sometimes by other agents, and brought just the right buying and selling client together.

"Mrs. Wright has gone about studying topographical conformations and potential developments until now she has listed just about all the available strategic views and locations adjacent to St. Louis," said her chief in his downtown office, telling of his woman agent's success. Being not inexperienced at gathering up tracts of strategic potentialities himself, Bakewell added, "not an easy thing to do, if you know the independence of our farmers when they own a property free of indebtedness."

"With new highways making transportation more and more simple, I am interested in seeing people establish places farther out where they really can enjoy country life as they do around New York, where it is nothing to commute 30 and 40 miles," said Mrs. Wright. "But I am also interested in town houses," she added. Three houses in Lenox place which were becoming a drug on the market changed hands through her promotion.

"Why should fine old houses in carefully restricted places be deserted?" she asked. Then answering her own query, "because they are too much surrounded by the congested smoke belching areas. But air conditioning easily takes care of that problem. Town houses are ideal for people who cannot afford the upkeep of country places and the time consumed in reaching them. A little face lifting and interior reconstruction modernizes them. In New York, where land is at such a premium, people of taste do not hesitate to go into deteriorated neighborhoods and restore them. St. Louis has too little vision about city problems. It is a good thing when old houses come down, but discouraged owners should not give up and let vacancies become parking lots. There is the right buyer or the right tenant for every piece of property," she declared emphatically. "What may be unattractive to one person, will be attractive, just fit the needs of another. I never lose sight of that fact."

Mrs. Wright goes forth to work from a house in Portland place every morning. It is the residence of her father, James J. Caradine, to which she returned as a widow six years ago with the necessity of supporting herself and twin daughters, now nine years old. There had been financial reverses in her family even before the long illness of her husband exhausted her own remaining resources. He was Chester E. Wright, an ace aviator in the war, credited with bringing down 12 planes and three enemy balloons, a popular hero in Boston before he came here to join the Caradine Hat Co. and married the daughter of the manufacturer.

—o-o—

"IT was absolute necessity that forced me into business. I should have preferred to follow an artistic bent," said Mrs. Wright in her office at the Clayton branch of Bakewells. "I tried several things, department store work, managing the Junior League club rooms, among them. Always I struck a blind alley until I fell into this limitless real estate field. If I have had any success, however, I must ascribe part of it to those past experiences and a wide range of contacts made through them."

Mrs. Wright is credited with having secured the first tenant of the group of shops which reproduce a bit of Colonial New England or Virginia along the 7700 block of Forsythe boulevard in Clayton. With the Bakewell county branch office established in an old residence that has had its face lifted with a Colonial portico as a nucleus, this has become one of the smartest of shopping centers. Adjoining buildings have been given quaint facades and garden plots behind white picket fences. One after another downtown shop has set up a suburban branch there. Specialty shops and enterprises conducted by society women turned tradeswomen, have been attracted by the quaintness of it all.

"It was a new venture and I couldn't have convinced that first tenant of its practicality if it had not been that I was well known to the prospect through my merchandising experience," said Mrs. Wright.

The suburban shopping center is growing. Only this week Mrs. Wright completed the sale of two more buildings in this group. One, to Grace Ashley, as an investment, exists, as yet, only on paper. All very Colonial, it is to house more shops and a restaurant with flagstone terrace, gardens and parking lots out back.

Other valuable contacts undoubtedly have come through her continued country club associations, where she is known as an expert tennis player and a popular participant in all sports.

"It is all due to something very much more fundamental than fortunate contacts, though," said Bakewell, explaining this success. "I never have had a salesman who was a more earnest student of real estate problems, a more regular and attentive student at our weekly salesmanship classes. She never goes off half cocked. That's why her approach to a client is so convincing. Nor have I had a salesman who put in longer hours. Why, she'll get me on the telephone at 7 in the morning or 10 o'clock at night to straighten out intricacies in the transfer of properties."

GIRL ABOUT TOWN

By Virginia Irwin

FROM a ringside seat atop a fence down in the stockyards of the Independent Packing Co. on Vandeventer avenue, the other morning, we watched Bill, a big brown goat with a bell around his neck, execute a mass betrayal of 242 sweet spring lambs. Bill's job for years has been leading sheep to slaughter, and age and the knowledge that he is indispensable to the company have endowed him with a tremendous amount of goat dignity.

The morning we visited the plant, Bill wasn't very busy and submitted somewhat resignedly to a little petting and accepted somewhat haughtily a handful of cigarettes which he munched slowly until time for him to go to work. The men who man the corrals say Bill distrusts the fair sex and that that is the reason why he wasn't exerting himself to play host.

But to get back to Bill's betrayal of the sweet little lambs. When the signal came from the slaughter floor that all was ready for the killing, one of the hired hands came for Bill. Without even so much as the toss of a horn, Bill followed the keeper of the lambs to the corral gate, did an about face and with an air of utter boredom stood there while the lambs milled about him. Then Bill led off, slowly, and the unsuspecting little lambs followed, calmly. Twice Bill stopped to gnaw on a couple of weeds and the lambs stopped, too. Finally, when Bill had led his 242 little charges through the maze of gates and pens, he came abreast of the place where we were sitting and then turned sharply onto the long ramp that leads to the top-floor death chambers.

—o-o—

WHEN BILL was out of sight, tending to the actual business of delivering his lambs into the hands of the executioners, our guide and fellow fence-sitter explained that not even 50 men could coax sheep up that ramp the way Bill does it. Sheep get excited when humans try to herd them, but they follow Bill without so much as a baa-a-a.

While we were still clinging to the fence rail, 80 Texas steers raced by and a few minutes later the biggest bunch of hogs these city eyes have ever seen stormed the ramp. Cattle and hogs, our guide explained, don't have to be led like sheep. Cattle and hogs make a prodigious din, too, but Bill seems to have some sort of an Indian sign on sheep that keeps them quiet.

We wondered, aloud, about Bill's conscience and our guide guessed that Bill doesn't have such a thing. After all, he pointed out, this Judas of Vandeventer avenue has been luring lambs to slaughter for years and nobody has yet noticed that Bill's conscience has affected either his appetite or business dealings.

—o-o—

WITH SCANT HOPE of being more than mildly entertained, we dropped into one of those neighborhood picture shows the other evening that coaxes cash into the box office by featuring a "crazy auction."

The first picture on the double bill was pretty painful but the "crazy auction" mercifully provided an intermission. The insane proceedings began when the auctioneer sold a pair of ladies' red garters and a loaf of bread for a nickel. Next item on the auction block was a ladies' summer bonnet. The bonnet went to a man for 50 cents, but the auctioneer feared he had run the bidding up too high, so he gave the customer in question a refund of 15 cents and generously threw in two passes to the theater and a box of macaroni. There were other items auctioned, too, including a watermelon, but the high spot of the whole thing was the sale of a dress being worn by the auctioneer's woman helper. The dress went to a man for $2, but the auctioneer insisted that since the dress had a few wrinkles in it, the successful bidder should take 90 cents to cover a possible pressing bill. The man agreed to the proposition, all right, but the auctioneer was still apologetic, and finally presented the buyer with three loaves of bread, two passes to the theater, and an armful of boxed spaghetti.

When these senseless proceedings were over, we found the manager of the theater and asked him about his "crazy auction." He says there's nothing like it for box-office bait. Seems as though, a "crazy auction" appeals to men as well as women. Most neighborhood theaters concentrate on luring women into the show by offers of glassware, chinaware, kitchenware, mixing bowls and filet lace, and hope they'll drag their husbands with them, but the "crazy auction" houses are impartial in their appeal to the sexes.

"A man would rather have a good laugh than a mixing bowl," was the way we had the psychology of the "crazy auction" explained to us. Which is sound reasoning as far as we're concerned, too, because we're still trying to match up that iridescent cream pitcher we got three months ago at a neighborhood movie. With "crazy auctions" you don't have that trouble.

Features of General Interest

ON BROADWAY with Walter Winchell

Walter Winchell is on vacation. His guest columnist today is DICK MERRILL, chief pilot of Eastern Airlines.

THINGS TO REMEMBER:

THAT the Graf Zeppelin was not the first passenger dirigible. The LZ-7 was the first. It had a speed of 45 miles an hour and was operated by the German Air Travel Company in 1910. . . . That my boss, Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, was not the first American Ace in the World War. Raoul Lufberry was America's champion aerial fighter when we entered the fight. When he was killed the title passed to Paul Baer of Fort Wayne, Ind., who, three days later fell into enemy lines. He was 20. Frank Baylies of New Bedford, Mass., won the title next and at his death, the honor passed to Dave Putnam, an old man of 19 whose home was in Brookline, Mass. Frank Luke, the Arizona balloon buster, then took the crown, holding it only for a fortnight. Luke won his eighteenth victory 10 minutes before he was shot to death in the village street of Murvain where he was forced to land a disabled plane. Eddie Rickenbacker, then 30, won the honors, retaining them until the end of the war when he was officially credited with 25 victories. . . . That the first commercial airline in the world was operated between St. Petersburg and Tampa, Fla., and that Tony Jannus of St. Louis was the pilot and A. C. Pheil, former Mayor of St. Petersburg, paid $400 for a 43-minute ride on Jan. 1, 1914. Prospective passengers bid on the first ticket, thus the exorbitant price.

● CONCERNING ANIMALS: People often ask how animals behave in the air. The answer is: Just like human beings. Animals enjoy flying just as much as we do. I've had a wild cat, chimpanzee, ground hog, cub lioness and flying squirrel in my cockpit. At different times, of course. None of them can endure their noises in the slipstream of the propeller. It takes their breath. Yet they are forever tempting to stick their noses into the fast air, like a dog riding in a car and leaning away out.

"Cracker," the pesky flying squirrel, used to climb all over me. When he got tired he'd sneak into my pocket for a snooze. At daybreak he'd come out to see the sun rise and to eat. One time a woman fainted in a Richmond hotel lobby when she saw "Cracker" dart out onto my shoulder; then leap into my pocket. "Cracker" and I parted company one morning when I was battling a storm in a mail ship. He was wandering all over the cockpit and I was all over the sky. It was every man for himself. That's the last I saw of "Cracker." He was not with me when I landed. I hope he made a three-point landing. At that, he was better equipped than I was!

—o—o—

WHAT TO DO WHEN FLYING: People seeing the many instruments on the dashboard of the luxurious Silverliners I fly from New York to Miami and return often ask me what we did to divert ourselves in the old days. Now we have plenty to keep our minds occupied but how about the days when our instrument board was as simple as a Model T's?

When the going was nice, and uneventful, some of us sang; some of us read; some of us just sat. Bayard Carpenter, then flying with St. Tammany Gulf Coast Airways used to cross his legs over the stick and read magazine stories! Jimmy Murray studied law in the cockpit when flying mail for the Postoffice Department on the Mountain Division. And, he passed his bar exams. He's now in Washington, D. C., representing an aircraft manufacturer.

When radio came in and things got boring, we played "train." Here's how it was done: Call your stations into the microphone. Then simulate the noises of the train starting up, by holding the mike first in the slipstream and then into the cockpit.

—o—o—

● THINKING OUT LOUD: That Ford Tri-Motor transport, affectionately called "the big tin goose," was a good airplane. They're still using it in South American countries to fly freight. And it sells for more today than when it was first retired from scheduled airline operations in U. S. six years ago!

I'm suspicious of all the hozannas given the "miraculous development of aircraft" between the years of 1920 and 1932. Methinks the industry lost much good time during those 12 years. Here's why: In 1920 the U. S. Postoffice Department bought five Junker all-metal, low-wing monoplanes from Germany. The cockpit seated both captain and pilot. They had B. M. W. (Bavarian Motor Works) motors and burned a fuel that was nearly as volatile as naphtha. Fuel line trouble and the metric system of the motors gave much grief. They were simple problems to lick, really. But instead of sticking to this job, American engineers went back into wood and fabric airplanes and single-motored jobs, again. They turned their backs on all they had learned!

—o—o—

And so when American engineers again ((after more than a decade of fussing around with wood and canvas, open-cockpit airplanes) took to all-metal, low-wing construction and the monoplanes of 1932 were hailed as great successes, do you wonder that I cannot see it as fabulous progress? Had American engineers taken the bugs out the Junkers and kept to that philosophy of design and construction, the aircraft itself would now be abreast of motor design—which is not true.

—o—o—

● STORIES FUNNIER IN THE TELLING THAN IN THE WRITING: Clarence Lange, now of the navigation division, Bureau of Air Commerce, Salt Lake City, flew in the days when everybody knew you didn't have to be crazy to fly, but were well aware it helped. The Government gave the Postoffice Department less than a million dollars per year to operate the entire Coast-to-Coast system. They'd usually run out of cash about the tenth month. After that, you could either quit flying or stand off the grocer, the butcher and baker to wait the pleasure of Congress, hoping the wise solons would make a deficiency appropriation and take care of your back pay. Nobody knew when or if they'd call the whole thing off and scrap the Air Mail Service.

A faulty carburetor sent Lange into a Nebraska wheat field one day, a forced landing. His tailskid dragged the top strand of a wire fence with it. And before Lange's wheels had hardly stopped rolling, a belligerent farmer was there to protest his uninvited guest. Lange commenced to "sell" the airmail immediately. He explained that the Postoffice Department was trying to do on only a million dollars. He told of the old converted war equipment they were flying. He tried to persuade the dubious farmer that the airmail pilots were, indeed, doing a service to the country. Lange took off well pleased with his job of selling.

Shortly thereafter Lange's division received a notation from Washington, D. C., saying the farmer had submitted a bill for his damaged fence. A carbon copy of the farmer's letter was inclosed. It read, in part:

"I can understand why these young dare devils ought to get paid right smart for drivin' those airplanes, but no man a livin' is worth a million dollars a year!"

Many Versions Of Silhouettes In Fall Outfits

Therefore, Choosing Styles That Are Becoming Should Be Easy.

ANY woman who likes to spend the dull days of late summer poring over pattern books and planning autumn costumes, has a thrilling time in store for her during the next few weeks. Variety is the theme of the silhouettes, while novelty fabrics will make home sewing a fascinating task.

Choosing styles that are becoming should be easy for autumn because there are so many versions of the silhouette. Narrow skirts vie with wide hemlines, draped bodices are as popular as bloused ones and there is much latitude concerning sleeve lengths and dress trimmings. One point on which all of the designers seem to be agreed is that waistlines must look slender and any fall costume should be chosen with this in mind.

Rich, unusual fabrics dominate the mode so that there is a dressy quality to the most simple of street clothes and handsome colorings and weaves to add interest to active sports ensembles. Since costume suits are regarded as of so much importance, many of the fabrics are created for use as dresses which have their matching coats. Cloky woolens, mixtures of rayon and woolen in herringbone effects, tweeds that blend rich colors in deft manner and some rather sheer materials are included in the range of fabrics suggested for suits. The introduction of the suit which has a dressy blouse also calls for careful selection and alliance of fabrics.

Among dress materials, the cloky and mossy crepes are examples of the trend toward handsome apparel. Taffeta-like encrustations on dull grounds are notable, and there are many materials with woven colors to give an embroidered impression. Ribbed silks and heavy silks which drape easily have a place in the mode as do the satin-backed crepes which present a two-tone theme.

Printed velveteens are so different from the sports materials seen previously that every woman will be wanting a velveteen coat or suit for early autumn wear. Outstanding are blazer stripes, fur effects such as leopard, python skin patterns, plaids and tweedy designs. These novelties are so striking that they are being used sparingly and in alliance with plain woolens to create the most favorable impression.

There is much speculation as to the acceptance of Scotch plaids. Some fashion authorities think so well of it that they include silks as well as woolens and synthetics in their fall collections. The silks are used for blouses, entire daytime dresses and also for evening wear. Taffeta and other crisp silks are of much interest, a metallic striped taffeta being used extensively for evening dresses and for coat linings.

With metallic fabrics considered suitable now for daytime as well as for evening wear, many small patterned and conservatively toned materials will be on display in the stores. Sheer metallic fabrics are recommended for blouses and for afternoon dresses, while heavier ones, brocaded patterns and tapestry designs are featured among the formal evening types.

Cameo Lockets and Brooches Popular

AN old-fashioned cameo locket or brooch that is hiding in a jewel case or a safety deposit box has a new-fashioned charm. It is one of the swankiest ornaments that could be added to an evening dress, especially a dress that is quaintly designed. Wear the cameo on a black velvet ribbon tied around the neck or pin it to the bodice of a frock.

In accord with this vogue of old-fashioned jewelry for evening wear is the return of the chatelaine for daytime frocks. Some of the most handsome ones are used for evening, too, but the popular theme is illustrated by one of these jeweled gadgets pinned to the shoulder or the belt of a simple dark dress.

Apron and Sunbonnet

The apron and the sunbonnet are creating fashion history on the beaches. Neither bears much resemblance to the kitchen variety but they supplied the inspiration. The apron is used for a bathing suit and is worn over knitted shorts. The fabric as used originally by the designer, Schiaparelli, was red and white flannel but there are many fabric imitators since the style was first introduced in Paris. The sunbonnet, stiffened so that it stands away from the forehead, matches the apron in fabric and color.

Handbag Frames

It is not only the shape which counts in the new handbags, but the frame as well. The frames are more elaborate than they have been for many seasons, and there is a jewelry-like emphasis above many of the tops. Soft shapes, usually developed of suede, silk cord handles, velvet or grosgrain ribbon appliques and leather contrasts are significant in the styling of the new bags.

JACK The Calorie KILLER

How Roly-Poly Oakie Whipped Triple Menace of Fat, Movie Oblivion and Wife's Vexation.

By MARJORIE DRISCOLL

He can look a two-inch-thick rare beefsteak or a succulent apple pie or big mealy potato right in the face, and say:

"No!"

Jack Oakie used to weigh 210 pounds and a lot of those pounds were located right where they showed the most.

Now he weighs a mere 150.

Sixty pounds of Jack Oakie have vanished into thin air.

Unhesitatingly the once rotund comedian gives full credit to his wife, the attractive Venita Varden.

"She admitted that she didn't like fat men," he explained.

"And when a wife says that, where does it leave a husband?

"Every time she looks at you, you see it in her eye: 'I WISH you weren't so fat!'

"So, the first thing you know, you're living on Melba toast and skimmed milk, and exercising . . . and how . . . and liking it."

Obedient to the wifely dictum, Oakie did several things to lose the 60 pounds.

He dieted. He exercised vigorously. He wore a suit of rubber underwear.

"It was pretty tough at first," said Oakie. "I nibbled Melba toast until I crackled when I walked. I used to yearn over the idea of food and lots of it. But then I'd catch that look in my wife's eye, and I'd say to myself:

"'Oakie, be a man! Don't weaken now!'"

Mrs. Oakie was a pillar of strength in those first hungry days.

"I could tell when he was thinking about good things to eat and it was time to encourage him by telling him he already looked thinner," she said.

"The first week or so was the hardest. After that, he got used to it, and before long he liked his diet."

"But I never could like that rubber underwear," said Oakie plaintively.

"It's worse than red flannels. The only consolation is that the hotter and more uncomfortable you feel, the more pounds you know you're losing."

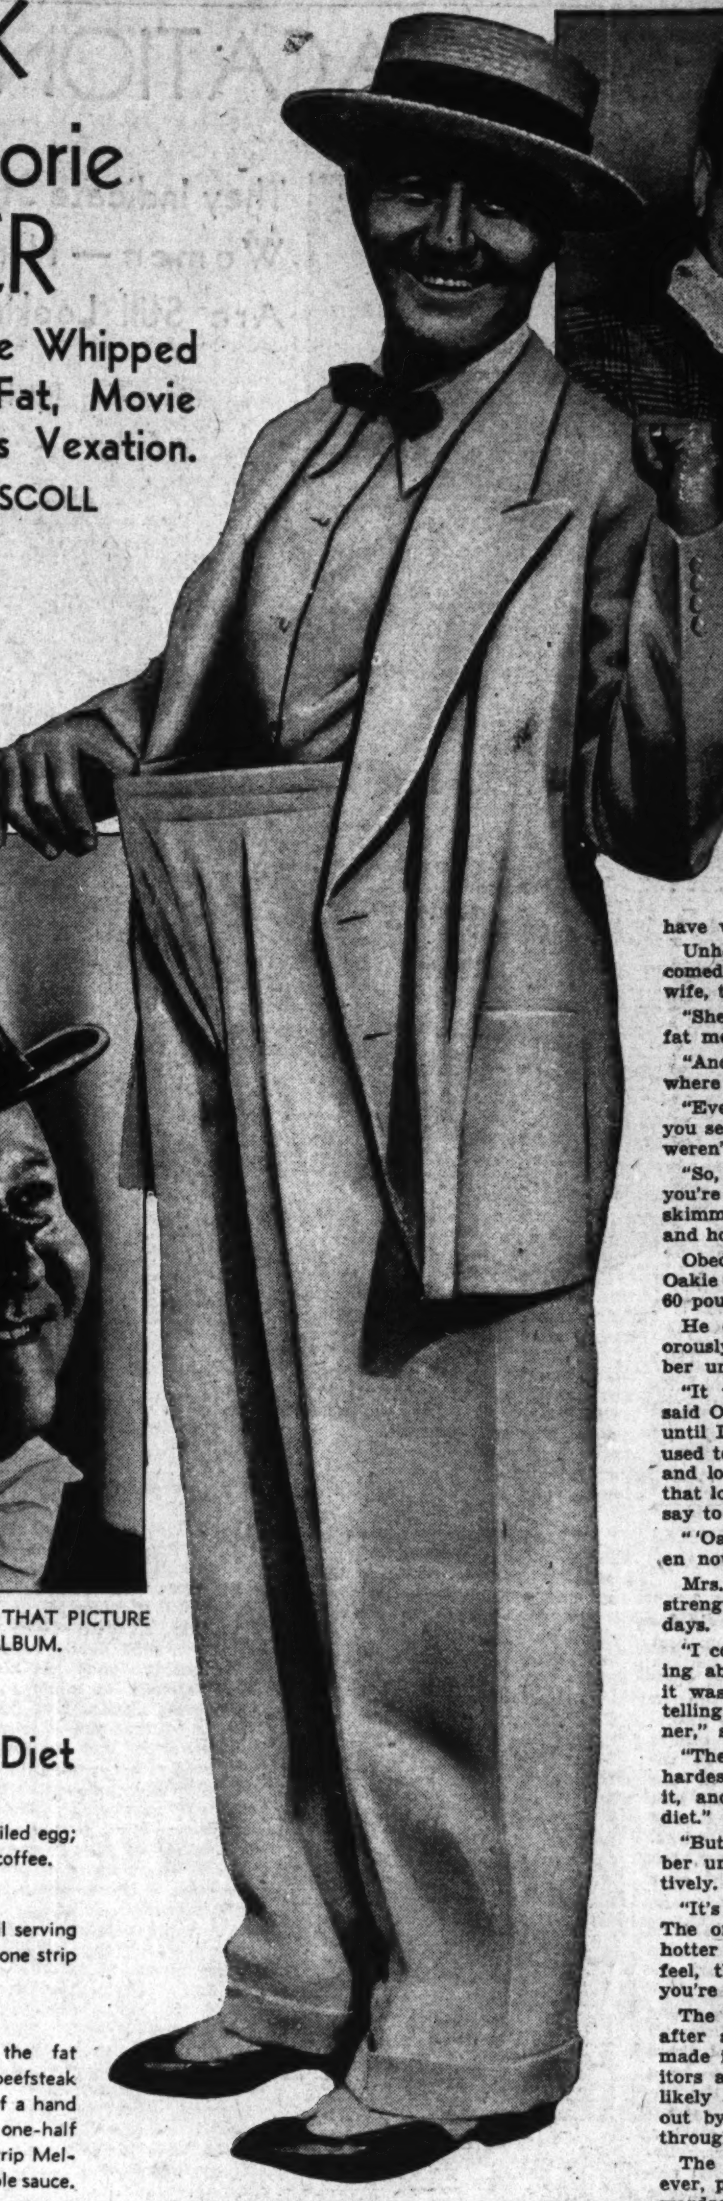
The exercise was fine, especially after a disappearing bay window made it easier to bend over. Visitors at the Oakie home now are likely to find the actor all alone out by the swimming pool, going through various gymnastics.

The loss of the 60 pounds, however, played havoc with the Oakie wardrobe. Suits that used to fit like a kid glove hung on him like a circus tent. Alterations were hopeless, so he gave everything away and started fresh.

"About all I could keep on wearing was my shoes and my hat," he said.

Oakie now may join the clan of courageous mortals, headed by Bandsman Paul Whiteman, who have substituted lamb chops and pineapple for the gourmet's delights, and thereby have attained a streamlined figure and pleased wives.

A FAT MAN IN A HIGH HAT! BUT THAT PICTURE IS ONLY FOR HIS FAMILY ALBUM.



THE "SLIM" JACK OAKIE, AT LEFT, SEEMS TO BE POINTING A MEANINGFUL THUMB AT THE OVER-STUFFED OAKIE OF YESTERDAY —WHEN EATING MEANT SOMETHING BESIDES THIN SOUP, LEAN MEAT AND MELBA TOAST.

Standard Oakie Reducing Diet

BREAKFAST—

One-half cup tomato juice; one boiled egg; one strip Melba toast; one cup black coffee.

LUNCHEON—

One cup clear vegetable soup; small serving of pineapple and cottage cheese salad; one strip Melba toast; one glass skimmed milk.

DINNER—

One cup chicken broth with the fat skimmed off; one serving of broiled beefsteak (or lean meat) the size of the palm of a hand (not Primo Carnera's hand, either); one-half cup beets; one-half cup carrots; one strip Melba toast; one-half cup unsweetened apple sauce.

polite man who acts as if everybody he meets is a great genius. He has a passion for reading newspapers, and his pockets are stuffed with them. He does most of his reading near the bootblack stand, with ears intent for the newest slang, which he repeats to himself fervently as he strolls away.

Paul Porcasi, Clarence Kolb and Sidney Toler are lunching at the the counter, far apart. Toler is in the tavern-keeper costume he wears in "If I Were King." He orders a sandwich in one of the clearest, most precise and easy voices on the American stage.

Under the palms, not because it's swankier but because there is more room under the tables to stretch your legs, are important persons few people know by sight, and some whose affairs are of palpitant concern to millions. Ronald Colman, with pointed beard and dirty leather jerkin, lunches with beetle-browed Frank Lloyd, talking not of the next scene in "If I Were King," but of the best soap to scrub dogs with. James Hogan, who directed "The Texans," is solo, slunk in his chair and making a home-made cigarette.

—o-o—

JOHN BARRYMORE, sitting with rigidity before a cup of coffee, manipulates a cigarette and enjoys silence with a companion who is either his masseur or valet. His face is yellowed with a makeup stick, and a lot of it is on his collar. We used to worry about stars getting their collars all smeared up with yellow makeup, but yellow photographs white, and the smearing makes no difference, though it looks sloppy to the naked eye.

The general talk in the commissary is like talk everywhere else. It runs to 70 per cent shop, the rest on sport, the weather, politics and the trend of business, in order named. Of the clientele, one-fourth are visitors, who look about with curiosity, trying to recognize the actors. Their curiosity is exceeded only by that of the actors who wonder who the visitors are. Children are the best at recognizing screen people. That reminds us of a famous Senator, an impassioned movie fan who sees four shows a week, who told Frank Lloyd he had seen thousands of movies but was sure of recognizing, on the screen, only George Raft, because his hair was slick, and Shirley Temple, a favorite of his grandchild.

—o-o—

PERHAPS the best talk this day, or rather the highest in intellectual tone, was at Fritz Lang's table. He was lunching with Aldous Huxley and talking about psychology. They were making it interesting, but there was only the waitress to hear. Lang, creator of "M" with Peter Lorre, and who has just finished "You and Me," a psychological film with music, puts the most difficult and touchy things on the screen and makes them pay. He is dark, intense and animated, but a perfect listener.

Huxley was saying that Boulder Dam and the Grande Coulee in Washington, both of which he admires tremendously, culminate the "folie de grandeur" in America, and after that, electricity will be so cheap that industry will not be in the big shops, but in homes and little shops in the country.

Lang agreed with him, but didn't think movies could ever be made on the big scale outside of the big shops in Hollywood.

"Still," he said, "movies may be a pure art then, and not an industry."

Lumberjacket Modes

Lumberjacket modes are getting more important in the fashion world. Instead of being used only for sports wear, they now are featured for town ensembles. Since the windbreaker is a version of the bloused theme, many designers are using it for waist-length jackets to be worn with matching frock or skirt and contrasting blouse. Several four-piece suits consisting of jacket, skirt, blouse and topcoat also are developed with the windbreaker theme a feature of the jacket and the topcoat having a bloused back.

Vogue of Hoods

The vogue of hoods has become so great that nightcaps are the latest versions to strike the feminine fancy. The cap is a pointed one cut with ends that are tied under the chin. It is made of a sheer dotted rayon or cotton material and there is a jaunty little bed jacket that matches. Designed primarily to protect the coiffure while sleeping, it is gaining interest as a protection while motoring.

Short Jackets Of Fur Headed For Popularity

"The Bolero Will Be a Necessity in Every Winter Wardrobe."

THE furriers may be having a difficult time agreeing as to whether a straight, loose-hanging silhouette or a fitted and flared one shall be the leader for winter, but all of them are agreed that the fur bolero is a necessity in every well-dressed woman's wardrobe. Emphasis upon the short fur jacket should prompt the thrifty ones as well as the early costume planners to start their furriers to work on remodeling of last year's coat or the creation of a new one.

Boleros of various pelts are featured with all types of ensembles as well as being introduced as separate style items. They are presented in the collections of costume suits in many different prices and also are being introduced in connection with cloth coats. The full-length coat which has a detachable fur bolero has, perhaps, attracted more attention and is getting more enthusiastic attention than any other model shown in the fashion exhibitions.

Although styles differ in fur boleros, the one which is noted most often is collarless and has a sleeve of bracelet length. The corners of the front are rounded and the length is rather brief. As the jacket is cut rather large, it is suitable for wear over a coat as well as over a frock.

Costume suits that have fur capes lined with wool are another indication of the diversified styles of furs for the coming season. They usually have capes extending to hip length, although some stop at the waistline.

Two distinct silhouettes are being advocated in dress-length fur coats. The one hangs straight from the shoulders, often has a tuxedo roll type of collar that may be buttoned close at the throat or left unfastened, and has full sleeves which are slightly raised at the shoulders. The other, in direct contrast, has a fitted bodice section and a snug waistline to which a flaring skirt section is attached. Collars on both are a minor consideration while sleeves are brought into the limelight.

WOMAN to WOMAN
By Mary Morris

Good judgment should temper desire in the selection of a funeral service. This is particularly true when the resources of the bereaved family are limited. I have observed human anxiety to make the final tribute a memorable one cause families to order funerals beyond their means.

The conscientious, sincere funeral director can be a tempering influence. His counsel and advice may be invaluable in conserving the resources of the family.

The C. R. Lupton & Sons organization, 7233 Delmar Blvd., which offers a service for all, manifests a decidedly conscientious spirit in its efforts to induce a common sense attitude toward the purchase of a funeral.

AUGUST is the month when a goodly number of women are torn between buying a new fur coat or a new table for the living room, this being the time when there are excellent values in both lines of merchandise. It is for those that have decided on house rather than self adornment that this article is written.

Over and over again, women ask me one question—"How do I know I am getting what I think I am?" In other words, what are the distinguishing characteristics that make, say, a Chippendale chair really a Chippendale and not a bad copy of several styles. I have discussed the subject of the various period styles many times in this column but this time I intend to cover the subject as thoroughly as possible in a brief manner and those who are really interested may save this column for future reference.

—o-o—

AS EIGHTEENTH CENTURY English styles are today by all odds the most popular, I will devote this week's column to an explanation of them. This will be mainly limited to a discussion of the furniture alone as it is rare nowadays to furnish a room or house in strict period style. In fact, the most popular type of interior at present is that which uses traditional furniture against a background which features bright, modern color schemes and crisp new fabrics.

Thomas Chippendale was probably the finest cabinetmaker who ever lived. Although his influence has waned, to a certain extent, in the past year, in favor of the lighter and more delicate designers of the later eighteenth century, he is still very extensively represented in the furniture styles featured today.

—o-o—

Chippendale was not only a versatile designer; he also was a very broad-minded one as well, and was influenced by many widely divergent styles. His first work was strongly influenced by the Dutch feeling of the Queen Anne period which preceded him. Then the Louis XV style of France caught his eye. Next, Gothic and Chinese designs proved grist to his decorative mill and finally he abandoned his elaborate designs and approached the neo-classic ideal of the Adams brothers.

—o-o—

● TODAY, it is the simpler styles of Chippendale that appeal to us as appropriate to our homes and thus we are more interested in his neo-classic and occasional Chinese pieces rather than those of Dutch, Gothic or French derivation. And the pieces that we are most apt to select in the Chippendale style are occasional tables, flat-topped desks, secretaries of the break-front type, and a great variety of chairs.

The fact that Chippendale favored mahogany accounts for the fact that his designs reflected more delicate workmanship than the oak and walnut periods that had preceded him. And now for a few distinguishing features that will help the amateur to recognize pieces patterned after Chippendale. Legs are usually the most characteristic feature in any period, and this one is no exception. On chairs and tables they are either of the cabriole or straight variety. The cabriole leg is a tapering leg resembling an elongated S curve and in the Chippendale style the knee part is usually elaborately carved and the foot is of ball and claw or club variety. The straight leg is usually almost square straight to the floor, and if it has a foot it is of the plain block type. Sometimes these plain legs had a Chinese design.

—o-o—

Chippendale's chairs were of great variety and today are frequently used in combination with dining-room furniture of the later English cabinetmakers. Those most frequently seen now are the ladder-back variety, which has a series of horizontal bars across the back; splat back, which has a center portion separated from the side rails, this splat being carved and decorated in various manners; and the square back which is upholstered.

—o-o—

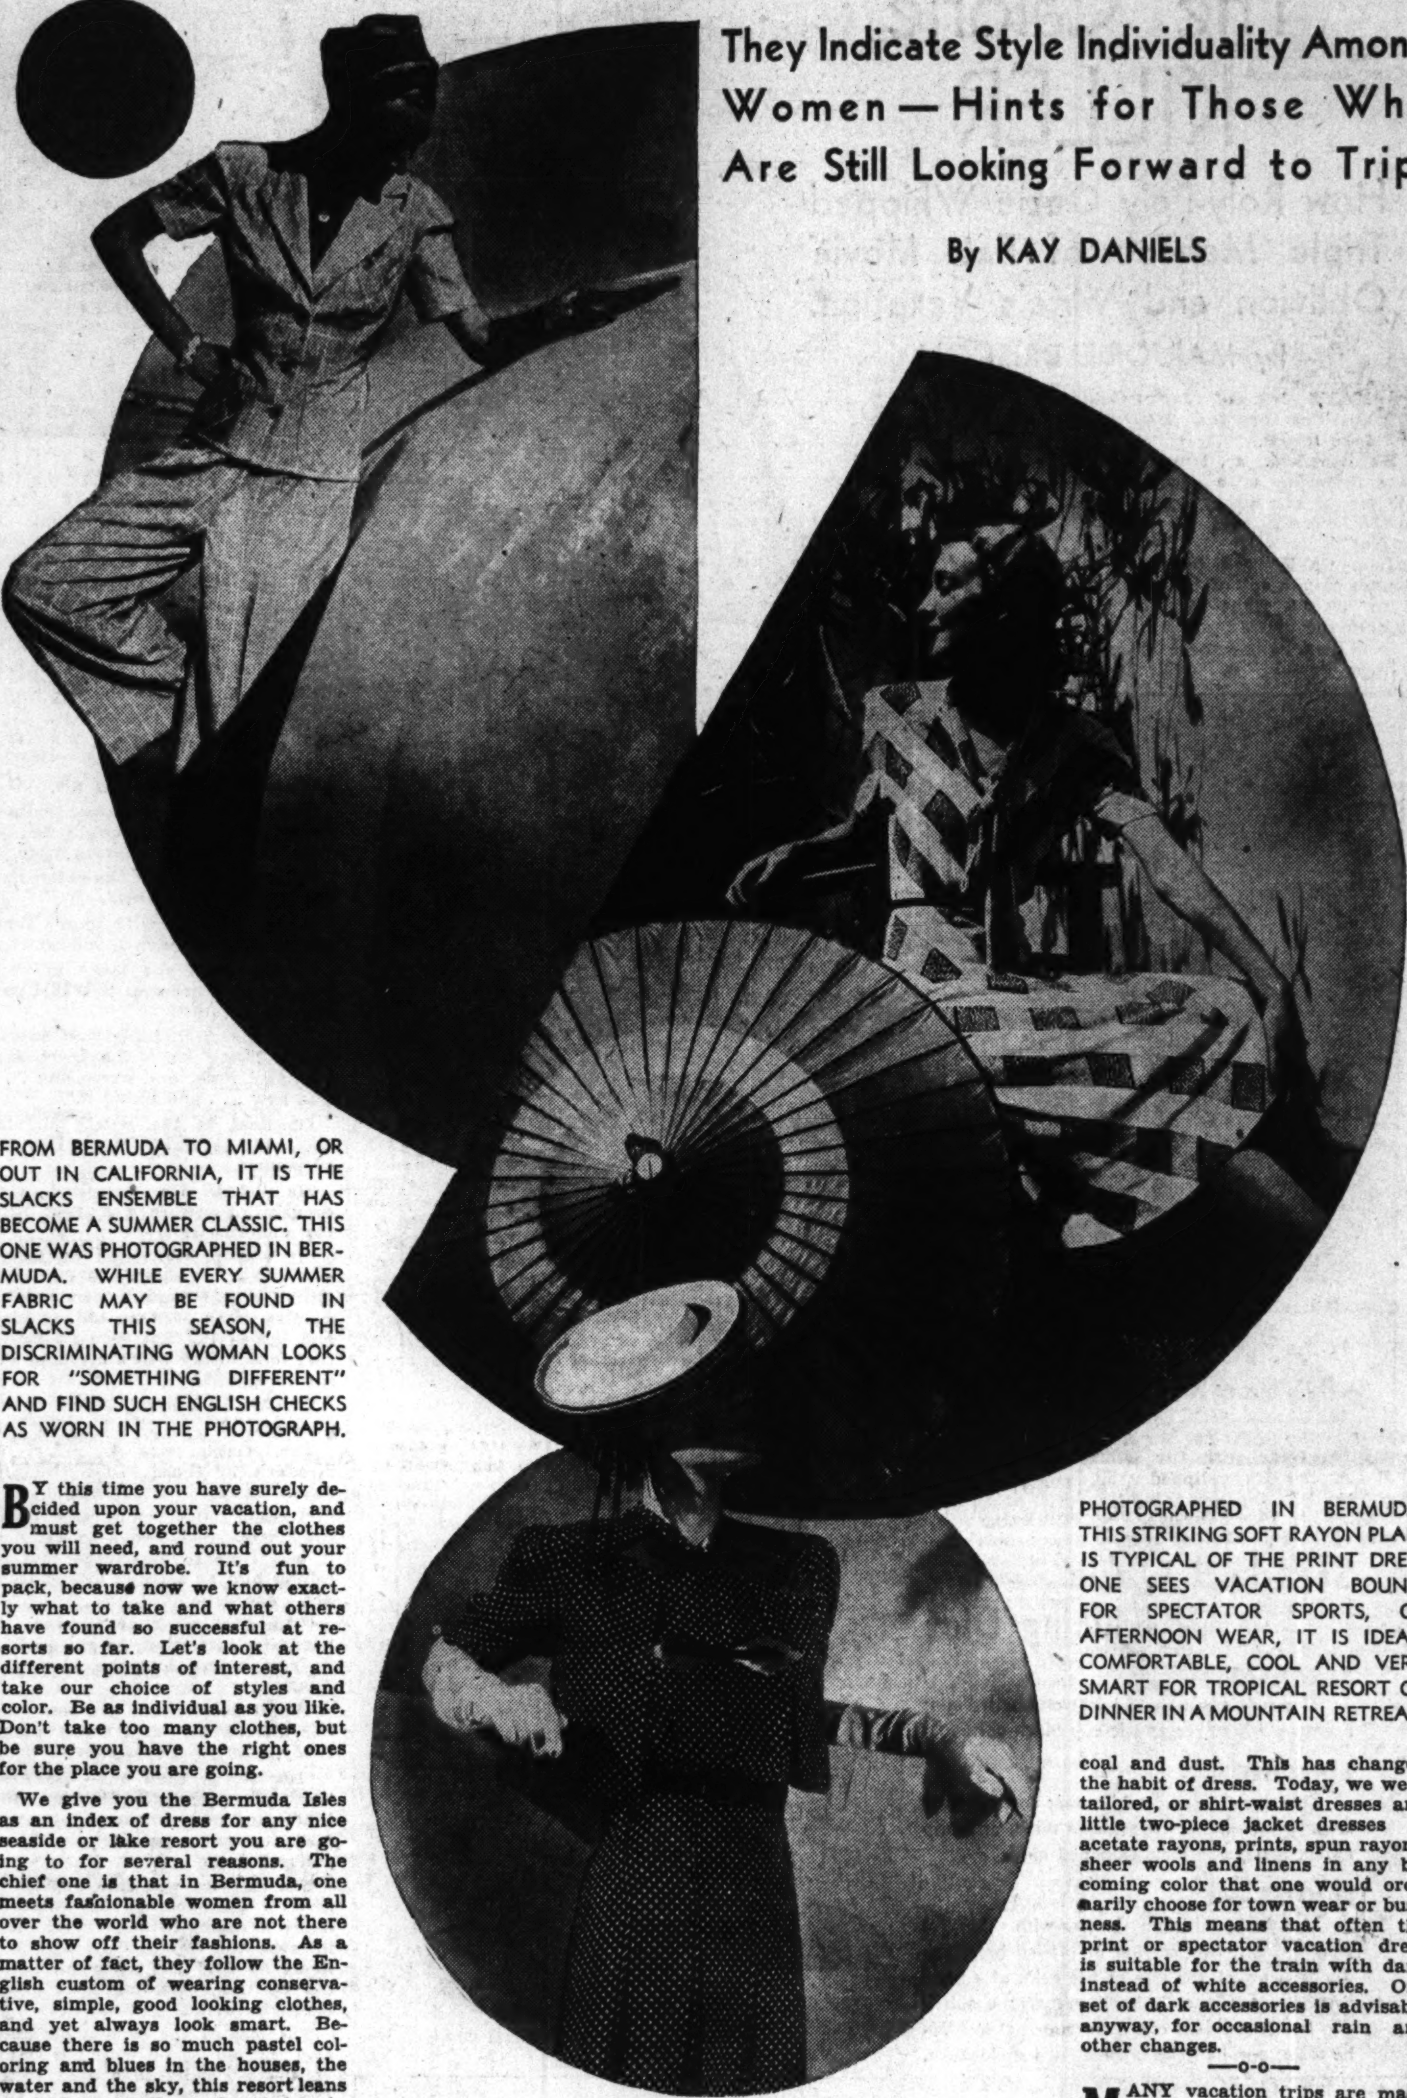
● THE LATTER HALF of the eighteenth century was dominated by the Adams brothers, who introduced the neo-classic theme to England. Although they made some furniture themselves, they were mainly architects and the men who made the furniture for their interiors were Sheraton and Hepplewhite. The furniture of this period is light, graceful and sophisticated and is so well suited to our present mode of living that it is the most popular of all styles today.

Hepplewhite and Sheraton are so akin in spirit that it is often hard even for the expert to tell them apart. There are, however, a few characteristics that will help to guide the amateur decorator in viewing the works of these two cabinet makers. Sheraton usually used figured veneer and inlay to give his pieces decorative interest, while Hepplewhite was more inclined to use painted enrichment. The backs of Sheraton's chairs were almost always of the square, rectilinear variety, while Hepplewhite's were almost invariably of a rounded, shield shape. The legs on chairs and tables in both instances were very slender, straight and tapering, but those of Hepplewhite were usually fluted and reeded, while those of Sheraton were usually plain, frequently ending in a spade foot.

CLOTHES at VACATION RESORTS

They Indicate Style Individuality Among Women—Hints for Those Who Are Still Looking Forward to Trip.

By KAY DANIELS



FROM BERMUDA TO MIAMI, OR OUT IN CALIFORNIA, IT IS THE SLACKS ENSEMBLE THAT HAS BECOME A SUMMER CLASSIC. THIS ONE WAS PHOTOGRAPHED IN BERMUDA. WHILE EVERY SUMMER FABRIC MAY BE FOUND IN SLACKS THIS SEASON, THE DISCRIMINATING WOMAN LOOKS FOR "SOMETHING DIFFERENT" AND FIND SUCH ENGLISH CHECKS AS WORN IN THE PHOTOGRAPH.

PHOTOGRAPHED IN BERMUDA, THIS STRIKING SOFT RAYON PLAID IS TYPICAL OF THE PRINT DRESS ONE SEES VACATION BOUND. FOR SPECTATOR SPORTS, OR AFTERNOON WEAR, IT IS IDEAL. COMFORTABLE, COOL AND VERY SMART FOR TROPICAL RESORT OR DINNER IN A MOUNTAIN RETREAT.

SIMPLE TAILORING DISTINGUISHES THIS BOLERO DRESS OF A COOL, DARK RAYON SHEER IN NAVY, PRINTED IN WHITE POLKA DOTS. CLUSTERED PLEATS ADD FLARE TO THE TRIM SKIRT, AND LEAF ORNAMENTS OF BRIGHT RED AND NAVY LEATHER ACCENT THE FRONT OF THE WAIST, WITH ITS SMART, HIGH NECKLINE. THE BOLERO IS SQUARED THROUGH THE SHOULDERS. ACCESSORIES MAY BE DARK WITH A FLASH OF RED OR WHITE; OR WHITE, AS IN THE PHOTOGRAPH.

BY this time you have surely decided upon your vacation, and must get together the clothes you will need, and round out your summer wardrobe. It's fun to pack, because now we know exactly what to take and what others have found so successful at resorts so far. Let's look at the different points of interest, and take our choice of styles and color. Be as individual as you like. Don't take too many clothes, but be sure you have the right ones for the place you are going.

We give you the Bermuda Isles as an index of dress for any nice seaside or lake resort you are going to for several reasons. The chief one is that in Bermuda, one meets fashionable women from all over the world who are not there to show off their fashions. As a matter of fact, they follow the English custom of wearing conservative, simple, good looking clothes, and yet always look smart. Because there is so much pastel coloring and blues in the houses, the water and the sky, this resort leans to white and Bermuda beige in play clothes. One sees many, many play clothes in natural colors, string colors and beige, which matches the well-cared for English complexion.

Hopsacking in shirts and shorts is quite good in the natural color of sand. Take a white or natural straw hat, too, and confine your color to small accessories, and you can't go wrong. For spectator wear, however, one silk or rayon dress in pastel pink or blue is a good addition. One daytime printed frock is sufficient. A polka dot, small conventional print, or floral print in monotone or subdued colors you will wear for an afternoon tea and on the train perhaps, but that will be all, for most times you will lounge in your slacks when you aren't swimming or engaged in other sports.

At all summer resorts, the dinner, evening or summer dance dress is a "must" if you are staying in a smart hotel. It is worn every night to dinner, which means two or three may be necessary according to the length of your stay. Now what about a coat? We advise your taking a coat no matter where you go, and please, if you can possibly avoid it, don't take your old navy or black coat and wear it over all those nice, fresh summer dresses.

For this purpose, the white coat continues to be a leader at resorts. They are inexpensive, summery and appropriate over so many frocks, that you will be wise to take one. Of course, there are lovely pastels and natural colors, too, and these are just as smart, provided they fit into the color scheme of your entire wardrobe.

From the West, we hear so much of the soft rock garden blues, and baby blues they wear in pastels, and where color is a problem, one can usually find a becoming blue for spectator wear. Of course, your California resort, borrowing so many of its ideas from Hollywood, goes a bit gayer in fabrics and colors. Stripes, plaids and novelty fabrics are worn everywhere in addition to the plain pastels. Slacks, as you know, are a part of every girl's wardrobe, and every woman's for that matter. Other than this additional bit of glamor one's wardrobe for a Western seaside resort would be little different than Bermuda's.

What to wear en route is often one's greatest problem, or at least it was at one time. Today the problem has been greatly lessened by air travel and streamlined trains, which are no longer troubled with coal and dust. This has changed the habit of dress. Today, we wear tailored, or shirt-waist dresses and little two-piece jacket dresses of acetate rayons, prints, spun rayons, sheer wools and linens in any becoming color that one would ordinarily choose for town wear or business. This means that often the print or spectator vacation dress is suitable for the train with dark instead of white accessories. One set of dark accessories is advisable anyway, for occasional rain and other changes.

MANY vacation trips are made by automobile, including time out for roughing it at mountain cabins or mountain resorts. The smart mountain hotel resort requires a well-rounded wardrobe much the same as the seaside, except the addition of a couple of sweaters, sturdy oxfords and sports coat are necessary. When most of the trip is spent in the car, then plain fabrics and no prints will be your best bet. Rough peasant cottons in natural annd luggage on brown shades are splendid. Navy, too, if you like, in a culotte of denim or hopsacking. A skirt and cardigan set of sweaters with a comfortable felt hat and a couple of scarfs—plain in color—will be practical and smart. You can tie your head up peasant fashion in the scarfs on long rides.

A sports coat, fairly warm, will be necessary for mountain trips. At the mountain resort, tennis, golf and swim clothes will be added, and flannel slacks for sure. For one-night stopovers at hotels en route, a jacket dress in a monotone print, or any two-piece linen or summer suit will be just right. Keep one set of accessories fresh-looking for such occasions.

Ostrich Tip

A single ostrich tip that is tied with a fluffy ribbon bow offers little in the way of a headcovering except a maximum of chic but this is sufficient for midsummer evenings. To make the most of this oddity, the wearer combs her hair high and sleek at the back and pins the feather so that it sweeps forward on her brow. A round swirl of ostrich tips is another very feminine gesture, made even more striking by the addition of a matching muff.

Current Accessories

Accessories chosen for midsummer costumes often match the dress. All white shoes are being worn with white or with black and white frocks and beige shoes are chosen for prints having a cream colored background. While the sandal continues its popularity more pumps are being worn. These pumps have high vamps and medium heels. Many of the new autumn pumps and ties have the medium heels, so it looks as though the general trend will be toward conservatism.

Nightshirt-Type Blouse

The nightshirt type of blouse which has become a favorite at the beaches and on the tennis courts is now appearing in some tailored fabrics. You see sharkskin versions of it, some of them white but the majority in odd shades such as blue green, rose and chartreuse. There is a flannel model, also, designed for wear at summer resorts where the weather is very cool. Plaid gingham, calico and rough-surfaced linens are other materials that are giving terry cloth some real competition.

Bloused Backs

The vogue of bloused backs in coats for autumn influences youthful reefers as well as dressier models. A little trick of the designers is to insert an adjustable tape at the back of the waistline so that the bloused effect is achieved. If a girl prefers a plain back, then the tape is easily removed. Both double-breasted and single-breasted models follow this bloused line but the majority of college girls prefer the double-breasted front with the waistline nipped in and the skirt section slightly flared.

George Rector Gives Several Peach Recipes

He Tells You, However, Not to Forget Your Own Favorite Dishes.

By George Rector.

THE word peach signifies about the tops in more than the luscious fruit alone. The usage of the word to describe a perfect or beautiful thing has crept into our vocabulary until today we apply it to things or people that we like.

Getting back to the golden fruit, I recall a few of the outstanding peach specialties we had at Rector's. The piece de resistance was a whole peeled peach dropped into a tall cone-shaped glass to receive a pint of champagne. This idea was a trifle more sophisticated and expensive than drinking champagne plain or possibly made into a cocktail.

The glasses for this ultra creation were made especially for us. They held the whole peach and a full pint of champagne. The glasses had a depth of about eight inches and were four inches in diameter at the brim, tapering down to about two inches at the bottom. There was little or no stem, as the glass rested on a round base.

—o-o—

NOT FORGETTING that I had in mind at the beginning to give you several peach recipes, suppose we start off with Peach Conde. Select large fine peaches of uniform size, allowing one peach for each portion. Remove the skins by dropping the peaches into boiling hot water for one minute. Drain off the water and with a small, sharp knife carefully remove the skin.

Meanwhile prepare a vanilla-flavored syrup in which to poach the peaches. Let's say you will prepare six peaches, therefore you will need this amount of syrup: Two cups of sugar, two cups of water and a small piece of vanilla pod or bean, boiled together for five minutes. The peeled peaches are then dropped into the syrup and gently poached for eight or 10 minutes. Let them stay in the syrup until thoroughly chilled.

The rice for this dessert is cooked in a double boiler. Into the top part of a double boiler put one and one-half cups of water. Bring to boiling point over direct heat and gradually add, while stirring with a fork, three-quarters of a cup of washed rice. Let boil five minutes. Put the top part of the boiler into the lower part and steam for about 15 minutes or until the rice has absorbed the water. Then add one pint of milk, one-quarter cup of sugar, a large piece of lemon rind and a tablespoon of butter. Continue steaming until milk is absorbed and rice is soft. Remove from heat and thicken rice with four egg yolks slightly beaten. Stir the yolks gently into the rice, taking care to have them evenly mixed. Let cool.

Now for the raspberry syrup and our Peach Conde will be complete. Purchase a No. 2 size can of raspberries, as this size contains about the amount of juice you will need. Place large strainer over saucepan; empty contents of can into strainer and let juice drain through without mashing fruit. Measure juice and to each cupful add two cups of sugar. Bring to boiling point and let boil for five minutes, stirring occasionally. Remove from fire and skim top of froth. Pour into jar and when cool place in refrigerator until needed. To serve the dessert make a border or bed of the sweet rice (discard lemond rind) and place the drained peaches on top. Coat each peach with one tablespoon of the raspberry syrup.

—o-o—

ANOTHER peach favorite was Peach Melba and this will be easy for you to prepare since we have discussed the poaching of peaches in vanilla syrup and the making of raspberry syrup. In serving this dessert it is a good idea to cut a small round of sponge or plain butter cake to fit the bottom of individual dessert dishes. The cake is then evenly covered with a layer of vanilla ice cream and a whole peach, which has been poached in vanilla syrup and drained, placed on top. Thick raspberry syrup is then poured over the peach.

This dessert isn't always made with the cake base, but I think that you will find it a good idea, as it builds the dessert up and holds it at an attractive stage for some time.

Maraschino liqueur and fresh grated coconut make a grand combination when served on sliced peaches. The ripe peaches are sliced section fashion—that is, cutting them from the outside to the center. A tablespoon of Maraschino liquor is poured over each portion and fresh grated coconut covers the top. Sweet heavy cream is served with this dessert, but that is passed at the table.

JUST THE RIGHT WORD

By Angelo Patri

ANGELO PATRI.

IF only we were wise enough to say just the right word at just the right time. There are times in children's lives when the right word is enough to turn the tide of thought and energy toward the right thing for that particular child. If that time passes without the word it is lost, and we must hope for other tides and other words. The whole thing is shrouded in the mysteries of the human spirit and we can only feel our way. But wanting to be there on time, does help to get us there occasionally, even though we do not know it.

We were not especially pleased when a social visitor brought in a boy with a school record that looked like nothing but a laundry ticket, that had been badly blotted with red ink. Why one should mark a child's misfortunes in red so the world must stop and look—but that is not the point here. The point is this boy with neither father nor mother, or family relative, to look after him, was piling up offenses against the law and against himself. Here he was being added to our already heavy number of helpless children.

"We'll try," we said. "Is there anything he likes to do?"

"Not that anybody has noticed."

"What would you like to be when you grow up?" we asked the scrawny, leggy, speckled lad who was leaning against the table looking as if there was nothing anywhere in his world worth wanting to be.

"An actor," said he with alarming promptness.

"Good enough. We'll let you start in the dramatics class."

The next we heard of him was a complaint from the garden teacher. "That new boy thinks the iris bed is a landing for the high jump. He jumps the fence and lands in the iris. I hollered at him to get out of there and he thumbed his nose at me." Of course, he would.

By and by I saw him practicing his jump, just as the teacher had described, and sauntered out. I was mad enough to want to seize him by the seat of the pants and toss him into the swimming pool, but I waited until I could see him again as the helpless child, without father or mother or friends, lonely and afraid, wanting to be the hero on the stage, bowing to the applause of the audience. When I felt he was that boy again I went over and said, "Son, those flowers have as much right to live as you have." He looked at me, said nothing, and walked away. I forgot all about it until long afterward, when he was the actor he wanted to be, he came in to see me and told me about it.

"I expected you to kick me out right there and then," he said. "When you just said, 'Those flowers have a right to live; just as much as you have,' I was shocked somehow. Something inside me began to cry. I never gave anybody in school a bit of trouble from that time forward."

I knew nothing about what was going on inside of him. I only knew that kicking him out wouldn't do what was neded to be done, and did what I could do just hoping. Maybe just feeling for the right word helps us sometimes.

By Harlan Miller

SAN DIEGO, Cal., July 23.

HE comes out looking very grim. Impassively he peers right and left. His mouth blossoms suddenly into that half-taunting, half-challenging smile, the corners curling up. He raises an arm and half rotates a perpendicular hand back and forth, in his own peculiar salutation, unlike any other wave of the hand.

As the crowd's roar rises shrilly, he is nodding his head jerkily, wagging that strong jaw with the unintentional indulgence of a preoccupied father toward demonstrative children. Then he begins to talk in a vibrant, conversational tone.

That is how millions of Americans see Franklin Roosevelt for the first time. That is the three-part greeting—the smile, the nods, the wave of the hand. Those who have seen it many times cannot appraise the tremendous voltage it shoots into a crowd which sees it for the first time.

—o-o—

Neither the Sphinx nor the Mona Lisa had much on Franklin Roosevelt. After five years in the White House, he is still a baleful mystery to his enemies, a smiling enigma to his friends. Toward both he turns a smiling mask; and if anyone has ever seen him completely divested of it, his lips are sealed.

● ROOSEVELTIAN hostility transformed Al Smith from the idol of millions into the mere landlord of an office building. Rooseveltian friendship transfigured Harry Hopkins from an obscure social worker into the household god of millions; a Rooseveltian whim might even put a Harry Hopkins in the White House.

At close range there seems undeniably to be a trace of arrogance in Franklin Roosevelt. Like George Washington, he is gracious toward inferiors and subordinates, condescending to his equals. No one has ever detected a trace of humility in him, except perhaps toward a historic battlefield like Gettysburg or toward a fleet of battleships.

Clearly there is a patronizing note in him toward those who disagree. Much is said about how easily he is influenced by the last person who talks with him ("somebody saw him before he went to bed" or "someone got in the last word"). But there is no recorded instance to prove that he has ever changed his mind about anything fundamental.

—o-o—

An Ernest Lindley, a Ludwig or a Hugh Johnson paints word pictures of him with astonishingly different results. Like the elephant, he is a diverse creature to different men, depending on what they have clutched. To some he is the savior, to others the foe of the capitalist system.

● HE HAS a robustious sense of humor. He can make a Cabinet member's wife model before him the gown she is to wear before King George, and he can autograph a menu "the Chef of Krum Elbow." Again, he can snub Governors and Senators standing at his side.

KEEN EYES watched the crowds on his last trip. They looked at the same thing and saw different things. After watching one audience carried away with an almost religious fervor, said one observer: "He is telling them, in the language of another friend of the common people, that in his Father's house are many mansions; if it were not so he would have told them."

And another who looked on said: "This wild gratitude is a lively anticipation of more favors to come."

As he fishes on the Pacific, the man who has yet to say a word in praise of hard work is more than ever before the invincible idol of those who work with their hands.

Arm Coverings

There's a new interest in arm coverings for evening wear. Paris-inspired dinner dresses created for the first autumn dinner parties have sleeves that are long and tight at the wrists. They are elaborate, too, with stiffened lace shoulders, beaded designs or sprinkles of sequins to assure attention. Hip-length lace jackets with long sleeves accompany many of the evening dresses, and those which are low of decolletage often add lace mits that extend at least to the elbows.

Kidskin Jackets

Gray kidskin jackets with brown knitted borders and sleeves are mentioned among the campus coats that girls will be wanting for cold weather. Skirts that match the knitted sections complete ensembles. Pony, leopard and other flat furs also are regarded as sufficiently casual and practical for the creation of similar costumes.

A WOMAN'S NEW YORK

By Alice Hughes

NEW YORK, July 23.

EVEN though I see very little of it, I love the night sky. No one is fonder of "the spacious firmament on high," as the old hymn says, with its lovely but mysterious stars. But no one who has never spent a summer on Manhattan Island can realize how low and oppressive the sky can be. If you could find the time and strength to wander through the rackety and smelly area called Times Square on one of these July nights, you would find it easy to reach right up and knock the Big Dipper over the palisades and into Darkest Jersey. It bears down.

As a charter member of the Gotham Greeters' and Gladhanders' Sodality no one is more eager to welcome you to our happy little hamlet than I. Yet there is something so depressing and debilitating about our theater, movie, auction, hot dog and shooting gallery district in midsummer that even I could wish you to put off your visit until Oct. 15, say. Once in a while the spouse and I, after three hours in a cool movie arena, walk through the bright-light district and reach home almost on the brink of a suicidal mania. For its sidewalks are jammed with little girls in prints and little boys in fancy galluses whose young faces wear the nervous, harassed and wearied looks that are too frequently a symptom of a New York summer. The very taxi horns have an even nastier sound. Pedestrians do not leap for safety to the Broadway curb—they crawl on hands and knees. To remodel the old gag, when a cop chases a burglar, these nights, they both walk. It takes the zip from the legs, the dander from the soul.

—o-o—

WHENEVER I can get an eye open, I note signs here about the streets. For instance, the sailor straw hat is now almost rare among our boy friends, most of them wearing either panamas or very lightweight felts. Too many, for the hemilliners' peace of mind, don't wear any hats at all . . . Tell papa . . . As for the girls, the plague of dark glasses gets crazier than ever, but as I have pointed out before, that's smart, for the stone-glare here is blinding. All I mind is the current mania for the specs with the white rims, which make the cuties look like a lot of old-time Eddie Cantors. Also, I think them ugly—well, uglier than sin, which does have certain pretty aspects.

—o-o—

BILLY ROSE, the mighty midget of show business, is using all his persuasive arts to get Al Jolson and his young wife, Ruby Keeler, to star in the glorified vaudeville shows he is running at his big Casa Manana.

AL JOLSON AND RUBY KEELER . . . BILLY ROSE WANTS THEM FOR HIS VAUDEVILLE SHOW.

DO YOU REMEMBER my mentioning a Georgian "princess" here named Ketto Mikeladze, a gorgeous black-haired, pale-faced woman who has worked hard for a living here these many years? Anyhow, in her past was a Swedish husband, and a result was a lovely daughter named Sigrid Lassen, as fair as her mamma is dark. Now Sigrid, a beauty, has married a young actor named Bertrand Michel.

—o-o—

I'VE WONDERED and worried about how these strapless evening dresses really do stay up. Certainly it can't be that stiff elastic sewn inside. Well, it isn't as Eleanor Neff, the beauteous beauty editor, tips me off. Many of the daring darlings, Eleanor tells me, literally plaster the bodice on them with strips of adhesive tape! Eleanor found this out when one of the strapless girls slid off her bar stool, slightly overcome with the lights and music; her dress slipped a bit, and showed that the poor thing was all strapped up with adhesive. Very distressing to see, Eleanor reports.

—o-o—

ONE of the prettier young actresses fighting out the summer on Broadway is named Gilda Oakleaf, who is a member of the cast of the British comedy, "Bachelor Born" . . . Turning the pages of an afternoon paper yesterday, I came upon this warning headline—"Geraniums for Winter Should Be Started Now!" So I rolled over and took another tug at the iced tea . . . Once in a long while we really make an investment in some personal doo-dad. Ten years ago I bought me a green ostrich-feather boa—and about every three years it pops into fashion again. This is one of the summers when the thing is in style—so out comes the old Hughes green boa for another whirl in the mad lights . . .

A LITTLE BOY named Daniel Barney, all of 13, stunned our reporters by turning out to be a hat designer. But the press got a little too smart with Dan, who now has a scholarship in a local school of design, and he smacked back as best he could. "I'm no sissy," snapped Dan'l. "I play football."

—o-o—

OF ALL the girl reporters in town who might well have been miserably spoiled by her journalistic feats and her personal cuteness, the outstanding lady of the press is young Dorothy Kilgallen, the one who flew around the world. Dot has kept her head, and she has the prettiest blue eyes, the finest skin and the swellest figure any girl can want. Wonder who will draw the Dot Kilgallen straw in the matrimonial sweepstakes, the lucky dog?

Tweed Coats For Wear Over Evening Frocks

Designed Along Swagger Lines, They Do Not Muss Crisp Dresses.

TWEED coats for wear over summer evening dresses and to serve more casual purposes during the early fall are illustrative of the between-season wraps which a clever girl can pick up for little more than a song. Other coats to bridge the seasons as well as to serve for late vacation wear are appearing in the shops.

The tweed models are designed along swagger lines so that they may be thrown over a crisp frock without mussing it. Roomy armholes and a swinging back are two features of importance. In length, most of these coats are finger-tip, while the colors are delightfully refreshing. Green, turquoise, violet and yellow are used with white or mixed together, so that the effect is far from somber.

—o-o—

HOMESPUN is another soft woolen fabric used extensively for little coats that serve a double purpose. Many of these coats are cut boxy and short and have very tailored details, although young girls like them for use over their summer evening dresses as well as for sportswear. When worn for sports, a flannel skirt which picks up the dominant shade of the plaid lines of the pattern is the accepted choice.

Velveteen and corduroy are other fabrics that offer a maximum of service and style in late summer wraps. The high shades repeating favorite jewel tones look exceedingly attractive in these soft pile materials. Turquoise, amethyst, emerald and topaz are four that are seen extensively. Topaz and shades of darker brown are especially important because they will fit so well into the autumn scheme of sportswear. Since both velveteen and corduroy are selected by many of the leading designers for complete suits as well as for topcoats with novelty woolen skirts or frocks, there is much interest in the fabrics for late summer wear.

—o-o—

THE VOGUE of mixed tweed and homespun ensembles for autumn is regarded with interest among the English creators of women's clothes and will present a diversion in autumn costumes as well as offering greater service to tweed topcoats purchased now. The theme consists of using two different patterns for jacket and skirt. The more the two contrast, the better they are liked, so plaid will be selected for one and a checked or striped pattern for the other.

Tweed capes for summer evening wear present a style that is gaining popularity and will carry over into the autumn season with these wraps then used for daytime needs. Since the cape mode recurs so often in the fall and winter fashion picture, there is much opportunity for ensembling capes with one-piece sheer wool frocks as well as with contrasting tweed skirts.

High Shoulder Lines

Shoulder lines are following coiffures in their high characteristics. The sleeves of many autumn dresses are of Victorian vintage with shoulders cut narrow and the fullness puffed upward while hair dresses have the same brushed up look. The silhouette thus becomes more slender and with a little, high hat perched on the head and platform sandals on her feet, the most diminutive follower of fashion becomes tall in appearance.

COLLEGE GIRL THEMES IN AUTUMN FASHIONS

COLLEGE girls who are the first to become enthusiastic about autumn styles will find much to appeal to them when they start on their August shopping tours. Suspender skirts, "sissy" blouses, reversible coats, bellhop jerkins, monogrammed shoes, velveteen blazers and Swedish accents are among the school-girl themes that are important for autumn.

Skirts that have detachable suspenders are among the most important style features. The popular fabric is velveteen although there are many different materials, patterns and color schemes from which to choose. The suspender skirt often is allied with the "sissy" blouse, this blouse a dressed-up version of the boy's shirt and with certain "Little Lord Fauntelroy" characteristics. Plaid silk in vivid color combinations such as red and green is a favorite for this blouse although striped flannel undoubtedly will gain popularity as the season advances. Most of the skirts are cut with gored sections so that the hemline is comparatively wide although the effect is that of slender, straight lines.

—o-o—

THE VELVETEEN blazer promises to establish some new records among coats of the casual or campus type. One that is being featured extensively combines bright red or bright green stripes with black stripes and is of the hip-length fitted style. Another long jacket is cut like an overblouse and is suitable for wear either as a wrap or as the upper part of a two-piece dress.

Lambskin coats appeared on many campuses last winter and established sufficient vogue to be accepted more generally in the coming season. A natural lambskin coat that looks extremely youthful has dolman sleeves and is finger-tip length. This flares at the hemline, the width being accentuated in contrast to a very wide, contrasting leather belt.

Although jackets and skirts often are very different in color and in pattern, college girls continue to insist upon sweaters and skirts that match. This is true not only of cardigans and pull-on sweaters but of the windbreaker type of sweater. Even when the windbreaker is worn with a one-piece dress, a blend of color if not an exact match is demanded.

—o-o—

SILK or novelty cotton blouses for wear under sweaters became a fad last winter that has developed to introduce novel color alliances for autumn. Bold striped silk shirtings are suggested for wear under soft-toned sweaters while candy stripes are to be worn with the dark sweaters and skirts.

New ideas are being developed in suede jackets and jerkins. Among these is a little jacket which has a drawstring waistline, the peplum becoming a hip-length ruffle. The softness of the new leathers being used for coats makes it possible to develop many fabric themes that enhance the beauty of the suede and offer more individuality for the costume.

Thick-soled shoes are destined to be the campus favorites for autumn, if present indications are to be considered as authentic. There are square-toed ties which have a very stubby appearance owing to the thickness of the soles. Boot-strap additions to the back of built-up "sneakers" also are an indication of the novelty that is introduced into youthful footwear.

Fuzzy Jackets

THOSE fuzzy little jackets which many of the girls are wearing look as though they were made of down or very soft fur, but actually they are knitted by hand with angora yarn, a very fluffy texture of yarn which becomes more like soft fur as the jacket is worn, is responsible for the expensive and flattering appearance.

A bolero style that is collarless and short of sleeve fits into the late summer scheme of costuming because the jacket may be worn over summer evening dresses as well as over pastel daytime frocks. Another interesting style is fitted and the waistline and blouses after the manner of a lumberjacket.

Boxy Coats for Autumn Costumes

ALTHOUGH the edict of finger-tip length jackets is general for first autumn suits, several French designers are defying this rule by introducing short, boxy ones to wear with contrasting dresses.

One of these brief coats is little more than waistline length and flares in all directions. Its roomy shoulder line and wide sleeves contribute to the carefree impression. Some striking color combinations are achieved with these jackets of light weight wool worn over wool dresses. Since mauve and violet tones continue to be popular they are being used extensively, often in alliance with blue or dark red.

The suit which has a jacket resembling an overblouse or a brief tunic is the one which designers regard with favor and which looks so much like a dress that it may be worn during cold weather under a fur coat.

Cheese Balls

Cream cheese may be smoothed out with a little sweet cream and formed into balls. These balls may then be rolled in finely ground nuts, finely minced parsley or paprika, just as you choose. An attractive addition to the salad course.

How Insanity Is Cured by Shock Therapy

"Cases in Which Treatment Works Best Are Those of Split Personality."

By
Logan Clendening, M. D.

AT the convention of the American Medical Association at San Francisco recently many advances in medical science were demonstrated.

The treatment of certain forms of insanity by shock therapy was the subject of Dr. Ernst Gellhorn's paper. This is quite new, and except that its value has been demonstrated over and over by actual tests, it is so surprising as hardly to be believable.

The cases in which the treatment works best are those of split personality, particularly in young people. The drugs used are insulin and metrazol. The patient is given enough of these so that a condition of profound shock is induced.

—o-o—

THEN RESTORATION to normal is produced. The idea is that the shock to the brain is sufficient, so that it is thrown completely off balance and it may suddenly come back into gear.

It is a dangerous treatment and deaths have occurred, but most of the relatives of these people are willing to take the risks—are willing to do anything which holds out any hope.

The injection treatment of hernia is another new subject discussed by Drs. Franklin I. Harris and A. S. White of San Francisco. Here again is something that few surgeons would have looked on with favor a matter of 10 years ago.

But experience has proved that with proper care this injection treatment gives good results and saves the necessity for an operation with the attendant discomforts.

QUESTIONS

Septagenarian: "Will you tell me whether rather severe cramping of the muscles of the feet and calf of the legs is merely a concomitant of advanced age or is it a symptom calling for special medical attention?"

Answer: The condition is called "intermittent claudication." It is caused by thickening of the arteries of the legs and as such is a concomitant of advanced age. Treatment is not very successful. Rest, with elevation of the feet, and heat, give as much relief as anything.

A. J.: "My eyebrows are naturally thick, so in order to improve my appearance I tweeze them. I am told that this will affect my sight. Is there any truth in this?"

Answer: None whatever. It will do no harm of any kind.

How to Have Glorious, Soft Brilliant Hair All Summer

In Hollywood
where all outdoors is a playground for the movie stars; where beaches are lined with world famous beauties—a survey made by the leading Hollywood newspaper revealed that more women now buy Drene Shampoo to keep their hair beautiful than all other leading shampoos combined.

New Shampoo Discovery magically removes dirt, grease and perspiration; leaves hair with shimmering beauty whether dry, normal or oily.

THIS summer, you are going to get the surprise of your life. You can see your hair more glamorous than you ever dreamed possible—soft, manageable, radiantly beautiful—even on hottest days. And you will be astonished to find how quickly and easily you can overcome that dull, matted-down appearance of past summers—this new day way.

Drene makes this startling difference because it is so different from ordinary shampoos that the process by which it is made has been patented. It is not a soap, so it cannot possibly leave a beauty-clouding film on hair to dull natural lustre. Thus, special after-rinses are totally unnecessary. It is not an oil, so it cannot deposit an oily film to catch dust and dirt. Yet hair gleams and glistens like threads of silk.

Drene magically makes 5 times more lather than soap in hardest water. Lather so gentle, yet so active, that dirt, grease, perspiration—even loose dandruff flakes—are washed away with a single sudsing and thorough rinsing in plain water. Hair is left immaculately clean this mild, safe way. Gloriously radiant. So sensational are the results which Drene performs—that, today, surveys show it is used by more women than any other shampoo. Please consider carefully what an important recommendation that is.

And, today, there are two amazing kinds of Drene Shampoo, which work seeming beauty miracles for hair during hot summer months. So, whether your hair is dry, normal or oily you can now give it a shampoo which will bring out its full beauty.

If your hair is inclined to be dull, dry-looking, and unmanageable, you should use the new Special Drene Shampoo for Dry Hair. If your hair is normal or oily, then you should use Regular Drene Shampoo.

Procter & Gamble make and guarantee both kinds of Drene Shampoo. Get either the new Special Drene for Dry Hair, or Regular Drene at drug, department or 10c stores. Or, ask for a Drene shampoo at your beauty shop. You'll be thrilled to see how easy it is to keep your hair brilliantly beautiful during the summer with Drene.

DRAMA MOTION PICTURES MUSIC

West Point and Romanza In the Opera's "Rosalie"

Ziegfeld Show of a Decade Ago to Have Its First Forest Park Presentation — Lee Dixon, Lori Trivers and Eric Mattson in Major Roles.

FLORENZ ZIEGFELD'S "Rosalie," which ran on Broadway in 1928 and came to the American Theater at New Year's, 1929, will have its first presentation by Municipal Opera tomorrow night, as the show of the eighth week of this season.

The book by William Anthony McGuire and Guy Bolton and the musical score by Sigmund Romberg and George Gershwin are those of the original stage production. Although the recent Nelson Eddy-Eleanor Powell motion picture was based on the original, its story was at some variance and the music for the picture was composed by Cole Porter. Some of the Cole Porter music, however, likely will be interpolated in the present version.

"Rosalie," in original form, capitalized on two events that were still fresh in the American mind in 1928—the flight of Lindbergh to Paris and the visit of the late Queen Marie of Rumania and her daughter, Princess Ileana, to this country. A West Point cadet meets the lovely Princess Rosalie of Romanza in Paris and later, to keep a date with her in Romanza, has to fly across the Atlantic.

Romanza needs money so a subsequent development is that the King, Queen and Princess come to America to borrow it. They visit West Point. Here the Princess meets her cadet the third time and her mother, in order to quash a romance, locks Rosalie in her stateroom aboard a cruiser and announces her engagement to a Prince. But Rosalie escapes and hastens to her hero dressed in a cadet's uniform. The conclusion, of course, is one highly acceptable to all romancers.

In the original stage show, Marilyn Miller, Oliver McLennan, Jack Donahue, Bobbe Arnst and Frank Morgan had leading roles, Morgan repeating his characterization of the King in the picture production.

With Lori Trivers as Rosalie and Eric Mattson as her dashing suitor, Lieut. Richard Fay, the highly important part of Lieut. Fay's comic companion, Bill Delroy, played by Jack Donahue on the stage and Ray Bolger on the screen, goes to another star dancer, Lee Dixon, making his first Municipal Opera appearance.

Dixon has had a rapid rise on the stage and screen—in the short time of the last seven years ascending from a chorus position in a New York musical play to starring roles. Born in Brooklyn, he embarked on his theatrical career as a chorus boy in "America's Sweetheart." His ability was soon recognized and he was hired as a master of ceremonies for one of New York's popular restaurants. This followed with a vaudeville career with Nina Olivette, eccentric dancing comedienne, who was at Municipal Opera in 1936.

Three years ago Dixon received his first feature role in a New York musical show, the Ziegfeld "Follies" and was an instantaneous success. The dancing comedian immediately was engaged by a Hollywood studio and he has been featured in "Gold Diggers of 1937," "Ready, Willing and Able," "Singing Marine" and "Varsity Show."

—o—o—

VICKI CUMMINGS, comedy star of "Gentlemen Unafraid," returns this week for the vivacious role of Mary O'Brien. Hal Forde, comedian, will be seen as the silly old King Cyril, while Helen Raymond, character comedienne, will play the part of his domineering spouse. Joseph Macaulay will be the Prince Rabisco; Detmar Poppen is cast as Michael O'Brien; Frederick Persson as the Superintendent of West Point; Al Downing as Captain T. Banner; Annamary Dickey as Marika; Earle Mac Veigh as Capt. Carl Rabisco; Marcella Uhl as Sister Angelica and Jerry Sloan as the steward.

Dance specialties will be provided by Vivien Fay, young American ballerina, and the Condos Brothers, international duo, all of whom have never appeared at the Municipal Theater before. Miss Fay, who was seen as the danseuse in the "Great Waltz" at the Municipal Auditorium two years ago, has achieved notable success on the European stage as well as in this country. Her first motion picture appearance was in the Marx Brothers' "A Day at the Races."

The Condos Brothers have been featured on the stage and screen in American and European theaters. They have danced in Earl Carroll's "Vanities" and the New York musical play, "Broadway Nights." Motion pictures in which they have appeared are "Happy Landing" and "Wake Up and Live."

Beginning Monday night, Aug. 7, Municipal Opera will present the new show "Knights of Song," based on the lives of the immortal comic opera collaborators, Gilbert and Sullivan, and England's historical Victorian period wil be relived on the outdoor theater's stage. The music for the new work consists of most of the favorite numbers in the different Gilbert and Sullivan operas. The brilliant cast will be headed by Nigel Bruce, famous screen and stage star; and Natalie Hall, soprano star of the 1932 Municipal Opera summer. Production on Broadway, under the management of Laurence Schwab, is to follow next fall.

Muni as Beethoven, Robinson as Emperor

Paul Muni and Edward G. Robinson are planning to exchange roles in "The Phantom Crown" and "The Life of Beethoven." Muni, originally scheduled to play Juarez in "The Phantom Crown," wants to play the Beethoven role. Robinson, originally scheduled to portray the great composer, leaves for Mexico next week to confirm his later preference for the Juarez part. The films will be produced concurrently. Bette Davis will play the mad Empress Carlotta in the story of Mexico's ill-fated empire.

Amusement Calendar

On the Stage

MUNICIPAL OPERA — "Rosalie," musical comedy by William Anthony McGuire, George Gershwin and Sigmund Romberg, opens a week's run tomorrow night. Principals are Eric Mattson, Lori Trivers, Lee Dixon, Vicki Cummings, Helen Raymond, Hal Forde, Joseph Macauley, Vivien Fay and others.

Last performance of "Chimes of Normandy" tonight.

CIVIC THEATER — "Russet Mantle," comedy by Lynn Riggs. One remaining performance tomorrow night, in outdoor playhouse on Warson road, St. Louis County.

On the Screen

AMBASSADOR — Ginger Rogers and Douglas Fairbanks Jr., in "Having a Wonderful Time," with Peggy Conklin, Lucille Ball and Richard Skelton; "I'll Give a Million," starring Warner Baxter with Marjorie Weaver and Peter Lorre.

LOEW'S—"Love Finds Andy Hardy," featuring Lewis Stone, Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland; "When G-Men Step in," featuring Don Terry, Jacqueline Wells and Robert Paige.

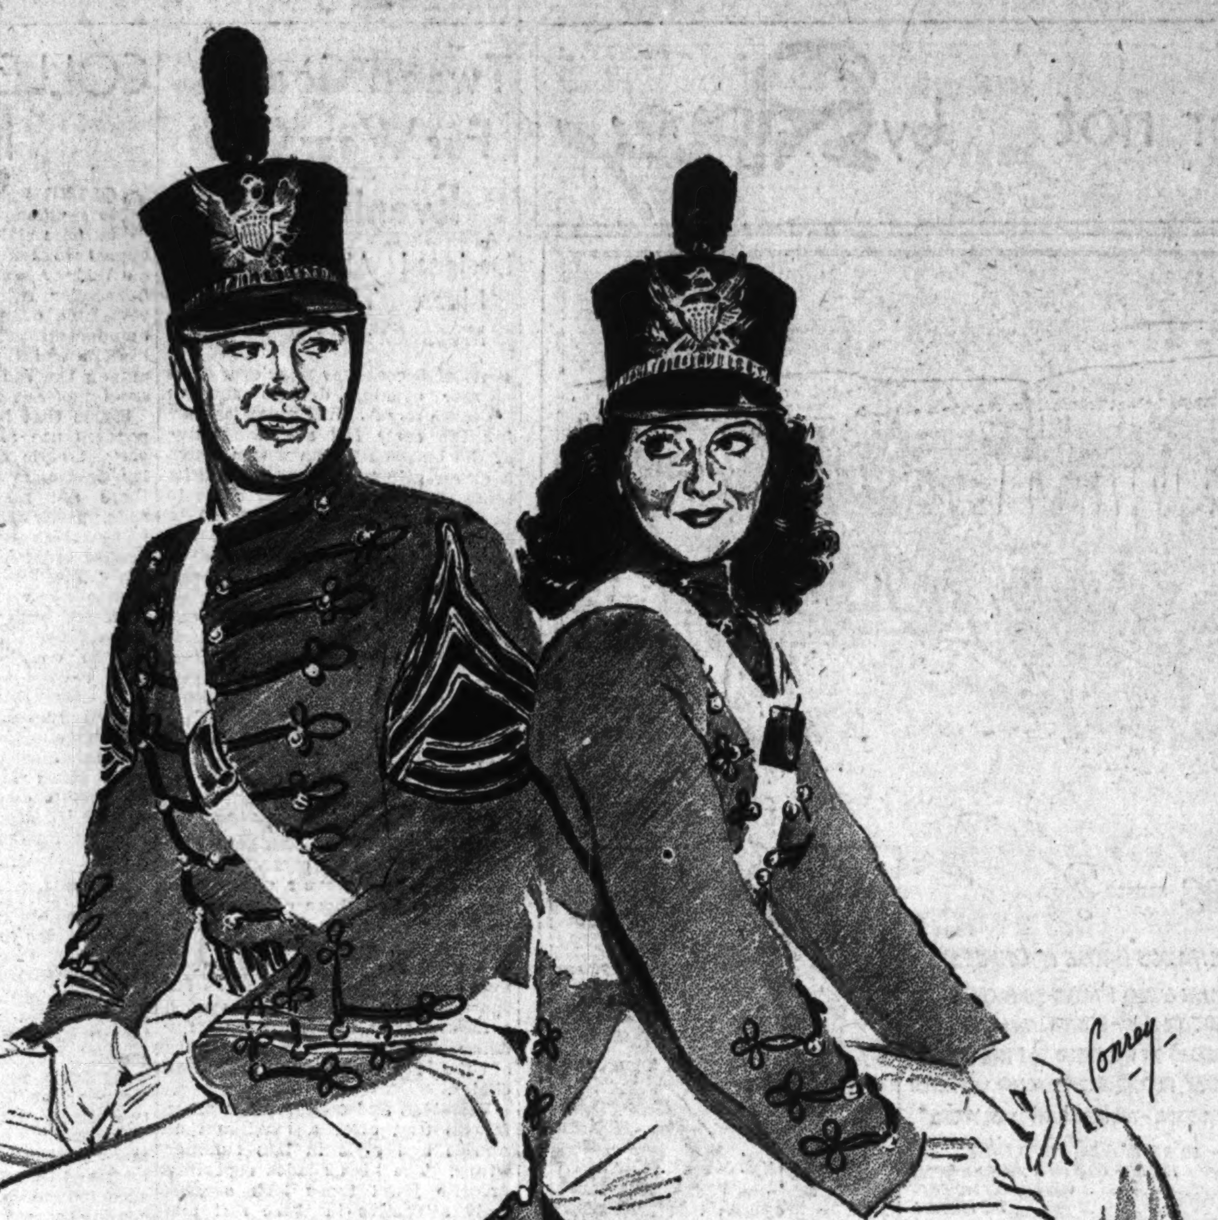
MISSOURI — "Tropic Holiday," featuring Martha Raye, Bob Burns, Ray Milland and Dorothy Lamour; "You and Me," starring Sylvia Sidney and George Raft with Harry Carey.

ST. LOUIS—"We're Going to Be Rich," starring Gracie Feilds and Victor McLaglen with Brian Donlevy; "Hunted Men," featuring Mary Carlisle, Lloyd Nolan and Lynne Overman.

'Volpone' to Open Aug. 3 At the Civic Theater

"Volpone," Ben Johnson's famous comedy, is the next production at the Civic Theater, summer playhouse in St. Louis County, where it will have four performances Aug. 3-6. Members of the cast are Gordon Sommers, in the title role; Jack Weaver, Mary Alice Hart, Margaret Mooney, William Miller, Edward Oresman, Leo Lederer, Robert Karnes and Al Chotin.

The main character is a shrewd old Levantine merchant who feigns grave illness in order to cheat a miser of his purse and a jealous husband of his wife but falls a victim to his own wiles. The script used is an adaptation of the original by Stefan Zweig and translated by Ruth Langer. It was played by the New York Theater Guild about 10 years ago.



ERIC MATTSON AND LORI TRIVERS (ABOVE) ARE THE ROMANTIC PAIR IN "ROSALIE," THE WEEK'S OPERETTA.

LEE DIXON (LEFT) MAKES HIS FOREST PARK DEBUT AS A COMIC CADET IN THE SAME PRODUCTION.

Master Rooney Approaches Stardom

By Colvin McPherson

THE family series pictures—Jones Family, Hardy Family—which Hollywood has hit upon in the last two years and found to be highly gainful rarely have been important enough to be billed first on any theater marquee. Their place has been in Class B and they have filled it well. This week, however, "Love Finds Andy Hardy" not only takes top listing at Loew's but must be placed first among all pictures of current local issue.

Its rank is due to the ascendancy of a young comic actor named Mickey Rooney, who so thoroughly understands what to do that there is never a moment of insecurity in his work and only a few examples of over-emphasis. For these faults, the director, the film editor and several others on the staff must share the blame.

The hardened movie-goer will not expect to find variety or originality in the series pictures, whether Charlie Chans, Torchy Blanes, Jones Familys or Hardy Familys. In order to preserve identity, the characters always do essentially what they did last time and the time before that. In this instance, what papa, mama and big sister have on their minds is of no concern. What Andy has on his mind is three girls, a second-hand flivver and a Christmas party at the country club. That adds up to a crisis.

Ann Rutherford, Mickey's regular girl, is going to be away so he makes arrangements to take Lana Turner, an adolescent siren, to the party. Little Judy Garland, visiting next door, wants to go to the party, Ann returns. It's all a horrible situation to Mr. Rooney, who finds occasion to be romantic, silly, serious, enthusiastic and sad about it. Such an exhibition of the teen-age Romeo as he gives will make ears burn on some persons not too far away from that stage and will bring chuckles from all others.

The picture has several other good points. Judy Garland sings, Lewis Stone plays Judge Hardy with his usual skill and the director, George B. Seitz, brings forth laughter at almost every opportunity.

The title of Loew's other feature, "When G-Men Step In," may mean that picture patrons step out. The film is, needless to say, a melodrama in which our country's efficient investigators uproot another flourishing colony of evil. One's only conclusion must be that if all the stories of racketeering are true, the world is more wicked than we thought.

A short subject item is a Pete Smith specialty on "Anaesthesia," in which several major events in the history of the practice are depicted. Attempts at humor seem forced and unnecessary.

Having Wonderful Time.

A YEAR ago there was, on Broadway, a lively and original comedy called "Having Wonderful Time," by Arthur Kober. Kober, who had been a summer camp director at one time before being hired to write for Hollywood, recalled vividly his experiences with recreation and wrote with unchecked sincerity. His comedy introduced that strange creature, the Bronx hillbilly, to the stage. In dialect, vernacular and philosophy peculiar to New York's teeming borough, he showed how the lovelorn wage earners, who inhabit the big city, use their vacation periods in search of romance. The central theme was love without marriage vs. love with marriage.

Obviously, Hollywood could not be so bold as to hash and rehash that question. Nor could it dare offer offense to the millions in the Bronx and other boroughs by showing them as they are or talking as they talk or thinking as they think.

That is what is left of "Having Wonderful Time." Kober mercifully did the job himself for the screen. And for many who may never have heard of New York's comedy success, he has provided a good movie at that. "Having Wonderful Time," at the Ambassador, has much laughter to offer and has been directed with unusual understanding. Things which may have been deleted from the script are put over quite deftly.

Both Ginger Rogers and Douglas Fairbanks Jr. perform capably, although Miss Rogers is no nearer the Bronx than Independence, Mo., and Fairbanks no closer than the three-mile limit off Mayfair. A few minor actors are allowed to toy with the idea of being Bronxese, so there is some flavor of the Bronx in the picture, say about as much as there is of the West in a Western sandwich.

"I'll Give a Million," the Ambassador's contribution to the fund of whimsy in the world, tells how Warner Baxter, a millionaire, is plunged in gloom by discovering that no one loves him for himself, although he has quite a following for his money. So he jumps overboard from his yacht, rescues Peter Lorre, who happens to be committing suicide nearby, and lives the life of a hobo.

He gives his money and dress suit to Peter and goes his way in tags and tatters. Thanks to Peter, a story gets out that a millionaire is looking for a friend and would give a million francs (only about $28,751; with taxes to be deducted from that) if he could find a real good one. It leads to a great deal of peculiar, whimsical behavior before Warner has discovered that Marjorie Weaver is what he is looking for. And Marjorie can be mighty uppity about those millions, knowing she has him in that frame of mind.

We're Going to Be Rich.

ASK anybody who has been to the music halls of England and he will tell you that Gracie Fields is a magnificent entertainer, that there is just something she does to any audience, that she is a perfect clown, a perfect master of the platform arts, so on and so on.

In her first picture for American consumption, now at the St. Louis, Miss Fields shows some evidence of these gifts, if you know already that she has them and is the highest paid artist in the world, by common agreement and admission.

"We're Going to Be Rich," however, places too much emphasis on what a devoted wife she can be to Victor McLaglen and how well she can sing the sentimental ballads that were popular not only in Philadelphia and Central City, Colo., in the Eighties, but down in Johannesburg, South Africa, as well. Victor and Gracie happen to be in Johannesburg.

Miss Fields is somewhat of a warbler, it must be admitted, but the role she has does not give her much chance to clown and carry on. It will be recalled that 10 years ago there was an attempt to put Sophie Tucker on the screen, in a picture called "Honky-Tonk," for which Hollywood decided Sophie should glow with mother love. It wasn't much good, either.

"Hunted Men" has a good plot idea—a fugitive murderer hiding out with a respectable family. "Night Must Fall" was a much better picture on the same idea and handled with a thousand times more finesse.

—o-o—

Now removed from the Ambassador to the Missouri, "Tropic Holiday" and "You and Me" continue to amuse patrons. The first, in which Martha Raye, Bob Burns, Ray Milland and Dorothy Lamour are seen against a Mexican background, is highly comical and sufficiently musical. Its principal variations are that Martha goes about one-half of 1 per cent demure and Dorothy speaks in good, everyday English instead of what Milland can teach her.

"You and Me," directed by Fritz Lang, is calculated to show what restricted lives are those of persons on parole. One good sequence recreates the atmosphere of prison life for those now outside.

"On Borrowed Time" Scheduled for Screen

"On Borrowed Time," New York's reigning stage hit, has been purchased by M-G-M and slated for early production. A story by Lawrence Edward Watkin, dramatized by Paul Osborn, it is an intensely human drama of an old grandfather and his devotion to a small orphan grandson. The story has a fantastic angle in which the old man outwits Death, personified by the character of Mr. Brink, and imprisons him in an apple tree.

Ernest Hemingway Drafts New Play on Spanish War

"Fifth Battalion" Already Creating a Stir In the East — Fortune - Telling for Fall Also Predicts an Array of Musical Shows.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 23.

AS Broadway managers continued today to line up their productions for the new theatrical season, the forthcoming item which is arousing most excitement is the Ernest Hemingway play about the Spanish civil war, "The Fifth Battalion."

This interest is heightened by the current successful revival of the film of Hemingway's drama about the World War, "A Farewell to Arms," the story of the tender and tragic love of a nurse and a Lieutenant. Elissa Landi and Glenn Anders played the roles on the stage; Helen Hayes and Gary Cooper did it in the movies.

Reports are that some of Hemingway's most moving scenes in "The Fifth Battalion" are, just as they were in "A Farewell to Arms," among the wounded and dying as doctors labor heroically to ease their pain.

Hemingway, like many other authors who know medicine so well as as he does, is most effective when his scene is set amid the work of physicians attempting to relieve suffering and stave off death.

His father was a physician and Hemingway himself drove an ambulance with the Italians during the World War.

It was while working as an interne in a New York hospital that Sidney Kingsley gathered the material for his drama about doctors, "Men in White," which won the Pulitzer Prize in 1933.

There has always been this avid interest of men of medicine in the theater, perhaps because there certainly can be no theater of more intense drama and excitement than the operating room.

W. Somerset Maugham studied medicine and worked in London East End hospitals, and this has had a definite influence in his writing from his aptitude for psychoanalysis in his comedies of society to such detailed and authoritative studies of the effect a permanent physical ailment can have upon a human being in his "Of Human Bondage."

One of the most successful of Broadway plays was "Yellow Jack," a dramatization of Paul de Kruif's story of Dr. Walter Reed's successful fight against malaria fever in the tropics. Recently it was filmed as an equally successful movie.

Guy de Maupassant, the French author, once found this extraordinary interest of medical men for writing to be extremely disconcerting.

His friend and literary mentor, Gustave Flaubert, was the son of a physician of the Rouen (France) Hospital. Gustave, too, had made an extensive study of medicine, although some of his unkind friends said that this was due not so much to his hopes of being a physician as it was to the fact that he was a confirmed hypochondriac and wanted to doctor himself.

One night De Maupassant was soundly beaten by a sailor while his teacher-friend, Flaubert, looked idly on. After the fight De Maupassant, on the ground and in sad need of a doctor, was simply chided by the medical-minded Flaubert, who prescribed:

"A writer must cultivate repose, not have too much exercise."

Hemingway is of the tougher school of writers and probably would have no need of medical assistance either from himself or his friends in a similar situation.

ALTHOUGH the florescent musical nights of Ziegfeld "Follies," Earl Carroll "Vanities" and George White "Scandals" have faded on Broadway, the coming season promises an abundant variety of song-and-dance shows.

Drifting away from the accustomed sameness of the plot of noisy comedian, undressed show girls and tearful-voiced blues singer, the new school of musical show calls for a variety of plot that ranges from a tuneful version of Shakespeare's "The Comedy of Errors" to "Come What May," which is described simply as "a smart revue without a message."

George Abbott has rewritten "The Comedy of Errors" to go with the songs by Richard Rodgers and Lorenz Hart.

"I rewrote rather than edited Shakespeare," Abbott explained. "I took what ideas of his I could use and threw the rest away. Also, we will have a new title for the show instead of the one Shakespeare gave it."

What that title will be hasn't been decided yet, but Abbott is contemplating calling it either "The Face Is Familiar," "Four Gentlemen of Ephesus" or "The Boys From Syracuse." Teddy Hart, brother of Lorenz, has been cast for one of the Dromios, with Jimmy Savo playing the other because the two are of about the same brief stature.

Maxwell Anderson, who wrote the hit play about the Dutch immigrants in the Hudson River Valley, "High Tor," has now collaborated with Composer Kurt Weill on an operetta about a similar theme. This will be "Knickerbocker Holiday," a musical story about the settlement of New York City in those pioneer days when it was known as Nieuw Amsterdam. James Barton, who quit his song and dance act on the vaudeville stage to play Jeeter Lester in the long-running "Tobacco Road," may be the one-legged Peter Stuyvesant.

"Come What May," which will have a pre-Broadway tryout at the Suffern County Summer Theater a few miles above New York City beginning Aug. 22, is a modern revue with sketches on topical subjects. Morgan Lewis has composed the music and the book and lyrics are by Nancy Hamilton, a Pittsburgh lass, who attracted attention last season with the sketches she wrote for the revue, "New Faces."

Other musicals are being given their first public hearing in the summer theaters prior to their Broadway bow. "Gentlemen Unafraid," the operetta about Civil War days with Jerome Kern music, was first seen last month in the Municipal Theater at St. Louis.

At Rye Beach, N. H., is being revealed the new Hungarian play with music, "Franzi," with Helen Ford in the leading role. This marks the return of Miss Ford to singing roles. In 1926 she sang the title role in "Peggy Ann" and shortly thereafter became a serious actress to play the lead in the London production of "Coquette," the same role which was created on Broadway by Helen Hayes.

Now that Composer Vernon Duke has returned from his chores in Hollywood he has resumed collaborating with Edwin Gilbert on their musical comedy, "Mint Julep." As the title suggests, it is a tuneful tale of the South.

Withal these bountiful musicals for the fall season, the summer musicals around New York are encountering snags. In the open air stadiums at both Randall's Island and Jones Beach there have been presentations by Broadway producers of several musical comedies since the warm weather began, but the remainder of the season has been canceled. Labor troubles, say the producers. The stage hands insisted on being paid when rain canceled performances. These are both municipally owned stadiums and now city officials are considering producing their own shows.

The No. 1 producer at the moment is Dwight Deere Wiman because he has two shows current and both are hits. One is the musical, "I Married an Angel" and the other is the dramatic "On Borrowed Time." Wiman is collecting gleeful profits from them, and at the same time he has his income from the plow factories he controls in the Middle West. So a successful plow manufacturer is now the top Broadway producer.

"MACHINE GUN" MICROPHONE, THE NEWEST THING IN RADIO EQUIPMENT, WHICH WAS USED FOR THE FIRST TIME IN THE CBS NET'S BROADCASTS FROM THE SCENE OF THE MOCK AIR CORPS RAIDS ON THE EASTERN SEABOARD. ALMOST A HUNDRED TUBES, RANGING IN LENGTH FROM TWO INCHES FOR PICKING UP HIGH PITCHED SOUNDS TO SEVERAL FEET LONG FOR SOUNDS OF LOW PITCH, MAKE IT POSSIBLE TO FOCUS THE MICROPHONE ON DISTANT SOUNDS MUCH AS A TELESCOPE CAN BE FOCUSED ON DISTANT OBJECTS.

Brahms' Fourth In Philharmonic's Concert Tonight

Philadelphia Orchestra at Noon—New Music by American Composers in Everybody's Music.

THE Perole String Quartet will play Boccherini's String Quartet in A-major, Debussy's Quartet in G-minor, the "Zingarese" from Brahms' Piano Quartet and two movements from Schubert's Quartet in D-minor, and Jan Peerce will sing Mozart's "Il Mio Tesoro" in the Radio City concert at 10:30 this morning on KWK.

A concert by 65 members of the Philadelphia Symphony, Eugene Ormandy and Charles O'Connell conducting, will be broadcast in the Magic Key hour at 12 noon today on KWK. Edward Roeker Jr., baritone, will be the soloist, and music by Strauss, De Falla, Grainger, Harl McDonald, Debussy and Wagner will be played.

KSD will carry a Chautauqua Symphony Concert at 1:05 this afternoon.

New music by Paul Creston of Sunnyside, L. I., and Julia Smith of Denton, Tex., will be played in Howard Barlow's Everybody's Music concert at 1 p. m. on KMOX, together with the overture to Cimarosa's "The Secret Marriage" and Schumann's Fourth Symphony. Creston's music is a "Partita" and Miss Smith's, called "Episodic Suite," is dedicated to Muriel Kerr, the pianist, who has played it on concert tours. Miss Smith, who holds a fellowship in composition in New York, has composed a "Little American Suite" and a one-act opera, "Cynthia Parker," which is to be performed in Dallas next season. Creston, a pianist, organist and self-taught composer, was born in New York in 1906. He is organist at St. Malachy's Church in New York City, and is on a leave of absence to write a symphony. He holds a Guggenheim fellowship in composition.

For the New York Philharmonic Orchestra's concert at 6:30 p. m. today on KMOX, Willem Van Hoogstraten, who will conduct, has programmed Beethoven's "Egmont" overture, Brahms' Fourth Symphony, the overture to Smetana's "The Bartered Bride," the Weber-Weinberger "Invitation to the Dance," Debussy's "Afternoon of a Faun" and Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Caprice Espagnole." The commentator will be Carleton Smith, the New York music critic.

Marion Talley will sing "La Cumparsita," the "Czardas" from "Die Fledermaus" and other songs in her concert with Josef Koestner's orchestra at 8:30 tonight on KSD. A broadcast from the Bach Festival at Carmel, Cal., set for 10 p. m. today on the WJZ net, will bring excerpts from the B-minor Mass.

Tomorrow, at 6:30 p. m., Margaret Speaks will sing Elsa's Dream from Lohengrin," "In the Garden of Tomorrow" and "Siboney." Alfred Wallenstein's symphonic orchestra will play the overture to "The Secret of Suzanne" and Strauss' "Wine, Women and Song" waltz. Music of Spain will be featured in Marek Weber's concert at 8 o'clock on KSD. Attilio Baggiore, the tenor, will sing the "Una Furtiva Lagrima" aria, and music by Schumann, Mozart, Barlioz and Tschaikowsky will be played, at 8:30 on WGN.

Wednesday's concerts will include one in Grant Park, Chicago, at 7 p. m. on WGN and KWK, a National Music Camp concert at 7:30 on the WJZ net, and the Symphonic Strings at 8 p. m. on WGN (8:15 on KWK).

Toscanini Plans To Begin Radio Concerts Oct. 15

To Conduct at Least 12 Broadcasts — Script by Blind Pupils in St. Louis Wins Federal Praise.

ARTURO TOSCANINI plans to come to this country early in October to rehearse the NBC Symphony Orchestra in preparation for beginning his broadcast concerts the night of Saturday, Oct. 15. Toscanini, who has an NBC contract for three years, will direct at least 12 broadcasts, and also will take the orchestra on a tour of several cities. . . . The NBC has arranged for several broadcasts from the Salzburg Music Festival, the first of which was scheduled on the WJZ net yesterday afternoon to include part of a performance of "Die Meistersinger" directed by William Furtwaengler.

Walter G. Preston Jr., an NBC executive, recently director of its general service department, has been appointed assistant to John Royal, vice-president in charge of programs, and will be director of NBC educational activities. The appointment was a first step in a reorganization of the education setup within the NBC program department recommended by Dr. James Rowland Angell, former president of Yale University, now educational counsel to the NBC. Preston at one time was assistant to Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago.

A RADIO serial prepared and performed by pupils of the Missouri School for the Blind in St. Louis in a broadcast on WEW has drawn special commendation from the Office of Education in the Department of the Interior at Washington. The program was sponsored by the Educational Radio Script Exchange, a unit of the Federal Radio Education Committee, and a report on it was sent to all other institutions for the blind in the country. The exchange also supplied a nine-page script of the dramatizations, entitled "Interviews With the Past," in which Benjamin Franklin, Shakespeare, Napoleon, Queen Elizabeth, George Washington and Catherine the Great were supposed to come back to earth to be interviewed. The script was also put into 180 pages of Braille by Miss Roberta Emeley.

Trade Notes

Radiorgan Gives Tone Color in New Zenith Sets.

Featured with other improvements in some of the models in the new 1939 line of Zenith radio sets, which were seen by dealers the past week at meetings held by the Electric Lamp & Supply Co., distributer, is the "radiorgan." This device permits a listener to modify the tone of a set or blend effects over a wide range of tonal coloring to suit room acoustics or his individual tone preference.

Other features include automatic tuning, which can be set for selected stations without the help of a service man; a large, easily read dial for tuning distant stations that is really three dials in one for simplicity of operation; the acoustic adapter by which a listener can adjust a bell in rear of the speaker to made reproduction suit his home coustics; a voice-music-high fidelity control; spinner tuning for speedy getting of stations and electric target tuning to supplement it.

Wholly new cabinets of console, table and chair-side types have been designed for all the new Zeniths, from a little six-tube heterodyne set only 10⅝ inches wide to 7, 9, 12 and 15 tube models and a variety of radio-phonograph combinations. The line also includes a record player which may be plugged into a set, battery-operated sets with or without wind chargers, and several new automobile sets.

The largest sets in the line are the 15-tube model, which comes in two special furniture cabinets, and a radio-phonograph combination which has the 15-tube chassis, automatic record changer, special high-fidelity features and other improvements designed for tone.

Several of the combinations are of the arm-chair type, and several of the arm-chair radio sets have the "radiorgan" device.

The past week's display for dealers was in charge of Herman Hollender, president of the distributing firm, and W. H. Hanson, sales manager.

Ramona to Sing On KSD at 7:30 Tomorrow Night

Billed for Program Shifting From 4:30 Sunday to Mondays — Other Features Scheduled This Week.

KSD's program featuring Jimmie Jefferies, Ruth Bickford, Karl Lamberts' orchestra and guest entertainers, which has been the 4:30 to 5 p. m. feature Sundays, has been shifted to 7:30 Monday nights, effective tomorrow. Ramona, the singer, pianist and orchestra leader, will be the featured guest tomorrow night, singing "I'll Do Anything for You" and "I Got a Guy."

Nelson Eddy, the movie and concert baritone, is to return to KSD's 6 p. m. Sunday Charlie McCarthy hour Aug. 7 when he will resume his place as the regularly featured soloist.

A killing in a fight, the attempt of the slayer to make the death appear to have resulted from a hit and run auto accident and his conviction of second degree murder will be the subject of KSD's Trailing the Highway Patrol program at 9:30 Tuesday night. In the course of the broadcast, the way in which members of the Missouri State Highway Patrol used deductive reasoning to develop that the death was not an accident will be disclosed.

Gertrude Lawrence, the British actress, is billed as the headliner for Rudy Vallee's hour next Thursday night and will play in a one-act sketch written for her. Also billed are Willie Howard, the comedian, and Ezra Stone, the actor who made a hit on Broadway this season in "What a Life." Stone will play in a sketch covering some early adventures of Henry Aldrich, the character taken by him in "What a Life." This sketch has been written for the occasion by Clifford Goldsmith, author of the play.

CLYDE McCOY and his orchestra, who have replaced Little Jack Little and his band playing locally, will be heard on KSD at 11 p. m. tonight through Wednesday. This spot on KSD will be occupied by Ted FioRito and his orchestra Thursday night and thereafter nightly through Thursday, Aug. 4, after which it will be taken by Joe Reichman and his orchestra until Friday, Aug. 19.

The story of a hi-jacker who, after serving a term in a Texas prison, went back to robbery, kidnaped a railroad detective and was captured after a gun fight in which he was wounded and a policeman killed, will be dramatized in KSD's Public Hero No. 1 period tomorrow evening.

A tunnel worker, who was caught in a subway construction job in New York and got out only to find himself in the Hudson River, will be featured in the thrill period of the Johnny Presents period Tuesday night.

Robert L. Ripley is to dramatize Tuesday evening the experiences of Uncle Felix Breazeale of Kingston, Tenn., who recently invited his friends to attend his funeral in advance of his death, and Capt. Oscar Manning of New York, who was left for dead among other members of the crew of a ship who had succumbed to yellow fever.

The story of the lost Peg Leg mine, the object of search by hundreds of prospectors for nearly a hundred years in the California desert, will be the basis of Friday night's Death Valley Days drama.

Lee Tracy, movie and stage actor; Beatrice Fairfax, adviser to the lovelorn, and Cheney Stout, director of New York menageries, are to take part in the For Men Only program at 7:30 Wednesday night.

Bill Herbert, husband of Hazel, will come back to the Barbour Family Wednesday evening in KSD's One Man's Family broadcast. The role will be played by Bert Horton.

"The Case of the Persian Emerald," involving the theft of a valuable gem and a murder aboard a yacht of an eccentric millionaire, will be the Attorney-At-Law play at 7:30 Tuesday night.

Les Tremayne will return from his vacation in time to play with Barbara Luddy, Friday, on KSD in a First Nighter play titled "One Man's Poison," a comedy of a salesman and his troubles and romance.

CITY HALL MEN TOUR MUNICIPAL AIRPORTS

Trying to Find Ways to Increase Revenue at Lambert-St. Louis Field.

Charles L. Cunningham, Deputy City Comptroller, and James A. Rohan, secretary to Director of Public Welfare Joseph M. Darst, are on a tour of inspection of leading municipal airports to study prevailing systems of revenue with a view of increasing the income of Lambert-St. Louis Field.

Darst said the annual income of the St. Louis field was about $20,000, while its expenditures were $45,000. Some fields, he has been informed, charge landing fees for transport planes as well as fees for the use of landing lights. The object of the survey, he said, is to analyze the various sources of revenue at other fields to determine what, if any, are adaptable locally.

Cunningham and Rohan left by airplane Friday night. They will be gone a week, visiting airports at Newark, Buffalo, Washington, Columbus, Detroit, Pittsburgh, Cleveland and Boston.

SWIMMING CARNIVAL AT CAMP IRONDALE

300 Boy Scouts Will Perform for Visiting Parents and Friends Today.

Parents and friends visiting 300 Boy Scouts attending the third two-week session at Camp Irondale will be entertained today with a swimming carnival followed by a program of informal sports.

This week's program for campers will feature nature study hikes under the direction of R. R. Eddleman, veteran Normandy scout leader. Botany classes will be held Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons, with astronomy classes in the evening.

As a result of the first two sessions at Irondale, 14 boys will be awarded bird study merit badges, the St. Louis Council, Boy Scouts of America, announced yesterday. The recipients, all from the St. Louis metropolitan area, are: Rober Batts, John Hoech, Edgar Dubach, Alan Meyer, Robert Brust, David Miller, George Elder, Robert Lee, Langdon Woods, John Schmidt, Bob Beasley, Art Brownlee, Tom Beasley and Jim McBabe.

Last Wednesday, a group of senior scouts, guided by Clyde Clark and Bill Hollister, left camp for a 10-day hike through the Ozarks to Big Springs State Park. The scouts continued their journey today after camping overnight on Tom Sauk Mountain.

The purpose of the 100-mile hike, which is offered at each session, is to afford scouts an opportunity to study bird, animal, and reptile life, trees and flowers, and mineral and geological formations.

The Irondale reservation is under the direction of S. C. Reaves, assisted by a staff of specialists in camping and scoutcraft. The camp will remain open until Aug. 13.

At Lion's Den, the other St. Louis Boy Scout summer camp, a group of 100 boys from Troops 32, 33, 46, 53, 108, and 249 are enrolled for the sixth section which opens today for six days.

This week's program of activities includes a marshmallow roast, a barbecue, and a council fire. Swim days will be Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, with swimming classes for beginners. H. Max Nusser is campmaster.

P W A FUND SOUGHT FOR ALOE PLAZA

City Asks for $42,700 to Prepare Setting for Milles Fountain.

The city, in an application forwarded to Washington yesterday, asked the P W A to allot $42,700 for the preparation of Aloe Plaza, opposite Union Station, as a setting for the fountain designed by Carl Milles.

Total cost of the work is estimated at $95,000, of which the P W A is expected to provide 45 per cent. Detailed plans have not been drawn, but the work will include construction of a pool and retaining wall, grading, landscaping and walks.

Milles, noted Swedish sculptor, is completing the fountain figures at his studio in Cranbrook Academy, Michigan. The bronze fountain, depicting the meeting of the Missouri and Mississippi Rivers, will be ready for installation next year.

Bids have been received by the Board of Public Service for the carving and installation of four stone sculptures, designed for the Soldiers' Memorial by Walker Hancock, former St. Louisan, who is director of the department of sculpture at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts.

Lowest of three bids was one of $24,775 submittaed by the Moceri Monument Co., 4748 West Florissant avenue. The high bid was $27,000. Pending further study of the bids, the contract was not let.

Each of Hancock's figures will depict a heavy winged horse attended by an allegorical human figure. The figures represent Courage, Sacrifice, Loyalty and Vision.

GALLERY TALKS, STORY HOURS THIS WEEK AT ART MUSEUM

Courts and Fountains of Spain to Be Described at 2:30 Tuesday Afternoon.

Gallery talks scheduled for this week at City Art Museum in Forest Park will begin tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock with a story hour conducted by Miss Mary Powell and a lecture on tapestries by Miss Betty Greenfield.

Miss Powell will speak of English influences in American art Tuesday morning at 11, and Miss Jaquelin Ambler, at 2:30 that afternoon, will describe the courts and fountains of Spain.

There will be another story hour Wednesday afternoon at 3, and again Thursday at 11. Miss Ambler will speak of contemporary American artists Thursday at 11 and Miss Powell's Tuesday lecture will be repeated Friday morning at 11.

Parties Keep Colonists Busy At Cape Cod

Round of Dinner Dances, Buffet Suppers, Lectures and Concerts Provide Evening Entertainment.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

Wianno, Mass., July 23.

THE formal and informal party season has started at Cape Cod and many visitors are being entertained. Family parties as well as those for neighbors and friends occupy much of the time of St. Louisans here for the summer.

Mrs. Harvey G. Mudd's recent visit to Mrs. Leslie Dana was the inspiration for a round of parties. Arriving here Tuesday, July 12, she was given a dinner that evening by Mrs. Wood Taylor of Boston. The next evening, Mrs. Dana had 30 friends for cocktails at her home, Dana Dune, to meet Mrs. Mudd. A party the next day was given by Mr. and Mrs. Channing McGregory Wells of Southbridge, Mass., at their place, "Wyndiecote." Mr. and Mrs. Wells are the parents of Channing Wells Jr., who married the Danas' daughter, the former Miss Mary Leslie Dana. Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Wells Jr. arrived last Saturday with their young sons, Peter and Dana Wells, to spend two weeks. Mr. Dana came Monday from St. Louis for a month's stay.

Mr. and Mrs. Clare Hill Draper entertained for Mrs. Mudd as did Dr. and Mrs. Malvern B. Clopton. One day, Mrs. Dana and her guest motored to Hyannisport to have lunch with Mrs. William Caleb Siple of Boston, a former St. Louisan, at her summer place.

Mrs. Mudd departed for Nantucket Friday, stopping briefly at Woods Hole. After two weeks in Nantucket, she will go to Rye Beach, N. H., for the rest of the summer.

Mrs. James Gaff Hinkle of Chestnut Hill, Mass., formerly Miss Mary Francis Dickson of St. Louis, is opening her cottage here. Last week-end, she and Mr. Hinkle with their young daughter, Sidney, visited Boston friends who are spending the summer at Wareham on the Cape.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Langenberg have with them at their cottage the latter's mother, Mrs. Levis Hamilton, and Mrs. E. W. Walker, both of Louisville, Ky. Among the parties being given for them was the tea Wednesday afternoon at which Mr. and Mrs. Langenberg were host and hostess. Mrs. Langenberg is an active member of the Wianno Women's golf team which recently defeated the Bass River contingent.

Hyannisport, Mass.

The Hyannisport Club, commanding a panoramic view of rolling hills and marshes ribboned by streams emptying into Nantucket Sound, is a popular center for the weekly Sunday night buffet suppers which have proved so popular with St. Louisans here this season.

Last Sunday evening, Mrs. Edward Robert Blagdon of Greenfield, Mass., formerly of St. Louis, was hostess there to a group including Mrs. Yarde Breese and Mrs. Harold M. Brown, both of New York, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Coit Day. Mrs. Breese departed the next day and Mrs. Brown the end of the week.

At a nearby table were Mrs. Charles Fletcher Sparks and her granddaughter, Miss Frances Valle Reyburn. Miss Reyburn and James Finkenstadt of Detroit that afternoon had tied for second place in the club's round robin tennis tournaments. Mrs. Sparks' son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Kaltenbach Jr., arrived recently from St. Louis, accompanied by their young son, Henry III.

Friday, Mr. and Mrs. Sheppard Dillingham will give the birthday dinner for Dunham Dodge which has become a mid-summer event in Hyannisport. Among the guests will be Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Schotten, who will arrive in a few days and stay with Mr. Dodge's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hudson Barstow, at their cottage. The Barstows left St. Louis yesterday by motor for Hyannisport.

The Rev. Dr. Hulbert A. Woolfall, who is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Cevedra D. Blake at their Dennis (Mass.) summer home, conducted services at St. Andrews-by-the-Sea Sunday. Afterwards he departed for St. Louis for a several-day visit to arrange details of the addition being built to the parish house of St. Peter's Episcopal Church, his pastorate. He will return for services tomorrow.

Mrs. Paul Bakewell Jr., who frequently summers on Cape Cod, is expected here late next month. Her daughter, Miss Mary Caroline Bakewell, and son, Francis, are spending the season at Estes Park, Colo., with Mr. Bakewell. They will probably come to the Cape for a short stay later.

Woods Hole, Mass.

Dr. and Mrs. James P. Warbasse had the first of the year's Penzance Forum in the Garden at "Gladheim" on Penzance Point last Sunday. Many from Woods Hole, including such St. Louisans as Dr. and Mrs. Charles K. Sibley, Dr. and Mrs. Jacques J. Bronfenbrenner and Mrs. Thomas G. Ratcliffe, attended this forum, inaugurated 20 years ago, which has been held each year during July and August. The speaker was Dr. Edmund D. Brunner, professor of education, Teachers' College, Columbia University, whose subject was "Social Trends in New Zealand and Australia and the Lessons the United States Might Learn."

Last Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene D. Nims entertained at a buffet supper. Among the guests were their nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. N. Baxter Jackson of New York, who are spending the season at Falmouth, Mass., and Mr. and Mrs. Pomeroy Day.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Plant and

St. Louisans Honored Before European Trip

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

Narragansett, R. I., July 23.

NARRAGANSETT has had the gayest and busiest week thus far this season, with St. Louisans participating in the activities.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Maloy, who sailed on the Rex today for a two months' trip in Europe, joined Mrs. Maloys' brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Werner, last Monday at the Werner home, Quarterdeck. Until their departure for New York the visitors

Farmhouses Remade By Rye Beach Colony

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

Rye Beach, N. H., July 23.

MANY summer residents of Rye Beach and Little Boar's Head have bought old farmhouses for summer homes, and have remodeled not only the houses but the barns as well, adding charm and comfort to the places. One of the barns is on the grounds of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore B. Griffith of Indianapolis, who gave a large cocktail party there last Sunday. Mrs. Griffith's barn is decorated with fishing gear, well known to sea-going New Englanders. Suspended from sea-green walls are lobster floaters and heavy nets dotted with corks.

Guests at the party included former Gov. and Mrs. Alvin T. Fuller of Massachusetts, former Gov. and Mrs. Huntley Spaulding of New Hampshire, Mrs. James Roosevelt and her mother, Mrs. Harvey Cushing, and the following St. Louisans: Mr. and Mrs. Eugene R. Cuendet, their daughter, Mrs. Hildreth Meigs, and Mrs. Karl Morgan Block.

Mr. and Mrs. George Castleman Mackay and their daughters, Miss Suzanne and Miss Lucie, are expected to arrive soon at their home in Little Boar's Head. The house is a typical New England farmhouse, of white clapboard, and is reputed to be the one in which Harriet Beecher Stowe wrote Uncle Tom's Cabin. Back of the house, the barn has been converted into an artist's studio, where Miss Lucie will be able to continue painting this summer.

After completing treatments at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., James Roosevelt, son of the President, has been spending a few days at Little Boar's Head with his

Annual Races Interest Colony At Charlevoix

Detroit to Mackinac Boat Competition Ends Near Resort—Many Parties for Visitors and Yachtsmen.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

Charlevoix, Mich., July 23.

HARBORS all along the shore of Lake Michigan as far north as Mackinac have been busy this week with preparations for the Chicago and Detroit to Mackinac Boat Races, which started from both cities Thursday. Many of the cottage colony from here will go to Mackinac tonight for the finish, and later will entertain the crews as the boats return to their own harbors. Tonight the harbor of Mackinac Island will be dotted not only with sail boats participating in the event, but cabin cruisers and yachts, deck lights gleaming and flags flying from mast tops. Boat owners will entertain visitors and yachtsmen at cocktail parties on board, with small motor boats transporting guests from one ship to another. These parties will precede the annual ball, the finale of the race season, at Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island.

Meanwhile there are several new arrivals at the Belvedere Club, where special card games have been arranged for Tuesday and Thursday nights and a bridge tournament Wednesday nights to continue throughout the season. The most recent arrivals are Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Brauer, Webster Groves, J. R. Conley of St. Louis, and Miss Betty Wolcott of Clayton.

Mr. and Mrs. George M. Rassieur entertained several guests at a cocktail party Thursday afternoon in their home on the North Side in honor of Mrs. John Owen of Detroit, a frequent guest in Charlevoix.

Dr. and Mrs. Louis Rassieur are spending the season in their attractive home on top of Mountain McSanba on Lake Michigan. Mr. and Mrs. Theodore E. Rassieur Jr., with their two sons, Theodore and Charlie, motored up and opened their cottage on the North Side the first of the week. They will remain throughout the season. Mrs. Theodore Rassieur has as her guests her three sisters, Mrs. Joseph Kohler, Miss Maymie Miller and Miss Dora Miller, who arrived Saturday and will remain until the middle of August.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Papin are guests for a month at Hotel Hallett on Belvedere avenue. Mrs. George Riddle arrived a week ago and was joined the following day by her daughter, Mrs. Edward A. Morse, with her twin daughters, Miss Georgia and Miss Dorothy, who motored from St. Louis to spend the remainder of the season here.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Dixon accompanied by their daughter, Miss Marjorie, are occupying the same cottage they have leased for several years on the park and will have several guests during the season.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Dehlendorf and Mrs. Albert Scheu have leased the cottage of Mr. and Mrs. William Carroll Connett for the balance of the season. Mr. and Mrs. William Carroll Connett IV, who have been spending their honeymoon here, have returned to St. Louis. Mrs. Dehlendorf and Mrs. Scheu will arrive with their children on Sunday.

Mrs. Frederick D. Gardner and Mrs. Frank O. Watts were luncheon guests of Mrs. George Schwab Monday. Mrs. Gardner is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Janet Gardner Hawes, in Harbor Point until Aug. 1, when she will go to her home in La Jolla, Cal., until early in the fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Coale have returned to their cottage on the First Terrace after an absence of two years, and will remain until early in September. They will have as their guests Mrs. Coale's sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Clardy of Farmington, Mo., for the month of August.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Bolin have as their guests their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Viterbo, and another daughter, Mrs. Robert Shillington, with her three children, as guests for the balance of the season.

Mrs. William Noyes Bemis is entertaining her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Green Morris of Cincinnati, and their two sons, James Roseborough and William Bemis, and Mr. Morris' daughter, Mary Louise, and son, Joseph Jr., who will remain throughout the season.

The Ironton Playhouse is presenting for the second week's production "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" by Anita Loos. Guests from Harbor Point, Wequetonsing and Charlevoix are using the boat for transportation as a new adventure, and to save traffic and parking problems. Lake Charlevoix is very gay, dotted with all sorts of cruisers and yachts going to and from the Playhouse on Lake Charlevoix.

Miss Elizabeth Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Vernon Clark, gave a cocktail party Wednesday

St. Louisans at Wequetonsing Find Resort Gay

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

Wequetonsing, Mich., July 23

PARTIES of every description are being planned for the next few weeks. Cocktail parties are always a favorite form of entertainment, and in addition there are picnics, sailing parties and dinners, the latter often followed by dancing at the Little Harbor Club, Ramona Club or Club Manitou.

Although both the Little Harbor Club, near the entrance to Harbor Point, and the Beach Club, on the shore of Lake Michigan, opened officially the week-end of July 4, it has been only this last week that they have given the first of their series of evening parties. The Beach Club has inaugurated Thursday night buffet suppers to continue throughout the season.

The Little Harbor Club gave its opening dinner dance last Saturday night. Tables for dinner were set on the spacious veranda, which was festooned with Japanese lanterns, and moonlight dancing followed. Many of the younger group arrived for dancing later, among them Miss Becky Wells, Miss Peggy McMahon, Spencer McCourtney Jr. and Charles Limberg. Dinner guests among the St. Louis colony included Mr. and Mrs. Sterling E. Edmunds, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond W. Peters, Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds Medart and Parker Levis.

Last Saturday night was a gala one at Club Manitou, with every table filled. The largest party was given by Mrs. Robert Burkham, who has been making a brief visit with Mr. and Mrs. Francis G. Eaton, at their cottage. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Eaton, Mr. and Mrs. Frank O. Watts, Mr. and Mrs. L. Warrington Baldwin, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Garrison, Mrs. George Welch Simmons, Mrs. Robert Holland and Mrs. Samuel C. McCluney.

At the first Thursday night buffet supper at the Beach Club, July 17, Mrs. Samuel McCluney was hostess at the largest party, which was seated in a private dining room. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Watts, Mr. and Mrs. Garrison, Mrs. Baldwin, Mrs. Speer of Memphis, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton L. Whittemore, Mrs. Simmons, Mr. and Mrs. Edmunds and Mrs. Burkham.

At noon Monday, Mrs. Holland entertained a group of friends for cocktails at the Beach Club. The guests, grouped under gayly colored umbrellas on the terrace, included Mrs. McCluney and her daughter, Miss Louise; Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Schotten, Mr. and Mrs. Rolla Wells, Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin, Mr. and Mrs. Garrison and the hostess' daughter, Miss Virginia Holland, a debutante of last winter.

Almost the same group assisted Mr. Garrison in celebrating his birthday Wedesday night, at a dinner given by Mrs. Garrison.

Raymond W. Peters arrived last Saturday morning to join his family for several weeks. They also had guests at the Beach Club opening, among them Mr. and Mrs. Oliver M. Clifford and Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds Medart. Mr. and Mrs. Peters are entertaining Mrs. E. A. O'Donnell of St. Louis and her young daughter, Ruth, who are being feted at several informal entertainments.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Maestre, who have been occupying their newly purchased cottage on the lake front, have gone to Alaska for a month of fishing on board a yacht belonging to friends of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Siegel of St. Louis, whose guests they are. Mr. and Mrs. Maestre will return here the middle of August.

Several St. Louis families have guests in their summer homes. Mr. and Mrs. Clinton L. Whittemore are entertaining their daughter, Mrs. Calvin Anderson Case of Morristown, N. J., and her three children. Mr. and Mrs. Whittemore motored to Grand Rapids to meet their daughter, and spent two days at the Whittemore camp in Baldwin, Mich. Mrs. Gardner Hawes, who has a house this summer in Harbor Point, will have her mother, Mrs. Frederick D. Gardner, who will be with her for 10 days before going to La Jolla, Cal., for the late season. Whitelaw T. Terry arrived last Saturday for a two weeks' visit with his family in their recently purchased cottage. He will return later in the summer to drive his family home.

Mrs. Stephen Sheldon, the former Mrs. Elizabeth Luyties Moser, who has been living in Columbia, Mo., since her marriage, arrived a few days ago with her young daughter, Janet Moser, and is visiting her mother, Mrs. Frederic August Luyties, in her cottage at Harbor Point.

Several parties have been given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fusz Ring of St. Louis, who motored north from Douglas, Mich., where they have a cottage for the summer, and are being entertained here by Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds Medart. At noon Wednesday Mr. and Mrs. Medart gave a cocktail party for the visitors, and afterward the group progressed to the buffet luncheon at the Little Harbor Club, where Mrs. Bernard J. McMahon was hostess to the following: Mr. and Mrs. Peters, their guest, Mrs. O'Donnell, and Mrs. Alonzo Christy Church and her guests, Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Hock of Detroit, and Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Clifford. That night Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Butler entertained the visitors for cocktails, after which Mr. and Mrs. Woodson K. Woods Jr., who are spending the summer at Harbor Point, gave a dinner at the Little Harbor Club.

Wednesday night, Mrs. Church will give a dinner in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Hock, numbering among her guests Mr. and Mrs. Terry, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford, Mrs. McMahon and Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Quackenbush of Cincinnati. Several other parties are being planned. Mr. Hock competed today in the Mackinac boat races, which he has won for the last several years.

Recent arrivals at the Harbor Point Club House are Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Orr and Frank C. Rand.

Mahlon B. Wallace Jr. returned to St. Louis Sunday after a week's stay with his family at Harbor Point, but will return for the rest of the season about Aug. 10.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Morton Banister are entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Gentry Shelton for a week, after which the Sheltons will be with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Watts. At present, Mr. and Mrs. Watts have as guests their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Watts Jr.

St. Louisans Return To Pentwater, Mich.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

Pentwater, Mich., July 23.

THIS colony north of Muskegon on Lake Michigan, annually draws its share of resorters from St. Louis. Some remain for the season, while others stop off for luncheon or visit friends en route to resorts farther north.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude T. Porter with their small daughter, Peggy, are spending their second summer here in one of the cottages owned by the Misses Saunders of St. Louis. The Porter family may be seen daily on the sand of Oceana Beach.

Mrs. Allan Preston Gamble and her daughters, Nina, Carol and Ethel, are spending their third summer here. Mr. Gamble spent two weeks with his family early this month, and plans to return for another visit this summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hopkins King are occupying the same cottage they had last year, and have with them their three children, Gregg, Lucia and Clarence Jr. Mrs. King's sister, Mrs. Asa Brookings Wallace, Mr. Wallace, their three daughters, and Mrs. Wallace's mother, Mrs. Cecil D. Gregg, will occupy the cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Bond Fouke of St. Louis at Charlevoix, Mich. Mr. Wallace and their daughters, Miss Marian and Miss Janet, motored north from St. Louis, stopping off for a morning at Oceana Beach.

Others renting cottages in the village include Mrs. Sidney M. Phelan of St. Louis, and her sister, Miss Georgie Kent Willis, who have with them Mrs. Phelan's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Phelan, and daughter, Ann, former St. Louisans.

Stopping at the Oceana Beach Clubhouse are Mr. and Mrs. Victor Cullin and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Barker of St. Louis. Mr. and Mrs. Cullin's young daughter is at Mrs. Orwig's camp for girls at Shelby, 40 miles from Pentwater.

Mr. and Mrs. Foster Holmes of St. Louis and their three children are expected at Pentwater in August.

family. The Roosevelts have a cottage on Ocean road, next door to Dr. and Mrs. Cushing, Mrs. Roosevelt's parents.

The little Boar's Head Garden Club held its second meeting of the season Wednesday. About 60 members and guests attended, among them Mrs. E. Lansing Ray, Mrs. Elzey G. Burkham, Mrs. Karl Morgan Block, Mrs. Eugene R. Cuendet, Mrs. Edward V. Papin of St. Louis, and Miss Frances Allen, a former St. Louisan. A talk, "Gardening with Bulbs," was given by John L. Russell, after which tea was served by members of the Rye Beach and Little Boar's Head younger set.

The weekly dinner dance, a recent entertainment feature at the Rye Beach Beach Club, has necessitated the forming of an entertainment committee, with subcommittees in charge of food, flowers, supper reservations and bridge games. An active member of the committee is Mrs. Henry H. Whittemore, who is here with her husband and two children.

The Farragut Players presented "Franzi," adapted from the Hungarian of Ladislaus Bus Fekete by Edwin Gilbert, as their new play this week. The role of Franzi was played by Helen Ford, musical comedy actress, who has starred both in this country and in England in "Dearest Enemy" and "Peggy Ann." The first-night audience included Mrs. Alvin T. Fuller, her sister-in-law, Mrs. Fuller Halsey, Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Papin, Mr. and Mrs. Elzey Burkham and their daughter, Miss Lois, and Mr. and Mrs. Wallis D. Walker, all of the Rye Beach colony, and Mr. Gilbert, Alec Fogarty, who wrote the music, and J. J. Shubert, for whom the play was tried out.

The annual bridge tournament began Tuesday night at the Beach Club under the sponsorship of Mrs. Frederick D. Murphy of Montclair, N. J. More than 20 couples have entered, and will play each Tuesday night.

The other tournament, held at the Abenaqui Golf and Tennis Club, is the annual club tennis competition. The play will include men's and women's singles and doubles, junior singles and doubles, and mixed doubles.

Small Parties at Michigan Resorts For St. Louisans

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

Harbor Beach, Mich., July 23.

HARBOR BEACH social activities center around the Beach Club, built between the salt water pool and the lake front. Groups gather for an afternoon of bridge and remain for tea.

Last Saturday Mrs. George G. Scranton of Boston was hostess at a tea at the club in honor of her guest, Mrs. William Robert Bryant of Detroit, the former Miss Mary Frances Fisk of St. Louis. The younger set was invited, including Mrs. Robert Mudd, Miss Marian Peters, Mrs. Donald Danforth, Miss Eleanor McCarthy and Mrs. Jeremiah Van Buren Jenks.

Donald Danforth spent last week-end with his family at their cottage here. They entertained Mr. and Mrs. James Winfield and son, James Jr., of Detroit. Another arrival last week-end was Miss Jean Clark, who came to visit her aunt, Mrs. Marshall McCarthy, and cousin, Miss Eleanor McCarthy. Miss Clark, her brother Peter; Miss McCarthy, Mrs. Danforth, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mudd and Miss Peters were among those at the Beach Club dance. Mr. Mudd is here for a several-week visit with his family.

Mrs. Henry H. Hopkins of La Jolla, Cal., is a newcomer at the St. Louis colony here. She is with her mother, Mrs. James M. Sloan, for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Talbot arrived Sunday to pay a surprise visit to the latter's mother, Mrs. Ernest R. Kroeger. During their week's visit they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Patten.

Miss Betty Fitz-Gerald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Fitz-Gerald, who is here this summer as counselor for the Girls' Club at Harbor Beach, arranged a picnic for the girls Friday, July 15. Two enthusiastic members of her group are Dorothy Danforth and Gracie Ward, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Crawford Ward.

Pointe Aux Barques, Mich.

Full moon over Pointe Aux Barques inspires a hayride for resorters here. A farmer fills his wagon with a laughing, singing crowd and drives the group three miles away to Pittwood, where a stop is made for ice cream sodas before the homeward trip. The first ride of the season was given recently in honor of Miss Mimi Worthington, guest of her aunt, Mrs. Cornelius Tompkins. The sub-debutante set attended, including Miss Janet Brodhead, Miss Dorothy Peabody of Grosse Pointe, Mich.; William Brodhead, John Brodhead Jr. and Robert Knapp Jr.

Another recent social affair was a dinner-bridge party given by Mrs. Daniel Quirk of Ypsilanti, Mich., at which Mrs. Tompkins and her niece, Mrs. George Y. Worthington Jr. of Washington, were present.

A group from here motored to Bad Axe Thursday to play golf. Included were Mrs. David R. Calhoun, Mr. and Mrs. John Brodhead and Mrs. Robert W. Knapp.

Thursday night, "maid's night out," makes dining popular at the Pointe Aux Barques Club House. This week's group included Mrs. John R. Shepley and her daughter, Betty, who dined with Mrs. Carter Sales of Grosse Pointe. Mrs. Calhoun was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Jack McLucas of Kansas City, who have visited in St. Louis frequently for squash tournaments. Another group included Mrs. Worthington, Mrs. Tompkins, Mrs. Knapp and Mrs. Brodhead.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gillette Hotchkiss, usually early arrivals here, did not open their cottage until yesterday. Their son, Edward Jr., who is motoring in the West with friends, is expected here for a brief visit before returning to New Haven, Conn., for his senior year at Yale University.

Charles Johnson of Detroit arrived yesterday to be a week-end guest at the Brodhead cottage.

Last Saturday night was made gay here by two dinner parties. The David R. Calhouns entertained Mrs. Shepley, Mr. and Mrs. McLucas, Mrs. Knapp, Mr. and Mrs. Hotchkiss and Mr. and Mrs. Brodhead. Mrs. Joseph O. Toberman was hostess to a group in honor of Mrs. Philip Platt Smith's guests; Mrs. Paul Bakewell III, her sister, and Miss Roberta Pierce. Miss Barbara Brodhead was escorted by Theodore Proxmire and James Marks of Detroit, who were here for the week-end.

Mrs. Tompkins honored her niece, Mrs. Worthington, at a luncheon Sunday noon. The guest list included: Mrs. Knapp, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Bakewell, Miss Pierce and Mrs. John M. Wright. Mrs. Bakewell and Miss Pierce departed for St. Louis Monday morning. Miss Pierce and her mother, Mrs. Thomas M. Pierce, will go to Les Chenaux, Mich., for two weeks and later visit in the East.

Among those departing for St. Louis Sunday was Mr. Calhoun. He will return in September. The next day, his mother-in-law, Mrs. Albert T. Terry, arrived for a visit with her daughter. Accompanying her was her nephew, John R. Shepley Jr., who will be here several weeks with his family. Mr. Hotchkiss and Mr. Brodhead left for St. Louis Monday, planning to return in early fall.

Early this week Mrs. Tompkins, Mrs. Worthington, Mrs. Knapp and Mrs. Brodhead drove to Port Huron, Mich., and Sarnia, Ontario, on an all-day picnic and shopping expedition.

Tennis Tournament Dinner at La Jolla Gay for St. Louisans

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

La Jolla, Cal., July 23

THE patio of the Casa de Manana was filled to capacity last Saturday night for the tennis tournament dinner dance. Professional dancers entertained the guests with an exhibition of the tango, rumba and dipsy-doodle, after which most of the guests, of all ages, joined in the big apple.

The following were among the diners: Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Cushman, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Baldwin Starkloff, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin F. Gatch, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Muckerman II and Mr. and Mrs. Wayman Crow, St. Louisans who have now become residents of La Jolla; Mr. and Mrs. Warren Beckwith, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Meeker, Mrs. Maury Hill, Arthur and William Hilmer, Dearborn Farrar, Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Macy and Lieut. Rufus Lackland Taylor.

Coronado claimed the attention of Southern Californians Tuesday, when the Coronado National Horse Show opened. The activities of the week included the entertaining of exhibitors, the chairman's supper Tuesday night, the children's party at the Beach and Tennis Club and a luncheon at the pool for participants. The outstanding event was the supper dance in the Circus Casino tonight after the last performance.

Mrs. Maury Hill and her three children arrived Thursday to take possession of the attractive house they have rented in La Jolla Shores, in the vicinity of the Beach Club.

The Beach Club, popular meeting place for resorters, will remain open next winter, and plans are under way for breaking ground for a swimming pool and tennis courts. Here daily may be seen a group of St. Louis children, including Bertha May Scott, Billy Orr and Eloise Stephens, and three pairs of St. Louis honeymooners, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Gatch, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Muckerman and Mr. and Mrs. Gene Starkloff. Mr. and Mrs. Gatch, who have been at the Casa de Manana, left Monday for Los Angeles to sail for Honolulu.

Recent arrivals at the Casa de Manana include Mrs. Harry L. Block and her granddaughter, Miss Mazu B. McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hermann, their daughter, Jean, and their sons, Fred A. Jr., and Robert R. Hermann; and Mrs. Harry Stegall. Mrs. A. B. Lansing is expected soon. Mrs. Nathaniel Allison has returned for an indefinite visit.

Monday afternoon, Miss Mary Lee, who spent last winter as well as the summer in La Jolla with her sister, Mrs. George Hoffman, gave a luncheon at the Beach and Tennis Club of Hotel Coronado. Her guests included Mrs. Nathaniel W. Ewing, Miss Adele Hayes, Mrs. Katherine D. Adams and Mrs. Ellen Hoffman Brashear.

Mrs. D. B. Hussey has arrived in Coronado, and is spending the summer at Hotel del Coronado, as is Mrs. W. K. Stanard.

Mrs. Bernard G. Farrar, 415 Sea Lane, who has been living here for the last two or three years, is anticipating the arrival of her son-in-law, Joseph Desloge, and his children, who will be here soon after the completion of his new home on the cliff, in La Hermosa.

La Hermosa, which is a seaside subdivision of La Jolla, is rapidly becoming popular with St. Louisans. Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Berry have built a home there, and Mr. and Mrs. F. W. A. Vesper are contemplating the construction of one, as are Mr. and Mrs. George Gaylord. Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Stockton, former St. Louisans, have a home in the same locality, as have Mr. and Mrs. Wayman Crow, and for the last two years Miss Isabella and Miss Bertha Skinker and their brother, Charles Skinker, have leased a house.

Walker Mason of Providence, R. I., a former St. Louisan, has been visiting his sister, Mrs. Alby Mason Irvine, at La Valencia Hotel. Leo Moser, who has been living in Southern California for the last few years, is in La Jolla for the summer.

Thursday is the date set for La Jolla's annual fiesta, which this year is to be Indian in theme and will be staged on the grounds of Bishop School. The entertainment is sponsored by the Social Service League. Already committees are arranging decorated booths, including a book shop and flower, soft drink and candy and cigarette stands. Dancing horses will be exhibited by Mr. Willoughby of Rancho Santa Fe, and a taxi dance will be given outdoors throughout the evening. A barbecue supper will be served.

To Return Next Week From East.

Mrs. Michael Shapiro, 4605 Lindell boulevard, and her daughter, Miss Rose, will return next week from a trip to New York. Later this month Miss Shapiro and her sister, Mrs. Sam Goodman, 6218 Northwood avenue, wil leave for Los Angeles.

Mary Ann Miller and M. E. Sheets, Jr., to Wed

THE engagement of Miss Mary Ann Miller, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Dan Tucker Miller, 6242 Alamo avenue, and Martin Edrington Sheets Jr., was announced yesterday at a luncheon given by Miss Miller's mother in a private dining room at the Missouri Athletic Association.

The 16 guests found the announcement in small white wishing wells marking their places at the luncheon table. To the rope of each well was suspended a heart on which was written the names of the prospective bride and her fiance. The centerpiece was of white gladioluses, white asters and pink roses. Bridge was played during the afternoon.

Miss Miller is a graduate of Mary Institute and Washington University, where she became a member of Delta Gamma, social sorority, and Phi Sigma Iota, honorary romance language organization.

Mr. Sheets is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Martin Edrington Sheets of 961 South Skinker boulevard. He received his Bachelor of Arts degree at Westminster College and his law degree from Washington University Law School. He is a member of Kappa Alpha and Phi Alpha Delta fraternities.

The wedding date will be announced later.

were entertained at a series of luncheons, dinners and cocktail parties, both at the Dunes Club and in the various villas at the resort.

Parties began Monday night with a dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Werner. Tuesday, Mrs. Edward A. Magnus, who, with her family, is occupying a cottage this season on the Dunes Club estate, gave a luncheon at the club for Mr. and Mrs. Maloy. Their guests included Mr. and Mrs. Werner, Mrs. Frederick C. Orthwein and the hostess' daughter, Mrs. Busch Magnus, all of St. Louis; J. Banigan Sullivan of Providence, R. I., who summers here and visits with his sister, Mrs. Robert J. B. Sullivan, frequently in St. Louis; Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Holding Jr., Mrs. George F. Naphen and Robert O. Read.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Thatcher gave a cocktail party for Mr. and Mrs. Maloy Tuesday afternoon at Chaslena, preceding a dinner at which Mr. Sullivan was host at Carrickadooey, his home on Ocean road. Wednesday, Mr. and Mrs. Craig Biddle of Philadelphia complimented the visitors at a large cocktail party at the Biddle home, Rocky Brook Farm, and in the evening Mrs. Orthwein gave a dinner. She is occupying Domanna, the summer residence of Mrs. Anna Heifetz, mother of Jascha Heifetz, noted violinist.

Mrs. Robert J. B. Sullivan gave a luncheon party for Mr. and Mrs. Maloy Thursday at the Dunes Club, and later the same afternoon, Mrs. Adolphus Busch III entertained friends for cocktails at Overcliffe, which she and Mr. Busch have for the summer. The series ended Thursday night with a dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Holding Jr., at Ivy Tower on Earls Court, with a large group of the summer colony in attendance.

Balfour S. Craib, who is spending the season at the Dunes, gave a luncheon there recently for Mr. and Mrs. Werner and Mrs. Magnus of St. Louis and Mrs. Shaw-Kennedy Coleman of New York and her daughter, Mrs. Tel C. Schreiber,

Cape Cod Resorters Find Variety Of Interests During Mid-Season

Miss Lilly Claire Faust, with Miss Brooke Conley of Baltimore, spent last week-end aboard the Plants' "Lili Ana" cruising in Vineyard Sound. They put in at Cuttyhunk, one of the Elizabeth Islands, Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Dwight Rudd of Boston entertained the Junior Assembly Wednesday evening. Given twice each month, these 8-to-11-o'clock dances for the younger set are preceded by dinner parties.

Tomorrow evening, the Stradivarius Quartet of New York will give a program of chamber music in Falmouth, the first of a series to which many at Woods Hole have subscribed. The name of the quartet is derived from the collection of famous instruments used by its personnel. They are the "Titian" Stradivarius. dated 1715; the "Spanish" violin, formerly in possession of the Governor-General of Cadiz; the "Lord MacDonald" viola; and the "Servais Guarnerius" cello, now a part of the Wurlitzer collection.

Martha's Vineyard, Mass.

The Island of Martha's Vineyard, a few miles off shore from Woods Hole and the lower shore of Cape Cod has been the summer home for many seasons of the family of Mrs. Thomas H. Garrett. Mrs. Garrett is spending the summer at Longwood, her estate in Edgartown, and has with her John W. Garrett, who will spend the summer with his mother. Mrs. C. E. G. Tuthill of Evanston, Ill., a daughter of Mrs. Garrett, is in her cottage for the season.

Mrs. Rensselaer Lee, also of Evanston, is domiciled near her mother, Mrs. Garrett. Mr. Lee is at present abroad. In February, they will take up residence in Princeton, N. J., for a year. Mr. Lee will be doing research in the Institute of Advanced Learning, connected with Princeton University.

Mrs. Robert Perkins Brown of Providence, R. I., a third daughter of Mrs. Garrett, is occupying her estate at Edgartown again this season. Interested in yacht races, she is sailing "Stella," which has won many races in the past. The Edgartown Regatta takes place next week-end. The New York Yacht Club will be at Vineyard Haven on the island this season instead of at Edgartown, where it was last year.

Katherine Cornell is now at her home overlooking the surf on Martha's Vineyard beach. Nearby is James Cagney, the movie star, who is farming. Other celebrities here include Denys Wortman, the cartoonist, and Patricia Collinge, actress-essayist.

"The Reluctant Dragon," a comic fantasy for children, was presented by the Theater Workshop of the Phidelah Rice School of the Spoken Word at Wednesday and Thursday matinee performances at the Rice Playhouse here.

The story, suggested from Kenneth Grahme's famous book, "Dream Days," was awarded the $500 prize by the Junior League and the Bookshop for Boys and Girls of Boston. The theme is taken from the time of the Druids in England.

Nantucket, Mass.

Rambler roses are blooming in Nantucket now and many visitors have been here during the week to see the blossoms. Thursday, at the annual flower show, cultivated flowers, wild flowers, native plants and flowering shrubs were displayed.

Many colonists at Nantucket attend the gay Friday night dinner dances at the Sankaty Golf Club. The Sunday evening concerts, under the direction of Count Henri de Tiberge, at the Gordon Folger Hotel, have become a major attraction.

Yesterday the first Friendly Afternoon with Old Nantucket was held in the Old Quaker Meeting House on Fair street. Eduard A. Stackpole, Nantucket author and historian, who was recently elected president of the Nantucket Historical Association, discussed "Adventures With the Whalemen."

Among the St. Louisans at the Gordon Folger are Mr. and Mrs. John Felix Valle, Mrs. Harvey G. Mudd and Firmin Desloge Jr.

Miss Eugenie Evans entertained F. Newell Childs of New York last week-end at the summer home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gwynne Evans. The Evans family gave a barn party in the play house on their estate for the guest. Also there for the week-end was Theodore Hess, son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Evans.

Yarmouthport, Mass.

Among the recent arrivals at the guest house of Miss Edith Souther and Miss Mildred McCluney at the Anchorage here are three St. Louisans: Miss Mary Alexander, Miss Sallie Player and Mrs. Edward G. Cherbonnier. Samuel McCluney Jr. spent a few days recently with his aunt, Miss Mildred McCluney.

Celebrities from the Dennis Playhouse are frequent visitors at the Anchorage for lunch. Miss Jane Cowl starring in "The Road to Rome," lunched here a few days ago and for dinner several nights ago was Miss Mary Brian.

Mrs. George Cutler of Boston, formerly Miss Jessie Wright of St. Louis, dined here recently en route to the Playhouse. Mrs. William Caleb Sipple lunched on the terrace with a party of friends one day this week.

Provincetown, Mass.

Provincetown artists have adopted again the policy of receiving friends and visitors at their studios during working hours. William Boogar, well-known sculptor, fostered the idea, and was helped in its promotion by Mrs. Marion Hawthorne, Richard Miller and George Elmer Brown.

Another renewal this week is the Cape Cod annual Art Exhibition which will take place after a four-year lapse. The Art Association, which opened Monday, has an interesting exhibition.

Dennis, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Cevedra D. Blake with their sons, Leonard and Oliver, are guests at the Shutters here. Mrs. Harmon Green and her daughters, Miss Charlotte and Miss Anne, arrived Monday to spend the summer.

Centerville, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Ewing Glasgow, who have a summer cottage at Cumaquid, across the Cape, entertained recently at the Beach Club for Miss Virginia Chauvenet of New York, daughter of Hempel Chauvenet of St. Louis. While playing at the Dennis Playhouse the past two weeks, Miss Chauvenet was the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Jacques Leclercq of New York. The latter is the former Miss Edith Whittemore of St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. David B. White, with their daughters, Miss Grace and Miss Suzanne, were seen this week at the Beach Club. They are staying at the Oyster Harbor Club. Miss Suzanne will be a debutante this fall.

Cotuit, Mass.

Miss Ida and Miss Marguerite Mellier, with their sister, Mrs. Robert M. Roloson of Chicago are spending this week-end visiting friends in Walpole, N. H. Their brother, Duncan Mellier, is with them at their summer place, "Evergreen," at Cotuit. The four of them were in Osterville for the marriage of Mrs. Roloson's son, Richard Mellier Burnes, and Miss Ruth Carney, 10 days ago.

Osterville, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar L. Biebinger have been joined at their summer place here by their daughter, Mrs. Thomas Parkhurst of Westfield, N. J. Another daughter, Mrs. Edward E. Morris of Rochester, N. Y., is also here. The Biebinger's son-in-law and daughter from Detroit, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Ustick, plan a visit later.

Former St. Louisan to Wed in Denmark

MRS. HEINZ WARNEKE of New York and East Haddam, Conn., announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Delight Dawson Hall, and Tyge Ernst Rothe of Copenhagen, Denmark. Miss Hall and her family are former St. Louisans. She attended John Burroughs School here, and has since traveled extensively and studied in Europe and at Columbia University in New York. Her father is Edward Hall, former vice-president of the Ralston Purina Co., and former president of the Advertising Association and the Better Business Bureau. He is now director of the Universal School of Handicrafts in Rockefeller Center, New York.

Mr. Rothe, member of an old family in Denmark, is head of an importing and exporting firm, and has many connections in Central and South America.

The wedding will take place in Copenhagen next month. Mr. and Mrs. Warneke and Miss Priscilla Alden Hall, sister of the bride-elect, will accompany her to Denmark for the ceremony. After the wedding, Mr. Rothe and his bride will make an extended tour of Europe, returning to Copenhagen to live.

Marion Noyes Engaged

MR. AND MRS. GALEN C. NOYES of Stonington, Me., formerly of Providence, R. I., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Marion E. Noyes, and Wilfred T. Couch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred A. Couch of St. Petersburg, Sunset, Me., formerly of Melrose, Mass.

Mr. Couch is a graduate of Principia Upper School in St. Louis, and the Principia Junior College at Elsah, Ill. He is now a senior at the University of Florida at Gainsville.

The wedding will take place at Stonington on Aug. 22. After a honeymoon trip, the couple will make their home at Gainsville for the following year.

Arrive Here From Memphis, Tenn.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Gruber of Memphis, Tenn., arrived last week to visit Mrs. Gruber's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Kunkel, 3616 South Jefferson avenue. Many informal parties are planned in their honor.

Northern Michigan Draws St. Louisans; Season Advances

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

Douglas, Mich., July 23.

WITH mid-summer finding most of the Douglas cottages open for the season, this resort is filled with visitors, many of them St. Louisans, while their hosts and hostesses are busy giving parties for them.

Last Wednesday afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph White entertained for their house guests, Mr. and Mrs. Ray E. White of St. Louis, who will be at Douglas a week. Guests included Mrs. Walter B. Muckerman, Mrs. Edward Muckerman, Mrs. J. Edgar Moser, Mrs. Stanley Moon, Earl Joseph Moon, Mr. and Mrs. J. Lindsay Franciscus, Dr. and Mrs. G. V. Stryker, Miss Phoebe Lee, Mrs. Louis Desloge and Mrs. William Walsh.

Mr. and Mrs. Moon were host and hostess to several friends last Saturday afternon, July 16, at a cocktail party for Mr. Moon's brother, Earl Joseph Moon, who arrived for a week's visit. Among the guests were Mrs. Walter Muckerman, Mrs. Edward Muckerman, Mrs. William K. Holland, Mrs. Carlos Reese, Mrs. Martin Engman, Mrs. Paul Fusz Ring, Dr. and Mrs. Vincent Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Franciscus, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph White, Mrs. Moser, Mrs. Stryker, Mrs. Desloge and Miss Lee. Mr. Earl Moon has returned to St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. Moser entertained at cocktails yesterday afternoon, and Mr. and Mrs. Desloge have asked friends to drop in for cocktails this afternoon. Mr. Desloge arrived yesterday to spend the week-end with his family.

Dr. and Mrs. Stryker are entertaining friends at cocktails this afternoon. Among those invited are Mrs. Moon, Mrs. Reese, Mr. and Mrs. Franciscus, Mrs. Walter and Mrs. Edward Muckerman, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph White and Mr. and Mrs. Ray White, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Griesedieck, Dr. and Mrs. Jones, Mrs. William Irvine of Denver, mother of the hostess, and Ralph Irvine of Detroit, her brother. Mrs. Irvine will remain for the summer.

Mrs. Walter Muckerman entertained at luncheon Wednesday Mrs. W. H. Arnold of Macatawa, her children, Betty, Emily and Howard, and Mrs. Holland. Mr. Muckerman has returned to St. Louis after spending several days with his family.

St. Louis guests were among those entertained at an informal supper last Sunday night given by Mrs. G. S. Maddox and her daughter, Miss Madge. They included Mr. and Mrs. George Logan, Mrs. Desloge, and Mrs. Hugh Fullerton. Tuesday night Mrs. Maddox entertained Mrs. Sam Gordon, her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Jack Gordon, and Mrs. James Dawson at dinner.

A number of the younger group gathered last Monday night and drove to Holland, Mich., for a dutch treat theater party. Among them were Miss Rose Mary and Miss Patricia Walsh, Miss Edith Dorr, Miss Amy and Miss Mary Frances Knoedelseder, Miss Libby Moser, Miss June and Miss Mary Elizabeth Wynne, Miss Jane Clara Porter, Miss Mary Jane Krueger, Miss Mary Louise Newman and Miss Mary Franciscus.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johnston will be host and hostess to a few friends at their cottage this morning. Guests are invited for 11:30 o'clock.

The Bowlin cottage was opened early in the season, when Mrs. L. A. Bowlin, arrived with her daughter, Mrs. Charles B. Knoedelseder, Mr. Knoedelseder, and their children, William, Mary Frances, Amy and Charles. Also with Mrs. Bowlin are her granddaughters, Miss Edith Dorr, Mrs. Robert M. Powell and the latter's son, Robert III.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard S. Bull and their children, Katherine and Dick, arrived last Friday to be at Trumble's. Mr. Bull will return to St. Louis tomorrow but his family remain a week.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Switzer, are now entertaining at their cottage, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Switzer and Mr. and Mrs. John Bardenheier.

Another recent arrival is Mrs. Thomas Donovan of Norfolk, Va., who with her young son, Tommy, arrived last Wednesday and is stopping at the Rosemont. After the first of next month, Mrs. Donovan, a former St. Louisan, and her son will occupy Oried Lodge.

Lawrence O'Neil motored from St. Louis yesterday to spend this week-end with his family here. Also recently arriving are George D. Chopin and W. C. Lindsley, who are staying at the Golf Club. Dr. and Mrs. R. C. McElvain are also stopping at the club. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Caveney arrived last week to be guests of Edward O'Neil. Roscoe Anderson spent the past week-end here with his family. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur M. Macheca, 5923 Waterman avenue, drove to Douglas last Saturday, July 16, and are staying at Mrs. George Hellmuth's cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. William Carroll Connett IV spent last Tuesday at the Rosemont. They stopped in Douglas en route to St. Louis, where they were motoring from Charlevoix. Mrs. Connett is the former Miss Josephine Fusz.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ring have left for Wequetonsing, where they will visit Mr. and Mrs. J. Reynolds Medart. Also departing last week was Miss Mary Thomas of Kirkwood, who had been spending several weeks with Miss Mary Louise Baker at the Baker cottage on the lake front. C. C. Weber and Arch E. De Bow, who were guests at the Lake Shore Golf Club, left for Charlevoix to join Jerome J. Schotten. Walden Porter is returning to St. Louis today after spending most of this month with his family.

Mrs. James P. Gregory of Louisville, Ky., and her daughter, Mrs. Dwight Kuhns, Panama Canal Zone, have left after visiting Dr. and Mrs. M. G. Seibel.

Macatawa Park, Mich.

After several days of rain, fog and cold lake water, which discouraged all but the most enthusiastic swimmers, the sun has come out again, and Lake Michigan is again popular with bathers. Although the water is higher than last year, the beach is still wide enough for sunning, and the many impromptu baseball games.

Often seen on the beach are Mrs. Phillip L. Moss of St. Louis and her children, Mary, Phillip and John. The Moss family have taken the "Edgeruna" cottage for the summer.

A visitor this week at Macatawa is Mrs. Edward Hall, who arrived to visit Mrs. Lawrence C. Kingsland. Mrs. Christian W. Pieper, who visited Mrs. Kingsland, her mother, last week, has returned to St. Louis.

Edwin A. Schmid of Webster Groves, arrived last Saturday, July 16, for a two-week stay with his family. Mrs. Schmid and their children arrived at the resort early in the season. Accompanying Mr. Schmid was Morton Anderson, also of Webster Groves. Mrs. Schmid's sister, Mrs. N. Frederick Gay, Mr. Gay, and their children, Fred, Clifford, John and Sylvia, have taken the Oleson cottage at Saugatuck (about 10 miles from Macatawa) for two weeks. The Gays motored over last Tuesday to have luncheon and spend the day with the Schmid family. Mr. and Mrs. Schmid's daughter, Miss Edwine, departed Thursday for Dayton, O., where she will visit friends.

Fred L. Niemeyer has returned to St. Louis after visiting at the cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mullen, "The Pinegrove." Other guests last week-end were Mr. and Mrs. H. Kenneth Flint of Cincinnati, O., former St. Louisans, who visited W. H. McClung. Mr. Flint is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eliot M. Flint of St. Louis.

Mrs. O. P. Hampton has taken the "Eaugalli" cottage for the month of July. With her is her daughter, Miss Kay, and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. O. P. Hampton Jr., with her three children, Elise, Buddy and Beverly. Dr. Hampton Jr. arrived last Friday for a week's visit with his family.

Among those who annually spend several weeks each year at the Macatawa Hotel are Dean Heffernan and his brother, the Rev. George F. Heffernan. They drove up last Tuesday evening and will remain until some time in August.

Castle Park, Mich.

The Recreation Club at the Castle is again this year engaging the interests of juniors and younger children. Each morning finds various groups assembled, kindergarten for the very young, clay modeling, linoleum block printing and allied arts for an older group. Special instruction in sailing is given to junior boys and girls. Each afternoon swimming classes are held. Among the St. Louis children enrolled in various classes are Bill, Callie and Jean Costen, Barbara and Jerry Gibbins, Sally Ann Brady, Fred Abell, Robert and Jane Utiger, Mary Dean, Platte Noble and Bob Ramsey.

Last Saturday night, July 16, a dance was held at "Dance Dune," an outdoor floor overlooking the lake. A children's dance from 8 to 9 o'clock entertained not only most of the children at the park, but also their parents, who were interested spectators.

Among the latest arrivals at the Castle are Mrs. Henry L. Griesedieck Jr. and her two children. Mr. Griesedieck was with his family this past week-end, but returned to St. Louis last Monday. Mrs. James McCord Brady and her daughter, Sally Ann, motored here last Friday to stay a month at the Castle. Accompanying her were Mrs. Philip G. Abell and her son, Fred. Miss Ruth Jean Hewitt, who is summering at South Haven, spent last Monday at the Castle as guest of Mrs. Brady.

COAST GUARDS MARK 148TH ANNIVERSARY

Founding to Be Celebrated at Grand Haven, Michigan—Ojibway Monument.

The U. S. Coast Guard, oldest military service in the United States, will commemorate the 148th anniversary of its founding at Grand Haven, Mich., Aug. 3 and 4. The celebration will unite all Coast Guard divisions of the Great Lakes. There will be contests and races of all kinds among them, including capsize races, breeches buoy contests and life-saving stunts. The celebration will conclude with a Venetian Night parade when cruisers, small boats, sailboats decorated and lighted, will proceed down Grand River between red and green flares planted on the river banks.

Roads Are Indian Trails.

Many of Michigan's modern roads follow the famous Indian trails which once made Cass County a meeting place of the tribes. The old Sauk Trail, which led from Detroit west to Chicago and on to the Pacific, was the main artery leading to the early settlement of southwestern Michigan. When the first road, the Detroit-Chicago road, was put through it followed this old trail which passes through the southern part of Cass County. It is the modern U. S. 112 through Union, Adamsville and Edwardsburg to Niles.

Another important primitive highway was the Grand River Trail, which entered the county at the northeast corner and came diagonally across the Dowagiac and then on to Miles over the route which now is M40. Part of Highway 342, from Dowagiac northeast to the town hall in Wayne, is this old trail. Beyond that it is abandoned. It was the road traveled by the main State line from Kalamazoo to Niles before the railway was built.

The Fort Wayne Trail joined the Sauk Trail near Edwardsburg. The Shavehead Trail turned off from the Sauk Trail near Union and ran north and northeast into St. Joseph County. The Indian villages and their planting fields and sugar bushes were connected by trails.

One main trail started at Pokagon's Prairie, near Summerville, and ran north to Indian Lake, on to Sister Lakes region and to Paw Paw Lake beyond.

Monument to Gagnieur.

The Ojibways who once roamed Ontario and Michigan have recently taken up a collection among their people for a granite monument to mark the grave of Father William Gagnieur, who for half a century ministered to their fathers and grandfathers.

The marking of the grave of this man who was known as the "Last of the Black Robes," assures its not being lost as was that of Father Marquette, who worked in this field three centuries earlier.

WISCONSIN OFFERS INDIAN LEGENDS

Large Indian Dance Ring Found in Marinette—Aztalan Indian Mecca.

Indian and Aztec culture, supposedly, are two interests extended to those who plan Wisconsin vacations. Marinette County is rich in Indian legend and relics while the region around Rock Lake is said to derive from the Aztecs.

The region in the center of the county was called "God's Country" by the Indians and here is found the largest Indian dance ring in the State. It is here that the last Indian tribal dance was held around and under stakes covered with boughs of evergreen. Here for generations have been held the 'Eagle' dances, the friendship dances, the fish, and religious dances.

The Pemene Rapids of the Menominee River was the home of the legendary "No-Speak," a huge serpent which was roused to fury by a spoken word. As late as the early part of the present century, young Indian braves maintained complete silence while negotiating the rapids, dropping overboard a small gift which should insure their safe passage.

Near the western boundary of the county is Thunder Lake, from which emanate strange rumblings, ascribed by Indian legend, to the eternal struggle between a dragon and the Thunder Bird which the former seized, but was never able to subdue.

Indian Pyramid.

For 30 years the legend of a strange Indian pyramid in Rock Lake has persisted ever since a fisherman came home and told of striking his oar on such a structure in the lake. Recent explorations by a diver are said to have brought to light details of a truncated cone constructed smooth stones set in mortar.

A certain amount of credence is lent to this lake pyramid by the fact that an Indian monument is located on the shores of the lake. This is Aztalan, called the Indian Acropolis, which was once a great walled enclosure of 17 acres.

Within its earthworks wall Aztalan contained two great earthen pyramids, one with a top 60 feet square. One was truncated with terraced sides. This ancient remain is said to be one of the most unique and important of ancient earthworks in America. Vessels with incised, modeled and painted decorations were found. Potsherds revealed characteristics of three widely distributed peoples. Portions of human skeletons with the bones cracked for marrow, along with other kitchen refuse, showed evidence of cannibalism. According to archeologists, Aztalan was not a fortified town but a mecca and ceremonial place of great magnificence.

Aztalan is now a park but its early history is that of so many prehistoric monuments in America. Its mounds were ploughed and planted with corn. Today the casual visitor hardly suspects what lies beneath this work of a lost race.

THOUSAND ISLAND BRIDGE TO OPEN WITH PARADE

An international marine parade, in connection with the opening of the new Thousand Islands international bridge Aug. 18, has been scheduled.

Hundreds of power boats and thousands of spectators are expected for one of the greatest assemblages of cruisers and yachts in the history of the St. Lawrence River. Canadian and American boats in the Great Lakes area, on the St. Lawrence and on New York State waterways are being invited to participate in the regatta.

Craft will assemble at Clayton and cruise up the river beneath the American channel crossing of the new span. The line will circle around and return beneath the span crossing the Canadian channel.

President Roosevelt has conditionally accepted an invitation to attend the bridge-opening exercises. Others expected to be present include Lord Tweedmuir, Governor-General of Canada, and Lady Tweedsmuir, W. L. Mackenzie King, Prime Minister of Canada, and Gov. Herbert H. Lehman of New York.

Elevator to Adirondack Peak.

The elevator from the end of the new highway to the peak of Whiteface Mountain in the Adirondacks is expected to be completed in time for Independence day visitors. A tunnel which enters the granite slope 400 feet below the end of the highway pierces the stone mass on an incline for about 424 feet. The electric elevator which moves up and down the 273 foot shaft will accommodate a dozen passengers. Speed will be approximately 200 feet per minute.

Dramatic Group Gives Weekly Plays At Fish Creek, Wis.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

Fish Creek, Wis., July 23.

AGAIN this season the Peninsula Players are providing dramatic entertainment for this resort. The company is under the leadership of the young director, Richard Wylie Fisher of Chicago. John and Archibald Douglass Jr., sons of Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Gray Douglass of St. Louis, with Miss Frances Jeffery of Chicago and her house guests were among those present at a buffet supper given by the Players for 150 guests. Supper preceded the first performance, and gave patrons an opportunity to meet the cast and production staff at their lodge on the "Theater in the Garden" grounds.

In addition to the professional performers each week in the outdoor hillside theater edged with evergreens, a number of student plays will be given later in the season at the Wharf Theater. This theater has been converted from a boat house by members of the company.

Except for the arrival of Dr. and Mrs. Walter Baumgarten and their children from St. Louis earlier this month, there have been few changes in Cottage Row personnel during July. Most of the recent arrivals have been residing at the Thorp Hotel, as they have done in former years. Mr. and Mrs. Tom Murphy and Harold Maxwell came this week for the rest of the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Crawford Johnson and Mrs. Johnson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Burns, are back at the hotel for the summer, as are Mr. and Mrs. John S. Tritle.

Last Monday evening Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Goltra joined their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. E. Field Goltra Jr., all St. Louisans. Mrs. Goltra Jr.'s friends, Miss Julia Cottrell and her mother, Mrs. W. N. Cottrell of Springfield, Mo., are also here for the summer.

Mrs. Walter S. Scott of St. Louis, a Thorp guest since June, entertained at two tables of bridge on Wednesday. Additional guests joined them for refreshments served out of doors in the hotel garden.

Mrs. Hugo C. Wagner and Mrs. R. A. Keyes, former St. Louisans who now make their homes in Evanston, drove up last week-end with Henry M. Pflager of St. Louis for a short vacation on the peninsula.

Ephraim, Wis.

Mrs. J. Spencer Gould, Mrs. Henri Chomeau and their mother, Mrs. Bernard L. Tatman of Kirkwood, were among those present Wednesday night at an illustrated lecture given by Prof. Norman Fassett of the University of Wisconsin on "Wild Flowers of Door County and Their Conservation." The lecture was given by the Peninsula Arts Association and the Ridges Sanctuary, Inc. The latter organization was founded last year to preserve an area, the Ridges, along the Lake Michigan shore across the peninsula from Ephraim. This land strip has a variety of rare wild plants, peculiar to the region.

Miss Anna M. Shea of St. Louis with her niece and nephew, Miss Martha and Billy Franey, also attended the lecture. Miss Shea has leased a log cabin at Ephraim for the season and will have Miss Katherine Schilling and another niece, Miss Marion Shea of St. Louis, as guests for the next two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Wells L. Church of Clayton have their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Wells L. Church Jr., with them this season. Their daughter, Mrs. Russell Kershaw, and her children are spending six weeks at the Kirk Lodge guest house. Mr. Kershaw is here from S. Louis for part of July.

Egg Harbor, Wis.

Miss Marietta Muckerman of St. Louis has returned from Isle La Bas near Thessalon, Ontario, where she had been visiting Miss Jacqueline Shields, daughter of William Shields of St. Louis. Miss Muckerman's mother, Mrs. J. A. Muckerman, entertained at dinner Friday night at her summer home here in honor of Mr. and Mrs. William Frank of Lake Forest, who are spending their vacation at the Alpine Resort.

Miss Clarice Mulvey Bride of S. B. Parsons

MISS CLARICE EDWIN MULVEY, daughter of Mrs. Winifred Fort Mulvey, 1316 North Union boulevard, and Samuel B. Parsons were married Saturday morning, July 16, at 10 o'clock at Union Avenue Christian Church. The Rev. Hampton Adams, pastor, officiated. Mr. Parsons is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. L. Parsons, 1361 Burd avenue.

The bride was gowned in white satin, made en princesse, with a tulle veil falling from a Juliet cap ornamented by clusters of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Kathryn Mulvey, wearing peach lace, was her sister's only attendant. Talisman roses and blue delphinium composed her bouquet.

William Wells was best man, and ushers were John and William Parsons, brothers of the bridegroom; John M. Collins and Walter Gottlieb.

Mrs. Mulvey wore hyacinth blue marquisette and Mrs. Parsons cream lace. Each had a corsage of La France roses.

A wedding breakfast was held after the ceremony at the Coronado Hotel.

Mrs. Parsons, the daughter of the late Joseph E. Mulvey, is the granddaughter of the late Judge and Mrs. James L. Fort.

Hostess to Cousins.

Miss Kathryn Lambrechts, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E. D. Lambrechts, 5135 Page boulevard, is entertaining her cousins, Miss Patsy Walsh of Long Island, N. Y., and Miss Marie Schuebel, 3658 Juniata street. Miss Walsh will remain here the rest of the summer and return home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Walsh, in the early fall.

JEFFERSON BARRACKS

COL. JOSEPH A. ATKINS and Capt. John D. Frederick returned to the post Wednesday after spending several days on an inspection tour.

Lieutenant-Colonel G. R. Hicks has returned to Jefferson Barracks from the West Coast after several days in Portland, Ore.

Col. Morris M. Keck and Maj. Elmer G. Lindroth spent several days at the post this week. They are stationed at Sixth Corps Area headquarters in Chicago.

Reserve officers of the 341st and 344th Infantry have arrived at Jefferson Barracks for two weeks' active duty. A reception was held for them at the Golf Club last night.

Word has been received by friends on the post that a group of officers and their wives formerly stationed at Jefferson Barracks and now on duty in the Hawaiian department held a Jefferson Barracks reunion dinner at the Royal Hawaiian Hotel in Honolulu. Those present were: Col. and Mrs. C. Hartwell Bonesteel and their daughter, Miss Eleanor; Maj. and Mrs. Paul A. Brickey, Capt. and Mrs. Wayne C. Smith, Capt. and Mrs. Reginald W. Hubbell, Capt. and Mrs. Cyril E. Williams and Lieut. Thomas R. Clarken.

Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Postern, Mr. R. A. Frederick and Miss Mary Bernadine, all of Springfield, Ill., were the guests of Capt. and Mrs. John D. Frederick last week-end.

Cadet Thomas Muller, son of Capt. and Mrs. William G. Muller, and his two guests, Cadet E. O. McDonald of Clinton, Ia., and Cadet A. R. Brousseau of Baton Rouge, La., departed Thursday for Baton Rouge, where they will be the guests of Cadet Brousseau's parents for the next few weeks.

Lieut. and Mrs. John J. Neiger Jr. entertained several St. Louisans in their home last week-end. They were Miss Maurine Lyles, Miss Anna Mary Royston and Dr. Henry Mason Morfit of Baltimore, Md. The latter is the guest of Mrs. Neiger's parents, Dr. and Mrs. John Campbell Morfit, at their home in St. Louis.

Lieut. and Mrs. George B. VanZee left Friday for Ponca City, Ok., where they will remain until the first of the week. They will attend the annual Indian festival.

Friends on the post have received announcements of the marriage of Miss Helen Ruth Swift and Lieut. William B. Lewis. The marriage took place at St. Paul's Church, Pass Cristian, Miss., on June 16. Lieut. Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Lewis of Kemmerer, Wyo., graduated from the United States Military Academy at West Point in the class of 1937.

Weddings and Engagements

Tighe-Meyer

THE marriage of Miss Camille J. Meyer, daughter of Mrs. Louis M. Meyer, 1924 Clara avenue, and the late Mr. Meyer, to John Tighe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Tighe, took place Wednesday morning, July 20. The ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock at St. Edward's Church, by the Rev. J. J. Franey.

The bride was given in marriage by her mother. She wore white lace over white satin, and her bridal veil fell from a wreath of lilies of the valley. She carried white gladioli, valley lilies and tube roses. Mrs. Meyer was gowned in flowered blue chiffon and wore a gardenia corsage.

Miss Marie Getz, maid of honor, and Miss Helen Clare of Edgemont, Ill., bridesmaids, wore blue marquisette, leghorn hats, and carried peach gladioli and blue delphinium.

Edward Stratmann acted as best man, with Robert O'Hara as groomsman, and John Lavin and Lawrence Frisina as ushers.

A wedding breakfast was served at Forest Park Hotel for members of the bridal party and the two families.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. William Keller of Carlyle, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Koche Jr. of Beckmeyer, Ill., and Miss Doris Hantsche of Galveston, Tex.

Miss Tighe is a graduate of Fontbonne College and taught at Notre Dame Academy at Belleville, Ill.

Ray-Wickes

Miss Carol Wickes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Wickes, 3848 Botanical avenue, and Chester Ray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Ray of Jerseyville, Ill., were married Saturday night, July 16. The wedding took place at Maplewood Baptist Church at 8 o'clock. The Rev. H. Guy Moore performed the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of white sheer, made on princesse lines and buttoned from collar to hemline. Her tulle veil was held by a pleated ruffle, and she carried a bouquet of white daisies.

Miss Marion Waldo, maid of honor, and Miss Elizabeth Wickes, sister of the bride and bridesmaid, wore seer, in aqua and orchid, respectively, their bouffant gowns trimmed with pleated ruffles. Each carried pastel shaded daisies. Guy Curtis Berry, nephew of the bride, was ring-bearer.

Mr. Ray was attended by Lewis Wickes, the bride's brother, as best man, and Charles Berry, cousin of the bridegroom, as groomsman.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents for the immediate family and a few friends.

Bristol-Emory

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Grace Emory, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Emory, 5006 Pernod avenue, and Allan Bristol, son of Mrs. Jessie Bristol, 2722 Virginia avenue. Mr. Bristol is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Waters of Kimswick, Mo.

Seidel-Harris

The marriage of Miss Mae Harris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Harris, 5595 Page boulevard, and Jesse Seidel, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Seidel, 6255 Clemens, took place Sunday, July 10, at 4:30 o'clock at the Tpheris Israel Congregational Church. Dinner at Marcus Farm, Baldwin, Mo., for the immediate families followed the ceremony. They are making their home at 5610 Enright avenue.

Martin-Dreyer

Miss Margaret C. Dreyer and John Martin of Sikeston, Mo., were married Saturday evening, July 16. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max H. Dreyer of Festus, Mo., where Mr. Dreyer is Postmaster. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Schone.

The bride wore a white marquisette gown with a draped neckline, full shirred sleeves, a satin waistband and lace girdle studded with pearls, and a finger-tip length veil. She carried a colonial bouquet of gardenias and lilies of the valley.

The bridesmaids, Miss Garnet and Miss Pearl Dreyer, sisters of the bride, were in white embroidered organdie with square neckline, short puffed sleeves and full skirt banded with rows of pleated organdie. They wore old-fashioned oval shaped hats made of flowers. Mr. Martin has as his attendants Barclay Funk of Festus, Mo., as best man, and Walter Heisler of Sikeston, Mo., as groomsman. The ushers were Scott Dreyer, brother of the bride, and Arthur Martin.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, after which the pair departed for a short wedding trip. They are making their home in Festus.

Mrs. Martin attended the Southeast Missouri State Teachers' College in Cape Girardeau, Mo.; Harris State Teachers' College, St. Louis, Washington University and the University of Minnesota.

Robinson-Kronsberg

The engagement of Miss Florence Kronsberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Kronsberg, 8215 Flora avenue, and William G. Robinson was announced last Sunday, July 17, at a 5 o'clock tea at the Kronsberg home. Mr. Robinson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Robinson, 8211 Flora avenue.

Fishman-Kalish

Mr. and Mrs. William Kalish, 1175 Hodiamont avenue, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Minnie, and Irwin M. Fishman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Fishman, 1256 North Euclid avenue. Plans for the wedding have not been completed.

ST. CHARLES ITEMS

MISS CRYILLA FELDMANN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Feldmann of Albert, Ill., and August Litteken, son of Mrs. Katherine Litteken, 226 North Benton avenue, were married the morning of July 9 in St. Boniface Catholic Church in St. Louis. The Rev. Francis X. Reker officiated.

The bride wore blue lace formal attire with white accessories and a shoulder corsage of white flowers. The bridegroom's sister, Miss Christina Litteken, and Edward Feldmann, brother of the bride, were attendants. The bridesmaid wore a pink lace dress with white accessories and her corsage was of pink carnations.

After a wedding trip to Chicago, the pair went to Aviston, Ill., to make their home.

Miss Evelyn Grothe, daughter of Mrs. Bertha Grothe, 550 Monroe street, became the bride of Rudolf Wedmeyer in a ceremony performed by the Rev. Father Heismann, at the Holy Family Church in St. Louis Thursday, July 14. A double ring ceremony was used. The bride's sister, Miss Berniece Grothe, and Paul Feuerstein were the attendants. After the ceremony a dinner was given for the wedding party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Scott, brother-in-law and sister of the bridegroom. The newlyweds have gone to Memphis, Tenn., where they will make their home.

The marriage of Miss Beulah Keely, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Keely, 2003 North Main street, and Hal White, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. White of Pattonville, Mo., took place at the Jefferson Street Presbyterian Church Thursday, July 14. The Rev. L. B. Harmon read the marriage service. The pair left for a honeymoon trip through the San Luis Valley of Colorado. They will make their home in St. Charles.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Ola Lewis, daughter of J. H. Lewis of Venice, Ill., and Arthur Oliver Fairchild Jr. of this city, the ceremony taking place Saturday evening, July 2, at the Methodist Episcopal Church, the Rev. Ernest Jones officiating.

The bride wore a sports ensemble of blue, with white accessories. Pink gladioluses and baby's breath formed her shoulder corsage. She was attended by Miss Florence Preip, who wore a rough silk crepe dress in pink and white accessories. The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Lincoln Fairchild. Mr. and Mrs. Fairchild will live at 1620 North Third street.

Honoring Miss Celeste Rauch, who is here from Phoenix, Ariz., visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Rauch, 505 Jefferson street, Mrs. Eugene J. Canty gave a luncheon and bridge Tuesday afternoon at her home, 605 Monroe street.

Mrs. Oliver E. Denker, 712 Jefferson street, was hostess at a dinner party given in honor of Miss Rauch and for other members of the Rauch family Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. James E. Wall, 1046 Kingshighway, gave a dinner last Sunday in honor of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Emmerson and son, Harold, and Leon Palmer and son, Gregory, all of Bonne Terre, Mo.

Ladies' day was held at the St. Charles Country Club Tuesday. A handicap golf tournament was played in the morning. Informal luncheon followed and later bridge was played.

The St. Charles Garden Club held its July meeting at the home of Mrs. Emil Weil, 211 North Third street, Thursday evening. She was assisted by Mrs. George W. Tainter. Reports were made by the committees which have been inspecting children's gardens entered in the club's yearly contest. All gardens entered have been inspected and the best in each group selected for final inspection. Prizes are to be awarded in September.

Miss Kathryn Langstadt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Langstadt, 814 Clay street, has been spending the last two weeks at a resort in Manitowish, Wis. She was accompanied on her trip by Miss Jane Long and Miss Ruth Brown, both of St. Louis.

INDUSTRIAL STRIFE CONTINUES

WHILE strike and picketing violen flared up anew in three towns la week, the Senate Civil Liberties Com mittee began an investigation into "vigilante activities during the "Little Steel" strike of 193 to determine if there had been any infringe ment of civil rights.

At Newton, Iowa, 20 persons were beaten o knocked down in a 20-minute free-for-all fig Wednesday near the Maytag Company wa ing machine factory, where a strike of CIO members has been in progress since May National Guardsmen, enforcing martial la declared the previous evening, drove th fighters away from the plant. The factory which had been operated for two days with skeleton crew in a "back-to-work" movemen was ordered closed by Governor Kraschel af er the company refused to accept the report o an arbitration board staying a 10 per cent pay cut for 60 days.

In North Chicago, after 10 CIO strik leaders at the Chicago Hardware Foundry had been sentenced to jail for violation of Circuit Court anti-picketing injunction, a figh broke out Tuesday when 400 pickets and spectators ignored a police order to disperse. Si women pickets were knocked down; tear ga was fired and clubs wielded by police.

Douglas Corrigan and his "crate," the nine-year-old Curtiss-Robin monoplane in which he flew from New York to Dublin. The plane, manufactured at Lambert-St. Louis Field, is of a type no longer made.

The SENSATION of the WEEK

FOOLHARDY, bumptious, useless and illegal it may have been, but Douglas Corrigan's performance of last week sent a warm and prideful thrill throughout America. The 1938 so-what? attitude toward aviation feats melted at the news of how this young, obscure American had flown solo from New York to Dublin. Without financial backing, without advance ballyhoo, without a radio, without a passport, without even official permission, he flew his single-motor, outmoded, patched-up airplane, for which he is said to have paid $350, unerringly across the Atlantic Ocean to Ireland, making the 3150-mile hop in 28 hours, 13 minutes. It was a victory against odds, and the world applauded. The world also reflected the California flyer's Irish grin when he explained to officialdom that his landing at Dublin was "dumb luck"—he had thought he was headed for California. It appears that the unauthorized, dangerous flight in a nine-year-old plane lacking proper instruments, its door fastened shut with wire, didn't prove a thing except that Corrigan and his plane could do it—and that the machine age can not only applaud gay human daring but relish a joke on itself.

Morning in St. Louis—Evening Swim in the Pacific

MISS NINA THOMAS of Clayton decided to take a late afternoon swim in the Pacific. After an early morning breakfast, she boarded a plane for Los Angeles. She had one meal en route on the plane, landed six times before arrival, and made a quick dash by automobile to the seashore. Her day symbolizes the new world of sightseeing which unfolds for the tourist who elects that mode of transportation. Some spectacular views in natural color, scenes along Miss Thomas' route from St. Louis to Los Angeles, are reproduced on this page. For such holidays of the air-minded, the passenger plane has virtually brought the ocean beaches to the Middle West.

Nordic From Brooklyn

THEY'LL tell you in Hollywood that you can't fool Sam Goldwyn, the producer, but one little girl from Brooklyn did it so successfully that she obtained national publicity almost overnight. Well knowing that movie makers are always alert for foreign glamour girls, seeming to prefer them to the domestic species, Sigrid Gurie convinced Goldywn that she was slumming in America on vacation from theatrical duties in Oslo, Norway. She was given a chance and clicked (despite a foreign accent) in "The Adventures of Marco Polo." Later it developed that the Nordic from Norway really was a brunette from Brooklyn. And she wasn't on vacation in Hollywood, but there with the serious intention of obtaining a divorce, which came 10 days ago, from Thomas A. Stewart. She has the leading role in Walter Wanger's "Algiers."

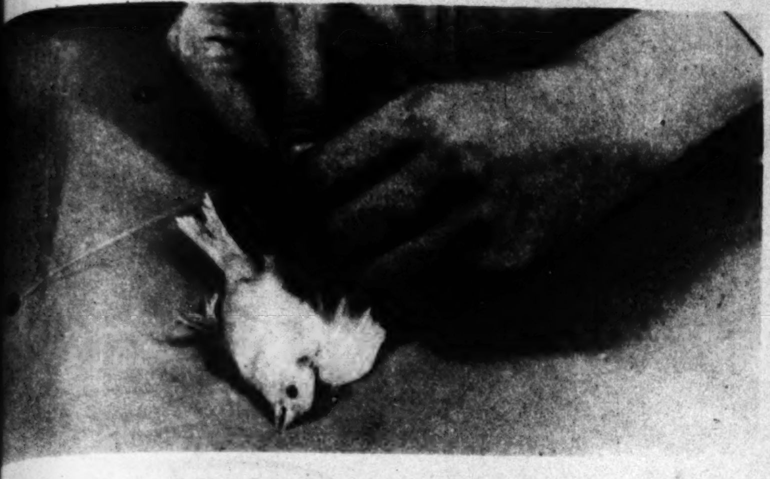
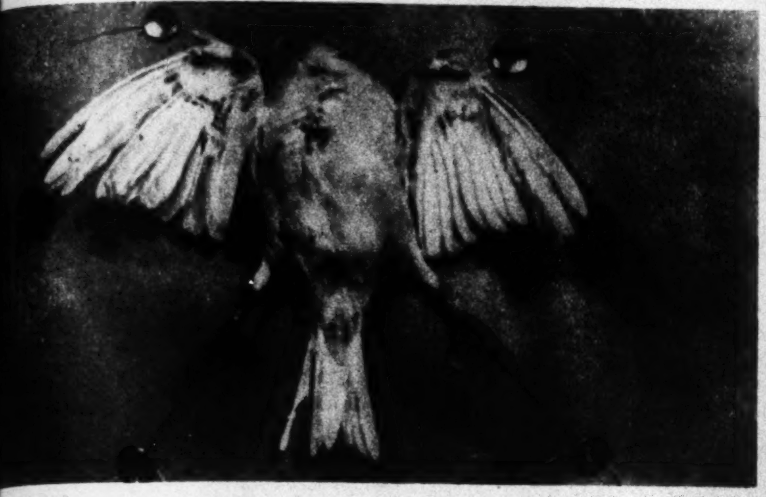
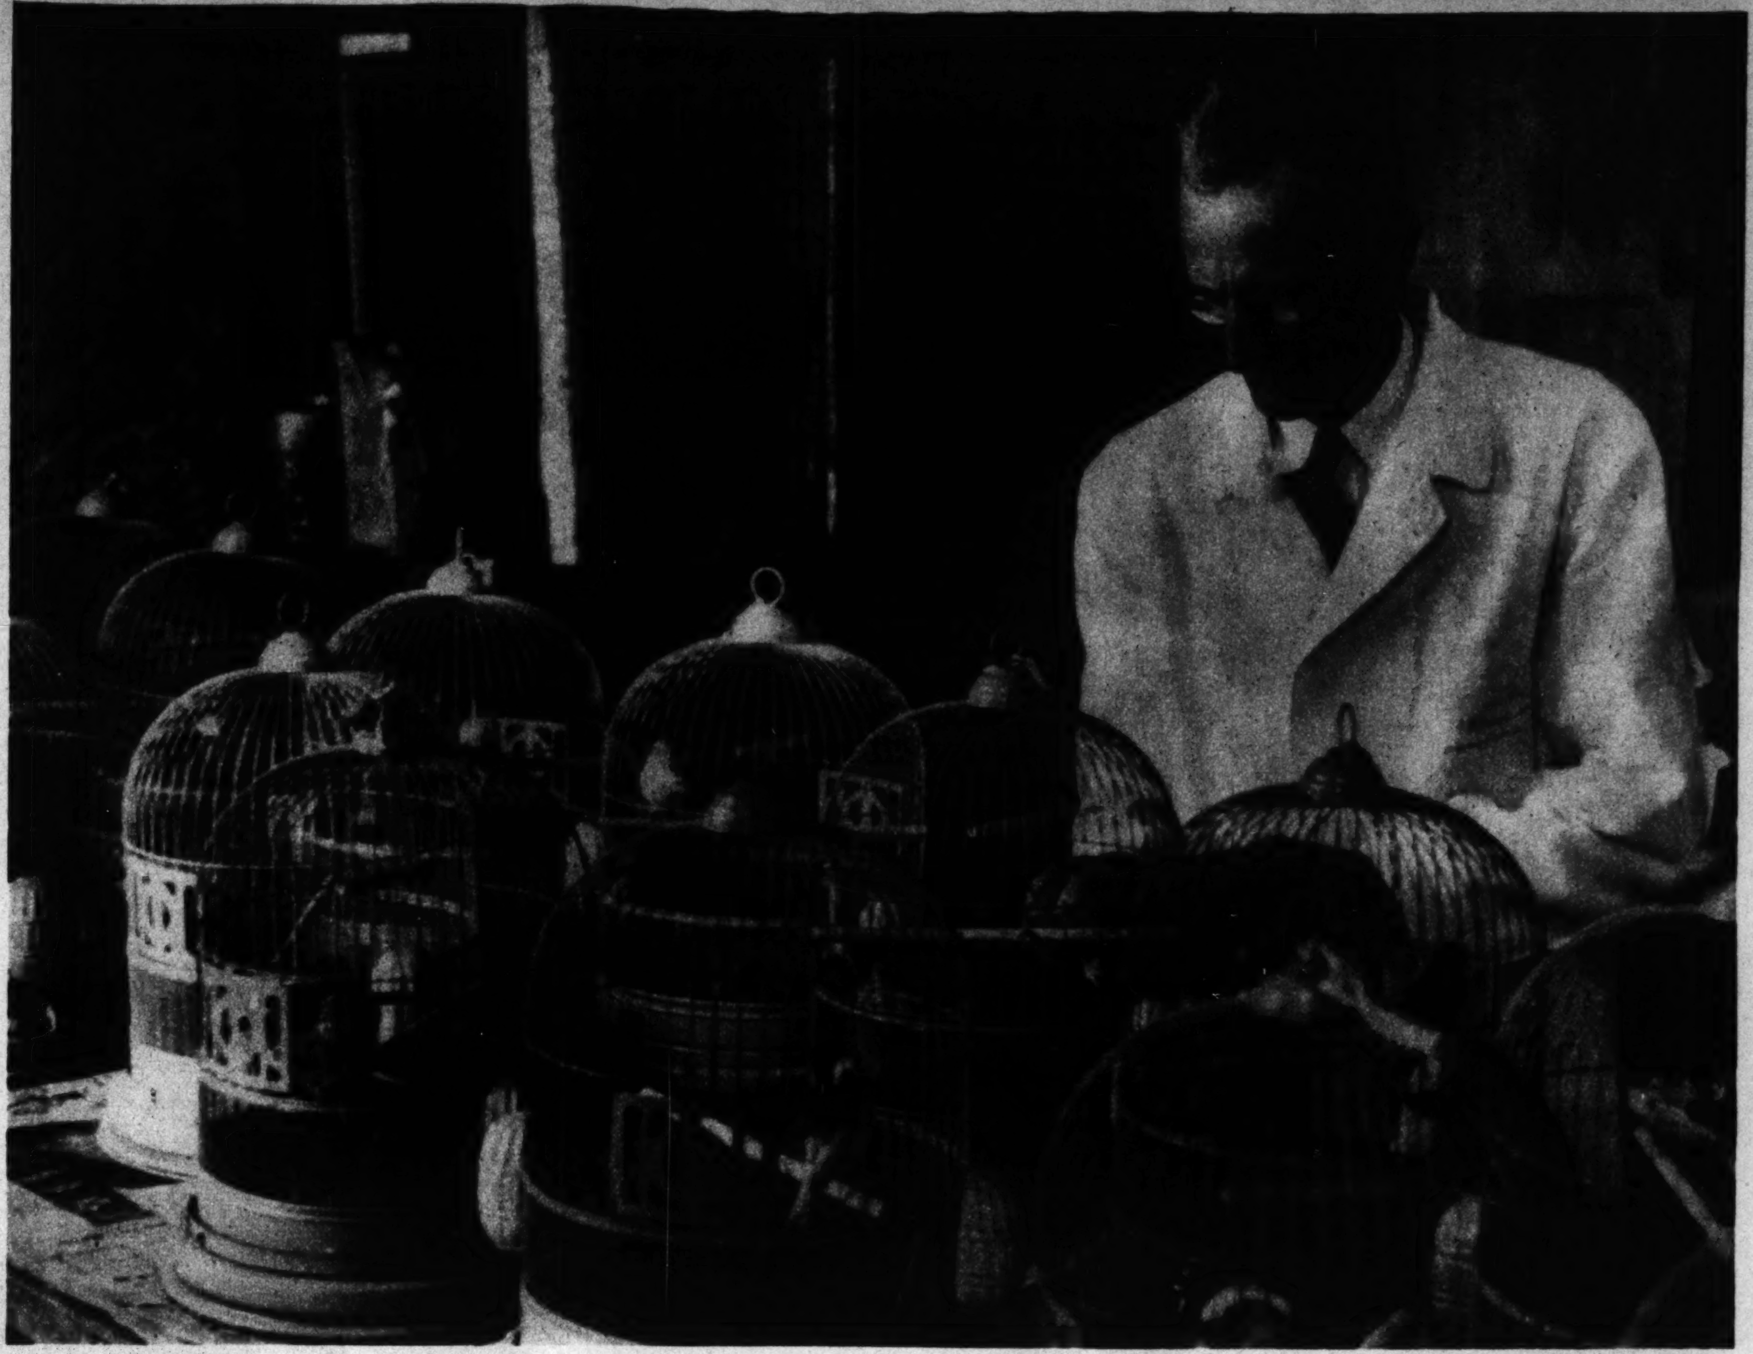
Major Operation in a Canary Hospital



1 Fluttering wildly, the patient's legs and wings are tied down with thread and four thumbtacks.



2 Feathers are taken from a spot near the center of the chest so the hypodermic may be injected.



Dr. A. J. Durant with his patients in the University of Missouri canary hospital at Columbia.

IN THE gloomy old veterinary building of the University of Missouri at Columbia, there is a room full of canaries awaiting their turn on the operating table. The surgeon, Dr. A. J. Durant, professor of veterinary science, uses the canaries as feathered guinea pigs. Many of them come from pet shops where occasionally it is difficult to diagnose illnesses. For many ailments, such as intestinal obstructions, Professor Durant operates. Virtually all patients recover.

Operations on live canaries frequently reveal much more than does an autopsy. Anesthesia is accomplished by the injection under the skin of a minute quantity of a special mixture that Dr. Durant has perfected. It takes effect within five minutes and keeps the patient unconscious for three hours—more than ample time for the surgeon to carry out the most delicate major operation. Nearly all the patients can hop about and tackle a little cuttle bone three days after the operation.

Bride of The Week

Claire Trevor, regarded generally as one of the better actresses of the films and certainly one of the busiest, will be married Wednesday in Beverly Hills to Clark Andrews of radio.

She received some of her earliest practical acting experience at the Grand Central Theater in St. Louis.

CLAIRE TREVOR, who played leading roles here with the Skouras stock company at the Grand Central Theater about eight years ago, now a featured actress in Hollywood, will be married Wednesday to Clark Andrews, radio director.

After the Skouras stock company succumbed, Miss Trevor joined the Hampton Players at fashionable Long Island resorts. As a result of that work, she signed to play opposite Ernest Truex in "Whistling in the Dark." It ran for a year on Broadway, another year on tour, which included St. Louis. Her next New York lead brought her a long-term contract with Twentieth Century-Fox. She played Francey, the gangster's girl friend, in "Dead End."

Fretful Fan Dancer

Sally Rand, Accused of Biting Photographer, Says She Only Pinched

SALLY RAND, who fanned her way to fame during the Chicago World's Fair, returned to the news the other day in a scrap with two candid camera fiends who photographed her dancing in Los Angeles.

Ray Stanford said Miss Rand tore his clothing and scratched him. Miss Hazel Drain, his companion, said she was bitten on the arm by the irate fan dancer. Miss Rand denied biting the woman but admitted a little pinching. She also grabbed the camera and exposed the film, supposedly ending the incident. But not for long. Stanford and Miss Drain announced they would file a civil suit and also sought to have Miss Rand charged with assault and malicious mischief.

It was not the first time Sally was accused of baring her teeth. Back in 1933 she walked into a Chicago police station, displayed a bruised eye and demanded the arrest of a night club manager. She said he had "clouted" her in an argument over salary. He showed tooth marks which he said were Sally's.

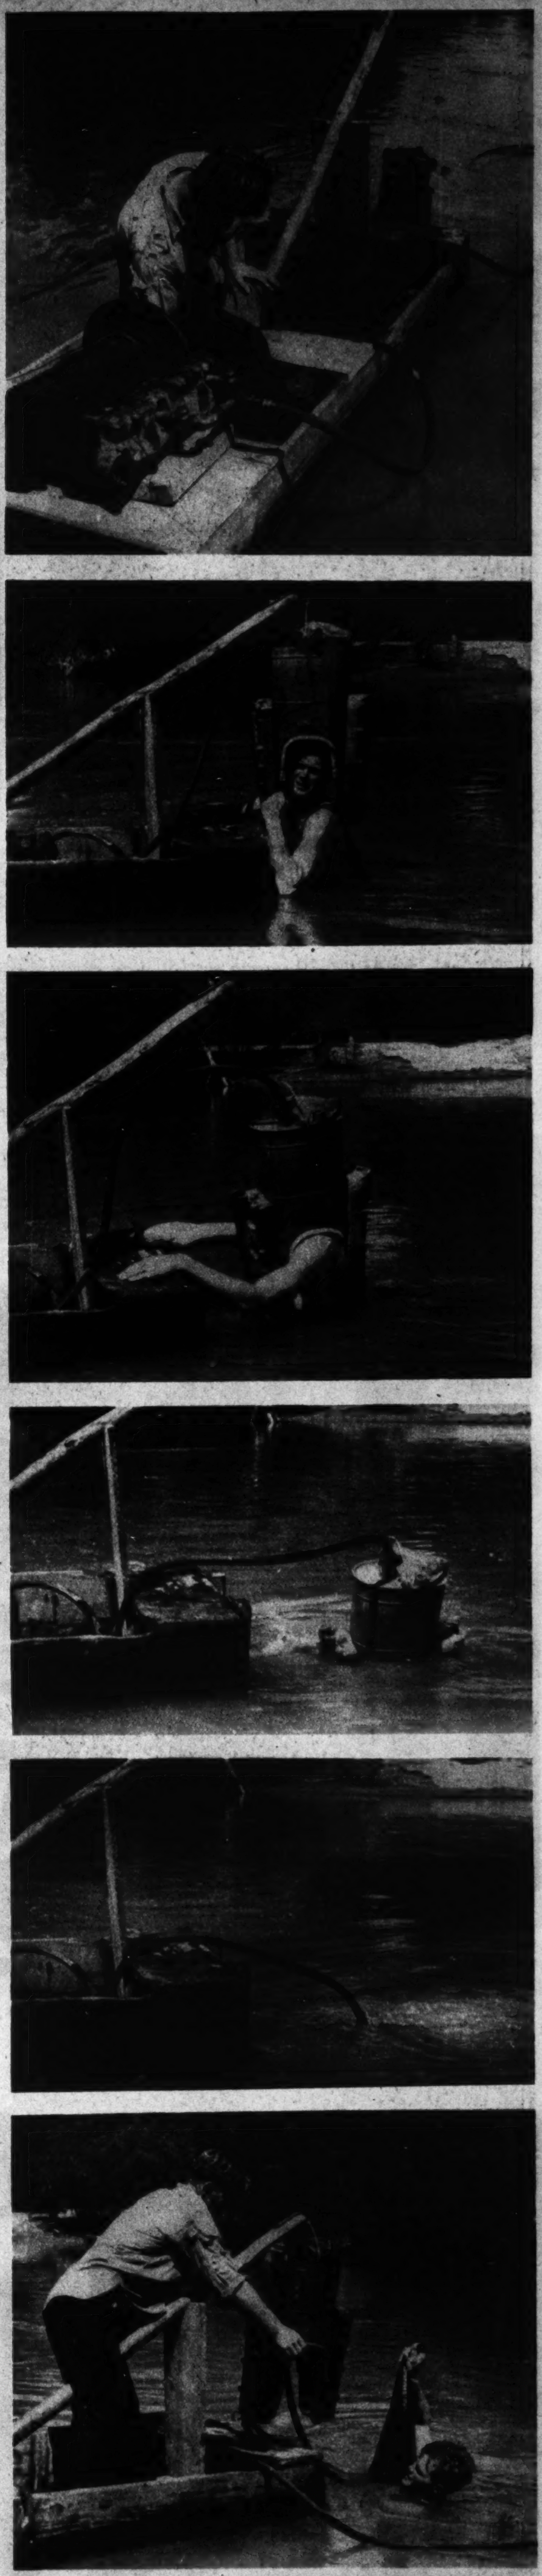
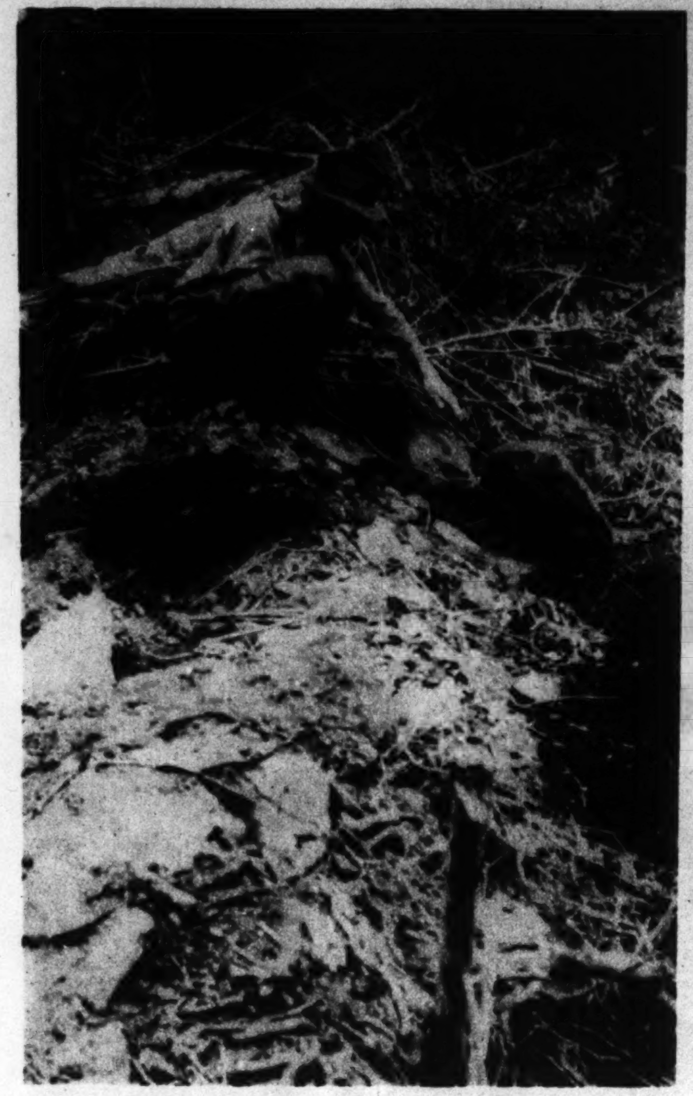
Malaria, malnutrition and hard work have left indelible marks.

But her husband, like her, doesn't complain. He has never known anything better than life in and on these muddy waters.

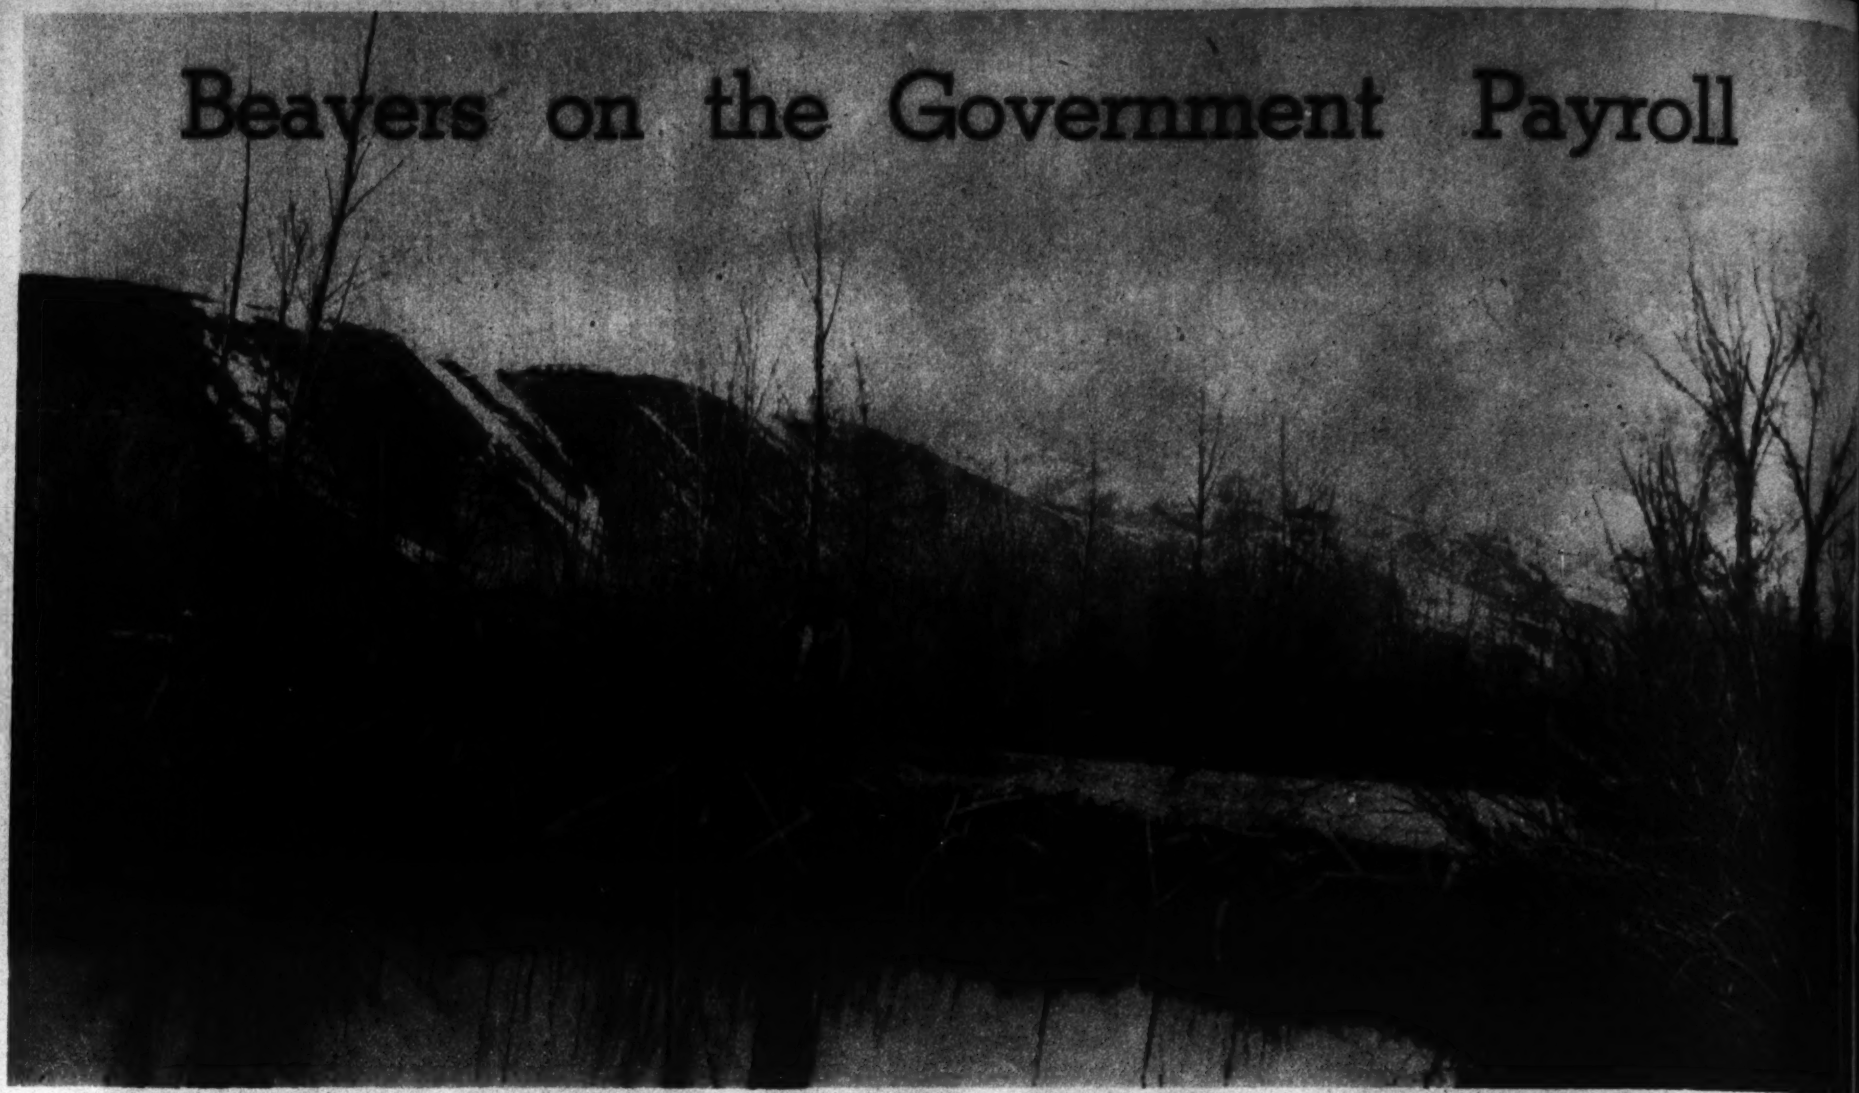


"Red" Parrish of Biggers, Arkansas, invented this crude but effective diving contraption for very deep water. He stopped up the exhaust valves of an old Model T auto engine, and made a compressor out of it. The diving helmet is an old automobile gasoline tank. While a pal turns the crank, the air pressure keeps water from rising about his neck in the helmet, and enables him to stay under water for as long as three hours. It is weighted with engine parts. He gathers the mussels in sacks, and got $3 worth the morning these pictures were taken. Several other divers have fashioned similar devices.

Beavers on the Government Payroll



Beavers off to work. Members of a crew of 600 placed in small Idaho streams to build dams for the United States Department of the Interior. They store up water for stock raising.



One of 17 dams built by beavers in one small creek in Idaho. Until the dams were built the water-course hardly afforded a single drink for a horse or cow.

NEARLY 20 years ago it was discovered with some irritation that families of beavers, driven from their homes by spring floods on the small streams of the West, found new lodging places in irrigation and drainage ditches on Federal projects and built dams which obstructed the flow of water.

First efforts to turn this activity to better account were made in 1922 when some beavers were transferred to streams in the Arrow Rock Federal irrigation project in Idaho. There they succeeded in checking runoff and erosion along three good-sized tributaries.

With the establishment of Federal range areas in 1934, heavy-furred beavers again were pressed into service for conservation work in the State. Under this program, beavers are caught in harmless traps on streams where their construction work is of no advantage and transferred to other areas. For a few days they are kept in C C C camps, with free rations of corn on the cob, apples, carrots, bread and grain, and then transported in groups of 20 to the new scene of operations. About 600 beavers are working on the Government payroll this year. Their operations will soon be extended to Oregon, Washington, Nevada, Utah and Wyoming.

HAND-FED ROBIN

A young robin fell from its nest at Rolla six weeks ago and was found by the children of Professor R. O. Jackson of the Missouri School of Mines. They kept it at home for a few nights, feeding it worms which they dug from their garden. Meanwhile the rest of the brood of young robins flew away. The Jackson children made a special pet of their bird, calling it "Susie." Now mature, the robin readily responds to its name and still feeds from the children's hands, as shown above.

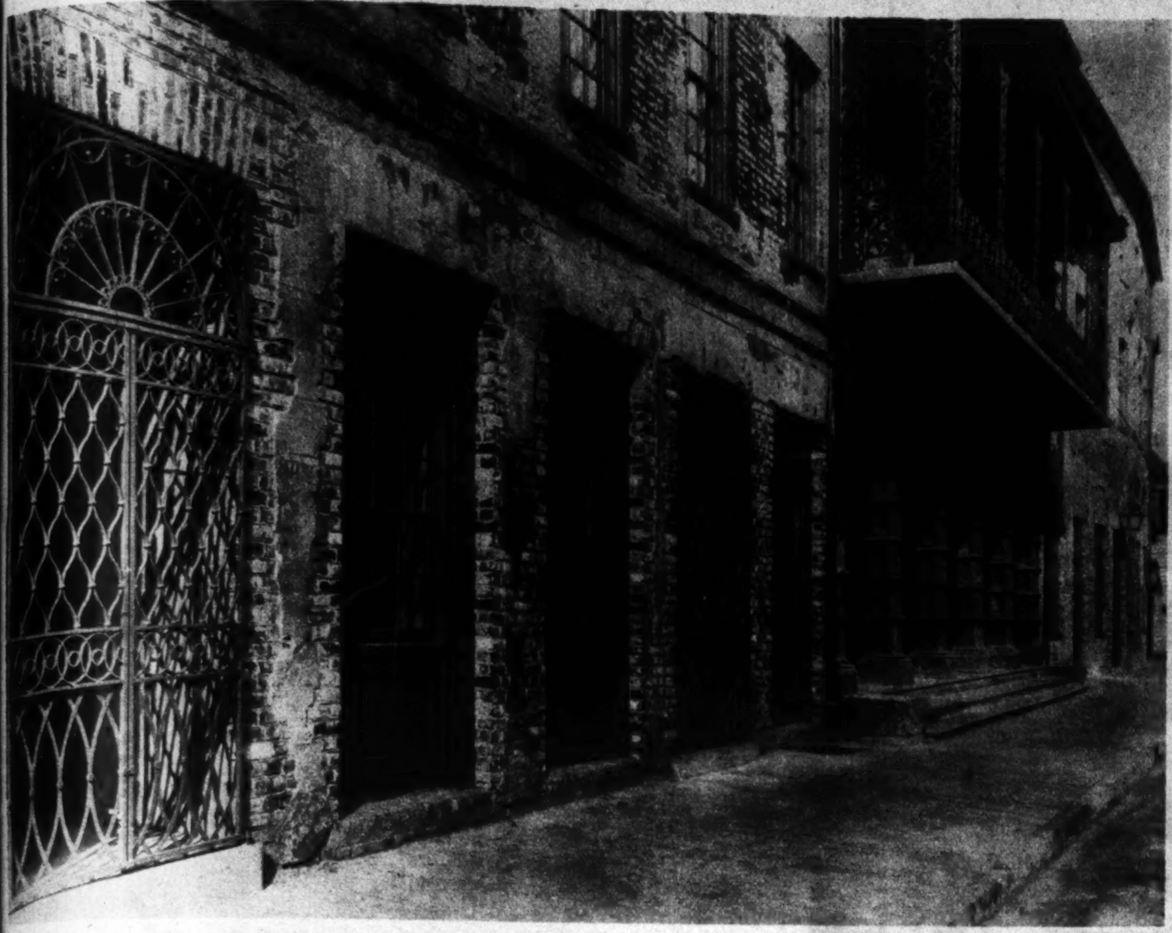
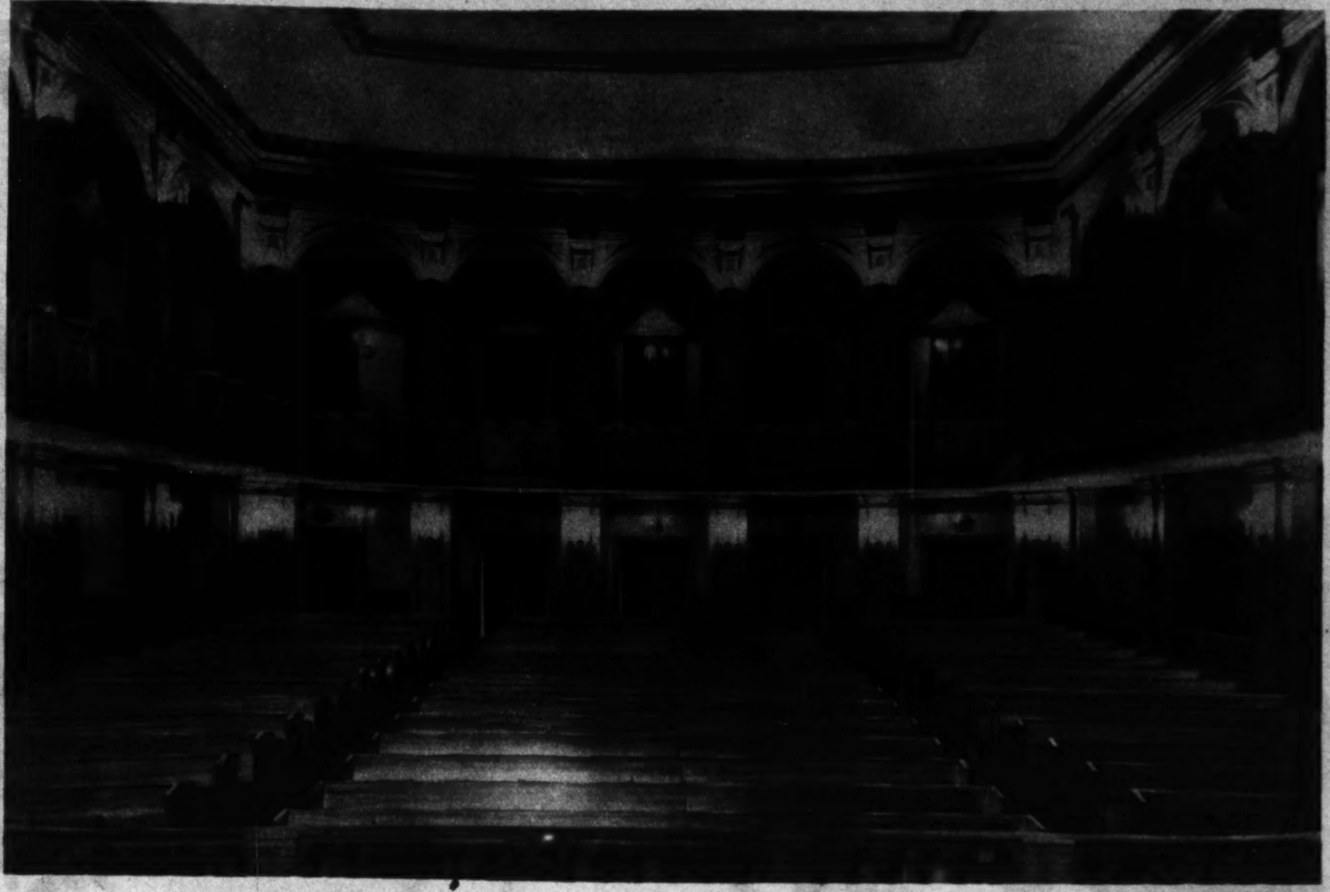
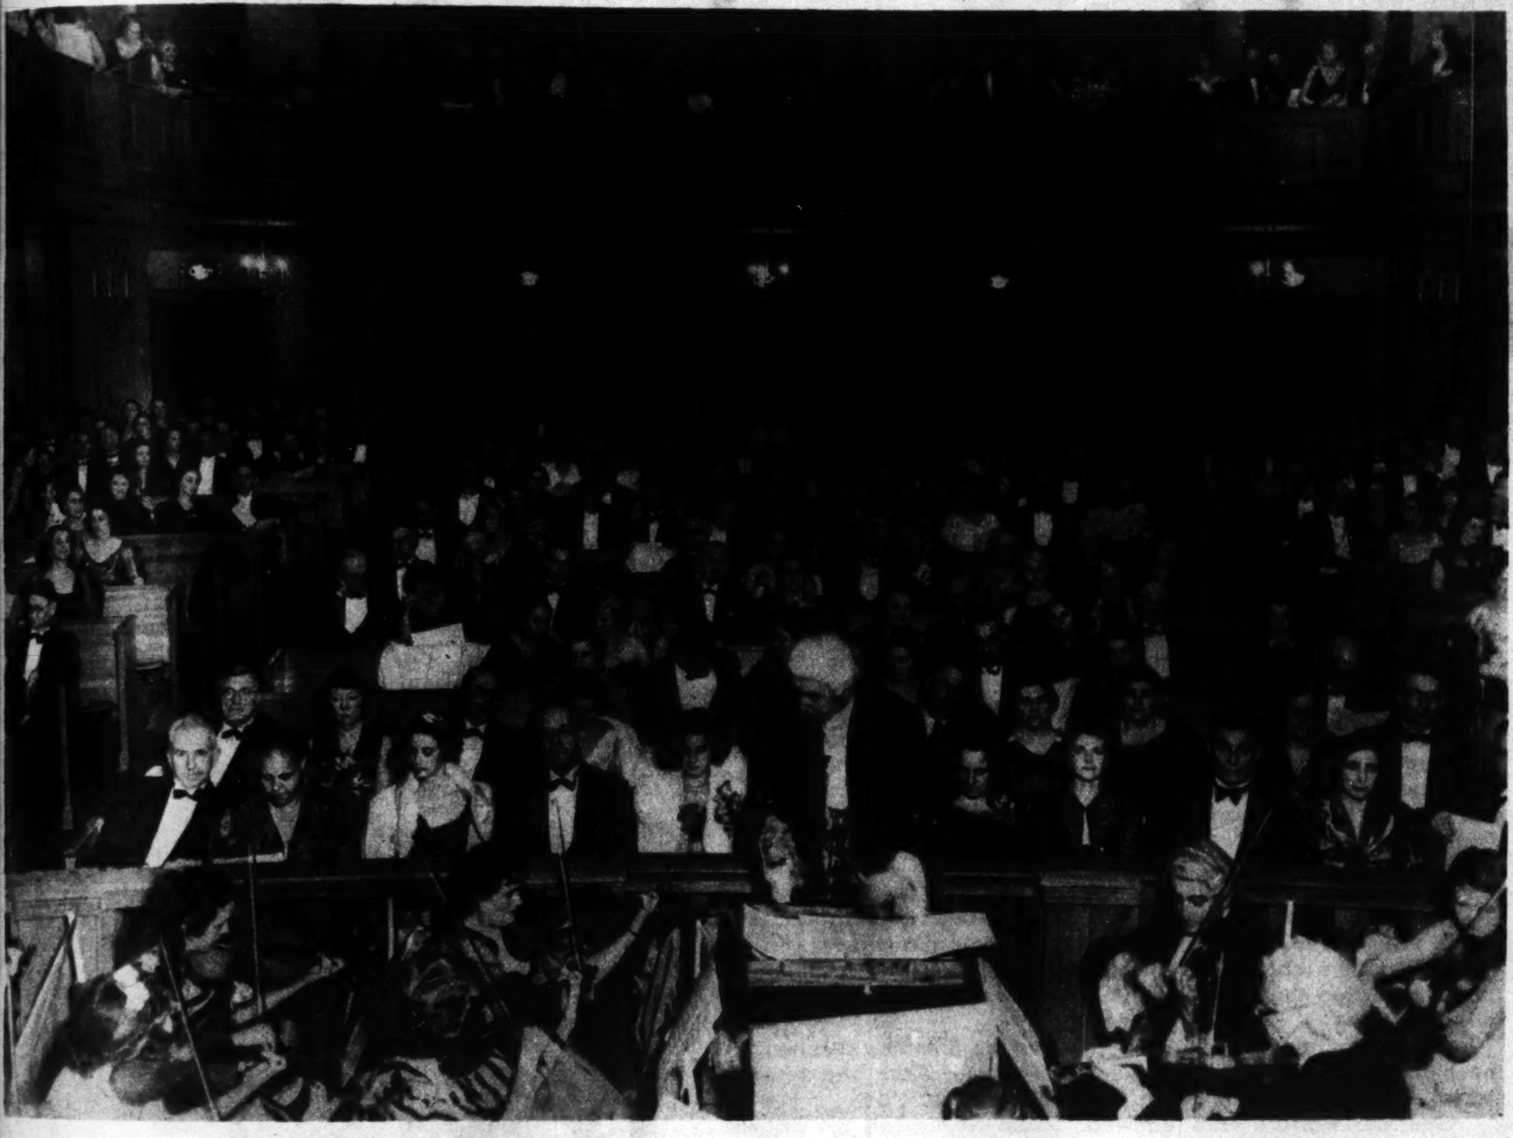
One of America's Oldest—and Newest—Theaters



Exterior of the Planters Hotel before reconstruction.



The auditorium of the theater. It is paneled in cypress. The seat bottoms are of the regular theater type as a concession to comfort, although the backs are modeled after the original benches. As in the original theater, there are 507 seats. Lighting and equipment are modern.



These members of Charleston's old families, who comprise perhaps the proudest, most exclusive and most conservative society in the United States, attended the opening last fall.

Miss Alicia Rhett, a member of a famous Charleston family, and Miss Frenchy Hagood, daughter of Major-General Johnson Hagood, U. S. A., retired, in "The Recruiting Officer." Miss Rhett was one of three Southern belles tried out for the part of Scarlett O'Hara in the movie production of "Gone With the Wind." Although she didn't get the role, she will be in the cast.

ONE of the newest theaters in the United States is in a way the oldest. The Dock Street Theater at Charleston, South Carolina, in which the Carolina Art Association and the Footlight Players plan a season this fall, is almost an exact replica, in its interior, of the original theater of the same name, built on the same site in 1736.

Destroyed several times by fire and rebuilt, the theater finally was abandoned and the Planters Hotel was constructed on the ruins in 1809. The hotel was repaired and the interior restored as the theater by the W P A for $300,000.

Last November 27, the theater was reopened with the Footlight Players, an amateur group, presenting "The Recruiting Officer," a comedy by George Farquhar, the Irish playwright, which was the first play presented in the original theater. Charlestonians claim the Dock Street Theater was the first in America but that is disputed by Williamsburg, Virginia, and other Colonial centers.

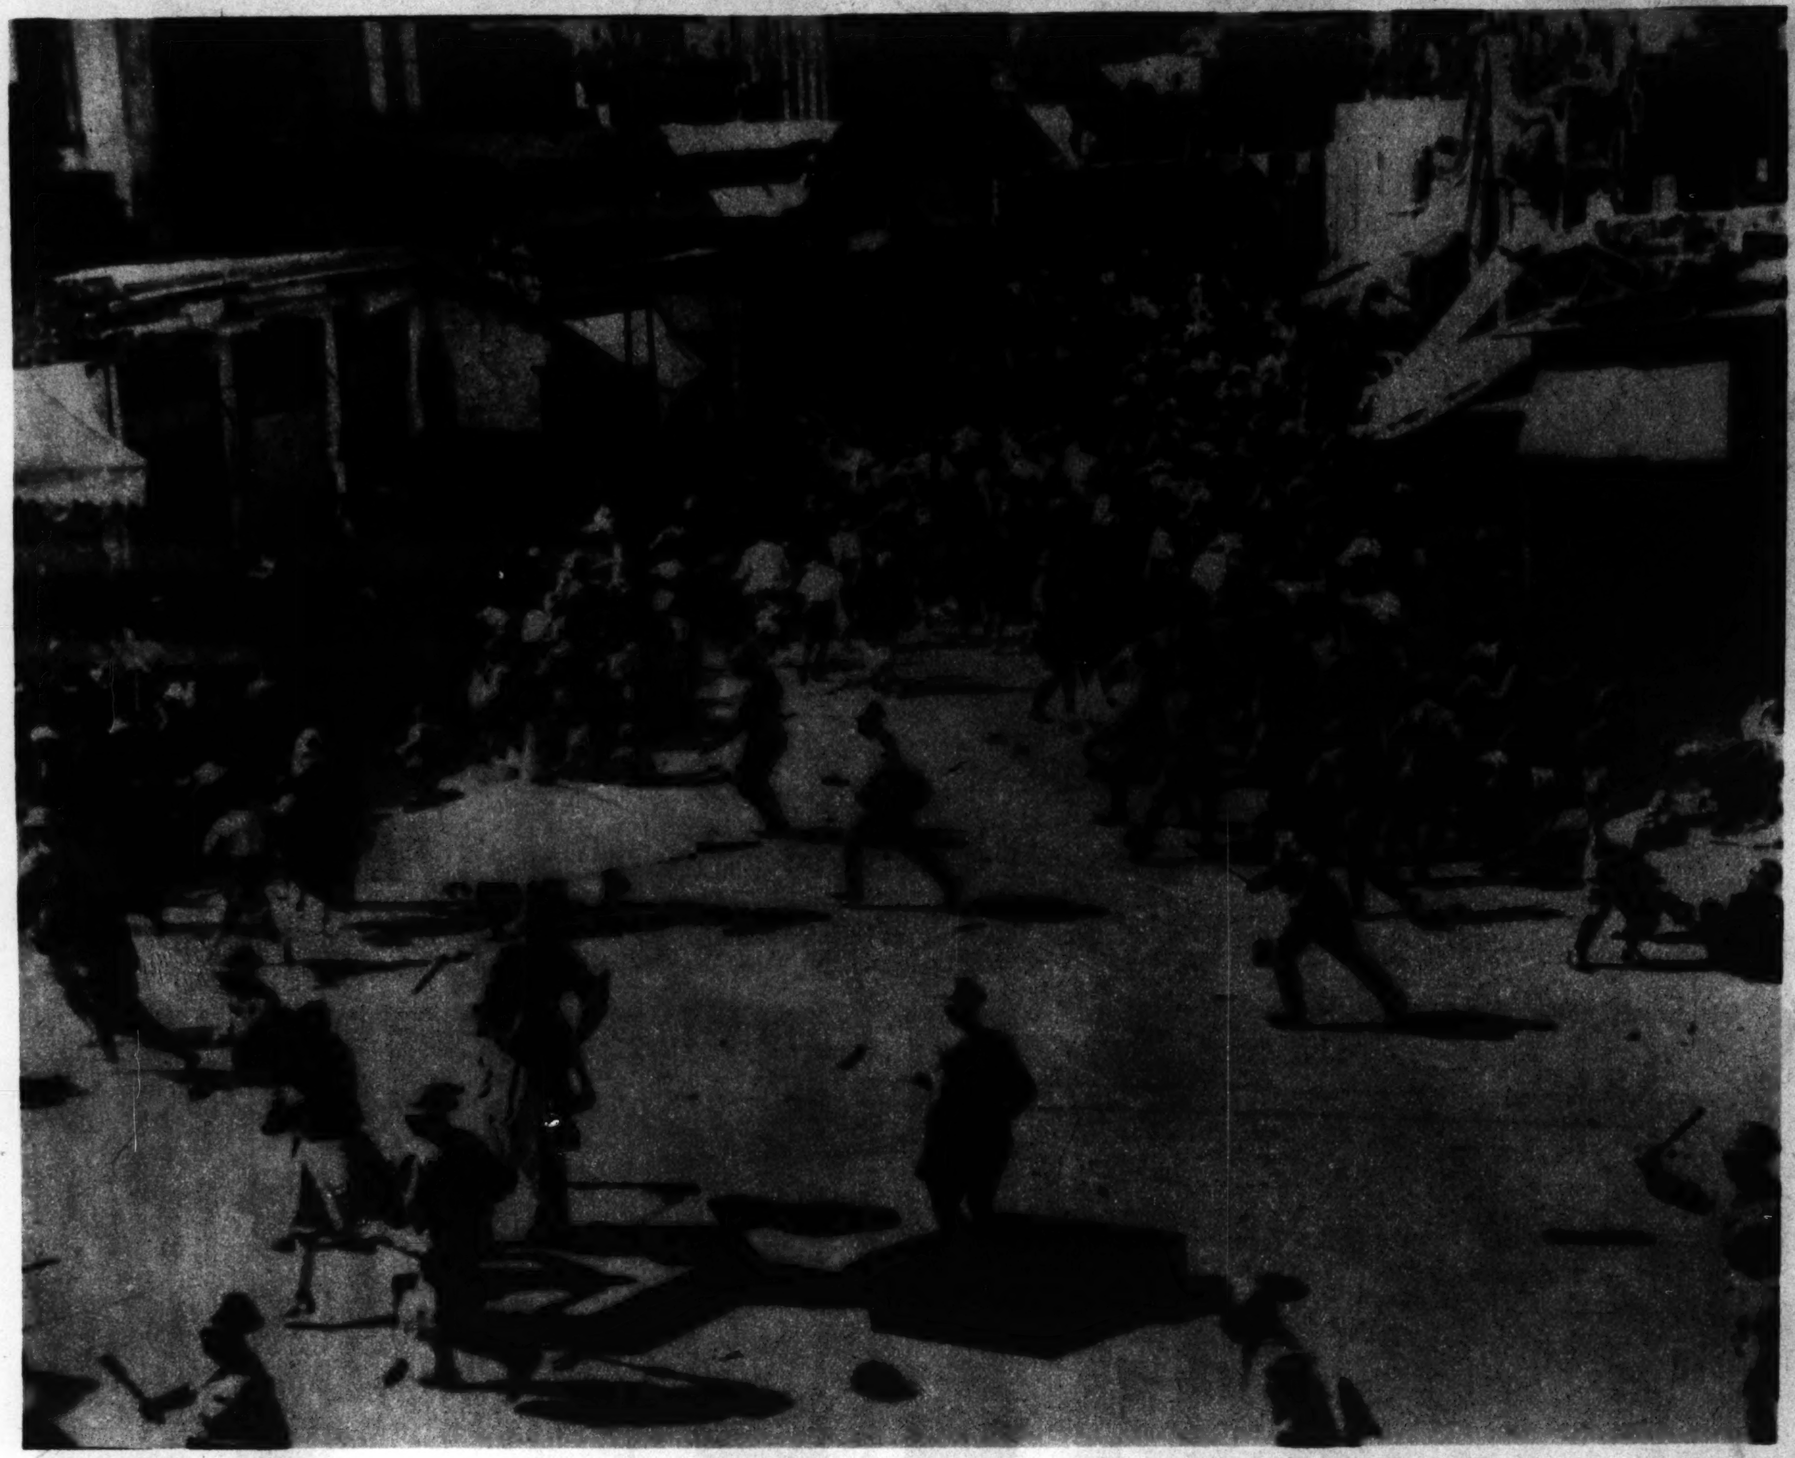
CIVIL STRIFE IN PALESTINE



With shields and riot sticks, a handful of steel-helmeted British police disperse a howling mob of Arabs that stoned and clubbed them in Jaffa.

Haj Amin el Husseini, mufti of Jerusalem and president of the Moslem Supreme Council and the Arab High Committee, who fled to Syria after British officials sought to question him on Arab terrorism.

Gun-toting farmer whose toil in the heat of a swampy plain may be interrupted at any moment by the roving Arab raiders of Northern Palestine.

STARS twinkled down on the curious vaulted cupolas and narrow winding streets of Hebron, ancient city of Palestine where lies buried the patriarch, Abraham. White-robed figures on the hillside poured crashing volleys into the barracks of the Black Watch and fled as the Tommies sent up Very lights and replied with a steady fire. In Nazareth, home of Joseph and Mary, a group of Arabs shot down the British District Commissioner of Galilee, Yelland Andrews, and his bodyguard. A bomb was thrown into a bus traveling from Tel Aviv to Jerusalem and several Jews were killed. Gunmen called out seven prominent Arabs in the village of Miska, shot them, and disappeared. A high Moslem holy man was shot to death in a crowded street in Jerusalem as he walked toward the Alags Mosque. Arabs set fire to and destroyed the wheat crops of Jewish farmers in the pioneer settlement of Beth Yosef.

Conflicting aims of Jew and Arab, inspired by contradictory British promises to the two factions during the darkest days of the World War, are partly responsible for the intermittent turbulence that first rocked the Holy Land in 1920 when the Jerusalem riots broke out.

A year ago, the latest attempt to solve the dilemma resulted in the plan to divide the Holy Land into separate Arab and Jewish states. Strong opposition arose from both groups.

Guerrilla warfare was renewed. Last November, the British High Commission decreed death for carrying or discharging firearms. One of the best known sheiks, Farhan al-Sadi, long suspected of terrorist activity, was found armed with a pistol when arrested near Nablus. Five days later he was hanged despite demonstrations. Similar demonstrations followed the hanging last June 29 at Acre of 19-year-old Benjamin Joseph, convicted of having fired shots into an Arab bus.

During the last three weeks, a wave of bloodletting as serious as any since 1920 has resulted in the death of some 70 Arabs, about 30 Jews, five British soldiers and 15 roving raiders; the wounding of some 180 Arabs and more than 100 Jews. Great Britain has sent several cruisers and substantial infantry reinforcement from nearby Egypt. Curfews have been imposed and patrols tripled. But snipings, stonings, isolated skirmishes, bombings and destruction of railroad tracks and highways continue.

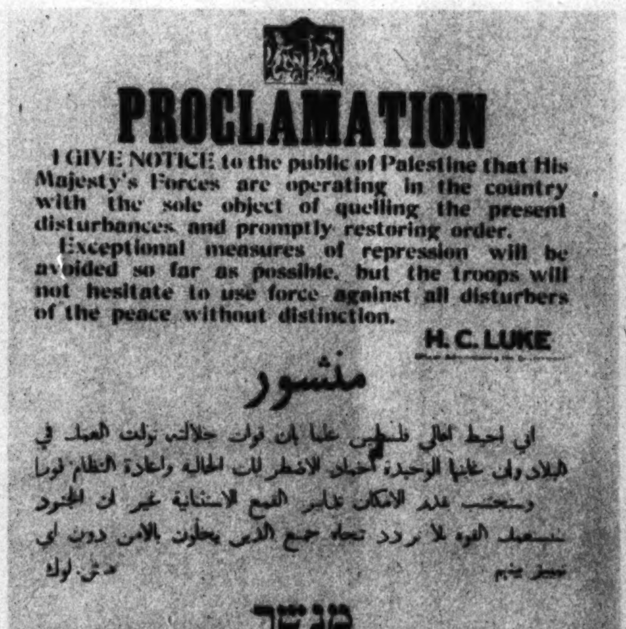
Waving a big stick, this young Arab leader exhorts a street mob in Manchia, Palestine, to violence against all Jews.



PROCLAMATION

I GIVE NOTICE to the public of Palestine that His Majesty's Forces are operating in the country with the sole object of quelling the present disturbances and promptly restoring order.

Exceptional measures of repression will be avoided so far as possible, but the troops will not hesitate to use force against all disturbers of the peace without distinction.

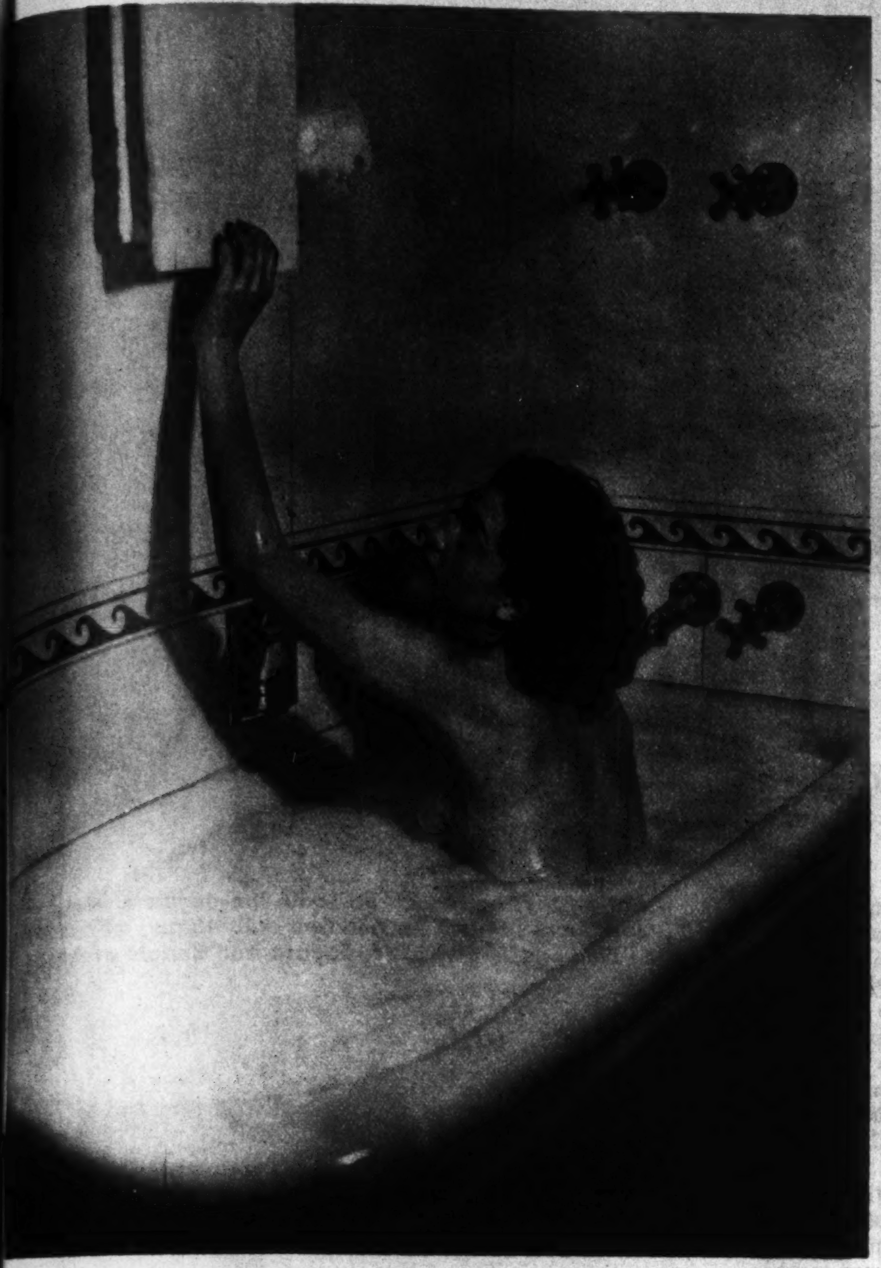
BATHS and BATHERS

And How They Differ From Country to Country and Age to Age



A frothy dip in a modern tiled bathroom.

BATHING these summer days ceases to be an ablutionary routine, becomes fun. The exhilarating sting of the shower and the lolling luxuriance of the tub are pleasures looked forward to through hot afternoons and abandoned with regret. It's nice to put a rubber pillow at one end of the tub and read or lie half awake in the peaceful aura of sheer cool languor. But whether it's a quick shower or lazy tub, you thank progress for hot and cold running water and the gleaming elegance and convenience of modern bathroom appointments.

However, efficiency of bathing appointments was not born with the twentieth century and American plumbing de luxe. Examples of the elaborate bathrooms of the Aegean civilization, with water closets and a scientific system of water supply and drainage, are in the palace of Cnossus (1700-1400 B. C.) on the Isle of Crete. The Romans built magnificent public and private baths, with an elaborate system of anointment, exercise, hot, steam, and cold bathing, topped off by swimming. The public baths became great social and cultural centers. They were closed by the destruction of the Roman aqueducts.

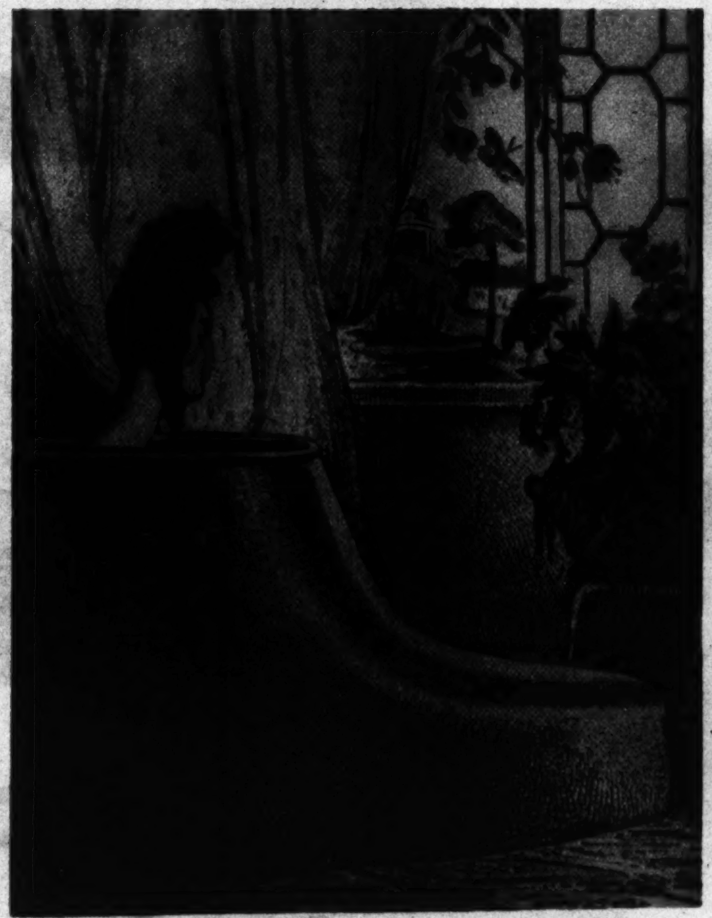
Physicians say luke-warm showers are the most cooling and healthful in hot weather, but most people can't resist using the cold.

The glass dressing table is one luxury of more elaborate modern bathrooms.



In contrast, here is one type of tub used by ladies of wealth during the eighteenth century.

Not swank, but cool. St. Louis fire engine houses keep sprinklers running for children daily during the summer. This one is at No. 43, Bayard and Enright avenues.

IN THE Middle Ages, the culture of bathing declined. Public baths survived, and in the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries promiscuous mixed bathing brought condemnation by the clergy. The low moral status of these places is indicated by the colloquial use of the Italian word bagnio (bath) for brothel. Common people took infrequent baths at home in wooden basins. In Mohammedan countries, however, bathing became an established rite, with the development of a beautiful bath architecture and a complicated system of bathing based on the Roman process.

Even the rich and noble bathed very little in early medieval times. When Thomas 'a Becket was murdered in 1170, it is recorded that lice crawled from the body for hours. Later on, bath tubs of silver, gold and marble were made for nobility and royalty, but served mainly as show pieces. The usual ablutions of Louis XIV, for instance, consisted of wiping his face and hands with a damp cloth every morning. Beau Brummell pioneered the idea of a daily bath in the social circle of the Prince of Wales, later George IV, and was looked on as a bit of an extremist.

On His 104th Birthday

Orson Greene and daughter, Minnie.

ON THE eighth of this month Orson Greene hoed in his garden as usual, not greatly impressed by the fact it was his birthday. After the first 100 years, a person gets pretty used to birthdays. Mr. Greene was 104 that day. He had lived that long, he thought, largely because he had worked hard, left alcohol and tobacco alone. Concerning tobacco, he said that if nicotine kills bugs it stands to reason it will kill men. A recently published table indicates that not more than one male, white American in 100,000 lives to 104.

Mr. Greene said he was born in a log cabin at Sandusky, Ohio, in 1834. While no official record of this is available—the practice of keeping public record of births does not go back that far—a family Bible supports his statement and his marriage in 1860 is recorded in Ohio. When he grew up he taught school for a while and married one of his pupils. In 1869 he settled on a 160-acre farm near Grandview, in Jackson County, Missouri, where he lives now with his 73-year-old daughter, Miss Minnie Greene. He is the father of three other daughters and four sons; he has had the pleasure of attending the fiftieth wedding anniversary of one of the sons.

Twice Mr. Greene voted for Abraham Lincoln, but after he was 70 years old he turned Socialist, and has voted for Eugene V. Debs and Norman Thomas. "I'm a Socialist," he said, "because I want to get the money of this country back in the hands of the people." Another notion he has concerning government is that there should be a referendum on all important public issues, such as the proposal to reorganize the Supreme Court.

Gardening is Mr. Greene's principal activity now. He cultivates an acre of peonies, a bed of assorted flowers and a large patch of strawberries which bore last year, he proudly asserted, until well into November. He milked cows for more than 90 years but gave that up when he reached the century mark.

The cup that cheers and refreshes the patriarch—water.

JANE RODE OFF
with the man of my dreams...

Bruce was a perfect darling—until Jane came on the scene. Then he dropped me like a hot potato . . .

When I saw them riding together—I began to feel pretty blue. I went over to Connie's for a cry . . .

"No man likes a shiny face," she said. "Try OUTDOOR GIRL Face Powder, it removes summer shine..."

It worked like magic! OUTDOOR GIRL Face Powder made my skin look smooth and cool . . . took away ugly summer shine. And as for Bruce . . . Well, I'm going to be "Mrs. Bruce" next month.

Your Summer Beauty Needs Special Powder

OUTDOOR GIRL is the special face powder for summer! It is fine in texture. It goes on smoothly and does not show. Stays on for hours, and will not cake or streak. OUTDOOR GIRL contains just enough olive oil to make it cling. This amazing powder gives your skin that smooth and dreamy-soft look—quickly removes ugly "summer shine."

For romantic new summer beauty that makes you stand out from the crowd—get OUTDOOR GIRL Face Powder today!

New Sun-Tone Shades to enhance your summer charm: Surf Club (beach tan); Miami (summer tan); Lido (sun glow); Promenade (naturelle); and Everglades (ochre). In drug and dept. stores at 50¢. Generous 10¢ size at all 10¢ stores.

SUNBURN RELIEVED

MOST folks agree that the summer sun is best taken in small doses . . . gradual exposure and a protecting coat of soothing 'Vaseline' Petroleum Jelly to keep the skin from getting dry and parched . . . After a too-long sunning it cools, helps relieve the pain...hastens sunburn recovery . . . It works because it supplements the natural oils of the skin . . . And it's odorless.

I'm certainly HEALTHY . . . but not at all WEALTHY . . . so I must be WISE!

Yes, very wise—because her laxative has "exercising action"

"WHAT a wonderful change in Connie," all her friends are saying. "She's the picture of health these days."

Yet, not so long ago, Connie hardly ever felt really well. There seemed to be no way to solve her constipation problem. She suffered from "nerves"... felt sluggish and tired.

Then a friend begged her to try Saráka*—the laxative with "exercising action". Connie bought a tin from her druggist. What a pleasant surprise to find how agreeable Saráka was to take.

The Saráka tin is filled with tiny brown granules. You measure out a teaspoonful — then swallow a few granules at a time while drinking a glass of water.

After passing through the stomach, the Saráka granules absorb water. Gradually they e-x-p-a-n-d. And turn into soft, smooth Bulk.

And that bulk helps explain Saráka's "exercising action". You know how outdoor sports build up your body . . . Saráka tones up your intestinal muscles by giving them gentle internal exercise.

But Saráka gives you more than bulk—you get Bulk Plus Motility. For Saráka contains a specially treated cortex frangula which stimulates intestinal muscles to get busy and do their work more thoroughly.

Results of this perfectly balanced action are not violent . . . or embarrassingly urgent. Most users recall their healthy youth when constipation was a thing never thought of. Ask your doctor about Saráka. We are confident he will tell you that it is safe and non-habit forming. The coupon below will bring you a free trial-size tin.

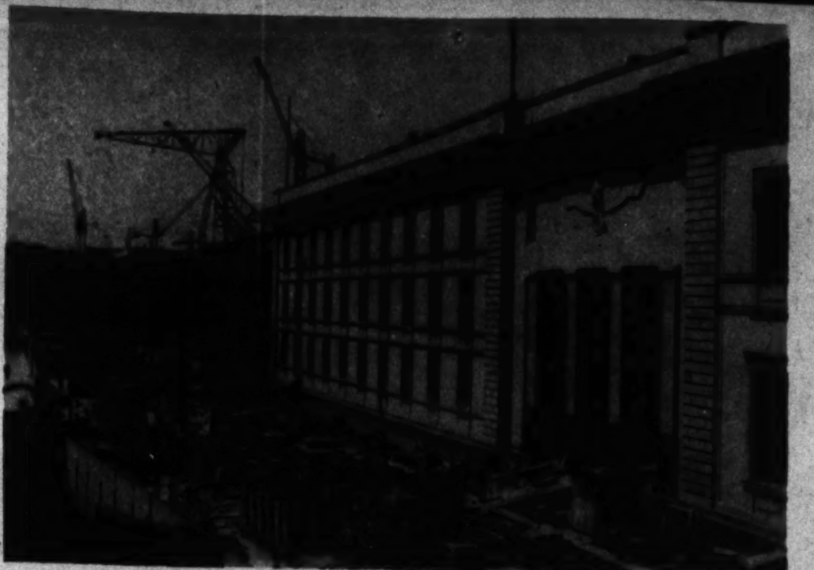
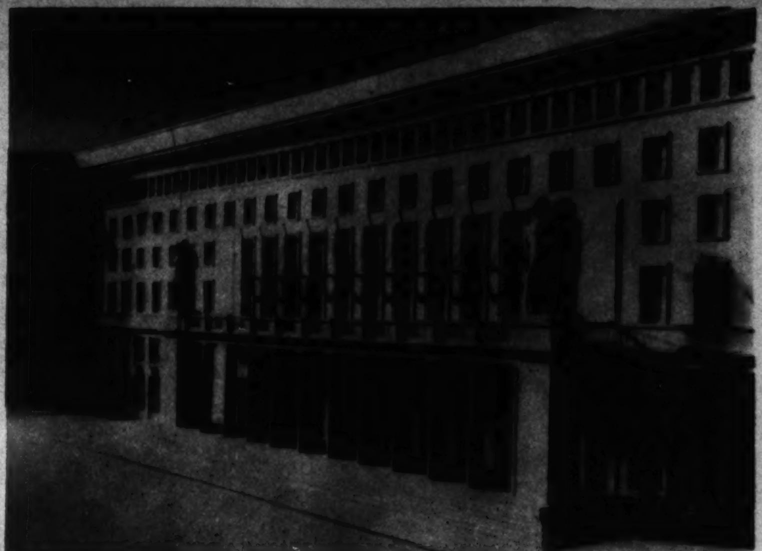
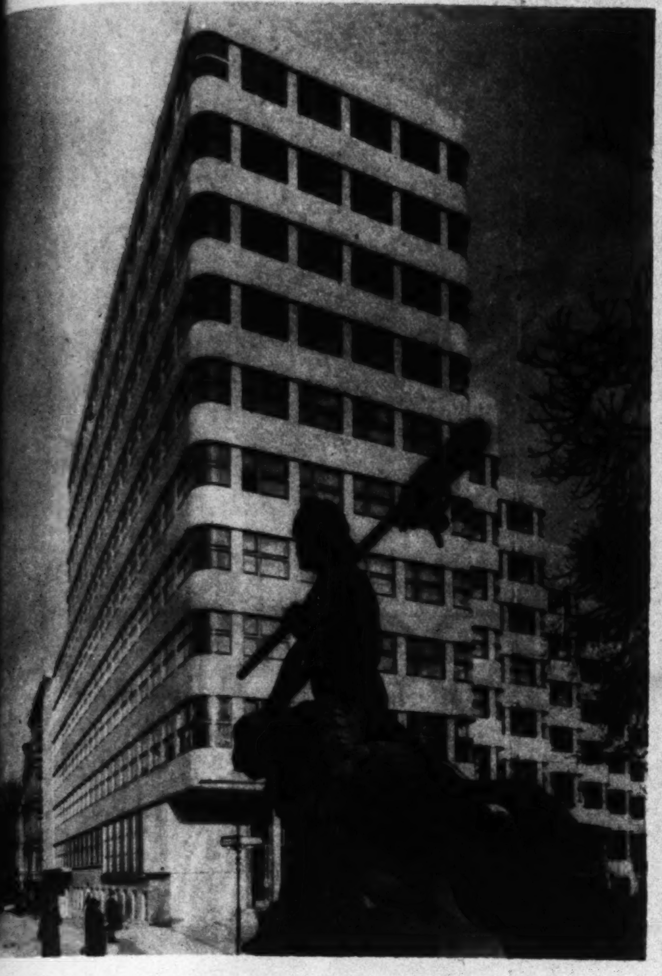
REBUILDING BERLIN on the NAZI MODEL





New Nazi buildings. An addition to the Chancellery, and the design for the new House of Foreign Commerce.

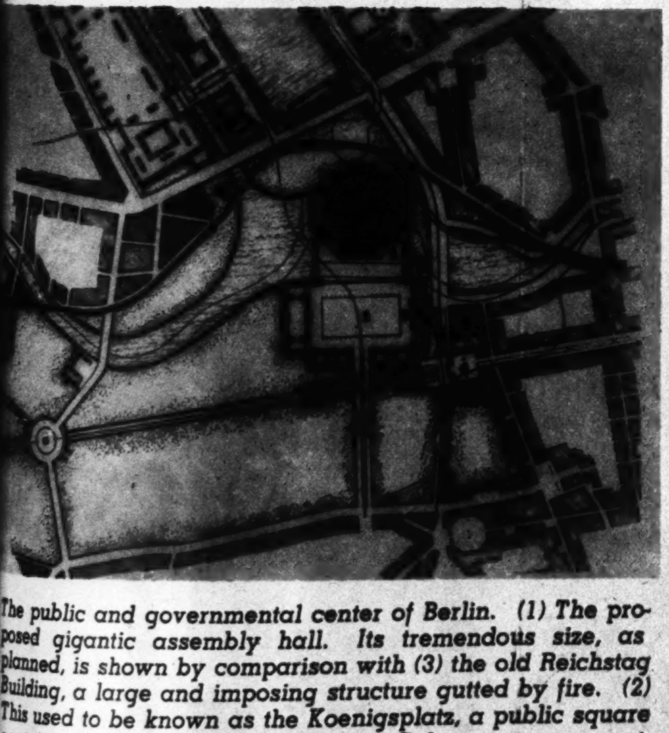


This graceful structure, the Shell Building, was completed just as Hitler came into power. But Hitler has banned this type of modernism, condemning it as Jewish-Communistic culture.

TO CREATE a show place worthy of his grandiose plans for the Third Reich, Adolf Hitler has begun the "glorification" of Berlin with a rebuilding plan that will take 25 years and $625,000,000 to complete. New Government buildings are going up, more subways will be constructed, river bends will be straightened, the Zoo and the University will be moved, and a great deal of present Berlin, including four railroad terminals, will be destroyed.

As it is, Berlin is flat, has no old-world picturesqueness. Even the Unter den Linden is bare and uninteresting. Its buildings, except for a few fine modern structures erected before Hitler, are box-like and trite. But whether the Nazis' modified classical design, tending toward rectangularity, will beautify the 700-year-old capital is a matter of surmise.

Der Fuehrer is taking an extensive personal hand in the redesigning of his capital. He dabbled in architecture before taking up painting in Vienna, and his paintings reflect a strong architectural bent.



The public and governmental center of Berlin. (1) The proposed gigantic assembly hall. Its tremendous size, as planned, is shown by comparison with (3) the old Reichstag Building, a large and imposing structure gutted by fire. (2) This used to be known as the Koenigsplatz, a public square containing a huge, hideous Victory Column commemorating the War of 1870. (4) The Brandenburger victory arch at the west end of Unter den Linden. It is the intersection of the two axes of the new Berlin. Boulevards of the East-West axis will stretch 30 miles, of the North-South axis 24 miles.

I NEVER KNEW WHAT A PEPPY CAR I HAD UNTIL I PUT IN A SET OF NEW AUTO-LITE SPARK PLUGS say

MOTOR CAR OWNERS BY THOUSANDS

THIS NEW TYPE SPARK PLUG PEPS UP PICKUP...STEPS UP TOP SPEED...STOPS GASOLINE WASTE GIVES EASIER STARTING

To the eye, this new Auto-Lite spark plug is the same as all the others. But in your car its performance as a unit of the ignition system is entirely different—more efficient!

Reason number one is the new Auto-Lite Konium Electrode with its "geometric" gap design. In everyday language, this new electrode makes it easier for all the ignition units to work together and produce the vital operating spark. Konium is an entirely new electrode developed by Auto-Lite research engineers, which produces a spark at reduced voltages—increases the firing certainty of the entire ignition system!

Leading motor car engineers carefully examined the performance of this new kind of spark plug, and today one out of every four new cars sold is factory-equipped with Auto-Lites. That's an endorsement that's hard to get!

All dealers do not sell Auto-Lite Spark Plugs as yet. Alongside and under this advertisement you will find a directory of Auto-Lite dealers where you can ask for and get this sensational new spark plug!

AUTO-LITE 1938 PARADE OF STARS
Lovely, exotic Parisienne, DANIELLE DARRIEUX, in her new Universal picture "The Rage of Paris" leads the 1938 Parade of Stars.

Ask your Auto-Lite dealer for an autographed photograph of this sensational new star!

LESS STRESS ON ENTIRE IGNITION SYSTEM
These pictures give you a quick idea of the difference between the action of Auto-Lite Spark Plugs and others. By sparking at reduced voltages, Auto-Lites ease the load, and better the action of the entire ignition system.

IMPROVED TOP SPEED PERFORMANCE
Because of the improved performance of the entire ignition system with these new type spark plugs in the motor, a higher top speed and a peppier pickup are assured.

FIRST SIGNIFICANT SPARK PLUG IMPROVEMENT IN YEARS
Auto-Lite's new Konium Electrode, by producing a spark at reduced voltages, gives 4 important new benefits . . . (1) prompter starting, (2) gas saving, (3) more snap and pickup, (4) added miles of top speed!

"WE KNOW TOBACCO BECAUSE WE GROW IT—WE SMOKE CAMELS BECAUSE WE KNOW TOBACCO"—Tobacco Planters say

B. F. BIVINS, experienced tobacco grower, knows what cigarette pays more for choice tobacco. "Camel sure does get the best grades," he says. "Camel bought the best lots of my crop last year. And other planters will tell you the same. You bet, I smoke Camels."

"DOWN AT the tobacco warehouse they told me they'd never seen finer tobacco than my last crop," says J. E. Jenkins, veteran grower. "Camel bought all the top grades. It shows that the Camel people make sure to get the choice tobacco. I prefer Camels every time."

HENDERSON CARROLL has been growing tobacco for 18 years. He says: "I like Camels. I know the Camel buyers purchased just about every top-grade lot of tobacco at the sales I went to last year. My own crop was a dandy. And, as usual, Camel got the best of it."

By the Associated Press.
SAN ANTONIO, Tex., July 25.
The voters of the Twentieth Tex
Congressional District apparent have removed fiery Maury Mave ick from the House of Represent tives and named as his success
Paul J. Kilday.

Returns from the Democrat primary Saturday gave Kilday, 38-year-old attorney, a lead of 4 votes over Maverick. Only a fe scattered votes remained to counted. More than 45,000 ballo were cast. Kilday and Maveri were the only candidates.

Backed by the potent political ganization of the city administr tion, long hostile to Maverick, K day claimed his victory was pr the district had tired of Maveric
"radicalism."

Both candidates favored N
Deal policies, but Kilday assert he would never be a "rubber stam Congressman.

Charges Against Maverick.

The campaign hinged principa around Maverick's "liberalism," opponent charging the Representa tive with C I O favoritism and acts indicating he was "a friend and ally of Communism."

Maverick replied that his zeal protect the constitutional rights all had produced "cry baby vo begging tactics."

Kilday, who resigned as an sistant criminal District Attorn said he favored "humanitarian" l islation and expressed a belief national Government could be p gressive without being radical.
said he would seek to amend Wagner Labor Act to provide "fair, impartial and judicial" la relations board.

The winner, a six-foot Irishm brother of Owen Kilday, San tonio's Chief of Police, is a nat
Texan, but no stranger to Wa
ington. A graduate of Georgeto University, he is a former civil se ice employe. The father of t daughters, he comes from a fam of old line Democrats. His fath
Pat Kilday, was a friend of Vi
President Garner when the fam lived in Uvalde, Garner's ho town.

Morgan Sanders Also Beaten.

Unofficial complete returns co piled by the Tyler Courier Times day definitely eliminated Repres tative Morgan Sanders, slated chairmanship of the House W and Means Committee, from Congressional race. After a ch of every precinct in the eight co ties of the district, the co showed: Lindley Beckworth,
973; Brady Gentry 13,550; Sand
13,267; Walter Russell 5085; A.
Grant, 7643.

A run-off will be necessary
tween Beckworth, a young St Representative who campaigned pension increases, and Gent
Smith County Judge.

Attorney Ed Gossett, another age pensions advocate, led C gressman W. D. MacFarlane, w recently got a warm greeting fr
President Roosevelt in Texas. G sett contended that a more econ ic and non-political administrat would result in more assistance the aged.

Renamed in other congressio districts were Hatton W. Sumn chairman of the House Judici
Committee; Wright Patman, M

W. Lee O'Daniel for Governo

Late returns give W. Lee O'D iel a lead of 432,502 over his n est opponent in the race for G
ernor and a majority of 19,665 his 11 opponents.

A candidate who receives a jority of all votes cast is nomina in Texas without being require enter the run-off primary. The sult of Saturday's primary was garded as final in O'Daniel's c since the Democratic nomina usually is equivalent to electio this State.

Crushed in the O'Daniel l slide were an Attorney-Genera railroad commissioner and a mayor.
